Fire Destroys 4 Warehouses Of Furniture

Loss Runs High To Facilities Of Dixie Bedding

A three-alarm fire which filled the dawn skies yesterday with flames and smoke roaring hundreds of feet into the air left four filled warehouses of Dixie Bedding and Furniture Company in ruins.

Damaged to a considerable extent was Tabernacle Baptist Church located on Breard Street between Eighth and Ninth streets, and just a few feet removed from one of the demolished warehouses.

The retail store of Dixie Bedding and Furniture Company at the corner of Eighth and Washington was saved by the Monroe Fire Department whose efforts were directed by Fire Chief H. L. Hale and three district chiefs.

Although it will be impossible to determine the exact amount of loss to the furniture company until invoices are checked, one source put the loss at as much as $100,000. Another said it could go much higher.

A member of the firm declined to name a figure, but said the loss would run into the "ten of thousands of dollars."

Smoldering Embers

The warehouses, arranged side by side the length of the block between Eighth and Ninth streets, and occupying about two thirds of the space between Washington and Breard, were a mass of smoldering embers and twisted and scorched metal which had once been new home furnishings and corrugated metal buildings.

The first alarm was sounded at 5:34 a.m., yesterday, and the other two alarms were put in at intervals shortly thereafter. Fire companies 1, 3, 6 and 10, and Ladder Companies 2 and 3 responded and immediately laid down hundreds of feet of hose which poured stream after stream of water on the conflagration.

The firefighters were able to keep the flames from the church and from a number of Negro dwellings adjoining the warehouses on North Ninth Street.

The warehouses were a part of Dixie Bedding and Furniture Company's holdings. The firm is owned and operated by Joe Kuzin and Louis Kuzin.

The proximity of the Tabernacle Baptist Church to the scene of the fire enabled officers to help confine the flames. Firemen forced entry to the church through a side door and fought their way through blinding, strangling smoke to the attic and roof of the two - and - a half story building. This enabled them to protect the church structure as well as play torrents of water onto the inferno below.

Retail Merchants To Launch Door Buster Campaign

The Retail Merchants Division of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce is staging on Monday and Tuesday its unique "City-wide Door Busters" campaign designed as a demonstration of local merchants' confidence in the economic security of the South and the nation as a whole.

To help accomplish this, the merchants of Monroe are bringing to the people of all Northeast Louisiana the biggest values offered in many years. Practically every type of retail business is cooperating to make these two days a festival of bargains not to be forgotten soon, Jim Williams, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, declared.

An idea of the bargains to be found in Monroe may be obtained by reading the ads of 36 local business firms who are taking part in the City-wide Door Busters event.

They are:

Allen's, Alvis Men's Shop, Auto-Lec, Belk - Gallant, D & E Furniture Store, D. Masur and Son, Dew Music Company, Elias and

Time-Distance Record Sought

The plane, piloted by Maj. William N. Fancher, Paicines, Calif., carried a crew of six and a civilian "timer."

The stratotanker had its sights on the record of 11,235 miles set by a propeller-driven Navy patrol bomber in 1946 when it flew from Australia to Columbus, Ohio, in 55 hours and 18 minutes.

Monroe County, Fla., sheriff's department Lt. Rene Raiole said total loss of fires attributed to Moody was estimated at over four million dollars. (AP Wirephoto)

'Shave Those Crazy Beards' Bopsters Told

MOSCOW (AP)—Russian bopsters were told Saturday to shave off those crazy beards and get decent haircuts.

The youth paper Komsomol Pravda also lowered the boom on the Soviet version of the zoot suit. At the same time it cracked the knuckles of Russian fashion designers who dress men in baggy pants.

The chinwhiskers, haircuts, and zoot suits are strictly from capitalism, said the paper. As for the baggy pants, it said:

"Men are seen sweeping the sidewalks with their long, wide trousers, and they suffer in summer because of the excessive cotton padding in the jackets."

Getting back to the bopsters are just too lazy to use hot water and a razor. Besides, it asked:

"What do future miners need beards for."

Farewell

In appreciation of many years of service as pastor of the Monroe First Christian Church and to a wide circle of friends outside of the congregation, a farewell has been arranged today from 3 to 6 p.m. in the fellowship hall of the church for the Rev. and Mrs. R. T. Watson.

The pastor is leaving May 1 to assume pastorate of a larger church in Shreveport.

His congregation regrets to lose him, and his many friends are invited to attend this assemblage to express sincere good wishes.

Offensive Is Launched By Cuban Troops

Seek To Drive Rebel Columns Into Mountains

HAVANA UP — Cuban government troops Saturday launched an offensive in Crients Province to drive Fidel Castro's roaming rebel columns back into the Sierra Maestre mountains of eastern Cuba.

The disclosure was made as reports reaching Havana indicated more than 100 casualties in Friday's bitter fighting in Las Villas Province in central Cuba. One report said nearly 100 feeling rebels were "wiped out" in a government air attack.

A government spokesman told the United Press that fresh new troops thrown into the Oriente offensive were trained regulars and not raw recruits.

He said the troop reinforcements had been released from guard duties on sugar mills in the Oriente area, where Castro's forces have been attempting to destroy the sugar crop.

Private reports said rebels who swarmed out of the Sierra De Escambray hills to attack government installations at Santa Clara, the capital of Las Villas Province, had suffered heavy losses.

Nearly 100 of the rebels who barricaded themselves in a Jesuit College at nearby Sagua La Grande during their retreat were reported to have been "wiped out" by air bombing.

The government force were said to have suffered about seven or eight casualties in the action.

Unconfirmed reports said the rebels had seriously damaged government hydro - electric and agricultural heavy equipment in the Santa Clara area before they were forced to withdraw.

Reports reaching here indicated the central Cuba rebels were members of the "authentic" organization, for the most part although some members of Castro's "26th of July Movement" also were identified.

A government spokesman said the army "soon" would have 10,000 troops thrown into the drive against Castro's forces in Oriente Province, the home ground of the rebel drive against the government of President Fulgencio Batista.

He predicted the loyal army would "wipe out" Castro's forces "within 45 days."

The official spokesman admitted the Cuban government forces had suffered heavy casualties to date. He said it had been decided to free more troops from guard duty for active combat because the sugar cane grinding season in Oriente is nearly two-thirds finished.

Blazing Death Of Red Sputnik Expected Today

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP) — Sputnik II will fall to a blazing death in the earth's atmosphere "sometime Sunday," scientists said Saturday. It will have traveled a distance comparable to a trip to Mars and back.

The Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory said it could not pinpoint the dog-carrying satellite s demise any closer than Sunday.

Sputnik II went into orbit somewhere in Russia last Nov. 3. Smithsonian officials said it had traveled some 69 million miles in its globe-circling swings around the earth. The planet Mars is approximately 35 million miles from earth at its nearest point.

Special Drive In Parish For Cancer Funds

Today is Cancer Control Sunday in Ouachita Parish.

Hundreds of crusaders will be asking citizens to "Fight Cancer With a Checkup and A Check."

"We believe that when you ask people for money to support the work of a voluntary agency, they have the right to know how the money will be spent," declared Mac Ward, chairman of the parish cancer drive.

"Our program," he continued, "is three-fold—research, education and service."

"Twenty-five per cent of the money raised supports a nationally - administered, comprehensive research program. In the last 13 years, the ACS has devoted $58,380,000 to cancer research. Sixty per cent goes to the work of 60 divisions and 3,000 units throughout our country and Alaska."

Educational Program

Ward said these funds underwrite an educational program which utilizes every modern technique for influencing public attitudes through medically approved news and feature stories.

"We want to inform the people of the nature of cancer and of the only known cures for the disease. We also want to warn against frauds and quacks," Ward added.

The cancer program stresses that the best protection against the disease is an annual checkup and a prompt examination any-

Tax Change To Be Asked At Legislature

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Removal of school and parish road district taxes from the 10-year industrial tax exemptions granted by the state will be proposed in the 1958 Legislature, Rep. T. T. Fields said Saturday.

Under present law, the Union Parish lawmaker said, the state Board of Commerce and Industry can grant the 10-year tax write-offs on all state and local property taxes.

While Fields insisted he has no target in proposing his constitutional tax amendment, he said there had been some evidence that a few industries have taken extra advantage of the 10-year tax freedom by shifting elsewhere after they face tax liability again.

Amendment

A 1956 constitutional amendment, approved 209,533 to 171,108 at the polls, exempted school district taxes from any exemptions granted by city or parish governments.

Now Fields would follow up that step, removing state authority to grant tax exemptions covering school tax districts and parish road tax districts.

He could not estimate the extra revenue school and road districts would gain, but this is a rapidly growing industrial state.

"I have discussed this question with various industrial spokes-

Blame Hip Boots For 2 Drownings

WYCKOFF, N. J. (AP) — Two youngsters who police said were weighed down by hip boots drowned in a pond Saturday when their leaky fishing boat capsized.

A third boy whose boots were two sizes too large survived. He managed to kick them off and swim to shore.

The boat capsized as the boys bailed frantically and rowed toward shore.

The victims were Thomas Megnin, 10, and William Biegel Jr., 12. The survivor was Vincent Dean, 12.

Vincent's brother, Richard, 13, saw the capsizing and threw logs into the water toward the drowning youngsters. A fifth boy, Jack Winthrop, 10, ran for help.

Mrs. Mario Dean, mother of Vincent, who was in good condition at his home Saturday night, said she bought him the boots two week- ago. He was lucky, she said she bought him the boots two sizes too large because the store didn't have a closer fit.

Mrs. Dean said the boys had dragged up a leaky rowboat from the pond and surfaced it several days ago.

ON BLACK BEASTS

Advance Is Made In Atomic Work

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Atomic Energy Commission has found a way to put the "black beasts" of atomic fission, deadly radioactive wastes, to work for mankind.

This breakthrough conceivably could be atomic energy's biggest bonanza.

It is too early to tell what it will mean in dollar value, but some believe the boon will soar to millions of dollar annually in years to come.

By converting the radioactive waste products of atomic fission into powerful tools for medicine, industry, and research, the commission simultaneously has found a safe way of "disposing" of some of the dangerous materials which until now were considered obstacles to development of a big-scale atomic power industry.

The commission disclosed this milsetone of the atomic era Friday in an announcement composed as though designed for publication, if at all, in the back pages of newspapers.

Plant To Open

The immediate news in the announcement was that the commission has cut the price of five once-scarce radioactive elements to less than 10 per cent of what they cost the day before.

The more significant news was that a new plant built at Oak Ridge, Tenn., for transformation of once-wasted fission products into precious materials will start operating this summer.

On the strength of estimated production from this "ulticurie fission product pilot plant" the commission slashed the price it charges for radioactive Cesium 137, Premethium 147, Cerium 144, Strontium 90, and Technetium 99.

All of these elements are comparatively long-lived products of the nuclear reaction that takes place in atomic bombs, power plants, ship engines, and research reactors.

Background On Hoover's Book - - Masters Of Deceit

(Editor's Note: The following dispatch is the background on FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover's book - - MASTERS OF DECEIT. The book, which gives the full story of communist operation in this country, starts tomorrow in the Monroe News-Star. It will run in daily installments thereafter in the News-Star and in the Sunday Monroe Morning World).

In "Masters of Deceit," J. Edgar Hoover traces the history of the Communist party in this country back to a convention of the Socialist Party in Chicago in 1919.

"The socialists were badly split. The left wing, thrilled by the Russian October Revolution, wanted to establish a Communist Party. The rightists opposed.

"The procommunist left - wingers, however, could not agree on a program of action. One group wanted to use the emergency convention to take over the Socialist Party. Another group objected, wanting to set up a Communist Party right away.

"Men famous in the history of American communism — Benjamin Gitlow, John Reed, Charles Ruthenberg, Alfred Wagenknecht — were present. Each was trying to assemble followers for his point of view.

"One group, the Reed - Gitlow group, refused entrance to the Socialist Convention, retired to another room in Machinists' Hall (later to the IWW Hall) and on Aug. 31, 1919, founded the Communist Labor Party of America (CLP). Wagenknecht was named Executive Secretary.

"A rival group, together with a number of foreign - language federations, met at Smolny Hall, headquarters of the Russian Federation. Its members criticized the Communist Labor Party as not being truly communistic. The CLP returned the retort, and all attempts at reconciliation failed. On Sept. 1, 1919, this rival group formed the Communist Party of America (CP). Split off was a group from Michigan that was later to form the Proletarian Party. Ruthenberg was chosen as Executive Secretary of the CP.

"Not one but two parties, the CLP and the CP, each claiming to be the true representative of communism and bitterly malign-

Navy Attacks Ike Planning On Authority

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy Saturday launched a strong flanking attack on President Eisenhower's plan to unify military strategy, research, and spending under a secretary of defense with greatly increased authority.

The first public opposition from the military services was announced through the protective screen of the Navy League, which describes itself as "the civilian arm of the Navy."

The league's president, John J. Bergen, made public a set of resolutions adopted by the executive committee of the group.

The Navy League is officered by civilians or nonactive military men, but most active duty Navy officers are members.

The league centered its counter attack on the President's proposal which Congress would have to approve, to reduce the three military departments to the subordinate status of agencies of the Defense Department. Specifically, the league resolutions opposed eliminating a provision in existing law that the departments must be "separately administered."

BY SOVIET UNION

Says Subsurface Blast Conducted

WASHINGTON AP—Sen. Humphrey D-Minn said Saturday that the Soviet Union conducted an underground explosion March 25 which was detected by seismic stations ranging from more than 1,000 to 5,000 miles away.

Spokesman for the Atomic Energy Commission said they had made no public announcement of a Soviet explosion occurring on that date. The last one they reported was March 22.

The AEC has said it only announces Russian nuclear test explosions when there are circumstances of special interest. Humphrey did not specify that the March 25 explosion was nuclear.

As chairman of the Senate Disarmament subcommittee, Humphrey said he had written to 37 seismologists in the United States to obtain information on the detectability of underground explosions.

Blast Issue

The question whether nuclear blasts can be reliably detected by a distance is bound up with the issue of whether an international agreement to stop such tests would work.

British Prime Minister Macmillan said April 3 that undetected explosions are possible. Some Eisenhower administration advisers, notably Dr. Edward Teller, have argued that the Russians would cheat and therefore the United States should not agree to halt testing.

Other scientists have argued that sneak tests would involve such a risk of detection that the Russians would be unlikely to hazard public exposure and loss of prestige by violating the ban.

Want Information

Humphrey said information on detection of possible secret nuclear tests is needed to work out safe proposals for suspending such experiments.

"Unfortunately the studies conducted by the executive branch on inspection for a suspension of nuclear weapons tests have not been made public," he added in a statement..

Because he plans to make public such information, Humphrey said it is necessary for the subcommittee to make its own studies.

Humphrey said the Soviets' March 25 underground test was recorded by seismic stations in Kiruna, Sweden, 1,290 miles away and Eureka, Nev., 5,650 miles away.

Park Project Fund Advances To $8,238

The Bendel Memorial Fund for a Little League baseball project reached $8,238 yesterday as the drive continues for a $16,000 goal considered necessary to build a miniature park of enduring quality for the eight-o-12-year-olds who yesterday held their first tryouts as the kids get ready for their approaching season.

Contributing yesterday were Penn Hotel, Louisiana Machinery Company, News-Star—World Publishing Corporation, and Dick Hale.

The need for the proposed new park is known to be necessary unless the Little League baseball program here is to be curtailed for lack of adequate facilities.

Foresaw Need

Dr. William L. Bendel, as Little League president, foresaw the need and was planning a park project when he died last February 10. Friends of Little League and Dr. Bendel decided to carry out his plan as a memorial to the doctor. Thus this drive for funds to build a boys' scale model stadium in Forsythe Park.

With the funds already banked, Little League planners are already going ahead with some work toward getting the baseball plant started so the kids can use it this summer. How far thay are able to progress on a park of beauty and durability will depend on how quickly funds are subscribed.

All donations should be sent to "Monroe Little League, P. O Box 1293, Monroe, La."

Truman To Be Witness At Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional inquiry into the unemployment problem has erupted in party-line debate two days ahead of the testimony of the lead-off witness, Harry S. Truman.

Rep. Talle of Iowa, top Republican on the House Banking Committee, Saturday accused the Democrats of planning to use the committee hearings starting Monday "as a loudspeaker for Democrat political propaganda."

Former President Truman, he said, is "the advance pitchman sent on ahead to set the stage for the flow of antiadministration propaganda to follow in the weeks ahead."

Suspects GOP

Rep. Reuss of Wisconsin, a Banking Committee Democrat, replied that he suspected the Republican National Committee authored Talle's statement.

To Talle's assertion that the predominantly Democratic witness list shows a design "to make political hay out of the recession," Reuss said fewer Republicans are testifying "because the Republicans are hiding their heads in the sand, unwilling to recognize that there is a recession."

Committee Chairman Spence (D-Ky) has announced that 10 governors from well - populated states and several mayors, plus leaders from industry, labor, agriculture and government, will appear in hearings scheduled to run five to six weeks.

Seven of the governors are Democrats as are four of five mayors, Talle said.

Considering Bills

The committee is considering a stack of antirecession bills.

Spence has praised Truman as a man of great demonstrated leadership whose "counsel will be particularly helpful in view of the indecision being manifested by the present administration."

Talle concluded from his review of the Truman administration that Truman "obviously fails to qualify as an economic expert" and therefore was called to testify for political purposes.

A group of GOP congressmen headed by Rep. Sheehan (Ill) prepared to hit back with speeches Tuesday after they hear what Truman says.

Spence set the hearing opening hour for 9:30 a.m. Monday, a half hour earlier than usual. That should give both sides a chance to get out to Griffith Stadium in time for the season-opening baseball game between the Washington Senators and the Boston Red Sox.

The witness to follow Truman will be former Baseball Commissioner Albert B. (Happy) Chandler, now Democratic governor of Kentucky.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) said in a speech prepared for a Milan, Tenn., Chamber of Commerce bnaquet Saturday night that the recession was deliberately brought about by tight money policies under the Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board.

Kefauver said the best way out of the slump would be an across-the-board price cut made voluntarily by all segments of industry.

The boat capsized as the boys bailed frantically and rowed toward shore.

The victims were Thomas Megnin, 10, and William Biegel Jr., 12. The survivor was Vincent Dean, 12.

Vincent's brother, Richard, 13, saw the capsizing and threw logs into the water toward the drowning youngsters. A fifth boy, Jack Winthrop, 10, ran for help.

Mrs. Mario Dean, mother of Vincent, who was in good condition at his home Saturday night, said she bought him the boots two week. ago. He was lucky, she said she bought him the boots two sizes too large because the store didn't have a closer fit.

Mrs. Dean said the boys had dragged up a leaky rowboat from the pond and surfaced it several days ago.

Background On Hoover's Book - - Masters Of Deceit

(Editor's Note: The following dispatch is the background on FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover's book - - MASTERS OF DECEIT. The book, which gives the full story of communist operation in this country, starts tomorrow in the Monroe News-Star. It will run in daily installments thereafter in the News-Star and in the Sunday Monroe Morning World).

In "Masters of Deceit," J. Edgar Hoover traces the history of the Communist party in this country back to a convention of the Socialist Party in Chicago in 1919.

"The socialists were badly split. The left wing, thrilled by the Russian October Revolution, wanted to establish a Communist Party. The rightists opposed.

"The procommunist left - wingers, however, could not agree on a program of action. One group wanted to use the emergency convention to take over the Socialist Party. Another group objected, wanting to set up a Communist Party right away.

"Men famous in the history of American communism — Benjamin Gitlow, John Reed, Charles Ruthenberg, Alfred Wagenknecht — were present. Each was trying to assemble followers for his point of view.

"One group, the Reed - Gitlow group, refused entrance to the Socialist Convention, retired to another room in Machinists' Hall (later to the IWW Hall) and on Aug. 31, 1919, founded the Communist Labor Party of America. (CLP). Wagenknecht was named Executive Secretary.

"A rival group, together with a number of foreign - language federations, met at Smolny Hall, headquarters of the Russian Federation. Its members criticized the Communist Labor Party as not being truly communistic. The CLP returned the retort, and all attempts at reconciliation failed. On Sept. 1, 1919, this rival group formed the Communist Party of America (CP). Split off was a group from Michigan that was later to form the Proletarian Party. Ruthenberg was chosen as Executive Secretary of the CP.

"Not one but two parties, the CLP and the CP, each claiming to be the true representative of communism and bitterly malign-

Navy Attacks Ike Planning On Authority

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy Saturday launched a strong flanking attack on President Eisenhower's plan to unify military strategy, research, and spending under a secretary of defense with greatly increased authority.

The first public opposition from the military services was announced through the protective screen of the Navy League, which describes itself as "the civilian arm of the Navy."

The league's president, John J. Bergen, made public a set of resolutions adopted by the executive committee of the group.

The Navy League is officered by civilians or nonactive military men, but most active duty Navy officers are members.

The league centered its counter attack on the President's proposal which Congress would have to approve, to reduce the three military departments to the subordinate status of agencies of the Defense Department. Specifically, the league resolutions opposed eliminating a provision in existing law that the departments must be "separately administered."

Rain Is Expected In Monroe Area

Rain is expected in the Twin Cities area this afternoon, with cloudy skies and warmer temperatures forecast for tomorrow.

A high of 71 and a low of 42 were recorded here yesterday, with a 68-49 reading registered for Friday.

Arkansas is expected to have cloudy skies today and rain tomorrow, with no important temperature changes.

Truman To Be Witness At Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional inquiry into the unemployment problem has erupted in party-line debate two days ahead of the testimony of the lead-off witness, Harry S. Truman.

Rep. Talle of Iowa, top Republican on the House Banking Committee, Saturday accused the Democrats of planning to use the committee hearings starting Monday "as a loudspeaker for Democrat political propaganda."

Former President Truman, he said, is "the advance pitchman sent on ahead to set the stage for the flow of antiadministration propaganda to follow in the weeks ahead."

Suspects GOP

Rep. Reuss of Wisconsin, a Banking Committee Democrat, replied that he suspected the Republican National Committee authored Talle's statement.

To Talle's assertion that the predominantly Democratic witness list shows a design "to make political hay out of the recession," Reuss said fewer Republicans are testifying "because the Republicans are hiding their heads in the sand, unwilling to recognize that there is a recession."

Committee Chairman Spence (D-Ky) has announced that 10 governors from well - populated states and several mayors, plus leaders from industry, labor, agriculture and government, will appear in hearings scheduled to run five to six weeks.

Seven of the governors are Democrats as are four of five mayors, Talle said.

Considering Bills

Spence has praised Truman as a man of great demonstrated leadership whose "counsel will be particularly helpful in view of the indecision being manifested by the present administration."

Talle concluded from his review of the Truman administration that Truman "obviously fails to qualify as an economic expert" and therefore was called to testify for political purposes.

A group of GOP congressmen headed by Rep. Sheehan (Ill) prepared to hit back with speeches Tuesday after they hear what Truman says.

Spence set the hearing opening hour for 9:30 a.m. Monday, a half hour earlier than usual. That should give both sides a chance to get out to Griffith Stadium in time for the season-opening baseball game between the Washington Senators and the Boston Red Sox.

The witness to follow Truman will be former Baseball Commissioner Albert B. (Happy) Chandler, now Democratic governor of Kentucky.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) said in a speech prepared for a Milan, Tenn., Chamber of Commerce bnaquet Saturday night that the recession was deliberately brought about by tight money policies under the Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board.

Kefauver said the best way out of the slump would be an across-the-board price cut made voluntarily by all segments of industry.

BY SOVIET UNION

Says Subsurface Blast Conducted

WASHINGTON AP—Sen. Hunphrey D-Minn said Saturday that the Soviet Union conducted an underground explosion March 25 which was detected by seismic stations ranging from more than 1,000 to 5,000 miles away.

Spokesman for the Atomic Energy Commission said they had made no public announcement of a Soviet explosion occurring on that date. The last one they reported was March 22.

The AEC has said it only announces Russian nuclear test explosions when there are circumstances of special interest. Humphrey did not specify that the March 25 explosion was nuclear.

As chairman of the Senate Disarmament subcommittee, Humphrey said he had written to 37 seismologists in the United States to obtain information on the detectability of underground explosions.

Blast Issue

The question whether nuclear blasts can be reliably detected by a distance is bound up with the issue of whether an international agreement to stop such tests would work.

British Prime Minister Macmillan said April 3 that undetected explosions are possible. Some Eisenhower administration advisers. notably Dr. Edward Teller, have argued that the Russians would cheat and therefore the United States should not agree to halt testing.

Other scientists have argued that sneak tests would involve such a risk of detection that the Russians would be unlikely to nazard public exposure and loss of prestige by violating the ban.

Want Information

Humphrey said information on detection of possible secret nuclear tests is needed to work out safe proposals for suspending such experiments.

"Unfortunately the studies conductd by the executive branch on inspection for a suspension of nuclear weapons tests have not been made public," he added in a statement..

Because he plans to make public such information, Humphrey said it is necessary for the subcommittee to make its own studies.

Humphrey said the Soviets' March 25 underground test was recorded by seismic stations in Kiruna, Sweden, 1,290 miles away and Eureka, Nev., 5,650 miles away.

Park Project Fund Advances To $8,238

The Bendel Memorial Fund for a Little League baseball project reached $8,238 yesterday as the drive continues for a $16,000 goal considered necessary to build a miniature park of enduring quality for the eight-o-12-year-olds who yesterday held their first tryouts as the kids get ready for their approaching season.

Contributing yesterday were Penn Hotel, Louisiana Machinery Company, News-Star—World Publishing Corporation, and Dick Hale.

The need for the proposed new park is known to be necessary unless the Little League baseball program here is to be curtailed for lack of adequate facilities.

Foresaw Need

Dr. William L. Bendel, as Little League president, foresaw the need and was planning a park project when he died last February 10. Friends of Little League and Dr. Bendel decided to carry out his plan as a memorial to the doctor. Thus this drive for funds to build a boys' scale model stadium in Forsythe Park.

With the funds already banked, Little League planners are already going ahead with some work toward getting the baseball plant started so the kids can use it this summer. How far thay are able to progress on a park of beauty and durability will depend on how quickly funds are subscribed.

All donations should be sent to "Monroe Little League, P. O Box 1293, Monroe, La."

Retail Merchants To Launch Door Buster Campaign

The Retail Merchants Division of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce is staging on Monday and Tuesday its unique "City-wide Door Busters" campaign designed as a demonstration of local merchants' confidence in the economic security of the South and the nation as a whole.

To help accomplish this, the merchants of Monroe are bringing to the people of all Northeast Louisiana the biggest values offered in many years. Practically every type of retail business is cooperating to make these two days a festival of bargains not to be forgotten soon, Jim Williams, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, declared.

An idea of the bargains to be found in Monroe may be obtained by reading the ads of 36 local business firms who are taking part in the City-wide Door Busters event.

They are:

Time-Distance Record Sought

YOKOTA AIR BASE, Japan (UP)—A giant U. S. Air Force KC135 jet stratotanker, nicknamed the "Kiwi," took off from here Sunday in an attempt to set a time-distance record from Japan to Madrid, Spain.

The stratotanker had its sights on the record of 11,235 miles set by a propeller-driven Navy patrol bomber in 1946 when it flew from Australia to Columbus, Ohio, in 55 hours and 18 minutes.

ON BLACK BEASTS

Advance Is Made In Atomic Work

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Atomic Energy Commission has found a way to put the "black beasts" of atomic fission, deadly radioactive wastes, to work for mankind.

It is too early to tell what it will mean in dollar value, but some believe the boon will soar to millions of dollar annually in years to come.

By converting the radioactive waste products of atomic fission into powerful tools for medicine, industry, and research, the commission simultaneously has found a safe way of "disposing" of some of the dangerous materials which until now were considered obstacles to development of a big-scale atomic power industry.

The commission disclosed this milsetone of the atomic era Friday in an announcement composed as though designed for publication, if at all, in the back pages of newspapers.

Plant To Open

The immediate news in the announcement was that the commission has cut the price of five once-scarce radioactive elements to less than 10 per cent of what they cost the day before.

The more significant news was that a new plant built at Oak Ridge, Tenn., for transformation of once-wasted fission products into precious materials will start operating this summer.

On the strength of estimated production from this "ulticurie fission product pilot plant" the commission slashed the price it charges for radioactive Cesium 137, Premethium 147, Cerium 144, Strontium 90, and Technetium 99.

All of these elements are comparatively long-lived products of the nuclear reaction that takes place in atomic bombs, power plants, ship engines, and research reactors.

Background On Hoover's Book-Masters Of Deceit

ing the other, came out of the Chicago turmoil. The CLP set up headquarters in Cleveland, the CP in Chicago.

"The communists of 1919 were a motley lot, vastly different from the highly disciplined, efficiently operating Party of recent years. Though not lacking zeal or fanaticism, they had little party training or discipline. They varied in extremes from bitter die-hards, who were ready to do anything for the "cause," even throw a bomb or lead a riot, to comical show-offs, attracted by violent language and subversive possibilities. Many believed revolution in the United States was imminent.

"The great majority were foreign - born. Many had difficulty speaking English. The Communist (June 12, 1920) states: 'The Communist Party, from the very beginning of its existence, found its work hampered because it had in its ranks only a few men capable of expressing Communist principles in the English language.' The comrades lacked a practical understanding of American affairs, especially in the trade union field. Soon all kinds of wild-eyed plans arose. Each leader became his own interpreter of Marx and Lenin. Cliques, quarrels, and personal rivalries were rife.

"On one point, however, all agreed: obedience to Soviet Russia. Every communist considered Lenin a god and the Russian Bolsheviks as models of perfection. These were the men who had the October Revolution. Soviet Russia, at this time, was assuming an authority over communists in this nation that it has never relinquished. This control was to become every more pronounced, inescapable, and dangerous.

"The history of the Communist Party in the United States since 1919 is characterized by two main trends: 1) the development of a disciplined Party structure or, in the words of William Z. Foster, 'the building of a Leninist Party of a new type,' and 2) the complete and unquestioning subservience of the Party to Soviet Russia. Every word and deed, hope and aspiration, of American communists over the years has promoted these two objectives. . .

"There were complications. Just a few weeks after the founding conventions, in the fall of 1919, the federal government and local authorities initiated prosecutive action against the communists.

"As a consequence the communist movement went underground. Comrades met in secret hide-outs, maintained underground headquarters, and sent messages by couriers. Hidden printing presses poured out propaganda.

"Underground or not, the 'civil war' continued. The cramped quarters did not hinder the oratorical artillery. The inter - Party strife became fantastically bitter.

"Moscow did not like either this bickering or the enforced underground work. The Kremlin wanted a single, unified Party, able to operate legally (above ground) as well as illegally (underground) ..

"Moscow intervened through the Third International, an organization designed by the Soviets to control Communist Parties in other nations and to serve an an instrument of world revolution.

"The executive committee of the Communist International sent a letter to the two underground parties in the United States, the CP and CLP. The split, said the Comintern, had harmed the communist cause in the United States. Unity must be established 'in the shortest possible time' . . .

"In May, 1920, a 'unity' convention of the Communist Labor Party and a faction (led by Ruthenberg) of the Communist Party was secretly held at Bridgman, Mich., resulting in the formation of the United Communist Party of America (UCP). The delegates, as a security measure, used assumed names. A Comintern 'rep' was present.

"Many elements of the Communist Party, however, refused to go along and boycotted the new UCP. A chief point of dispute between the CP and CLP was the position of the foreign - language federations: should they be autonomous within the party, having the right, if they desired, to withdraw, or be completely subject to the will of th party? This issue touched the very heart of communist doctrine. No Communist Party could ever allow a member the 'right' to withdraw.

"Finally in May, 1921, after another year of bickering, the UCP and the remainder of the CP formed the Communist Party of Amelca. Section of the Communist International, at a secret two-week convention at Woodstock, N. Y. The group's program, among other things, provided that the Communist Party would work for violent revolution, preparing 'the workers for armed insurrection as the only means of overthrowing the capitalist state.'

"By early 1921 an outward unity was achieved in the communist movement, but the second problem still remained: bringing the party into the open. The Third Congress of the Comintern (June-July, 1921) defined the problem:

" 'The Communist International draws the attention of the Communist Party of America (unified) to the fact that the illegalized organization must not only serve as the ground for collecting and crystallizing the active Communist forces, but that it is the party's duty to try all ways and means to get out of the illegalized condition into the open, among the wide masses.'

"The outline of the party of today was beginning to take shape, the true party conceived by Lenin, having both a legal and illegal apparatus. The legal aspect would be necessary to conduct communist propaganda among the noncommunist masses, to infiltrate organizations and operate communist fronts. But the underground must exist, for the revolution, the final aim of the party, could never be anything but illegal. The underground apparatus would handle espionage, super-secret party work, and would always be ready to expand if the legal party, because of 'capitalist' opposition, could not operate fully. The Communist Party at all times has desired both an upper and a lower level.

"In December, 1921, the Workers Party of America was formed, a 'legal' outlet for the underground Communist Party."

The "Workers Party" put forward William Z. Foster in 1924 as a presidential candidate. He was given 33,361 votes. Foster ran again, with Benjamin Gitlow as his vice presidential running-mate, in 1928. The vote rose that year to 48,770 votes.

In the 1932 presidential campaign, the party identified itself openly as Communist, with Foster again the "presidential candidate" and a Negro, James W. Ford, as the "vice presidential candidate." Having candidates for offices enabled communists to claim they were devoted to democratic processes, and also enabled them to use radio time and other general media to reach the public with their propaganda. The communist vote in 1932 totalled 102,991.

As will be told in a subsequent instalment of this first serialization of J Edgar Hoover's book, in nominating James W. Ford to run for vice president on the Communist Party ticket in 1932, C. A. Hathaway, then a member of the party's election campaign national committee, reiterated Comintern instructions:

"We propose to break up the present artificial state boundaries . . . and to establish the state unity of the territory known as the 'Black Belt,' where the Negroes constitute the overwhelming majority of the population . . . In this territory, we demand that the Negroes be given the complete right of self - determination; the right to set up their own government in this territory and the right to separate, if they wish, from the United States."

The communists have had other splinter "parties" as political fronts. In "Masters of Deceit," J. Edgar Hoover identifies "the People's Rights Party" as one of the latest fronts created to give the Communist Party the legal right to run communist candidates. In 1946, 1952, 1954 and again in 1957 communist candidates ran for municipal, state or national office in New York City under the banner of the "People's Rights Party."

DR. FRANK A. WELDER

New Faculty Member At N E College

Dr. Frank A. Welder has been appointed to the Northeast State faculty, President Lewis C. Slater announced yesterday. He holds the rank of assistant professor of geology.

A native of Victoria, Texas, Welder came to Northeast from a position with the United States Geological Survey, which he held from 1954 to the present time.

During the four - year period he worked with the Ground Water Branch, studying ground water problems in West - Central Texas.

Following service with the U. S Army Air Force for three years, the instructor entered the University of Texas, where he completed studies in 1949 for the bachelor of science degree in geology.

LSU Study

He did advanced graduate study at Louisiana State University, which granted him the M. S. degree in geology in 1951. Welder continued academic work in this field at the university, where he served as research assistant in studying Louisiana coastal marsh in the area of the Mississippi delta.

His dissertation for the Ph.D. degree, which he completed in 1955, was a study of deltaic processes.

Welder holds membership in the Geological Society of America and the American Association of Petroleum Geologists.

In the 1932 presidential campaign, the party identified itself openly as Communist, with Foster again the "presidential candidate" and a Negro, James W. Ford, as the "vice presidential candidate." Having candidates for offices enabled communists to claim they were devoted to democratic processes, and also enabled them to use radio time and other general media to reach the public with their propaganda. The communist vote in 1932 totalled 102,991.

As will be told in a subsequent instalment of this first serialization of J. Edgar Hoover's book, in nominating James W. Ford to run for vice president on the Communist Party ticket in 1932, C. A. Hathaway, then a member of the party's election campaign national committee, reiterated Comintern instructions:

"We propose to break up the present artificial state boundaries . . . and to establish the state unity of the territory known as the 'Black Belt,' where the Negroes constitute the overwhelming majority of the population . . . In this territory, we demand that the Negroes be given the complete right of self - determination; the right to set up their own government in this territory and the right to separate, if they wish, from the United States."

The communists have had other splinter "parties" as political fronts. In "Masters of Deceit," J. Edgar Hoover identifies "the People's Rights Party" as one of the latest fronts created to give the Communist Party the legal right to run communist candidates. In 1946, 1952, 1954 and again in 1957 communist candidates ran for municipal, state or national office in New York City under the banner of the "People's Rights Party."

DR. FRANK A. WELDER

New Faculty Member At N E College

Dr. Frank A. Welder has been appointed to the Northeast State faculty, President Lewis C. Slater announced yesterday. He holds the rank of assistant professor of geology.

A native of Victoria, Texas, Welder came to Northeast from a position with the United States Geological Survey, which he held from 1954 to the present time.

During the four - year period he worked with the Ground Water Branch, studying ground water problems in West - Central Texas.

Following service with the U. S. Army Air Force for three years, the instructor entered the University of Texas, where he completed studies in 1949 for the bachelor of science degree in geology.

LSU Study

He did advanced graduate study at Louisiana State University, which granted him the M. S. degree in geology in 1951. Welder continued academic work in this field at the university, where he served as research assistant in studying Louisiana coastal marsh in the area of the Mississippi delta.

His dissertation for the Ph.D. degree, which he completed in 1955, was a study of deltaic processes.

Welder holds membership in the Geological Society of America and the American Association of Petroleum Geologists.

Ward pointed out that 12 per cent of the money collected is used by the national cancer headquarters for educational purposes, service to patients, research, administration and fund - raising, while 3 per cent goes for medical grants and fellowships.

"It is obvious," he said, "that this great effort must ultimately bring cancer under control as other diseases have been controlled. When our volunteers call at your home today, please give them a chance to help you save your life, and please give them a check, that we may gain a victory over the number two killer in the United States today—cancer."

Meet At N E To Evaluate Legislature

Evaluation of the forthcoming legislative program will be one of the main items on Tuesday's agenda of the 3rd District Principal's meeting at Northeast State.

The one-day session will open at 9 a.m. with registration and a short social period in the lounge adjoining the little theater of the Fine Arts Building.

Opportunity for the group to discuss legislative measures is being emphasized by the 3rd District Association's president, Carlton Johnson, principal of the Rayville Elementary School.

Leading Phase

Leading this phase of the program will be J. B. Robertson, of Baton Rouge, state assistant superintendent of elementary and secondary education.

Featured at the business session, which opens at 11:15 a.m. will be Gordon Canterbury, of the state department of education, who will discuss KLSE-TV from standpoints of value to education and the various activities connected with programming on the television station.

Special numbers will be presented by the music section of the fine arts department at the morning meeting, and a luncheon at the Northeast president's home on the campus is planned for 12:15 p.m.

ESTHER TO VISIT TEXAS

DALLAS (UP) — Esther Williams, Hollywood swimming star, will arrive at Dallas Love Field at 10:30 p. m. Sunday for a one day visit before flying to Italy to make a movie.

'GEN.' SALLING, 111

'C.S.A.General' Gets New Uniform, Kiss

SLANT, Va. (AP)—A spanking new Confederate general's uniform and a kiss on the cheek brought a combination of tears and smiles Saturday from "Gen." John B. Salling, Virginia's 111-year-old Civil War survivor.

Both the uniform and the kiss came from three members of the Women's Army Corps who drove here from Ft. Myer, Va. to present Salling with the clothing. Salling had mentioned last year that he would like to have a summer-weight uniform because his winter one was "just too hot for summertime."

Surprised At Kiss

Surprised by the peck on the cheek from Sgt. Betty Rossheim of Darien, Conn., the wide - eyed general broke into a warm smile and remarked to the dozen newsmen inside his small bedroom:

"You see, I don't kiss the girls. They always kiss me."

Salling's daughter, Mrs. H. A. McCamey—with whom the general makes his home—helped him into a wheel chair. There he sat and joked for about an hour with the three Waes and the newsmen visiting in his hillside home in Scott County in southwestern Virginia.

The other two Waes who took part in the presentation are Sgt. Esther Nesbitt of Sycamore, Ill., and Specialist 2. C. Isabel M. Olson of Patchogue, N. Y.

'God Bless You

When Sgt. Nesbitt handed him the gray, gold-braided outfit, Salling's eyes filled with tears and he said: "God bless you. That's about the best thing I can think of to say. It sure is nice."

He then put on the double-breasted coat and buttoned it high under his chin. He also demanded his Texas Ranger hat, a birthday gift of two years ago. Salling will be 112 on May 15.

"Gen." Salling—the title is an honorary one—has a full head of black hair which he said never turned gray "because I never washed it. Nothing but rainwater ever fell on this old head," he joked.

The Waes also gave the general a scroll containing the signatures of the 135 women in the two Ft. Myer companies who sponsored the uniform project.

When Salling, who said in a letter to the Waes earlier that he never saw a girl he didn't like, was told that 135 girls had a part in getting him the uniform, he quipped: "Well, if I could get around like I could five years ago, I'd just go back with you."

Salling actually did not take part in Civil War combat. He served in the 25th Virginia Regiment and dug saltpetre, which was used in making Confederate munitions. However, Salling is quick to tell you that he served "under Gen. Robert E. Lee."

The only other remaining Civil War veteran is 115 - year - old Walter Williams of Franklin, Tex. He, too, served in the Confederate army.

Memo To Booking Agent For First Flight To Moon

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

PALISADES PARK, N.J. (AP) — Memo to government booking agents for the first flight to the moon.

G. Hugo Zacchine has sequin-studded cape, will travel. He is experienced, high-minded and amiable. The G in his name stands for great.

Famous for 30 years as "The Human Cannon Ball," Zacchine this season raised his sights a bit, in deference to the times, and now is introduced as "The Human Satellite." The altered billing bespeaks his new aim in life.

"As a sensational man," Zacchine says, "I would deem it an honor, duty and thrill to be the first one aloft in a rocket. Whenever the government wants me, I am at their disposal—but perhaps that is the wrong word. Disposal means to get rid of, and I insist on coming back."

While waiting the call from Cape Canaveral, Zacchine bides his time as project director of a one-man crash program here at an amusement park across the Hudson River from Manhattan. Nightly, without benefit of nose cone, countdown or destruct button, he is launched above the Jersey cliffs at a speed, he says, of 200 miles an hour. It is the closing act in the Clyde Beatty, Hamid-Morton Circus.

Zacchine is the only attraction to play in all three rings, almost at once. On a good night—warm, not too humid and with no trapeze artists cluttering his minitrack—he can cover 350 feet before landing on his perigee in a huge cargo net.

Since the circus was noisily in progress at the time, Zacchine was interviewed in the only available quiet spot: inside the 21-foot barrel of his aluminum cannon, which originally was designed to fire two rounds.

"My brother Mario," he explained, "overshot the net and had to give up the act. Went all to pieces over it. Now I go alone. Human cannon balls are hard to find."

Most of the world's supply, in fact, happens to be in the Zacchine stockpile. Two nieces do the act for the Ringling Bros., Barnum & Bailey Circus, now at Madison Square Garden. A simultaneous miscalculation in trajectory might set off a family reunion somewhere in the vicinity of Grant's Tomb. Elsewhere, six Zacchine brothers and two sisters uphold steady jobs by getting fired every night.

"My father," says Hugo the Great, "dreamed up the act while painting posters for a circus in Peru. He had been a portrait artist, but the camera put him out of business. My older brother was fired off first, with real gunpowder broke a leg and got discouraged. I was next in line.

"After many fizzles, not unlike Vanguard, Father got me off the ground with a combination of compressed air and a huge spring, just as we use now. George Hamid the circus impressario, took one of the first commercial flights in 1928 to catch the act in Paris and signed me for an American tour Now I am a citizen and anxious to help out wherever I can."

Zacchine is convinced that only a cannon man, used to looking upon life as a bore, is mentally and physically equipped for a space journey. "It is a matter of comportment, proper diet and personal resistance. I take vitamins to increase my resistance. Smoking and drinking are out for rocket men. Anything to excess, including food, upsets buoyancy.

"Landing, without a doubt, will be the toughest part. But that, after all, is what I do best."

Must We Russianize?

One of the most lamentable things about the democracy of the United States is that it seems to be in a constant state of envy at the so-called efficiency of Russia or some other dictatorship country. This results in a constant demand for the emulation of that country.

Right now the people of the United States are being subjected to a calculated campaign of indoctrination designed to win their support in a move to take away from congress its right to decide when and how this country shall go to war.

President Eisenhower has been quoted as saying there is no doubt that the people of the United States will support the move for a centralized control of all of our armed services. It is proposed to take this control away from congress and place it in the hands of a new commander in chief of the armed forces. Heretofore the title of commander in chief has been held by the president but only the congress has had the power to declare war.

Now the president wants to turn all of this power over to one of his appointees. He wants to let one man decide when it is time to declare war and how all of our armed forces shall be deployed.

His reason for wanting this is the contention that a single command is more efficient and that one man can act faster than the congress. The contention is that Russia can act faster and more efficiently because one man gives the orders.

When Japanese forces attacked Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941, it took congress only one day to declare war. That seems fast enough, especially in view of the fact that all of our military forces were set in motion as fast as possible and could not have been alerted faster if there had been a single man to declare war.

This country has fought two wars to preserve democracy and the American way of life. It fought a third "police action" in Korea to prevent the spread of communism, which was considered a threat to democracy.

The question that now arises is whether we are willing to fight constantly to preserve democracy and yet are willing to give this democracy away because we think a dictator country is more efficient.

Russia may be and may not be more efficient than this country. We have let that nation out-do us in propaganda and have thrown up our hands in fear because of some alleged Russian superiority. Because Russia put a satellite into space ahead of this country all of the calamity-criers and a large proportion of other people loudly proclaimed that Russia had out-distanced this country in scientific development.

The truth was that, by devoting six months to preparation, the United States could have launched a satellite any time after the end of World War II and probably long before that time, if it had taken advantage of the scientific knowledge then available and on record in the United States patent office.

Russia is doing more to overcome the United States by keeping it in a state of constant jitters than in any other way. If Russia can make us abandon democracy by a battle of nerves it will never face the necessity of real warfare.

In its wars to preserve democracy, the United States has set a pattern of dictator - immitation ever since the beginning.

Do our leaders and our people really think the democratic system is better or do they secretly think that only the dictator system can survive? It has been proven that despotic nations do not survive. Then why must we approach closer and closer to their way of life?

There are some congressmen who say that there is no chance that congress will abandon the rights given it under the constitution.

In the final analysis, the people must decide how much of our democracy we want to give away in our search for efficiency.

The question of unifying the armed services for greater efficiency might not draw much public opposition, as modern warfare would make them all fight together and their methods of combat in many ways would be similar.

Any proposal to remove some of the powers of congress under the constitution is an entirely different matter and one that might have the gravest kind of consequences if adopted.

Salk Vaccine Results

Just three years ago this April the Salk vaccine was officially pronounced safe and effective and licensed for use by the U. S. Government.

Since then, the polio picture in this country has undergone a radical change. Before the Salk vaccine we struggled with an erratic but mounting series of polio epidemics that reached their peak in 1952 with 57,879 cases. Last year, owing to widespread vaccination, the number dropped to 5,894. By this time it is clear that the Salk vaccine, developed on grants from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, is one of the triumphant milestones in the history of modern medical science.

What, in the meantime, has happened to vaccination?.

The first year it was given mainly to grade school children - - some 10 million of them. The second year it was made available to young persons up to 20 and expectant mothers, and some 35 million were injected. Last year a crash vaccination program directed at all persons under 40 added 20 million more, making a total of 65 million.

A big job done in a remarkably short time.

But not good enough. For Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, warns us that, with 46 million Americans still unvaccinated, we may still have polio epidemics next summer.

The answer? There is enough vaccine for everybody now, regardless of age. It's painless. It's inexpensive. It's effective protection against a lifetime of paralysis.

Southern Democratic Break With Party Likely In 1960

1960, Another Story — Democrats' bright hopes for the 1958 congressional and gubernatorial elections definitely do not extend into the 1960 presidential election. Southern senators and representatives at home for the Easter recess heard of mounting sentiment for a third party, based on belief that Northern Democrats overwhelmingly in control of party's next national convention will write a civil rights plank south cannot swallow. Also that next session of legislatures in Florida and possibly three other states will write laws similar to that recently enacted in Georgia freeing their presidential electors from national convention control. Such laws are already in effect in Alabama and South Carolina.

Betting Favors Langer — Although the Republican organization in North Dakota has endorsed Lieutenant Governor Clyde Duffy for the senatorial nomination, betting in North Dakota is that Senator William Langer will be returned to his seat.

President and Vice President — It is denied, but the report was all over town that President Eisenhower spoke very sharply to Vice President Nixon over the latter's advocacy of a tax cut, and it is no secret that Nixon thought the president's veto of the farm support freeze a political and economic mistake. There are other issues on which the president and vice president are no longer palsy - walsy.

Change in Badgerland — Republicans have erased the name of Senator William Proxmire of Wisconsin from the one - man list of sitting Democrats most likely to be defeated by Republicans. There has been a big change in the Badger State and Proxmire is now put down as an overwhelming favorite to defeat whatever candidate the divided Republicans there offer against him.

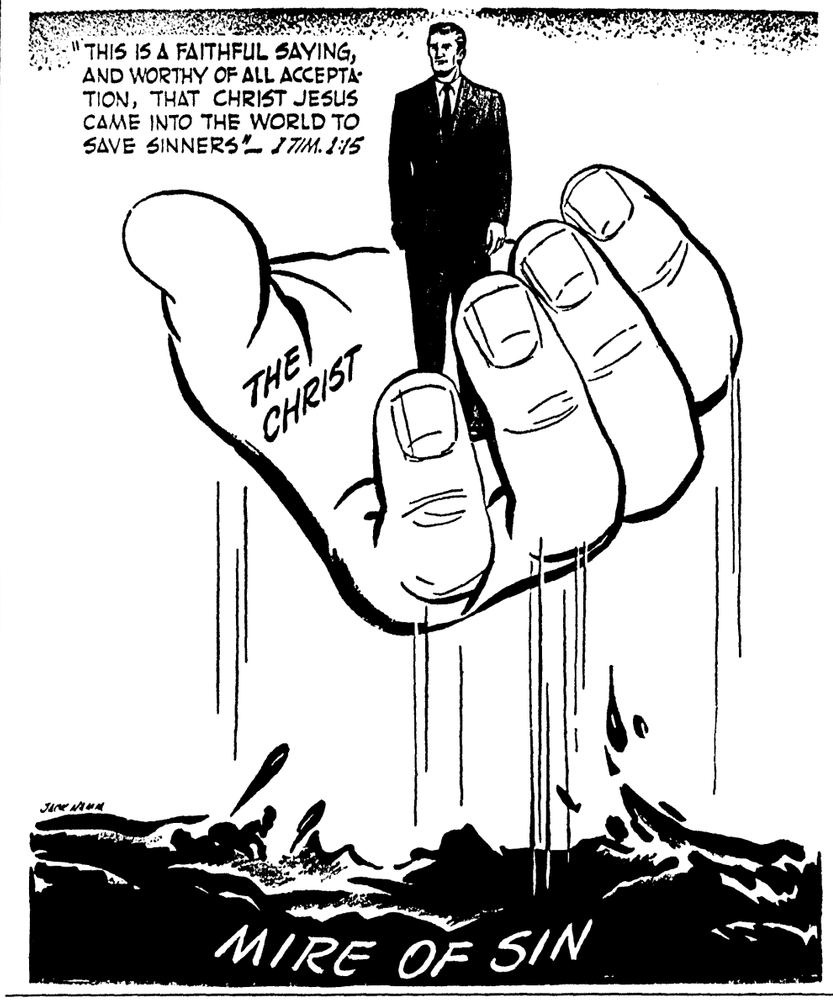

Who's to Blame? — Look for the administration to be charged with buck - passing when congressional debate begins on the Pentagon re - organization measure. Critics were quick to point out that President Eisenhower's message to congress put most of the blame for military defects on interservice rivalry and studiously attempted to evade any White House, secretary of defense or national security council faults or responsibility.

Our Northern Neighbor — Never has a session of the Canadian parliament been watched by the United States government as closely as the coming session will be. Diefenbaker's Conservative party has made it plain that it will not retreat from its announced policy of transferring 15 per cent of its imports from the United States to Great Britain. One probability is that the Dominion will put higher tariffs on iron, steel, pipe, zinc and its products, fruits and vegetables.

Few Wage Cuts — Labor Department information is that few wage cuts are in the offing and these, if made, will be in the higher brackets. The 10 per cent slash in salaries of all receiving over $10,000 per year by the Pennsylvania Railroad and of all receiving over $12,000 by the Erie Railroad are of more than minor dimensions which have been reported.

Conservative Capture — Some prominent conservatives believe that Justice Felix Frankfurter is fast emerging as their hope on the supreme court who will be able on occasion to lead a majority of the court away from the leftists — Warren, Black, Douglas and Brennan. Senate speech by Ohio's Senator John W. Bricker praising Frankfurther, points up the new Conservative feeling for Frankfurter.

The Reason He Came

HOLMES ALEXANDER

Eisenhower Has No Need For Vote-Getting Pitch

WASHINGTON, D. C. — How many President Eisenhowers do we have? I raise the question in honest doubt. For all these years Mr. Eisenhower has been a supra-political leader, reigning without ruling, and inviting the curled lip of those who like their presidents "strong."

Then suddenly, in two lightning moves, Ike galvanizes into action like a Minute Man who hears the knock of Paul Revere. With congress winding up its business for the Easter recess, Ike vetoes an election - year farm bill over the protests of the dominant Democrats and over the pleas of the timid Republicans. Next, with congress at the home - going door, Ike pulls out a hitherto concealed weapon — his "executive" power — and commences to reorganize the Pentagon amid unified gasps of dismay and unbelief. The military and the farm blocs are pressure groups which a rash man might challenge, one at a time, in his political career. But when congress comes back, Mr. Eisenhower will face them in unison.

Is this the man? Not long ago Senator Mike Mansfield, acting majority leader at the time, was giving me another description of the president. The Montana Democrat, who possesses one of the best - honed minds in the senate, said that he recently had occasion to bring to White House attention two products of Montana. One was a gift package of honey; the other was a report on manganese.

"On the honey," said Mansfield, "I received a most pleasant thank you note from the president. He told me he intended to express his personal appreciation to the donors. But on the manganese, which is an important factor in Montana's depressed mining economy, I received a note of acknowledgement from the White House aide, I. Jack Martin."

Maybe, then, this is the man in the White House? He has a nice way with people. He observes the social amenities. But he doesn't really understand domestic economies, which he leaves to his subordinates.

Much to his credit, Mr. Eisenhower has never practiced any vainglory whatever in pretending to run a one - man show. As recently as his last press conference he said that he had always operated by "staff work," and there seems no other way that the job could be handled. Still, there have been two - party gibes about the "Palace Guard." The implication is that Mr. Eisenhower delegates not only work, but decisions that he alone should make, to other people.

But the president's audacious and principled defiance of military - farm blocs does not look like the doings of inside advisors. It looks like the action of a take-charge man who is interested in getting results with no regard to his own future. I have my own theory about this. It is often said in Washington that the 22nd (no third term) amendment puts the lame duck president under a disadvantage. He cannot whip legislators into line with threats of political opposition and loss of patronage. But this cynical view appears to lose sight of a much greater advantage which accrues to a last - term president. What freedom it is to administer the great office without worrying about reelection! How much more noble and objective a president can be when he has no political need to appease the pressure groups and barter for votes!

This, I think, is Mr. Eisenhower's position at the moment. Any time since 1953 — the sooner, the better — would have been right for reorganizing the cluttered Pentagon. The former supreme commander knew better than most men what was needed. He also knew what thunderbolts would fall from Capitol Hill and from the military firmament, with its supporting veteran lobbies, if he attempted any serious reform. Up till now, perhaps, it wasn't worth the bruising effort. But if Ike doesn't act, what president ever will?

The farm bloc is still more powerful than the military. The mendicant farmer, as Mencken once wrote, is closer to the heart of an election year politico than a "platoon of Unknown Soldiers." Many are the changes in our atomic age, but these political truisms still hold. The farm vote can make or break the Democrats or Republicans at the elections of 1958-60. Both parties in congress formally petitioned the president to sign the bill for freezing farm benefits at their present high.

But the president, and his lion-hearted Secretary of Agriculture Benson, have believed for some time that the farmer must be separated from his federal wardship and restored to a business basis, with aid for "disaster insurance" only. Again, if Ike doesn't show the nerve to make this move, who will?

To attack the rotten burrows of political entrenchment, and thereby strike a goodly blow for honesty and economy, takes a man of high purpose at a time of total disregard for his own continuance. Well, the man and the hour appear to coincide at the White House now.

Accidents Major Causes Of Death

In days of yore man was menaced by wild animals, lethal epidemics, clan clashes, and starvation. Today accidents are among the leading causes of death, especially among children and adolescents. They account for nearly one - half of all fatalities among boys 5 to 9 years old.

Road accidents claim the most lives. Falls come next, followed by drowning, fire, explosions, and poisonings.

Atomic radiation is a threat to present and future generations. Air pollution and our misuse of chemicals and medications are becoming major problems. A billion pounds of insecticides are used annually in the cultivation of crops.

Three million pounds of gases are discharged daily into the air over every large city. Our rivers and streams are polluted daily by chemical wastes.

Self - medication is wide-spread. Every year 800,000 pounds of sedatives are manufactured to put us to sleep and 60,000 pounds of stimulants to wake us up. To take care of hour headaches, 14 million pounds of aspirin, representing 19 billion five - grain tablets, are produced. Add to this list the pills that make us happy, slow us down, speed us up, or eliminate infections, and we have some idea of the quantity of drugs used by Americans.

All this is ironical since these new dangers are the result of progress. But the same research skill that developed these hazards has and will be used to bring us protection.

Failing Heart

J. G. writes: In a recent check-up my doctor asked me if I ever had suffered from heart failure. I thought people died from heart failure, so am puzzled about what he meant.

Reply

Physicians use the term heart failure to indicate a condition in which the heart loses its reserve and cannot deliver the amount of blood required to maintain body efficiency. Heart failure is associated with shortness of breath, rapid pulse, cough, and dropsy. Rest, digitalis, and less salt in the diet are the best remedies. Heart failure is comparable to a motor that is running on two cylinders instead of eight. It is in danger of stopping completely but with the proper adjustment, usually can be made to run on all eight again.

Mrs. Z. writes: Are there any blood or other tests to determine whether a woman has had German measles in childhood?

Reply

Not to my knowledge.

RIGHT-TO-WORK LAWS
Monroe, La.

We believe that the requirement of membership in a labor organization as a condition of employment should be illegal. The right of employes to join a union is a basic right, protected by law. The right of employes not to join or support a union if they so choose should be equally protected. To force an employe into a union on pain of losing his job not only takes away a basic right of an individual, but undermines the value of the union. The value of any organization depends upon the freedom of its membership to determine policies and leadership. The crux of that freedom is the right of individual members to refuse to support an organization No organization is good enough to deserve membership through compulsion.

Exactly what are right - to - work laws? They are state laws which forbid dismissal of employes simply because they refuse to join or pay dues to a union. Right-to-work laws do not guarantee every man or woman a job. Nor do they guarantee that an employe cannot be fired for cause. That is not their purpose. What they do insure is that no employe will have to forfeit a job for which he is qualified, if, as a free American, he chooses not to belong to or support a union. The right-to-work laws insure that union membership is a matter of individual choice exactly as membership in any other private organization — a chamber of commerce, a civic association, a fraternal organization or a political party.

Is it true that employes can be forced to join or support a union in order to earn their livelihood? Yes! The Taft - Hartley Act permits the so - called "union shop" contract. Under this arrangement an employe can be required to join or support a particular union in order to retain his job. If he refuses, he will be fired, even though he is perfectly qualified for his job. However, the act expressly permits the states to forbid union shop contracts if they wish and 18 have already done so. Louisiana had a state right - to - work law, but in 1956 this law was replaced by one limited only to agricultural labor.

What advantages does the union shop give union officials? The union shop can force an employer to dismiss an employe for failure to join or pay dues to the union then the employe is under the greatest kind of compulsion. He is confronted with the loss of his livelihood. This compulsion can be used in a number of ways besides the mere requirement of union membership or payment of dues. Employes may be compelled to strike even though they are convinced the strike is unnecessary or wrong. It is obvious, too, that in a union shop employes may feel compelled to support union officials they believe to be corrupt or with whose views they strongly disagree.

Union leaders have made it clear that their aim is to make the union shop universal. Authorized union spokesmen have argued before the United States supreme court that the union shop is "indispensable" and that union membership must be "a condition of employment."

Attainment of this goal would mean union control of all the jobs in all important industries. This nation-wide labor monopoly would place an irresistible power in the hands of union leaders. They would dominate industry, and eventually they might dominate government. Excessive power in the hands of any individual or group is against the public interest.

PROTESTS DOG KILLING
West Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World,

My children are very confused. We once owned a pet dog. We asked the doctor when to have him vaccinated. The doctor said that the dog should be six months old.

I went to the health unit and asked the woman at the desk when to have my dog vaccinated. She replied that he should be six months old.

Yet when my dog was only four months and seventeen days old the health unit and the police came to my house and killed my dog under the house while my children stood by yelling and begging for their dog's life.

Who do we have in our health unit? Are they just paid with your and my tax money to kill your pets when you have consulted all officials about it? Will they kill your child's next? They killed my dog while my children stood by helplessly begging for their dog's life.

Some people who have pets in their yards that have been murdered as my dog was, would feel like their child had been killed.

Just a few years ago, Mrs. Clark kept a dog in a closet. She is not principal of that school any more. What do you good citizens have to say about killing a pet in one's yard while the wife and children stand by crying and begging for their dog's life?

Dear Reader, I am sure that you will agree that our police and health unit needs a little training, and not go around taking the advantage of a helpless wife and 3 helpless children.

ELEDWELL NEWELL

LIKES EDITORIALS
Farmerville, La.

Editor, News-Star,

We have been taking your paper for quite a long time, and think your editorials are unusually good. I like your stand on communism and the fight you constantly wage against it. No doubt Communism is the greatest danger our country has ever faced, and we will have to fight hard to whip it.

Our leaders have been, and still are, too soft in fighting Communism. We never seem to learn that we cannot deal with atheists as we can with Christian peoples. The only thing that such people recognize is brute force power, and until we learn this and put it into practice, we shall be waging an uphill fight, and giving Communism all the breaks. The average citizen of the U. S. knows this, but our so-called leaders seem to be ignorant of the fact.

We have enough on the Communists if we would use it in the right way, not pull any punches, to whip their pants off in the cold war now being waged. We sit back, however, and let them hold the stages, and when we lead we do so with our chin instead of our fist.

Keep on writing the fine editorials. You are doing a good work.

Refrigerator Life Expectancy Told

That a government study on the life expectancy of household appliances found that a new refrigerator or electric range lasts an average of 15 years, a new washing machine 9 to 10 years.

That Delaware is the only state in the union that doesn't have natural caves.

That the National Laugh Foundation has picked this wisecrack by Bob Hope as the funniest of the year: "In Russia they have a television set in every hotel room. But instead of you watching it, it watches you."

That Baltimore has more monuments per capita than any other American city.

That about 75 per cent of your body muscles is water. In my case the figure is about 95 per cent.

That the big-bosom boom may be receding. Candy Jones Conover, who books many of the lovelies for TV commercials, says most ad agencies no longer want girls who breast the tape at more than 34 to 35 inches.

That if you are lazy, you need to be reminded of what Richard Brathwaite, 17th century English author, said about sloth: "It maketh of men, women; of women, beasts; and of beasts, monsters."

That the Great Salt Lake in Utah isn't altogether lifeless. According to the Fisherman Magazine, salty shrimp can live in it.

That the expression "good-by" is a contraction of the old farewell wish, "God be with you."

That it's no wonder turtles are in no hurry and never ask each other "what's new?" After all, they've been on the earth for 200 million years. To them man is an upstart.

That a baby has more taste buds in its mouth than a grownup. Maybe that explains why it can eat spinach and smile.

That auto tires underinflated just five pounds can run up your gas bills nearly three per cent on a long trip.

Eisenhower Has No Need For Vote-Getting Pitch

WASHINGTON, D. C. — How many President Eisenhowers do we have? I raise the question in honest doubt. For all these years Mr. Eisenhower has been a supra-political leader, reigning without ruling, and inviting the curled lip of those who like their presidents "strong."

Then suddenly, in two lightning moves, Ike galvanizes into action like a Minute Man who hears the knock of Paul Revere. With congress winding up its business for the Easter recess, Ike vetoes an election - year farm bill over the protests of the dominant Democrats and over the pleas of the timid Republicans. Next, with congress at the home - going door, Ike pulls out a hitherto concealed weapon — his "executive" power — and commences to reorganize the Pentagon amid unified gasps of dismay and unbelief. The military and the farm blocs are pressure groups which a rash man might challenge, one at a time, in his political career. But when congress comes back, Mr. Eisenhower will face them in unison.

Is this the man? Not long ago Senator Mike Mansfield, acting majority leader at the time, was giving me another description of the president. The Montana Democrat, who possesses one of the best - honed minds in the senate, said that he recently had occasion to bring to White House attention two products of Montana. One was a gift package of honey; the other was a report on manganese.

"On the honey," said Mansfield, "I received a most pleasant thank you note from the president. He told me he intended to express his personal appreciation to the donors. But on the manganese, which is an important factor in Montana's depressed mining economy, I received a note of acknowledgement from the White House aide, I. Jack Martin."

Maybe, then, this is the man in the White House? He has a nice way with people. He observes the social amenities. But he doesn't really understand domestic economies, which he leaves to his subordinates.

Much to his credit, Mr. Eisenhower has never practiced any vainglory whatever in pretending to run a one - man show. As recently as his last press conference he said that he had always operated by "staff work," and there seems no other way that the job could be handled. Still, there have been two - party gibes about the "Palace Guard." The implication is that Mr. Eisenhower delegates not only work, but decisions that he alone should make, to other people.

But the president's audacious and principled defiance of military - farm blocs does not look like the doings of inside advisors. It looks like the action of a take-charge man who is interested in getting results with no regard to his own future. I have my own theory about this. It is often said in Washington that the 22nd (no third term) amendment puts the lame duck president under a disadvantage. He cannot whip legislators into line with threats of political opposition and loss of patronage. But this cynical view appears to lose sight of a much greater advantage which accrues to a last - term president. What freedom it is to administer the great office without worrying about reelection! How much more noble and objective a president can be when he has no political need to appease the pressure groups and barter for votes!

This, I think, is Mr. Eisenhower's position at the moment. Any time since 1953 — the sooner, the better — would have been right for reorganizing the cluttered Pentagon. The former supreme commander knew better than most men what was needed. He also knew what thunderbolts would fall from Capitol Hill and from the military firmament, with its supporting veteran lobbies, if he attempted any serious reform. Up till now, perhaps, it wasn't worth the bruising effort. But if Ike doesn't act, what president ever will?

The farm bloc is still more powerful than the military. The mendicant farmer, as Mencken once wrote, is closer to the heart of an election year politico than a "platoon of Unknown Soldiers." Many are the changes in our atomic age, but these political truisms still hold. The farm vote can make or break the Democrats or Republicans at the elections of 1958-60. Both parties in congress formally petitioned the president to sign the bill for freezing farm benefits at their present high.

But the president, and his lion-hearted Secretary of Agriculture Benson, have believed for some time that the farmer must be separated from his federal wardship and restored to a business basis, with aid for "disaster insurance" only. Again, if Ike doesn't show the nerve to make this move, who will?

To attack the rotten burrows of political entrenchment, and thereby strike a goodly blow for honesty and economy, takes a man of high purpose at a time of total disregard for his own continuance. Well, the man and the hour appear to coincide at the White House now.

Accidents Major Causes Of Death

In days of yore man was menaced by wild animals, lethal epidemics, clan clashes, and starvation. Today accidents are among the leading causes of death, especially among children and adolescents. They account for nearly one - half of all fatalities among boys 5 to 9 years old.

Road accidents claim the most lives. Falls come next, followed by drowning, fire, explosions, and poisonings.

Atomic radiation is a threat to present and future generations. Air pollution and our misuse of chemicals and medications are becoming major problems. A billion pounds of insecticides are used annually in the cultivation of crops.

Three million pounds of gases are discharged daily into the air over every large city. Our rivers and streams are polluted daily by chemical wastes.

Self - medication is wide-spread. Every year 800,000 pounds of sedatives are manufactured to put us to sleep and 60,000 pounds of stimulants to wake us up. To take care of hour headaches, 14 million pounds of aspirin, representing 19 billion five - grain tablets, are produced. Add to this list the pills that make us happy, slow us down, speed us up, or eliminate infections, and we have some idea of the quantity of drugs used by Americans.

All this is ironical since these new dangers are the result of progress. But the same research skill that developed these hazards has and will be used to bring us protection.

Failing Heart

J. G. writes: In a recent check-up my doctor asked me if I ever had suffered from heart failure. I thought people died from heart failure, so am puzzled about what he meant.

Reply

Physicians use the term heart failure to indicate a condition in which the heart loses its reserve and cannot deliver the amount of blood required to maintain body efficiency. Heart failure is associated with shortness of breath, rapid pulse, cough, and dropsy. Rest, digitalis, and less salt in the diet are the best remedies. Heart failure is comparable to a motor that is running on two cylinders instead of eight. It is in danger of stopping completely but with the proper adjustment, usually can be made to run on all eight again.

Mrs. Z. writes: Are there any blood or other tests to determine whether a woman has had German measles in childhood?

Reply

Not to my knowledge.

VIEWS OF OUR READERS

RIGHT-TO-WORK LAWS
Monroe, La.

We believe that the requirement of membership in a labor organization as a condition of employment should be illegal. The right of employes to join a union is a basic right, protected by law. The right of employes not to join or support a union if they so choose should be equally protected. To force an employe into a union on pain of losing his job not only takes away a basic right of an individual, but undermines the value of the union. The value of any organization depends upon the freedom of its membership to determine policies and leadership. The crux of that freedom is the right of individual members to refuse to support an organization. No organization is good enough to deserve membership through compulsion.

Exactly what are right - to - work laws? They are state laws which forbid dismissal of employes simply because they refuse to join or pay dues to a union. Right-to-work laws do not guarantee every man or woman a job. Nor do they guarantee that an employe cannot be fired for cause. That is not their purpose. What they do insure is that no employe will have to forfeit a job for which he is qualified, if, as a free American, he chooses not to belong to or support a union. The right-to-work laws insure that union membership is a matter of individual choice exactly as membership in any other private organization — a chamber of commerce, a civic association, a fraternal organization or a political party.

Is it true that employes can be forced to join or support a union in order to earn their livelihood? Yes! The Taft - Hartley Act permits the so - called "union shop" contract. Under this arrangement an employe can be required to join or support a particular union in order to retain his job. If he refuses, he will be fired, even though he is perfectly qualified for his job. However, the act expressly permits the states to forbid union shop contracts if they wish and 18 have already done so. Louisiana had a state right - to - work law, but in 1956 this law was replaced by one limited only to agricultural labor.

What advantages does the union shop give union officials? The union shop can force an employer to dismiss an employe for failure to join or pay dues to the union then the employe is under the greatest kind of compulsion. He is confronted with the loss of his livelihood. This compulsion can be used in a number of ways besides the mere requirement of union membership or payment of dues. Employes may be compelled to strike even though they are convinced the strike is unnecessary or wrong. It is obvious, too, that in a union shop employes may feel compelled to support union officials they believe to be corrupt or with whose views they strongly disagree.

Union leaders have made it clear that their aim is to make the union shop universal. Authorized union spokesmen have argued before the United States supreme court that the union shop is "indispensable" and that union membership must be "a condition of employment."

Attainment of this goal would mean union control of all the jobs in all important industries. This nation-wide labor monopoly would place an irresistible power in the hands of union leaders. They would dominate industry, and eventually they might dominate government. Excessive power in the hands of any individual or group is against the public interest.

PROTESTS DOG KILLING
West Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World,

My children are very confused. We once owned a pet dog. We asked the doctor when to have him vaccinated. The doctor said that the dog should be six months old.

I went to the health unit and asked the woman at the desk when to have my dog vaccinated. She replied that he should be six months old.

Yet when my dog was only four months and seventeen days old the health unit and the police came to my house and killed my dog under the house while my children stood by yelling and begging for their dog's life.

Who do we have in our health unit? Are they just paid with your and my tax money to kill your pets when you have consulted all officials about it? Will they kill your child's next? They killed my dog while my children stood by helplessly begging for their dog's life.

Some people who have pets in their yards that have been murdered as my dog was, would feel like their child had been killed.

Just a few years ago, Mrs. Clark kept a dog in a closet. She is not principal of that school any more. What do you good citizens have to say about killing a pet in one's yard while the wife and children stand by crying and begging for their dog's life?

Dear Reader, I am sure that you will agree that our police and health unit needs a little training, and not go around taking the advantage of a helpless wife and 3 helpless children.

ELEDWELL NEWELL

(Editor's note: A report at police headquarters in West Monroe stated that police were called to accompany the Ouachita parish health department's dog-catcher on a round - up of dogs that were unvaccinated and could not be caught. Use of police in cases of this kind is necessary because the dog - catcher does not carry a gun. It was stated that several dogs were shot and that the police did not know of any protest until after this dog had been shot. Later the police offered to obtain another dog for the family but they wanted only the one that had been killed.)

LIKES EDITORIALS
Farmerville, La.

Editor, News-Star,

We have been taking your paper for quite a long time, and think your editorials are unusually good. I like your stand on communism and the fight you constantly wage against it. No doubt Communism is the greatest danger our country has ever faced, and we will have to fight hard to whip it.

Our leaders have been, and still are, too soft in fighting Communism. We never seem to learn that we cannot deal with atheists as we can with Christian peoples. The only thing that such people recognize is brute force power, and until we learn this and put it into practice, we shall be waging an uphill fight, and giving Communism all the breaks. The average citizen of the U. S. knows this, but our so-called leaders seem to be ignorant of the fact.

We have enough on the Communists if we would use it in the right way, not pull any punches, to whip their pants off in the cold war now being waged. We sit back, however, and let them hold the stages, and when we lead we do so with our chin instead of our fist.

Keep on writing the fine editorials. You are doing a good work.

Refrigerator Life Expectancy Told

That a government study on the life expectancy of household appliances found that a new refrigerator or electric range lasts an average of 15 years, a new washing machine 9 to 10 years.

That Delaware is the only state in the union that doesn't have natural caves.

That the National Laugh Foundation has picked this wisecrack by Bob Hope as the funniest of the year: "In Russia they have a television set in every hotel room. But instead of you watching it, it watches you."

That Baltimore has more monuments per capita than any other American city.

That about 75 per cent of your body muscles is water. In my case the figure is about 95 per cent.

That the big-bosom boom may be receding. Candy Jones Conover, who books many of the lovelies for TV commercials, says most ad agencies no longer want girls who breast the tape at more than 34 to 35 inches.

That if you are lazy, you need to be reminded of what Richard Brathwaite, 17th century English author, said about sloth: "It maketh of men, women; of women, beasts; and of beasts, monsters."

That the Great Salt Lake in Utah isn't altogether lifeless. According to the Fisherman Magazine, salty shrimp can live in it.

That the expression "good-by" is a contraction of the old farewell wish, "God be with you."

That it's no wonder turtles are in no hurry and never ask each other "what's new?" After all, they've been on the earth for 200 million years. To them man is an upstart.

That a baby has more taste buds in its mouth than a grownup. Maybe that explains why it can eat spinach and smile.

That auto tires underinflated just five pounds can run up your gas bills nearly three per cent on a long trip.

LANA TURNER'S

Custody Battle To Be Private

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Lana Turner's fight for the custody of her daughter, Cheryl, will be staged strictly in private at a hearing in Santa Monica in 12 days, it was disclosed Saturday.

Superior Judge Allen T. Lynch said his Juvenile Court, as usual, would be closed to public and press when determination is made of the future of 14-year-old Cheryl, found Friday by a coroner's jury to have committed justifiable homicide in killing Johnny Stompanato.

Lynch has two broad choices:

—He can rule Cheryl "unfit for handling" by a Juvenile Court and turn her over to authorities for prosecution. The Los Angeles district attorney has indicated he would not press any charges.

—He can declare her a ward of the court and make the choice concerning her custody It could be Lana, but there was a widespread belief the child might be placed in some foster home for girls.

Investigators for the court are expected to talk with Miss Turner in the next few days about what type of life she would plan for Cheryl in case she should be given custody. They will also talk to Stephen Crane, the girl's father, and make their report to Judge Lynch.

Cheryl was still being held in Juvenile Hall here. She went through the same routine as other girls held there. During the week she has been attending classes to keep up her school work. Her mother was expected to visit her Sunday.

Lawyer Jerry Giesler said her program for the next week will be one of "complete rest."

The actress has never given a performance like the one on the witness stand Friday when she described the moments leading up the climax when her daughter plunged the knife into Stompanato.

TAMPA TRIBUNE EDITOR

'Secret Government In Washington' Is Charged

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UP)—Vincent M. Newton, managing editor of the Tampa (Fla.) Tribune, charged Saturday that government officials have been developing a "secret government in Washington" that threatens the American principle of freedom of the press.

Newton said Washington's "arrogant" attitude toward the people's right to know is "only a step or so away" from the general censorship practiced in Communist Russia.

He spoke at the annual luncheon of the National Headliner's Club, which recognized outstanding performances in news coverage in all categories through newspapers, radio, television and news magazines.

Among the award winners were United Press Washington correspondent Donald J. Gonzales, for "outstanding coverage of a domestic news story" and United Press photographer Arthur Rickerby for best sports picture.

Says Threat Three-fold

Newton said that "our public servants have been steadily developing their secret government in Washington for the last 25 years."

He said the threat to the American principle of freedom of the press is three-fold:

—"There is a stifling curtain of secrecy draped over virtually all of federal executive government and over much of federal legislative and judicial government."

—"There is an unhealthy hostility of attitude among millions of federal bureaucrats toward the free press and its obligations to report all the facts of free government to the free people."

—"It would take a super Houdini to navigate the mushrooming maze of federal bureaucracy which today places a restraining finger on every phase of living of every free American citizen."

Newton said the federal government never has accounted to American taxpayers for the billions it has spent on foreign aid since the close of World War II.

He said that in 1957 there were four attempts in Washington to interfere by law with press freedoms.

He listed them as the Wright Commission on Government Security which proposed that an editor or publisher could be fined or sent to prison for publishing "secret" information of government: The Coolidge Committee on Classified Information which would force newsmen to appear before grand juries to disclose the source of "leaks" of security information; the civil rights bill making it a crime for anyone using information originating in executive sessions of the Civil Rights Commission, and a Senate bill making it a crime to disclose information from other executive sessions which might be held by a half-dozen other federal commissions.

Two Laws a Minute

He said that 1957 marked the first time since the Alien and Sedition Act of 1798 that government bureaucrats had seriously entertained the idea of jailing American citizens for the "great crime" of dissemination of news of government.

Newton said that "our modern federal legislation is railroaded through Congress under the expert direction of our bureaucrats."

He said that in one two-hour session last July U.S. senators "whooped" through an average of better than two laws a minute, "and I doubt seriously that any of them knew the contents of 10 per cent of this legislation.

"Today in Washington," he said, "it is sad to relate our federal public servants have developed the new American philosophy that government belongs to them as their private domain, and that the American public mind should be fed only that pre-digested knowledge which the politicians deem proper for the well-being of the politicians."

Table Shows Funds States Would Receive

WASHINGTON (AP)—Below is a state-by-state table showing apportionments that would be available under the highway construction speedup bill sent to President Eisenhower by Congress April 3. There is some speculation the President may veto the bill.

Listed first are the federal apportionments from a special 400 million dollar U.S. fund for primary, secondary and urban systems for fiscal 1959, starting July 1, 1958, which the states would have to match only on a two-for-one basis instead of the usual 50-50. In parentheses are listed, first, the part of its matching money a state could borrow from Washington, and second, what it would have to put up in actual cash. These apportionments would be made soon after the bill becomes law.

Listed second are the federal apportionments from a special 200 million dollar fund for the interstate superhighway system for fiscal 1959. These would be matched on the usual 90-10 basis. These apportionments also would be made soon after the bill becomes law.

Listed third are the federal apportionments from a 2½ billion dollar allotment for the interstate for fiscal 1960. They would be matched 90-10. In parentheses is listed what the state would receive from the $1,600,000,000 that would be avilable under present law. Under the bill, the fiscal 1960 money would be apportioned in July this year instead of December as under present law.

Listed fourth are the federal apportionments from a 900 million dollar allotment for the primary, secondary and urban systems for fiscal 1960. These would be matched 50-50 as usual. The apportionments would be made in July unler the bill instead of December.

Alabama—8.1 (2.5, 1.5), 4.1, 49.3 (31.6), 18.2.

Arkansas—5.9 (1.8, 1.1), 2.9, 248 (15.9), 13.2.

Louisiana—6.3 (1.9, 1.2), 3.3, 66.0 (42.2), 14.2.

Mississippi—6.4 (2.0, 1.2), 3 2, 27.5 (17.6), 14.3.

Tennessee—8.2 (2.6, 1.5), 4.2, 74.1 (47.4), 18.7.

Dinner Slated To Launch Y Funds Drive

Mrs. W. R. Hatchell heads the women's communication committee for the drive. About 90 women are members of this committee, and will call on the 800 men and women who are working in the campaign before each meeting for the purpose of reminding them of the meeting and checking attendance.

Members of the communication group will meet at the United Gas auditorium on Louisville Avenue tomorrow at 10 a.m. for instructions.

Team captains working with Mrs. Hatchell are Mrs. Peter Dowd, Mrs. Auston Wilson, Mrs. D. E. Gill, Mrs. O. K. Davis, Mrs. A. C. Warner, Mrs. George Hemphill, Mrs. M. W Montgomery, Mrs B. G. Jacka and Mrs D. L. Anderson.

DOCTOR SHOOTS SELF

SAN ANTONIO (UP)—Dr. Daniel Henry Rittiman, 58, an optometrist, was found shot to death in the bathroom of his home Friday with a .22 caliber rifle near the body.

Bexar County Medical Examiner Robert Hausmann ruled the death was suicide. A neighbor, O. M. Tracy, who found the body, said Dr. Rittiman had been ill recently.

GRIDIRON DINNER

Politicians Squirm As Truth 'Uncovered'

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The politicians squirmed, but had to laugh along with the rest Saturday night as capital newsmen spoofed state officials at the seventh annual Louisiana Gridiron Dinner.

Few of the big shots, or the small fry, in state politics escaped in the 25 skits and songs which "uncovered" the truth.

But after the show, President Jack Gould of the Capitol Correspondents Assn., which has sponsored the Gridiron annually since 1952, gave some of the main targets a chance to reply.

Gov. Earl Long received the usual rough going over accorded Louisiana's chief executive.

Details of scripts and songs were "off-the-record" as were rebuttals by those portrayed in the show, but skits ranged from needling would-be candidates for governor to a satire on levee boards.

"What's My Lyin,'" portrayed 15 gubernatorial candidates in a mimic of a national television show. Another skit had seven characters trying to prove each was Gov. Earl Long's only candidate for governor.

The telephone rate controversy was neatly solved to the satisfaction of Public Service Commission Chairman John McKeithen and the telephone company in a skit called "Southern Hell."

"Signals Off — and On" told of the governor's troubles with his lieutenants, as did "That Old Gang of Mine." Long's legislative tactics were recorded in "Biennial Obsession."

Among the dozen songs were "Oh Penny" sung "at Angola," and one by Gov. Faubus of Arkansas telling how he "Fit Them Yankees."

A chorus by the entire cast reminded potential candidates eyeing the Governor's mansion that "Ole Earl has two years longer to live there."

LANA TURNER'S

Custody Battle To Be Private

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Lana Turner's fight for the custody of her daughter, Cheryl, will be staged strictly in private at a hearing in Santa Monica in 12 days, it was disclosed Saturday.

Superior Judge Allen T. Lynch said his Juvenile Court, as usual, would be closed to public and press when determination is made of the future of 14-year-old Cheryl, found Friday by a coroner's jury to have committed justifiable homicide in killing Johnny Stompanato.

Lynch has two broad choices:

—He can rule Cheryl "unfit for handling" by a Juvenile Court and turn her over to authorities for prosecution. The Los Angeles district attorney has indicated he would not press any charges.

—He can declare her a ward of the court and make the choice concerning her custody. It could be Lana, but there was a widespread belief the child might be placed in some foster home for girls.

Investigators for the court are expected to talk with Miss Turner in the next few days about what type of life she would plan for Cheryl in case she should be given custody. They will also talk to Stephen Crane, the girl's father, and make their report to Judge Lynch.

Cheryl was still being held in Juvenile Hall here. She went through the same routine as other girls held there. During the week she has been attending classes to keep up her school work. Her mother was expected to visit her Sunday.

Lawyer Jerry Giesler said her program for the next week will be one of "complete rest."

The actress has never given a performance like the one on the witness stand Friday when she described the moments leading up the climax when her daughter plunged the knife into Stompanato.

TAMPA TRIBUNE EDITOR

'Secret Government In Washington' Is Charged

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UP)—Vincent M. Newton, managing editor of the Tampa (Fla.) Tribune, charged Saturday that government officials have been developing a "secret government in Washington" that threatens the American principle of freedom of the press.

Newton said Washington's "arrogant" attitude toward the people's right to know is "only a step or so away" from the general censorship practiced in Communist Russia.

He spoke at the annual luncheon of the National Headliner's Club, which recognized outstanding performances in news coverage in all categories through newspapers, radio, television and news magazines.

Among the award winners were United Press Washington correspondent Donald J. Gonzales, for "outstanding coverage of a domestic news story" and United Press photographer Arthur Rickerby for best sports picture.

Says Threat Three-fold

Newton said that "our public servants have been steadily developing their secret government in Washington for the last 25 years."

He said the threat to the American principle of freedom of the press is three-fold:

—"There is a stifling curtain of secrecy draped over virtually all of federal executive government and over much of federal legislative and judicial government."

—"There is an unhealthy hostility of attitude among millions of federal bureaucrats toward the free press and its obligations to report all the facts of free government to the free people."

—"It would take a super Houdini to navigate the mushrooming maze of federal bureaucracy which today places a restraining finger on every phase of living of every free American citizen."

Newton said the federal government never has accounted to American taxpayers for the billions it has spent on foreign aid since the close of World War II.

He said that in 1957 there were four attempts in Washington to interfere by law with press freedoms.

He listed them as the Wright Commission on Government Security which proposed that an editor or publisher could be fined or sent to prison for publishing "secret" information of government: The Coolidge Committee on Classified Information which would force newsmen to appear before grand juries to disclose the source of "leaks" of security information; the civil rights bill making it a crime for anyone using information originating in executive sessions of the Civil Rights Commission, and a Senate bill making it a crime to disclose information from other executive sessions which might be held by a half-dozen other federal commissions.

Two Laws a Minute

He said that 1957 marked the first time since the Alien and Sedition Act of 1798 that government bureaucrats had seriously entertained the idea of jailing American citizens for the "great crime" of dissemination of news of government.

Newton said that "our modern federal legislation is railroaded through Congress under the expert direction of our bureaucrats."

He said that in one two-hour session last July U.S. senators "whooped" through an average of better than two laws a minute, "and I doubt seriously that any of them knew the contents of 10 per cent of this legislation.

"Today in Washington," he said, "it is sad to relate our federal public servants have developed the new American philosophy that government belongs to them as their private domain, and that the American public mind should be fed only that pre-digested knowledge which the politicians deem proper for the well-being of the politicians."

Dinner Slated To Launch Y Funds Drive

Mrs. W. R. Hatchell heads the women's communication committee for the drive. About 90 women are members of this committee, and will call on the 800 men and women who are working in the campaign before each meeting for the purpose of reminding them of the meeting and checking attendance.

Members of the communication group will meet at the United Gas auditorium on Louisville Avenue tomorrow at 10 a.m. for instructions.

Team captains working with Mrs. Hatchell are Mrs. Peter Dowd, Mrs. Auston Wilson, Mrs. D. E. Gill, Mrs. O. K. Davis, Mrs. A. C. Warner, Mrs. George Hemphill, Mrs. M. W Montgomery, Mrs B. G. Jacka and Mrs D. L. Anderson.

DOCTOR SHOOTS SELF

SAN ANTONIO (UP)—Dr. Daniel Henry Rittiman, 58, an optometrist, was found shot to death in the bathroom of his home Friday with a .22 caliber rifle near the body.

Bexar County Medical Examiner Robert Hausmann ruled the death was suicide. A neighbor, O. M. Tracy, who found the body, said Dr. Rittiman had been ill recently.

Table Shows Funds States Would Receive

WASHINGTON (AP)—Below is a state-by-state table showing apportionments that would be available under the highway construction speedup bill sent to President Eisenhower by Congress April 3. There is some speculation the President may veto the bill.

Listed first are the federal apportionments from a special 400 million dollar U.S. fund for primary, secondary and urban systems for fiscal 1959, starting July 1, 1958, which the states would have to match only on a two-for-one basis instead of the usual 50-50. In parentheses are listed, first, the part of its matching money a state could borrow from Washington, and second, what it would have to put up in actual cash. These apportionments would be made soon after the bill becomes law.

Listed second are the federal apportionments from a special 200 million dollar fund for the interstate superhighway system for fiscal 1959. These would be matched on the usual 90-10 basis. These apportionments also would be made soon after the bill becomes law.

Listed third are the federal apportionments from a 2½ billion dollar allotment for the interstate for fiscal 1960. They would be matched 90-10. In parentheses is listed what the state would receive from the $1,600,000,000 that would be avilable under present law. Under the bill, the fiscal 1960 money would be apportioned in July this year instead of December as under present law.

Listed fourth are the federal apportionments from a 900 million dollar allotment for the primary, secondary and urban systems for fiscal 1960. These would be matched 50-50 as usual. The apportionments would be made in July unler the bill instead of December.

Alabama—8.1 (2.5, 1.5), 4.1, 49.3 (31.6), 18.2.

Arkansas—5.9 (1.8, 1.1), 2.9, 248 (15.9), 13.2.

Louisiana—6.3 (1.9, 1.2), 3.3, 66.0 (42.2), 14.2.

Mississippi—6.4 (2.0, 1.2), 3.2, 27.5 (17.6), 14.3.

Tennessee—8.2 (2.6, 1.5), 4.2, 74.1 (47.4), 18.7.

GRIDIRON DINNER

Politicians Squirm As Truth 'Uncovered'

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The politicians squirmed, but had to laugh along with the rest Saturday night as capital newsmen spoofed state officials at the seventh annual Louisiana Gridiron Dinner.

Few of the big shots, or the small fry, in state politics escaped in the 25 skits and songs which "uncovered" the truth.

But after the show, President Jack Gould of the Capitol Correspondents Assn., which has sponsored the Gridiron annually since 1952, gave some of the main targets a chance to reply.

Gov. Earl Long received the usual rough going over accorded Louisiana's chief executive.

Details of scripts and songs were "off-the-record" as were rebuttals by those portrayed in the show, but skits ranged from needling would-be candidates for governor to a satire on levee boards.

"What's My Lyin,'" portrayed 15 gubernatorial candidates in a mimic of a national television show. Another skit had seven characters trying to prove each was Gov. Earl Long's only candidate for governor.

The telephone rate controversy was neatly solved to the satisfaction of Public Service Commission Chairman John McKeithen and the telephone company in a skit called "Southern Hell."

"Signals Off — and On" told of the governor's troubles with his lieutenants, as did "That Old Gang of Mine." Long's legislative tactics were recorded in "Biennial Obsession."

Among the dozen songs were "Oh Penny" sung "at Angola," and one by Gov. Faubus of Arkansas telling how he "Fit Them Yankees."

A chorus by the entire cast reminded potential candidates eyeing the Governor's mansion that "Ole Earl has two years longer to live there."

BISHOP TO SPEAK

FORT WORTH (UP) — Bishop William C. Martin will be the principal speaker at the Central Texas Methodist Conference on Christian vocations at Texas Wesleyan College, April 25-26. Purpose of the conference will be to counsel high school youth.

COLLEGE TOWN BRANCH OPENED—Lewis C. Slater, president of Northeast State College, cuts the money-laced ribbon across the front door to formally open the College Town Branch of Ouachita National Bank yesterday morning. 3,000 Visitors Make Inspection Of Bank Plants

Approximately 3,000 persons had visited the completely remodelled main office of Ouachita National Bank at the corner of DeSiard and St. John streets, and the new College Town Branch of the bank by noon yesterday as the institution celebrated formal openings.

Scores of men, women and children were outside awaiting the the opening of the doors to the main office at 9 a.m., and saw Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard cut the ribbon, laced with dollar bills. Special guests of honor, in addition to Mayor Howard were West Monroe's Mayor Allan J. Norris, M. W. Montgomery, president of the Ouachita Parish Police Jury, and Bert Coverdale, parish tax assessor.

The lobby of the main office and the new branch office were decorated with scores of floral displays sent by friends of the bank, and employees were on hand to conduct the visitors on tours of the new installations.

Howard's Statement

At the ribbon cutting, Mayor Howard said:

"This beautiful newly remodelled building and the just - opened College Town Branch are very tangible evidence that the management of this bank looks ahead to a much greater Twin Cities trade area. The officers and directors of this bank are to be commended for their confidence in our continued growth.

"On behalf of the City Council, I extend best wishes for their continued success."

Vanderpool's statement read:

"The Ouachita National Bank's expansion has been made possible by the patronage of our customers through the years. With each new expansion, we re - dedicate our efforts to continue deserving the confidence of the community. All of our staff join me in thanking you for your loyal support in the past. Our constant desire is to continue being an institution of genuine significance and worth to our city, characterized by a friendly, helpful spirit."

Kefauver Asks Cut In Prices

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) called Saturday for a "straight, across-the-board price cut" by producers, wholesalers and retailers to pull the country out of the recession.

Kefauver's suggestion came as debate over the business slump picked up momentum with the return of members of Congress from a 10-day Easter vacation. The lawmakers, reconvening Monday, used the recess to sound out voter sentiment on what should be done to fight the economic decline.

There were these developments:

—Senate and House members responding to a nationwide United Press survey reported grass roots sentiment is running about 8 to 5 against an income tax reduction at this time. In general, the survey lent support to President Eisenhower's "go slow" stand on drastic anti-recession action by the government.

—But the U.S. Chamber of Commerce added its weight to forces calling for tax reduction. Its president, Philip M. Talbott, said in letters to all members of Congress that a tax cut would "arrest" the recession while government public works projects are an "exceedingly awkward, cumbersome and slow" treatment for the economic decline.

—Unofficial reports circulated in informed congressional circles that Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks has urged the President to veto the latest anti-recession public works bill to clear Congress—the $5,500,000,000 highway construction bill. There was no official confirmation of this from Weeks or the White House.

—The Senate on Monday will resume consideration of still another public works measure—one to make an additional billion dollars available in federal loans to local communities for such projects as hospital and sewage treatment plant construction.

—Republicans launched a new attack on former President Harry S. Truman in an effort to draw a contrast between GOP and Democratic records on the economic issue.

Truman, who has said he would be "doing something" about the recession if he were still in office, will tell Congress Monday what action he recommends. Truman will be the first witness before the House Banking Committee when it begins a five-week study of the economic situation.

Rep. Henry O. Talle, ranking Republican on the committee, charged that Truman would be an "advance pitchman sent on ahead to set the stage for the flow of anti-administration propaganda to follow in the weeks ahead."

Cercy Frey, Retired Auto Dealer, Dies

Funeral services will be at 4 p.m. today in the First Baptist Church of Jonesboro with the Rev. David Mason officiating, assisted by the Rev. G. W. Dameron.

Interment will follow in the Jonesboro cemetery under direction of Edmonds Funeral home.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Florence Frey of Jonesboro; one daughter, Mrs. Bobby Salter, Jonesboro; one son, Cercy L. Frey Jr. of Jonesboro; his mother, Mrs. J. R. Frey of Minden; two brothers, L. M. Frey, Monroe and P. L. Frey, Mobile, Ala.; four sisters, Mrs. Annie Clancy and Mrs. W. G. Booker, both of Shreveport, Mrs. Almah Williams and Mrs. Jack Hunter, both of Minden.

Frey had resided in Jonesboro for 32 years, and was a native of Jackson parish. He had recently retired from his business as an automobile dealer.

Muster Program Set This Month

Former students of Texas A & M College who live in northeast Louisiana will meet at Blumenthal's Camp in Monroe on Monday, April 21, to attend the 55th anniversary Muster program of Texas A. & M men.

This will be one of more than 400 similar Muster ceremonies held throughout the country, where former Texas A & M students pay homage to fellow classmates who have died, and tribute to the Texans who won the freedom of the state at the Battle of San Jacinto near Houston about, 121 years ago.

Alan F. Sugar Jr., chairman of the Monroe Muster, urges all A & M men to attend this program. "This is one of the greatest traditions to be found in American colleges and universities," Sugar commented.

RACE, SALARY HIKES

Miss. Lawmakers Act On Measures

By TIM PARKER

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)— The race question dominated the Mississippi Legislature last week although lawmakers wound it up with a climatic agreement on teacher salary increases.

Both houses acted on a series of measures aimed at preserving segregation — with the federal Civil Rights Commission the only adversary named outright.

Charges were raised in the lower chamber that legislators are passing anything with a "racial tag" without giving it a close look. But the race measures, with two exceptions, had easy going.

The exceptions were bills to require labeling of blood for blood banks by race and to require segregation of children with sickle cel anemia—pecular to Negroes—and children with antibiotic-resistant ailment—peculiar to whites.

The Senate Public Health Committee killed the bills after hearing testimony that patients cannot contract sickle cell anemia from infusions. The committee also was told hospitals could not comply with the blood labeling bill and still render good and inexpensive service.

Further action, in one chamber or another, is expected next week on the other race measures, but the great concern will be how to finance the 98-million-dollar "quality education" program.

Calling for teacher salary raises ranging up to $675 and an optional nine-month school term with state aid, the program will cost 3¼ million dollars more than is provided by all pending revenue measures. Agreement on the pending revenue bills may be hard to get.

Friday, the Senate concurred in House action to make an exception — for two bills — to the March 27 deadline for introduction of general bills.

The two bills, by Rep. Ben Jack Hilburn of Lafayette County, would authorize the governor or Park Commission to close any or all state parks.

Like similar school bills passed by the House, they obviously are intended as an answer in advance to any federal court order directing integration.

The school bills authorize the governor or school district trustees to close any or all schools if they feel the public peace recommends the step.

The Senate Judiciary Committee stamped approval on a bill which could channel city and county tax money into the pro-segregation Citizens Councils — despite Gov. J.P. Coleman's objections.

Coleman told the committee passage of the bill would mean handing over to a private group those responsibilities belonging solely to the people's elected representatives.

The governor, not a member of the Councils, said, "I am opposed to any group . . . . purporting to perform the duties of state government."

The committee, headed by Sen. Stanton Hall of Hattiesburg, voted to offer three restrictive amendments: 1. Groups receiving such tax money would have to be cleared by the State Sovereignty Commission, the state's official "segregation watchdog" agency; 2. Use of the money for political purposes would be banned; and 3. Groups receiving it would have to give an accounting of how it was spent.

The Civil Rights Commission was named in House-passed bills authorizing the attorney general to represent schools, cities, counties and other public officeholders.

The bill says the state's chief legal officer could come to their defense if they were made defendants in federal court suits or called as witnesses before the Civil Rights Commission.

The Senate sent to the House Friday a bill by Sen. George Yarbrough of Red Banks authorizing the attorney general or Legislative Investigating Committee to investigate the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

Yarbrough told the Senate: "We ought to be able to check organizations to be sure we have no subversive groups in Mississippi."

One of the 1956 session's almost-forgotten goals — easing the tax burden on industry to encourage the state's industrialization —was spelled out in a rare descent from the chair by House Speaker Walter Sillers.

Sillers reminded the House that the General Electric Corp. has listed Mississippi as having the fifth highest tax costs for industry in the nation.

He said the state must act quickly if it is to provide the proper tax climate to encourage industry.

Moments later, the House passed by overwhelming vote a bill to reduce the ad valorem tax from 4 to 3 mills in 1960 and give the State Budget Commission authority to reduce it to 2 or 1 mill.

Several members renewed protests that the House is voting tax relief for business and providing none for the little man.

COLLEGE TOWN BRANCH OPENED — Lewis C. Slater, president of Northeast State College, cuts the money-laced ribbon across the front door to formally open the College Town Branch of Ouachita National Bank yesterday morning. 3,000 Visitors Make Inspection Of Bank Plants

Approximately 3,000 persons had visited the completely remodelled main office of Ouachita National Bank at the corner of DeSiard and St. John streets, and the new College Town Branch of the bank by noon yesterday as the institution celebrated formal openings.

Scores of men, women and children were outside awaiting the the opening of the doors to the main office at 9 a.m., and saw Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard cut the ribbon, laced with dollar bills. Special guests of honor, in addition to Mayor Howard were West Monroe's Mayor Allan J. Norris, M. W. Montgomery, president of the Ouachita Parish Police Jury, and Bert Coverdale, parish tax assessor.

The lobby of the main office and the new branch office were decorated with scores of floral displays sent by friends of the bank, and employees were on hand to conduct the visitors on tours of the new installations.

Howard's Statement

At the ribbon cutting, Mayor Howard said:

"This beautiful newly remodelled building and the just - opened College Town Branch are very tangible evidence that the management of this bank looks ahead to a much greater Twin Cities trade area. The officers and directors of this bank are to be commended for their confidence in our continued growth.

"On behalf of the City Council, I extend best wishes for their continued success."

Vanderpool's statement read:

"The Ouachita National Bank's expansion has been made possible by the patronage of our customers through the years. With each new expansion, we re - dedicate our efforts to continue deserving the confidence of the community. All of our staff join me in thanking you for your loyal support in the past. Our constant desire is to continue being an institution of genuine significance and worth to our city, characterized by a friendly, helpful spirit."

Kefauver Asks Cut In Prices

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) called Saturday for a "straight, across-the-board price cut" by producers, wholesalers and retailers to pull the country out of the recession.

Kefauver's suggestion came as debate over the business slump picked up momentum with the return of members of Congress from a 10-day Easter vacation. The lawmakers, reconvening Monday, used the recess to sound out voter sentiment on what should be done to fight the economic decline.

There were these developments:

—Senate and House members responding to a nationwide United Press survey reported grass roots sentiment is running about 8 to 5 against an income tax reduction at this time. In general, the survey lent support to President Eisenhower's "go slow" stand on drastic anti-recession action by the government.

—But the U.S. Chamber of Commerce added its weight to forces calling for tax reduction. Its president, Philip M. Talbott, said in letters to all members of Congress that a tax cut would "arrest" the recession while government public works projects are an "exceedingly awkward, cumbersome and slow" treatment for the economic decline.

—Unofficial reports circulated in informed congressional circles that Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks has urged the President to veto the latest anti-recession public works bill to clear Congress—the $5,500,000,000 highway construction bill. There was no official confirmation of this from Weeks or the White House.

—The Senate on Monday will resume consideration of still another public works measure—one to make an additional billion dollars available in federal loans to local communities for such projects as hospital and sewage treatment plant construction.

—Republicans launched a new attack on former President Harry S. Truman in an effort to draw a contrast between GOP and Democratic records on the economic issue.

Truman, who has said he would be "doing something" about the recession if he were still in office, will tell Congress Monday what action he recommends. Truman will be the first witness before the House Banking Committee when it begins a five-week study of the economic situation.

Rep. Henry O. Talle, ranking Republican on the committee, charged that Truman would be an "advance pitchman sent on ahead to set the stage for the flow of anti-administration propaganda to follow in the weeks ahead."

Cercy Frey, Retired Auto Dealer, Dies

Funeral services will be at 4 p.m. today in the First Baptist Church of Jonesboro with the Rev. David Mason officiating, assisted by the Rev. G. W. Dameron.

Interment will follow in the Jonesboro cemetery under direction of Edmonds Funeral home.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Florence Frey of Jonesboro; one daughter, Mrs. Bobby Salter, Jonesboro; one son, Cercy L. Frey Jr. of Jonesboro; his mother, Mrs. J. R. Frey of Minden; two brothers, L. M. Frey, Monroe and P. L. Frey, Mobile, Ala.; four sisters, Mrs. Annie Clancy and Mrs. W. G. Booker, both of Shreveport, Mrs. Almah Williams and Mrs. Jack Hunter, both of Minden.

Frey had resided in Jonesboro for 32 years, and was a native of Jackson parish. He had recently retired from his business as an automobile dealer.

Muster Program Set This Month

Former students of Texas A & M College who live in northeast Louisiana will meet at Blumenthal's Camp in Monroe on Monday, April 21, to attend the 55th anniversary Muster program of Texas A. & M men.

This will be one of more than 400 similar Muster ceremonies held throughout the country, where former Texas A & M students pay homage to fellow classmates who have died, and tribute to the Texans who won the freedom of the state at the Battle of San Jacinto near Houston about, 121 years ago.

Alan F. Sugar Jr., chairman of the Monroe Muster, urges all A & M men to attend this program. "This is one of the greatest traditions to be found in American colleges and universities," Sugar commented.

RACE, SALARY HIKES

Miss. Lawmakers Act On Measures

By TIM PARKER

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)— The race question dominated the Mississippi Legislature last week although lawmakers wound it up with a climatic agreement on teacher salary increases.

Both houses acted on a series of measures aimed at preserving segregation — with the federal Civil Rights Commission the only adversary named outright.

Charges were raised in the lower chamber that legislators are passing anything with a "racial tag" without giving it a close look But the race measures, with two exceptions, had easy going.

The exceptions were bills to require labeling of blood for blood banks by race and to require segregation of children with sickle cel anemia—pecular to Negroes—and children with antibiotic-resistant ailment—peculiar to whites.

The Senate Public Health Committee killed the bills after hearing testimony that patients cannot contract sickle cell anemia from infusions. The committee also was told hospitals could not comply with the blood labeling bill and still render good and inexpensive service.

Further action, in one chamber or another, is expected next week on the other race measures, but the great concern will be how to finance the 98-million-dollar "quality education" program.

Calling for teacher salary raises ranging up to $675 and an optional nine-month school term with state aid, the program will cost 3¼ million dollars more than is provided by all pending revenue measures. Agreement on the pending revenue bills may be hard to get.

Friday, the Senate concurred in House action to make an exception — for two bills — to the March 27 deadline for introduction of general bills.

The two bills, by Rep. Ben Jack Hilbun of Lafayette County, would authorize the governor or Park Commission to close any or all state parks.

Like similar school bills passed by the House, they obviously are intended as an answer in advance to any federal court order directing integration.

The school bills authorize the governor or school district trustees to close any or all schools if they feel the public peace recommends the step.

The Senate Judiciary Committee stamped approval on a bill which could channel city and county tax money into the pro-segregation Citizens Councils — despite Gov. J.P. Coleman's objections.

Coleman told the committee passage of the bill would mean handing over to a private group those responsibilities belonging solely to the people's elected representatives.

The governor, not a member of the Councils, said, "I am opposed to any group .... purporting to perform the duties of state government."

The committee, headed by Sen. Stanton Hall of Hattiesburg, voted to offer three restrictive amendments: 1. Groups receiving such tax money would have to be cleared by the State Sovereignty Commission, the state's official "segregation watchdog" agency; 2. Use of the money for political purposes would be banned; and 3. Groups receiving it would have to give an accounting of how it was spent.

The Civil Rights Commission was named in House-passed bills authorizing the attorney general to represent schools, cities, counties and other public officeholders.

The bill says the state's chief legal officer could come to their defense if they were made defendants in federal court suits or called as witnesses before the Civil Rights Commission.

The Senate sent to the House Friday a bill by Sen. George Yarbrough of Red Banks authorizing the attorney general or Legislative Investigating Committee to investigate the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

Yarbrough told the Senate: "We ought to be able to check organizations to be sure we have no subversive groups in Mississippi."

One of the 1956 session's almost-forgotten goals — easing the tax burden on industry to encourage the state's industrialization —was spelled out in a rare descent from the chair by House Speaker Walter Sillers.

Sillers reminded the House that the General Electric Corp. has listed Mississippi as having the fifth highest tax costs for industry in the nation.

He said the state must act quickly if it is to provide the proper tax climate to encourage industry.

Moments later, the House passed by overwhelming vote a bill to reduce the ad valorem tax from 4 to 3 mills in 1960 and give the State Budget Commission authority to reduce it to ? or 1 mill.

Several members renewed protests that the House is voting tax relief for business and providing none for the little man

STRONG DOSE

Too Much Epsom Salts In Court

NEW YORK (AP) — Judge William E. Ringel's General Sessions Court has had a pretty strong dose of Epsom salts lately. In fact, a sort of double dose.

But if the judge is getting weary of the subject, attorney Horacio L. Quinones must be a lot wearier.

A while back, quinones was the defense lawyer in a rent-gouging case before judge Ringel. Quinones and Asst. Dist. Atty. Burton B. Roberts wrangled so much the judge finally ordered them not to interrupt each other.

Cross Examine

As the courtroom proceedings moved along, Quinones arose to cross-examine a witness But he paused a moment and picked up what he thought was a glass of water on the counsel table.

Quinones started gulping it down and there was a sudden outcry from Roberts. The judge ordered Roberts to be quiet. Roberts tried again to speak, but got an even sterner warning from the judge. Quinones, meanwhile, had finished the contents of the glass.

Roberts couldn't be restrained further.

"I'm sorry, your honor," he said to the judge, "but I must speak.

"In the interest of public health and justice, I must bring to the court's attention the fact that Mr. Quinones has just drunk a glass of hot Epsom salts in which I was bathing my finger."

Laughter

There was a roar of laughter from the judge, jury and courtroom.

Quinones gulped — though not from the glass, this time — and asked for an adjournment.

Later he advised the court that no difficulty ensued. His only trouble, it developed, was that he lost the case.

Friday, there appeared before Judge Ringel a confidence case defendant named Ricardo Saco Delgrado.

Delgrado, 40, pleaded guilty to a conspiracy charge in helping sell a victim 2,000 worth of what was represented as a magic powder so nifty it would make the worst horse in the world outrun anything afoot.

The judge accepted Delgrado's plea and then, more or less as an afterthought before adjourning the case until sentencing May 6, inquired what the magic powder actually was.

"Epsom salts," he was informed.

The judge quickly rapped his gavel to end the proceedings. Lawyers involved in the case picked up their papers and departed. Among them was Delgardo's attorney — Horacio L. Quinones.

2 Teenagers Are Arrested In Stolen Car

Two Mississippi teenagers, driving a stolen automobile, were apprehended by state police in Ruston last night and returned to Monroe authorities.

Monroe police said state police stopped the boys, driving a 1958 model car, on a routine investigation, and after checking the car, found it had been stolen from a car dealer here.

The boys were identified as Thomas R. Massey, 17, Route 2, Lyons, Miss., and Douglas C. Noland, 18, Hillhouse, Miss. They are being held in the parish jail pending disposition of charges.

Other arrests made by Monroe police yesterday included one for driving while intoxicated, improper muffler, and speeding. Charged was Willie Leroy Ellis, 20, of Route 3, Marian.

Three Negroes were arrested on charges of gamgling with dice. Now in the parish jail are Loyce Coleman, 34, 706 Golman, C. N. Williams, 29, 112 Vicksburg and Dolphus Mack, 36, 205 Ninth street.

Members Agree On Legislation Concerning Rice

Ellender is chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

"The senator agreed with the Louisiana program in principle, and suggested that we discuss it with other rice producing states," Lovell said. "He asked us to get in touch with him at the earliest possible moment after reaching an agreement with the other states."

Basis

Lovell said basically the farm bureau program is aimed at preventing a rice acreage cut in 1959 and to forestall what he said would be further government regimentation of agriculture.

Lovell said this program has five points:

1. An export subsidy in kind or cash.
2. Freezing the present supply now held by the Commodity Credit Corp. and allowing it to be used only to pay export subsidies.
3. Changing the so-called "trip point" at which rice now held by the CCC can be moved out of the loan to 110 per cent in order to encourage direct purchases between farmers and rice buyers, instead of having buyers deal with the government.
4. Allot rice acreage each year based on the total estimated needs for both export and domestic consumption.
5. Establish a support rate at 90 per cent of the most recent three-year average for each variety and grade, rather than use the arbitrary parity system.

Failure to pass new rice and cotton legislation this year, Lowell said, could result in severe acreage reductions for Louisiana farmers.

Fear Hovered Early Along The Ouachita

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

Scalping. The men talk about it in hushed tones, trying to keep their wives from worrying.

It is summer along the Ouachita River — the summer of 1790. The river flows high against its banks . . . and in the crude log homes constructed next to the riverbank, the fear of sudden death sits quietly by each fireplace.

The women step briskly as they cook food over the open fireplaces, draw water from the river, mend their family's clothes. They glance quickly at their children, and silently pray that the little girl tending her doll, the mud - spattered little boy, will not be the next victim.

The homes are spread out along the river — and the river serves as a road in this wilderness of the north.

French Settlers

All are French settlers; they received their land through Spanish grants, and each grant of land faces the river. Some grants are only an acre wide — but they extend back one, two or four miles into the forests.

Their homes extend as far north as the 1958 boundaries of Monroe . . . 10 miles to the south is the plantation of Lord Jean Filhiol, commandant of the Ouachita Post.

Here, where the Twin Cities of Monroe and West Monroe will some day rise, several Indian tribes have been landing their canoes and strutting past the homes.

Hunting. That is the excuse the Indians give for being here . . . and for at least eight months out of the year, they prowl past the homes.

"We'd gotten used to the Indians — but what will we do now," a swarthy man inquires of a group of his fellow Frenchmen.

Makes Difference

"That scalp — that makes the difference," replies another, unconsciously stroking his own blond hair as he recalls how the brown - skinned Indian chiefs argued over a blond scalp which one of them flaunted.

"The trouble is, we must hunt . . . the raccoon, the bear and deer, the rabbits — ah, their fine pelts bring even finer prices in New Orleans. We must hunt to survive . . . but whenever we leave, that's when we can be sure that the Indians will be most numerous at our homes," Francois points out.

"True," adds swarthy Louis, "and just when we were beginning to relax, Mr. Menard comes in terrified with the story of the scalp — and we know that it was the American's who was with Michel L'Allemand . . . and L'Allemand also disappeared last winter along the upper section of this river."

The men grunt in acknowledgement, and Francois drives his hunting knife into the ground as he puts into words what they all fear:

"When we got hunting late in October, the Indians may slaughter our families. We may return to find our families beheaded and our homes sacked.

Maintained Order

"Captain Filhiol has maintained order so far . . . but the thing we need now is a fort. In case of attack, our wives and children could go by boat to a centrally located fort, and be safe there," blond - headed Pierre suggests.

This is a possible solution. Like drowning men grasping for anything, they accept the suggestion. On this August 29, 1790, they draw up a letter and send it to Captain Filhiol, outlining their problem and offering to contribute to construction of a fort.

Filhiol immediately set September 8 as a meeting date, and on that cool, misty morning, the men of the settlements left their isolated cabins and paddled down the river to the commandant's plantation.

Smoking long - stemmed pipes, the men discuss the problem, as rain - crows call noisily in trees outside Filhiol's home.

They finally reach a decision — Filhiol's plantation is the most advantageously located, he has several buildings in his yard, and a fortress could be constructed around the buildings, to save the work of building any other cabins

Filhiol consents and points out the exact measurements of the yard: 180 feet long on two sides and 140 feet wide on the other two sides.

A space of at least five feet will be left between the posts of the fort and the buildings.

Best Measurement

The best measurement for the stakes used in the wall would be 12 feet long," Francois suggests, and the men agree.

A total of 1,020 stakes, each 8 inches wide, is decided on to form the 680 feet of outside wall.

"We should use white oak or cypress wood for the "stakes," Jean Baptiste urges, and the commandant points out that the stakes should be driven three feet into the ground.

When they finish deliberating on the type of fort, Filhiol and Lord de la Baume, lieutenant of the militia company, offer to furnish half of the wall and get all the stakes in place.

The group of men who asked for the meeting are overwhelmed, and quickly pledge to furnish the other half of the fortress stakes, before October 10.

They sign an agreement to complete the fortress. Writing their own signatures are Badins de la Baume, Auguste Roy and Capt. Jean Filhiol.

Using an X are Francois Duval, Baltazar Foguel, Jean Baptiste Jeannot, Francois Cavet, Antoinne Toupart, Pierre Preve, Louis Francisque and Pre. Moron.

That afternoon, the men paddle their canoes upstream rapidly. The fear has almost disappeared. This land, which is worth keeping, will be made safe for their families.

Today, the river named by the Indians sparkles and to them it lives up to its name: "Silver Waters."

IMPARTIALITY

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Patrolman Ernest Greenleaf takes the Charleston statute against litterbugs literally. He chased one all the way to the city incinerator

The litterbug turned out to be a city employe. Greenleaf booked him on charges of operating a trash truck without a cover and told the court:

"It makes no difference to me who he works for. I told him he can't let trash blow off his truck onto city streets."

The judge placed the case on the "open docket" after warning that a second arrest would mean a stiff fine.

Dog Get New Lease On Life From Drug

PENNSAUKEN, N. J. (AP)—A low - slung dachshund is happily busy at the home of Florence and Eugene Hess telling the world you can live with cancer — if you're a dog

Her name is Gretchen; she is 13 and has ruled the Hess household with velvet eyes since the unhappy day she was sent off to be "put to sleep." Thanks to a new drug, which some day may do much for human cancer victims, Gretchen still is wide awake and full of life.

Two years ago the ingratiating old lady carried a mammary cancer the size of a grapefruit. When this cancer spreads to humans, there is little hope for cure.

Gretchen was taken to veterinarian Dr. John T. Zurbrugg of Moorestown, N. J., on what was expected to be her last journey. But Dr. Zurbrugg knew of the Rutgers University dog cancer clinic and the work there of Dr. John R. McCoy. Gretchen got a reprieve and stayed at the clinic for two months.

She was put on a derivative of triethylemelamine (TEM), a drug with anti-cancer qualities discovered at Sloan - Kettering Institute for Cancer Research. TEM and several other derivatives are being used in experimental treatment of some human cancer The only fully tested methods of cure are surgery and radiation.

The form of TEM Gretchen received is called MEPA and has not yet been administered to humans. But after five weeks of MEPA treatments, the dog's cancer was "sealed off" and the growth removed.

A recent checkup showed that two years later Gretchen's disease still is under comfortable control and that she may well have three additional years of contented life. This is significant because five dog years are considered the equivalent of 35 human years.

Besides showing effectiveness, dog treatments are valuable in drug research because of what they reveal about possible human dosages and reactions.

Mrs. Hess calls Gretchen's new lease on life a miracle. The American Cancer Society calls it the rewarding work of men dedicated to the conquest of cancer — men like Dr. McCoy and Dr. Moses L. Crossley, honorary director of the Bureau of Biological Research at Rutgers, who develops the drugs that Dr. McCoy uses.

BRIGHT FUTURE: Arlene Brightly trades soulful glances with Gretchen, her life-long neighborhood pal, who was saved from death by an experimental anti-cancer drug.

Fear Hovered Early Along The Ouachita

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

Scalping. The men talk about it in hushed tones, trying to keep their wives from worrying.

It is summer along the Ouachita River — the summer of 1790. The river flows high against its banks . . . and in the crude log homes constructed next to the riverbank, the fear of sudden death sits quietly by each fireplace.

The women step briskly as they cook food over the open fireplaces, draw water from the river, mend their family's clothes. They glance quickly at their children, and silently pray that the little girl tending her doll, the mud - spattered little boy, will not be the next victim.

The homes are spread out along the river — and the river serves as a road in this wilderness of the north.

French Settlers

All are French settlers; they received their land through Spanish grants, and each grant of land faces the river. Some grants are only an acre wide — but they extend back one, two or four miles into the forests.

Their homes extend as far north as the 1958 boundaries of Monroe . . . 10 miles to the south is the plantation of Lord Jean Filhiol, commandant of the Ouachita Post.

Here, where the Twin Cities of Monroe and West Monroe will some day rise, several Indian tribes have been landing their canoes and strutting past the homes.

Results Revised

Mrs. L. V. Tarver, of Monroe, using the pen name of Zephyr Ware Tarver, was named second place winner in light verse at the Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs convention in Alexandria Thursday night, instead of Mrs. Charles Tillman of Monroe as previously reported.

Mrs. Tarver won the honor for her poem entitled "Fingerprints." She is a member of the Welcome Book Club in Monroe.

She has recently moved to Houston, Tex., but if she wins, Monroe will be proud to claim the honor for she made her entries before leaving here.

The D. A. R. has recognized President Monroe's birthday year. He was born April 28, two hundred years ago, and nation - wide high school pupils have entered esays on the subject. The D. A. R. recognizes Monroe and his great Monroe Doctrine as an outstanding and ruling power for guidance of this nation when it seeks to protect the three Americas from harm through foreigners. Monroe should be proud of the name it bears in honor of a great president.

Banquet

The annual Public Relations banquet, sponsored by the Fifth District Classroom Teachers' Association, will be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. on the Hotel Virginia roof. The Hon. Theo F. Cangelosi, of Baton Rouge, will be the guest speaker. All interested in the public schools are invited. Reservations can be made from Mrs. Francis Rader, 1707 South Sixth St., Monroe, phone FA 2-3617.

Outstanding

West Monroe has reason to be proud of the generous response of its citizens to the call to help in the house to house cancer crusade campaign which is being held today. M.L. Owens Jr., West Monroe chairman of this effort said that four times as many workers — around 350 — plus 15 team captains have turned out than ever before.

We wish them success.

Monroe Youth Injured When Autos Collide

Police said a 19-year-old Monroyan was injured yesterday after his car rammed one vehicle and glanced into another on Louisville Avenue.

In St. Francis Hospital was Lewis Albert Bridges, 405 Washington St., who suffered a facial laceration. He was kept for observation.

According to police, Bridges was headed west on Louisville Avenue at noon yesterday when his car rammed another driven by Norris E. Diamond, 35, 307 Spell St., West Monroe. Diamond was entering Louisville Avenue from the east drive of Sears' parking lot.

Bridges' car then hit an eastbound car driven by Ardis Trapp Jr., of Chase, La., police said, who was attempting a left turn off Louisville Avenue.

Joint Rites Today For Gun Victims

TALLULAH (Special) —Funeral services for Robert B. Burnside, 26, and his wife, Sarah, 22, both victims of gunshot wounds here Friday, will be held today.

A double funeral will be held at 3 p.m. in the Tallulah First Baptist Church. The Rev. Carl Barnes will officiate. Interment will follow in the Silver Cross Cemetery under direction of Crothers Funeral Home.

In addition, Mrs. Burnside is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs Charley Brekeen, Tallulah and three sisters, Mrs. Doris Johnson, Bunkie, and Mary and Martha Brekeen, Tallulah.

Mr. Burnside is survived by his mother, Mrs. Alene T. Burnside, Carthage, Miss.; four brothers, Charles, Lester, George, and James Burnside, all of Carthage, Miss.; seven sisters, Mrs. John Odgen, Tallulah; Mrs. Gertrude Beard, St. Charles, Ill., Mrs. Dorothy Miles, Houston, Tex., and Virginia, Bessie, Tressie, and Rosie Burnside all of Carthage, Miss.

Pallbearers will be Leon Secrest, E. C. Davis, John Scott, Jr., C. H. Hodge, Cecil Breedlove, and J. A. Beck.

Fire Destroys 4 Warehouses Of Furniture

the new three - nozzle "flooder" and its crew which he said was of invaluable aid in preventing spread of the flames.

In addition to the regular members of those fire fighting companies on regular shift, Hale said that a number of off - duty firemen rushed to the scene voluntarily to lend assistance. He said that at the peak of the fire, there were as many as 40 men on the fighting line.

Practically all members of the night shift of the Police Department were on hand to control traffic, and several joined with firemen in stringing hose and bringing them into play.

Hale said it was fortunate there was only a gentle early morning breeze, for a strong wind could have provided a holocaust since there are a number of frame dwellings and other business establishments nearby.

Louis Kuzin said yesterday afternoon that Dixie Bedding and Furniture Company was continuing to give its usual service, since its large warehouse located on the south side of Washington Street opposite the retail store, was intact. He said factories are cooperating in making every effort to fill emergency replacement orders, and he expected no interruption in business as a result of the fire.

Tax Change To Be Asked At Legislature

men," Fields said, "and they indicated they would rather pay a little tax load right along, rather than have the entire property tax load dumped on them all at once at the end of their 10-year exemptions."

Present law says such property, at the windup of its exemption life, must be placed on the parish tax rolls at full market value.

"This proposal would help local school districts, which need more money," Fields said, "and it would protect the parish road tax districts."

The law allows parish police juries to establish special road tax districts for purposes of parish road improvements.

Some legislators privately have talked for several months of the possibility of completing removal of all 10-year industrial tax exemptions in the future, as one means of sidestepping tax raises.

For January, February and March, the Commerce and Industry Board already has approved more than 162 million dollars in new and expanding industrial manufacturing facilities for state and local tax writeoffs.

In three months, Louisiana already has acquired 68 per cent of the new industry it obtained in the entire year of 1957.

The feeling for complete removal of the industrial tax attraction, however, seems to have been fading until a recession slowed the industrial boom in Louisiana.

The Commerce and Industry Board tightened its regulations near the end of 1957 at the insistence of some parish tax assessors. This action had the effect of turning loose a bit more tax revenue at the local level.

For one thing, the board now takes a very tough interpretation of what "manufacturing" industry is entitled to such exemptions, instead of the previous broad interpretation.

Through Chairman James Means of the Louisiana Tax Commission, steady pressure has been applied to encourage parish property tax assessors to touch up assessments with a realistic view.

With this approach, talk has faded for the moment about taking away entirely the 10 year industrial tax relief.

North Hodge Man Injured In Accident

Authorities said Clary, driving a 1949 truck, hit his head on the windshield opposite the driver's seat when the impact occurred. Doctors termed his condition "satisfactory" last night, but he was to remain at the clinic overnight for observation.

Driver of the other vehicle, a late-model Cadillac, was Tilman Sherrard, 37, of Ruston, who was traveling south on the highway. With him were his wife and 10-year-old son. None of them was hurt.

Officials said both vehicles were badly damaged. The Jackson Parish Sheriff's Department is expected to release a full report of the accident later today.

The Colosseum, the Pantheon, and other famous Roman structures were built from a mixture of volcanic ash and slaked lime.

NOTICE TO PUBLIC

We, the undersigned members of the East Carrol Parish School Board, are compelled to inform you that the full page advertisement appearing in the April 11th issue of the BANNER DEMOCRAT, purporting to be an official announcement by the School Board advocating defeat of the bond issue, was not prepared nor its publication authorized by your School Board.

John R. Howard and H. G. Schneider, two School Board members, and M. M. Walsworth, Superintendent of Schools, confronted Captain Jack Wyly who admitted under questioning, that he prepared and delivered the publication to the local newspaper without any School Board authorization whatsoever.

Your School Board unanimously voted on February 26, 1958 to submit the bond issue to the voters, and your School Board, as an official body, has taken no action to change that decision. We are still, as your official Board, submitting the bond issue to you for approval.

She has recently moved to Houston, Tex., but if she wins, Monroe will be proud to claim the honor for she made her entries before leaving here.

The D. A. R. has recognized President Monroe's birthday year. He was born April 28, two hundred years ago, and nation - wide high school pupils have entered esays on the subject. The D. A. R. recognizes Monroe and his great Monroe Doctrine as an outstanding and ruling power for guidance of this nation when it seeks to protect the three Americas from harm through foreigners. Monroe should be proud of the name it bears in honor of a great president.

Banquet

The annual Public Relations banquet, sponsored by the Fifth District Classroom Teachers' Association, will be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. on the Hotel Virginia roof. The Hon. Theo F. Cangelosi, of Baton Rouge, will be the guest speaker. All interested in the public schools are invited. Reservations can be made from Mrs. Francis Rader, 1707 South Sixth St., Monroe, phone FA 2-3617.

Outstanding

West Monroe has reason to be proud of the generous response of its citizens to the call to help in the house to house cancer crusade campaign which is being held today. M.L. Owens Jr., West Monroe chairman of this effort said that four times as many workers — around 350 — plus 15 team captains have turned out than ever before.

We wish them success.

Monroe Youth Injured When Autos Collide

Police said a 19-year-old Monroyan was injured yesterday after his car rammed one vehicle and glanced into another on Louisville Avenue.

In St. Francis Hospital was Lewis Albert Bridges, 405 Washington St., who suffered a facial laceration. He was kept for observation.

According to police, Bridges was headed west on Louisville Avenue at noon yesterday when his car rammed another driven by Norris E. Diamond, 35, 807 Spell St., West Monroe. Diamond was entering Louisville Avenue from the east drive of Sears' parking lot.

Bridges' car then hit an eastbound car driven by Ardis Trapp Jr., of Chase, La., police said, who was attempting a left turn off Louisville Avenue.

Joint Rites Today For Gun Victims

TALLULAH (Special) —Funeral services for Robert B. Burnside, 26, and his wife, Sarah, 22, both victims of gunshot wounds here Friday, will be held today.

A double funeral will be held at 3 p.m. in the Tallulah First Baptist Church. The Rev. Carl Barnes will officiate. Interment will follow in the Silver Cross Cemetery under direction of Crothers Funeral Home.

In addition, Mrs. Burnside is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs Charley Brekeen, Tallulah and three sisters, Mrs. Doris Johnson, Bunkie, and Mary and Martha Brekeen, Tallulah.

Mr. Burnside is survived by his mother, Mrs. Alene T. Burnside, Carthage, Miss.; four brothers, Charles, Lester, George, and James Burnside, all of Carthage, Miss.; seven sisters, Mrs. John Odgen, Tallulah; Mrs. Gertrude Beard, St. Charles, Ill., Mrs. Dorothy Miles, Houston, Tex., and Virginia, Bessie, Tressie, and Rosie Burnside all of Carthage, Miss.

Pallbearers will be Leon Secrest, E. C. Davis, John Scott, Jr., C. H. Hodge, Cecil Breedlove, and J. A. Beck.

Fire Destroys 4 Warehouses Of Furniture

the new three - nozzle "flooder" and its crew which he said was of invaluable aid in preventing spread of the flames.

In addition to the regular members of those fire fighting companies on regular shift, Hale said that a number of off - duty firemen rushed to the scene voluntarily to lend assistance. He said that at the peak of the fire, there were as many as 40 men on the fighting line.

Practically all members of the night shift of the Police Department were on hand to control traffic, and several joined with firemen in stringing hose and bringing them into play.

Hale said it was fortunate there was only a gentle early morning breeze, for a strong wind could have provided a holocaust since there are a number of frame dwellings and other business establishments nearby.

Louis Kuzin said yesterday afternoon that Dixie Bedding and Furniture Company was continuing to give its usual service, since its large warehouse located on the south side of Washington Street opposite the retail store, was intact. He said factories are cooperating in making every effort to fill emergency replacement orders, and he expected no interruption in business as a result of the fire.

Tax Change To Be Asked At Legislature

men," Fields said, "and they indicated they would rather pay a little tax load right along, rather than have the entire property tax load dumped on them all at once at the end of their 10-year exemptions."

Present law says such property, at the windup of its exemption life, must be placed on the parish tax rolls at full market value.

"This proposal would help local school districts, which need more money," Fields said, "and it would protect the parish road tax districts."

The law allows parish police juries to establish special road tax districts for purposes of parish road improvements.

Some legislators privately have talked for several months of the possibility of completing removal of all 10-year industrial tax exemptions in the future, as one means of sidestepping tax raises.

For January, February and March, the Commerce and Industry Board already has approved more than 162 million dollars in new and expanding industrial manufacturing facilities for state and local tax writeoffs.

In three months, Louisiana already has acquired 68 per cent of the new industry it obtained in the entire year of 1957.

The feeling for complete removal of the industrial tax attraction, however, seems to have been fading until a recession slowed the industrial boom in Louisiana.

The Commerce and Industry Board tightened its regulations near the end of 1957 at the insistence of some parish tax assessors. This action had the effect of turning loose a bit more tax revenue at the local level.

For one thing, the board now takes a very tough interpretation of what "manufacturing" industry is entitled to such exemptions, instead of the previous broad interpretation.

Through Chairman James Means of the Louisiana Tax Commission, steady pressure has been applied to encourage parish property tax assessors to touch up assessments with a realistic view.

With this approach, talk has faded for the moment about taking away entirely the 10 year industrial tax relief.

North Hodge Man Injured In Accident

Authorities said Clary, driving a 1949 truck, hit his head on the windshield opposite the driver's seat when the impact occurred. Doctors termed his condition "satisfactory" last night, but he was to remain at the clinic overnight for observation.

Driver of the other vehicle, a late-model Cadillac, was Tilman Sherrard, 37, of Ruston, who was traveling south on the highway. With him were his wife and 10-year-old son. None of them was hurt.

Officials said both vehicles were badly damaged. The Jackson Parish Sheriff's Department is expected to release a full report of the accident later today.

The Colosseum, the Pantheon, and other famous Roman structures were built from a mixture of volcanic ash and slaked lime.

NOTICE TO PUBLIC

We, the undersigned members of the East Carrol Parish School Board, are compelled to inform you that the full page advertisement appearing in the April 11th issue of the BANNER DEMOCRAT, purporting to be an official announcement by the School Board advocating defeat of the bond issue, was not prepared nor its publication authorized by your School Board.

John R. Howard and H. G. Schneider, two School Board members, and M. M. Walsworth, Superintendent of Schools, confronted Captain Jack Wyly who admitted under questioning, that he prepared and delivered the publication to the local newspaper without any School Board authorization whatsoever.

Your School Board unanimously voted on February 26, 1958 to submit the bond issue to the voters, and your School Board, as an official body, has taken no action to change that decision. We are still, as your official Board, submitting the bond issue to you for approval.

Highways

WINNSBORO (Special) — Senator R. E. King informed the Louisiana Highway 15 Development Association and the Winnsboro Business Men's Association yesterday a contract will be let April 23 on 12 miles of Louisiana Highway 15 from Sicily Island south toward Clayton for widening and resurfacing.

Preliminary surveys are now being made, King said, for the widening of Highway 15 from Winnsboro to Archibald and a wider right-of-way will be needed.

Octogenarian

Key Clubbers

COLUMBIA (Special) — Bubba Henry, Lt. Governor of the La.-Miss.-Tenn. District and also president of the Columbia High School Key Club, and some 15 boys left Columbia last week to attend the annual Key Club convention to be held in Biloxi, Miss. this weekend. Last year the Columbia High Key Club was the first place winner in single service award, with this trophy presented to them at the annual convention held in Bossier City, La. This award was presented for outstanding service of the club.

Student Council

Other officers include Barbara Hollis, vice - president; Mary Ann McKee, secretary, and Amanda Graham, treasurer.

These officers will take office during the Month of May and serve until May of 1959.

Taks Begun By Britian On Summit

LONDON (UP) — Britain announced Saturday it has begun "urgent diplomatic discussions" with its Western allies in an apparent move to head off a threatened rift with the United States over summit talks with the Soviet Union.

The British Foreign Office disclosed that the urgent consultations were already under way with the United States, France and other NATO members on the new Soviet proposal for East-West diplomatic talks in Moscow next Thursday.

Russia had suggested in the note Friday that the Moscow diplomatic negotiations, designed to get the ball rolling on summit talk preparations, should be followed by a foreign ministers' conference in May.

The Russians, however, were seeking to commit the West in advance to holding summit talks, regardless of the outcome of a foreign ministers' conference.

The first American reaction was that of sharp rejection. U. S. officials said Washington plans to maintain its position that any summit conference must be prepared carefully to ensure chances of success.

LA. DENTAL GROUP

New Orleans Man Elected President

Dr. Victor Marquer of New Orleans was elected president of the Louisiana Dental Association yesterday as delegates to the 78th annual convention of the group held their final session.

Other officers chosen were Dr. Stanley Levy, Lake Charles, president - elect; Dr. William W. Smith, Monroe, first vice president; Dr. John Hardin, Shreveport, second vice president; Dr. J. S. Bernhard, Shreveport, secretary, and Dr. C. F. Bartels, New Orleans, treasurer.

The association closed its 4-day convention yesterday with a series of table discussions, a general session and a noon meeting of the board of directors.

Elect Officers

The Louisiana Dental Assistants, meeting in conjunction with the dentists' group also elected officers for next year. Mrs. Frances Fox of Shreveport, was installed as president, and Mrs. Lottie Fisher, Monroe, was named president elect. The new secretary-treasurer will be Evelyn Smith of Shreveport.

In other activities, the dental assistants chose Mrs. Ethel Baxter of Shreveport to receive the past president's achievement award for outstanding work during the past year.

Many Speakers

The dentists' convention featured well known speakers in the field of dentistry, including national officers Dr. William R. Alstadt, president; John S. Eslar, twelfth district trustee; and Shailer Peterson, secretary, council on dental education.

Other speakers were Victor H. Dietz, editor of the American Association of Endodontics; Capt. George William Ferguson, Dental Corps, United States Navy, and Fredrick A. Holdt, assistant professor of operative dentistry at Indiana University.

Says Slump Has Been 'Overplayed'

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Meade Alcorn, Republican national committee chairman, said Saturday the business recession is not as bad as it is made out to be.

Alcorn said the Democrats are "overplaying the recession issue —just as they have overplayed others."

He defended the Eisenhower administration as having gotten the people out of a war and restored prestige to the White House.

The Democrats, Alcorn said, "are always eager to remind the people of any little decline in the economy.

"They like to seize upon this, just as they seized upon the Sputnik issue," he said. "They like to regard it (the recession) as the most important thing in the Republican administration."

The Republican chairman told newsmen in an interview shortly before he addressed a luncheon sponsored by the Republican party of Louisiana that the GOP will make headqay in the South in the next congressional elections.

La. Retired Teachers Set Area Meeting

The 5th district retired teachers group will be represented at the Louisiana Retired Teachers Association meeting, scheduled Thursday at Bolton High School in Alexandria.

The day's session is slated to open at 9:30 a.m., according to Miss Juanita Porter of Monroe, president of the area organization.

Election of officers for the coming year is on the business agenda, and each local unit has been urged to be prepared to nominate members for the various positions.

Agenda Told

Another pertinent matter to be discussed at the meeting will be addition of a retiree to the United Schools Committee, Miss Porter said. The growth of LRTA membership has increased the need of having a representative on this committee, she explained.

Discussion of the number of issues of LRTA's "Newsletter," official publication, also will be included in the business of Thursday's meeting.

In connection with the association's conference in Alexandria, the treasurer of the group, A. McFarland of Ruston, has requested all retired teachers to join the association. "Be active for your own good," he said.

All retirees, whether members of the state organization or not are asked by McFarland to attend this week's session.

Negro Youth Meets Death By Drowning

Peter Sumlin Jr. reportedly approached five other boys who were wading in an irrigation pool on the George Russell farm about 2:30 p.m. and said he was going to take a swim.

One of the boys said Sumlin swam out to the middle of the pool and went under the water. The boys who witnessed the accident — three white youths and two Negroes—ran to the Russell home, obtained a boat and with the aid of several adults, recovered the body in approximately 30 minutes.

Pronounced Dead

Sumlin was given artificial respiration but was pronounced dead when Dr. Breshear Earle, Franklin Parish coroner, arrived. Earle said death was due to accidental drowning.

Sumlin was a member of a tenant farming family on the Russell place.

Assisting in the investigation were deputies Ellis Tarver and I. J. Wiggins.

Russell was plowing in a field near the irrigation pool at the time of the accident, but said he was unaware anything had happened until he noticed the boys running toward the house.

Welcome Signs Of Springtime Pickup Cited

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP) — Amidst the welter of gloomy statistics on production and employment last week came welcome signs of a spring pickup in a few key lines.

Some examples:

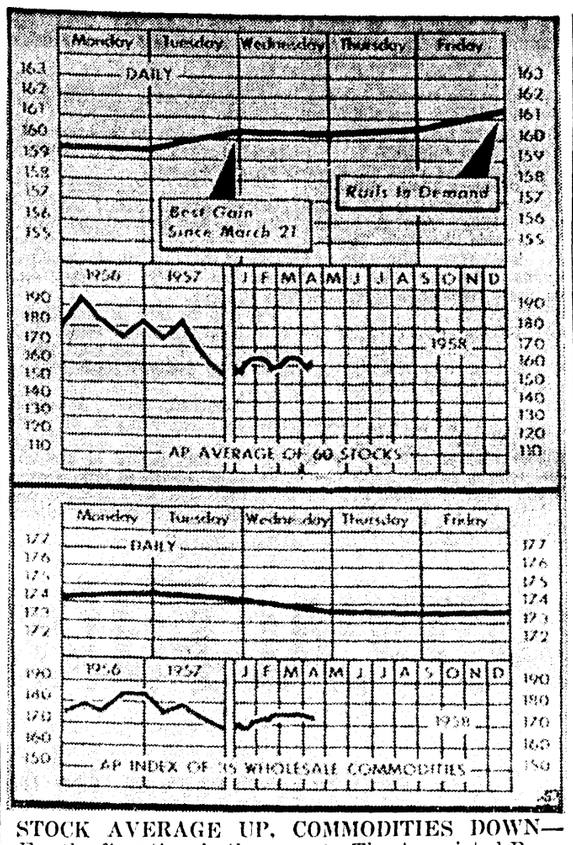

A ripple of activity in home building was presaged by a Washington report showing a sharp increase in the number of applications for FHA mortgage loans.

Edwin H. Mosler Jr., president of Mosler Safe Co., announced a five per cent rise in sales of safes and bank vaults. Said Mosler: "A great many signs exist that the recession may be slowing down, and indeed it may be just about over."

Purchasing Magazine said 66 per cent of the purchasing agents responding to a recent poll reported inventories of their companies in line with production schedules. This indicates, the magazine said, that "the inventory recession is at an end."

Dodge division of Chrysler Corp. said it is selling three times as many cars equipped with air conditioning as it did this time last year. International Swimming Pool Corp. reported sales of backyard pools up 150 per cent from 1957. Rambler division of American Motors Corp. announced plans for a 10 per cent increase in production next week.

STOCK AVERAGE UP, COMMODITIES DOWN—For the first time in three weeks The Associated Press average of 60 stocks moved higher, closing at 161.3 from 159.5 a week ago. Led by food, the Commodity Index declined for the fourth week in a row, closing at 173.6 from 174.2 a week ago. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

REBOUND FROM LOW

Stock Market Average Higher

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market stemmed a series of declines this week and moved ahead on average.

The rebound came from a level just above the 1958 low. It was made in the face of generally unfavorable first quarter earnings reports.

The business and economic back ground remained unfavorable. Analysts regarded the recovery as mainly technical.

A string of nine days of general decline stretched into the first trading day of the week. The string broke Tuesday when stocks advanced on a broad front. The rise was moderate. It continued for about half of Tuesday. Then profit-taking took over and the closing pattern that day was mixed.

The rail group came to the rescue Thursday to give a dull and mixed market a higher tone. The carriers paused for breath early Friday, then steamed ahead again. Other stocks joined in but it was far from unanimous.

The Associated Press average advanced $1.80 to $161.30.

The five most active issues this week were American Motors up ⅝ at 9⅛, Lorillard off 2½ at 52¼ Artloom up 2⅜ at 7⅛, Boeing up 2⅛ at 39⅞ and U. S. Steel off ¾ at 56⅛.

U.S. government bonds edged upward for the fifth straight week and signs of ease in the money market.

Corporate bonds moved a little higher.

Production Of Domestic Crude Oil Drops Low

HOUSTON (AP) — Domestic crude oil production has dropped to its lowest point in 41 months.

Production is 20 per cent below the record level attained in March 1957 during the Suez Canal crisis that disrupted the flow of Middle East oil to Western Europe.

Since that all-time high, domestic production has been slashed 1,568,256 barrels a day. Producer income has been slashed by over four million dollars a day.

United States output last week averaged 6,250,135 barrels a day, compared to a record 7,818,400 the week ending March 22, 1957, and 6,981,150 the week bombs fell on the canal in late 1956.

The 6,250,135 barrels a day level is the lowest since the week ending Nov. 5, 1954, when the average was 6,191,350.

Production slashes in Texas have been sharper than the national average. In March of last year Texas was producing 3,333,000 barrels of crude a day or 42 per cent of the nation's output. Last week's Texas average was 2,254,500 barrels or 36 per cent of domestic production.

Against the national average of 20 per cent, Texas has cut its crude flow by 32 per cent or 1,078,500 barrels a day within 13 months. The loss to Texas producers amounts to nearly three million dollars a day.

Another drop in Texas output can be expected in the American Petroleum Institute's report on production this week. Last week's average included only the first four days of April, during which the state is operating under an eight-day allowable, the lowest in the history of oil and gas conservation statutes in Texas.

The sharp drop in crude production does not reflect all the cutbacks the oil industry has effected during the prolonged period of readjustment since Suez. The nation's petroleum refiners last week were operating at an estimated 77 per cent of capacity, compared to 91 per cent a year earlier.

Corn Futures Prices Higher

CHICAGO (AP) — Nearly all the news affecting corn futures had a distinctly bullish flavor this week and prices on the Board of Trade pushed ahead for the second successive week.

At the end of the week, wheat was 1⅝-2½ cents a bushel higher than the close of the previous week, corn ½-4¾ cents higher, oats ½ lower to ⅝ higher, rye ¼-1⅝ higher, soybeans 3½-5¼ higher, and lard unchanged to 13 cents a hundred pounds higher.

TREATY BIRTHDAY

RHEINDAHLEN, Germany (PU)—Troops from five NATO nations—Belgium, Canada, Germany, Holland and Britain—paraded here Friday to mark the ninth anniversary of signing the Atlantic Treaty.

LOSSES SMALL

Cotton Futures Prices Go Down

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures prices continued their downward drift this week. Losses were small.

Crop, weather and acreage considerations had a steady effect on the market. Traders noted that planting has been delayed by wet weather in some sections of the belt, and that any replanting would probably result in a smaller yield. Supplies of high-germinating seed are reportedly limited.

Of considerable interest was the latest official report on withdrawals of 1957 crop loan cotton. During the week ended April 4, withdrawals exceeded entries for the first time.

According to the Commodity Credit Corp. withdrawals amounted to 25,460 bales and entries to 24,410. This compared with withdrawals of 11,076 bales and entries of 31,000 bales in the week before.

Allowing for 63,938 bales rejected, net entries for the season through April 4 totaled 3,527,160 bales of which 390,916 have been repossessed, leaving a net stock under the loan of 3,136,244.

Exports for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 104,000 bales, against 110,000 the previous week and 108,000 in the like week of 1957.

For the season through April 8 exports are estimated at 4,128,000 bales against 5,510,000 at approximately the same time last year.

Two Key Factors Decline

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government reported Friday that personal income and retail sales—two key economic barometers—continued to decline in March, but at a slower rate than earlier in the year.

Government economists promptly cited the statistics along with the unemployment and employment figures released earlier this week as providing fresh evidence that the general business slump, although continuing, had started to level off.

The Commerce Department said personal income last month ran at an annual rate of $341,500,000,000, about 300 million dollars below the February rate.

The decline was due to a drop of $1,100,000,000 in salaries and wages to an annual rate of $233,500,000,000. In February, the salary-wage total slumped $2,600,000,000

The March drop in salary and wage payments was offset partly by rises in other types of income.

The department estimated retail sales last month at $15,400,000,000, a drop of 1 per cent below February and of 2 per cent below March, 1957. The department called the March decline moderate.

Other economic developments:

—The White House announced that President Eisenhower would not act until next week on the multi-billion dollar anti-recession highway and public works bills. It said the President had not received complete reports from the government departments involved.

—Former President Truman took issue with the President on the means of combatting the recession. Asked upon his arrival here for congressional hearings next week if he believed consumers could "buy their way out of the recession," as Eisenhower suggested, Truman replied "no, they've got to work to get out of it."

—In Chapel Hill, N.C., Federal Budget Director Maurice H. Stans said the country could be wrecked "by financial irresponsibility just as much as by military carelessness." He called for government economy and a go-slow approach to tax cuts.

—A spokesman for the Democratic Advisory Council's committee on economic policy said at least some of its 22 members were certain to come out in favor of a tax cut.

—The national Grange called for an immediate anti-recession tax cut. The farm organization also expressed opposition to the administration's "wait and see" policy on shoring up the economy.

The Commerce Department attributed the decline in salaries and wages last month primarily to cutbacks in manufacturing, particularly in durable goods industries.

This decline was offset partly by an increase in farm income and higher government payments of such items as unemployment compensation benefits. Since January, the annual wage-salary rate has declined $3,400,000,000.

The department blamed the decline in retail sales primarily on a further drop in sales of automobiles.

Darbar Planned

A Darbar is planned by members of Swami Santha No. 102, Nomads of Avrudaka, for Friday at 8 p.m. at Castle. Rani Bessie Haile asks officers and Nomads to attend and wear their Fez Refreshments will be served.

Movie theaters in Great Britain decreased by 226 to a total of 4,171 during 1957.

Grambling Grads Conduct Meeting

GRAMBLING (Special) — Problems of modern education and living call for quality in teaching and in human relations, Dr. T. W. Cole, dean of instruction at Wiley College, Marshall, Tex., told a group of Grambling College Alumni in a meeting at Grambling yesterday.

Twelve parishes were represented at the opening session, which was also addressed by Dr. R. W. E. Jones, president of Grambling.

Afternoon sessions of the annual alumni confab were devoted to a business meeting and election of officers.

Dr. William McIntosh, chairman of the social science department at Grambling, explained the forthcoming eastern education tour to the group. The tour, sponsored by the social science department, will include visits to 50 major United States cities, plus a 2-day visit in Canada.

'WILDCAT' STRIKE

EAST CHICAGO, Ind. (UP) — One thousand employes of the General American Transportation Co. walked out in a "wildcat" strike Friday and ignored union orders to go back.

The walkout stemmed from the suspension of a worker on charges that he was behind a work slowdown. Officials of the United Steelworkers Union told the men to end the strike, but without success. The company manufactures railroad freight car bodies and molded plastics.

LOSSES SMALL

Cotton Futures Prices Go Down

Crop, weather and acreage considerations had a steady effect on the market. Traders noted that planting has been delayed by wet weather in some sections of the belt, and that any replanting would probably result in a smaller yield. Supplies of high-germinating seed are reportedly limited.

Of considerable interest was the latest official report on withdrawals of 1957 crop loan cotton. During the week ended April 4, withdrawals exceeded entries for the first time.

According to the Commodity Credit Corp. withdrawals amounted to 25,460 bales and entries to 24,410. This compared with withdrawals of 11,076 bales and entries of 31,000 bales in the week before.

Allowing for 63,938 bales rejected, net entries for the season through April 4 totaled 3,527,160 bales of which 390,916 have been repossessed, leaving a net stock under the loan of 3,136,244.

Exports for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 104,000 bales, against 110,000 the previous week and 108,000 in the like week of 1957.

For the season through April 8 exports are estimated at 4,128,000 bales against 5,510,000 at approximately the same time last year.

Production Of Domestic Crude Oil Drops Low

HOUSTON (AP) — Domestic crude oil production has dropped to its lowest point in 41 months.

Production is 20 per cent below the record level attained in March 1957 during the Suez Canal crisis that disrupted the flow of Middle East oil to Western Europe.

Since that all-time high, domestic production has been slashed 1,568,256 barrels a day. Producer income has been slashed by over four million dollars a day.

United States output last week averaged 6,250,135 barrels a day, compared to a record 7,818,400 the week ending March 22, 1957, and 6,981,150 the week bombs fell on the canal in late 1956.

The 6,250,135 barrels a day level is the lowest since the week ending Nov. 5, 1954, when the average was 6,191,350.

Production slashes in Texas have been sharper than the national average. In March of last year Texas was producing 3,333,000 barrels of crude a day or 42 per cent of the nation's output. Last week's Texas average was 2,254,500 barrels or 36 per cent of domestic production.

Against the national average of 20 per cent, Texas has cut its crude flow by 32 per cent or 1,078,500 barrels a day within 13 months. The loss to Texas producers amounts to nearly three million dollars a day.

Another drop in Texas output can be expected in the American Petroleum Institute's report on production this week. Last week's average included only the first four days of April, during which the state is operating under an eight-day allowable, the lowest in the history of oil and gas conservation statutes in Texas.

The sharp drop in crude production does not reflect all the cutbacks the oil industry has effected during the prolonged period of readjustment since Suez. The nation's petroleum refiners last week were operating at an estimated 77 per cent of capacity, compared to 91 per cent a year earlier.

Corn Futures Prices Higher

CHICAGO (AP) — Nearly all the news affecting corn futures had a distinctly bullish flavor this week and prices on the Board of Trade pushed ahead for the second successive week.

At the end of the week, wheat was 1⅝-2½ cents a bushel higher than the close of the previous week, corn ½-4¾ cents higher, oats ½ lower to ⅝ higher, rye ¼-1⅝ higher, soybeans 3½-5¼ higher, and lard unchanged to 13 cents a hundred pounds higher.

TREATY BIRTHDAY

RHEINDAHLEN, Germany (PU)—Troops from five NATO nations—Belgium, Canada, Germany, Holland and Britain—paraded here Friday to mark the ninth anniversary of signing the Atlantic Treaty.

Two Key Factors Decline

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government reported Friday that personal income and retail sales—two key economic barometers—continued to decline in March, but at a slower rate than earlier in the year.

Government economists promptly cited the statistics along with the unemployment and employment figures released earlier this week as providing fresh evidence that the general business slump, although continuing, had started to level off.

The Commerce Department said personal income last month ran at an annual rate of $341,500,000,000, about 300 million dollars below the February rate.

The decline was due to a drop of $1,100,000,000 in salaries and wages to an annual rate of $233,500,000,000. In February, the salary-wage total slumped $2,600,000,000

The March drop in salary and wage payments was offset partly by rises in other types of income.

The department estimated retail sales last month at $15,400,000,000, a drop of 1 per cent below February and of 2 per cent below March, 1957. The department called the March decline moderate.

Other economic developments:

—The White House announced that President Eisenhower would not act until next week on the multi-billion dollar anti-recession highway and public works bills. It said the President had not received complete reports from the government departments involved.

—Former President Truman took issue with the President on the means of combatting the recession. Asked upon his arrival here for congressional hearings next week if he believed consumers could "buy their way out of the recession," as Eisenhower suggested, Truman replied "no, they've got to work to get out of it."

—In Chapel Hill, N.C., Federal Budget Director Maurice H. Stans said the country could be wrecked "by financial irresponsibility just as much as by military carelessness." He called for government economy and a go-slow approach to tax cuts.

—A spokesman for the Democratic Advisory Council's committee on economic policy said at least some of its 22 members were certain to come out in favor of a tax cut.

—The national Grange called for an immediate anti-recession tax cut. The farm organization also expressed opposition to the administration's "wait and see" policy on shoring up the economy.

The Commerce Department attributed the decline in salaries and wages last month primarily to cutbacks in manufacturing, particularly in durable goods industries.

This decline was offset partly by an increase in farm income and higher government payments of such items as unemployment compensation benefits. Since January, the annual wage-salary rate has declined $3,400,000,000.

The department blamed the decline in retail sales primarily on a further drop in sales of automobiles.

Darbar Planned

A Darbar is planned by members of Swami Santha No. 102, Nomads of Avrudaka, for Friday at 8 p.m. at Castle. Rani Bessie Haile asks officers and Nomads to attend and wear their Fez. Refreshments will be served.

Movie theaters in Great Britain decreased by 226 to a total of 4,171 during 1957.

Grambling Grads Conduct Meeting

GRAMBLING (Special) — Problems of modern education and living call for quality in teaching and in human relations, Dr. T. W. Cole, dean of instruction at Wiley College, Marshall, Tex., told a group of Grambling College Alumni in a meeting at Grambling yesterday.

Twelve parishes were represented at the opening session, which was also addressed by Dr. R. W. E. Jones, president of Grambling.

Afternoon sessions of the annual alumni confab were devoted to a business meeting and election of officers.

Dr. William McIntosh, chairman of the social science department at Grambling, explained the forthcoming eastern education tour to the group. The tour, sponsored by the social science department, will include visits to 50 major United States cities, plus a 2-day visit in Canada.

'WILDCAT' STRIKE

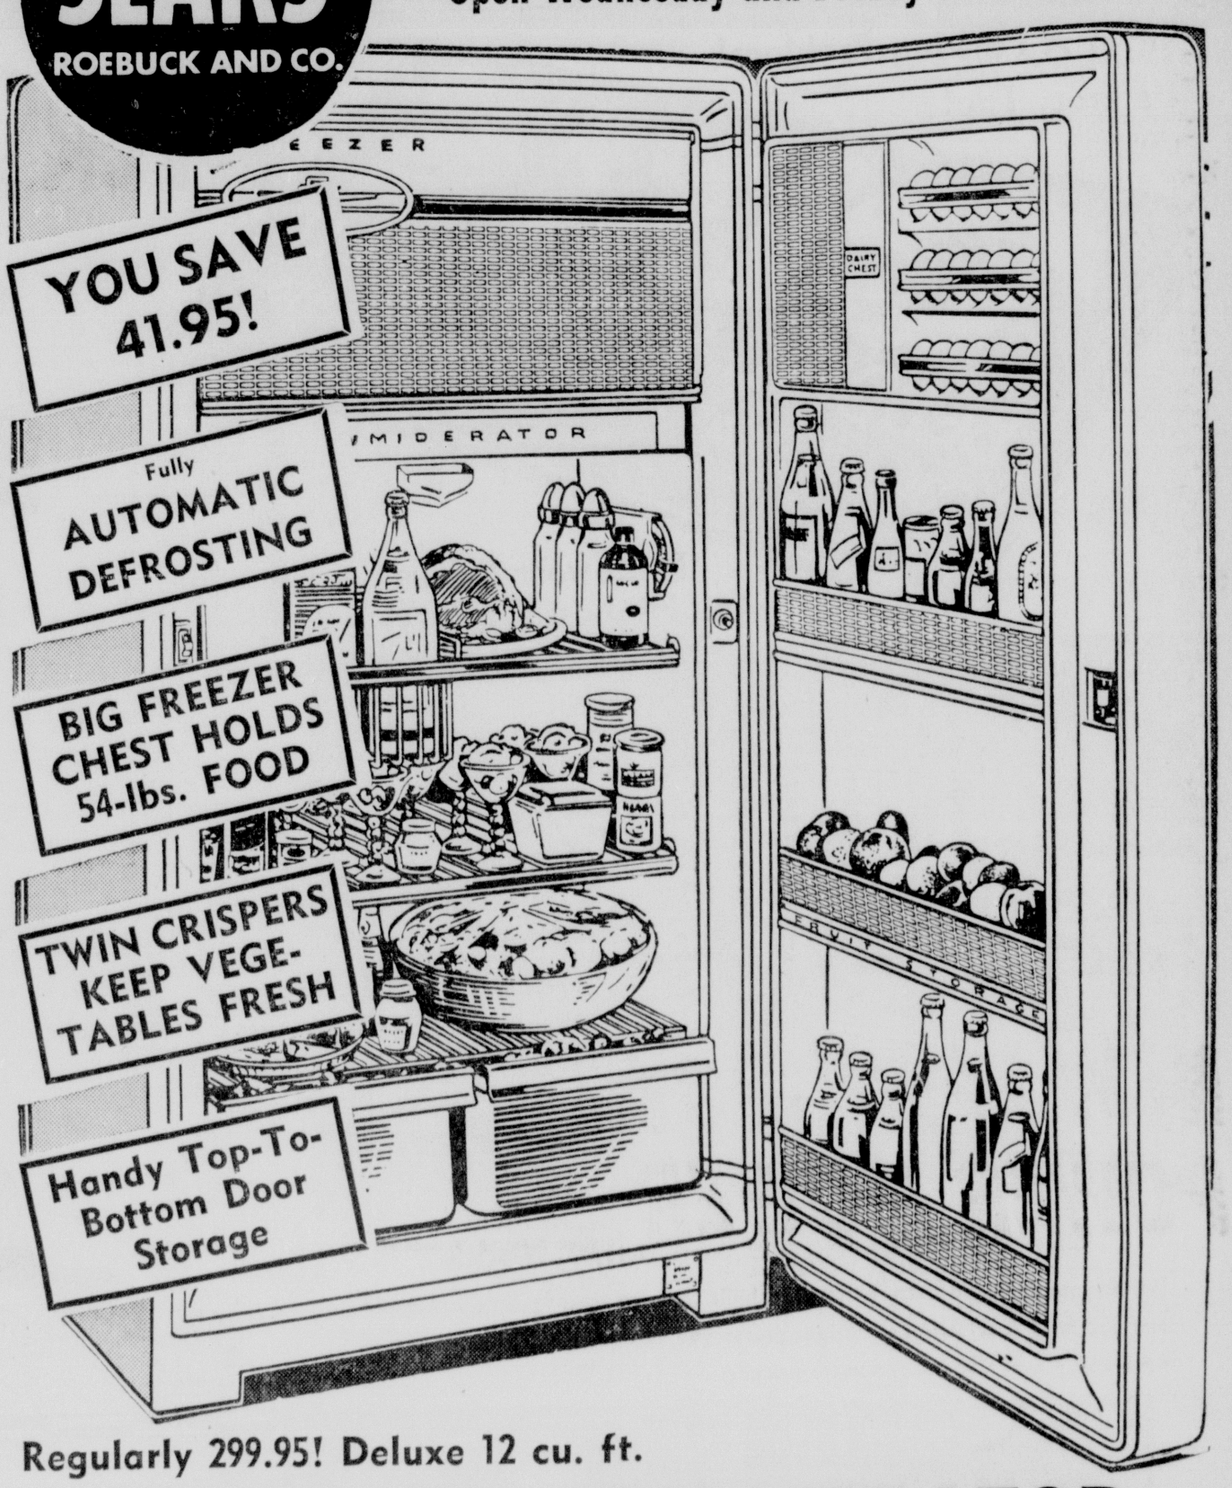

EAST CHICAGO, Ind. (UP) — One thousand employes of the General American Transportation Co. walked out in a "wildcat" strike Friday and ignored union orders to go back.

The walkout stemmed from the suspension of a worker on charges that he was behind a work slowdown. Officials of the United Steelworkers Union told the men to end the strike, but without success. The company manufactures railroad freight car bodies and molded plastics.

These officers will take office during the Month of May and serve until May of 1959.

Taks Begun By Britian On Summit

LONDON (UP) — Britain announced Saturday it has begun "urgent diplomatic discussions" with its Western allies in an apparent move to head off a threatened rift with the United States over summit talks with the Soviet Union.

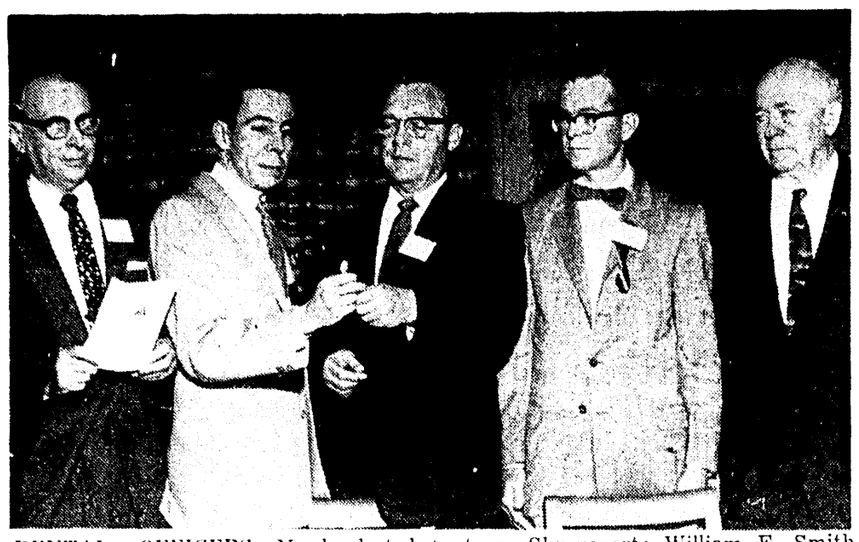

The British Foreign Office disclosed that the urgent consultations were already under way with the United States, France and other NATO members on the new Soviet proposal for East-West diplomatic talks in Moscow next Thursday.

Russia had suggested in the note Friday that the Moscow diplomatic negotiations, designed to get the ball rolling on summit talk preparations, should be followed by a foreign ministers' conference in May.

The Russians, however, were seeking to commit the West in advance to holding summit talks, regardless of the outcome of a foreign ministers' conference.

The first American reaction was that of sharp rejection. U. S. officials said Washington plans to maintain its position that any summit conference must be prepared carefully to ensure chances of success.

LA. DENTAL GROUP

New Orleans Man Elected President

Dr. Victor Marquer of New Orleans was elected president of the Louisiana Dental Association yesterday as delegates to the 78th annual convention of the group held their final session.

Other officers chosen were Dr. Stanley Levy, Lake Charles, president - elect; Dr. William W. Smith, Monroe, first vice president; Dr. John Hardin, Shreveport, second vice president; Dr. J. S. Bernhard, Shreveport, secretary, and Dr. C. F. Bartels, New Orleans, treasurer.

The association closed its 4-day convention yesterday with a series of table discussions, a general session and a noon meeting of the board of directors.

Elect Officers

The Louisiana Dental Assistants, meeting in conjunction with the dentists' group also elected officers for next year. Mrs. Frances Fox of Shreveport, was installed as president, and Mrs. Lottie Fisher, Monroe, was named president elect. The new secretary-treasurer will be Evelyn Smith of Shreveport.

In other activities, the dental assistants chose Mrs. Ethel Baxter of Shreveport to receive the past president's achievement award for outstanding work during the past year.

Many Speakers

Other speakers were Victor H. Dietz, editor of the American Association of Endodontics; Capt. George William Ferguson, Dental Corps, United States Navy, and Fredrick A. Hohlt, assistant professor of operative dentistry at Indiana University.

Says Slump Has Been 'Overplayed'

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Meade Alcorn, Republican national committee chairman, said Saturday the business recession is not as bad as it is made out to be.

Alcorn said the Democrats are "overplaying the recession issue —just as they have overplayed others."

He defended the Eisenhower administration as having gotten the people out of a war and restored prestige to the White House.

The Democrats, Alcorn said, "are always eager to remind the people of any little decline in the economy.

"They like to seize upon this, just as they seized upon the Sputnik issue," he said. "They like to regard it (the recession) as the most important thing in the Republican administration."

The Republican chairman told newsmen in an interview shortly before he addressed a luncheon sponsored by the Republican party of Louisiana that the GOP will make headway in the South in the next congressional elections.

La. Retired Teachers Set Area Meeting

The 5th district retired teachers group will be represented at the Louisiana Retired Teachers Association meeting, scheduled Thursday at Bolton High School in Alexandria.

The day's session is slated to open at 9:30 a.m., according to Miss Juanita Porter of Monroe, president of the area organization.

Election of officers for the coming year is on the business agenda, and each local unit has been urged to be prepared to nominate members for the various positions.

Agenda Told

Another pertinent matter to be discussed at the meeting will be addition of a retiree to the United Schools Committee, Miss Porter said. The growth of LRTA membership has increased the need of having a representative on this committee, she explained.

Discussion of the number of issues of LRTA's "Newsletter," official publication, also will be included in the business of Thursday's meeting.

In connection with the association's conference in Alexandria, the treasurer of the group, A. McFarland of Ruston, has requested all retired teachers to join the association. "Be active for your own good," he said.

All retirees, whether members of the state organization or not are asked by McFarland to attend this week's session.

Negro Youth Meets Death By Drowning

Peter Sumlin Jr. reportedly approached five other boys who were wading in an irrigation pool on the George Russell farm about 2:30 p.m. and said he was going to take a swim.

One of the boys said Sumlin swam out to the middle of the pool and went under the water. The boys who witnessed the accident — three white youths and two Negroes—ran to the Russell home, obtained a boat and with the aid of several adults, recovered the body in approximately 30 minutes.

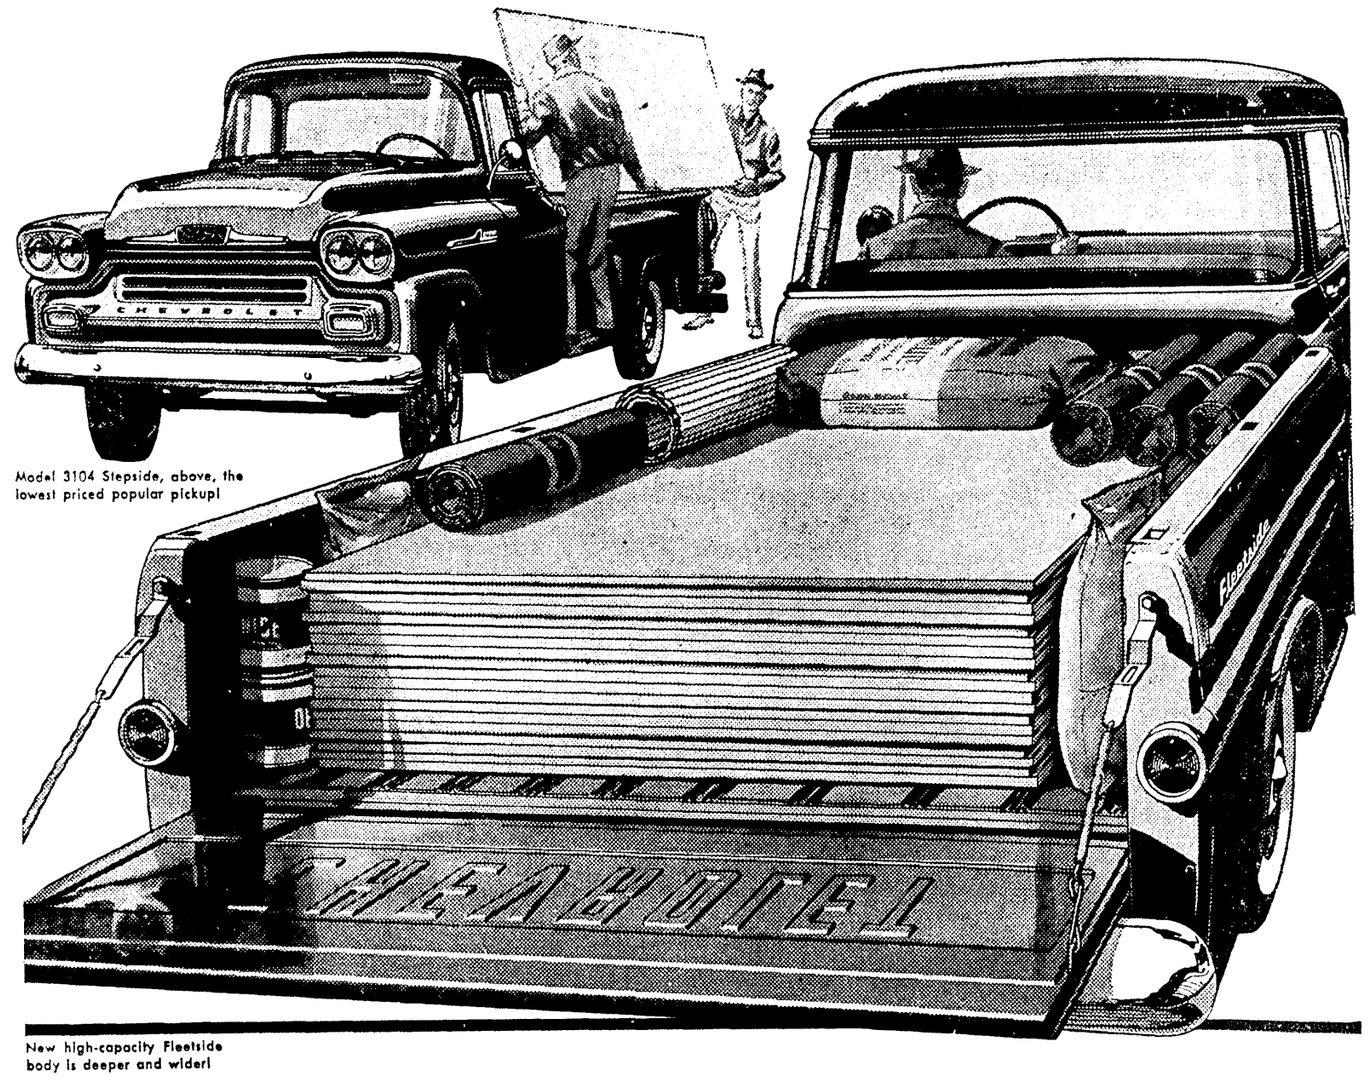

Pronounced Dead

Sumlin was given artificial respiration but was pronounced dead when Dr. Breshear Earle, Erankli Parish coroner, arrived. Earle said death was due to accidental drowning.

Sumlin was a member of a tenant farming family on the Russell place.

Assisting in the investigation were deputies Ellis Tarver and I. J. Wiggins.

Russell was plowing in a field near the irrigation pool at the time of the accident, but said he was unaware anything had happened until he noticed the boys running toward the house.

Dr. Victor Marguer of New Orleans was elected president of the Louisiana Dental Association yesterday as delegates to the 78th annual convention of the group held their final session.

The association closed its 4-day convention yesterday with a series of table discussions, a general session and a noon meeting of the board of directors.

Elect Officers

The Louisiana Dental Assistants, meeting in conjunction with the dentists' group also elected officers for next year. Mrs. Frances Fox of Shreveport, was installed as president, and Mrs. Lottie Fisher, Monroe, was named president elect. The new secretary-treasurer will be Evelyn Smith of Shreveport.

In other activities, the dental assistants chose Mrs. Ethel Baxter of Shreveport to receive the past president's achievement award for outstanding work during the past year.

Many Speakers

Other speakers were Victor H. Dietz, editor of the American Association of Endodontics; Capt. George William Ferguson, Dental Corps, United States Navy, and Fredrick A. Hohlt, assistant professor of operative dentistry at Indiana University.

Says Slump Has Been 'Overplayed'

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Meade Alcorn, Republican national committee chairman, said Saturday the business recession is not as bad as it is made out to be.

Alcorn said the Democrats are "overplaying the recession issue —just as they have overplayed others."

He defended the Eisenhower administration as having gotten the people out of a war and restored prestige to the White House.

The Democrats, Alcorn said, "are always eager to remind the people of any little decline in the economy.

"They like to seize upon this, just as they seized upon the Sputnik issue," he said. "They like to regard it (the recession) as the most important thing in the Republican administration."

The Republican chairman told newsmen in an interview shortly before he addressed a luncheon sponsored by the Republican party of Louisiana that the GOP will make headqay in the South in the next congressional elections.

La. Retired Teachers Set Area Meeting

The 5th district retired teachers group will be represented at the Louisiana Retired Teachers Association meeting, scheduled Thursday at Bolton High School in Alexandria.

The day's session is slated to open at 9:30 a.m., according to Miss Juanita Porter of Monroe, president of the area organization.

Election of officers for the coming year is on the business agenda, and each local unit has been urged to be prepared to nominate members for the various positions.

Agenda Told

Another pertinent matter to be discussed at the meeting will be addition of a retiree to the United Schools Committee, Miss Porter said. The growth of LRTA membership has increased the need of having a representative on this committee, she explained.

Discussion of the number of issues of LRTA's "Newsletter," official publication, also will be included in the business of Thursday's meeting.

In connection with the association's conference in Alexandria, the treasurer of the group, A. McFarland of Ruston, has requested all retired teachers to join the association. "Be active for your own good," he said.

All retirees, whether members of the state organization or not are asked by McFarland to attend this week's session.

Negro Youth Meets Death By Drowning

Peter Sumlin Jr. reportedly approached five other boys who were wading in an irrigation pool on the George Russell farm about 2:30 p.m. and said he was going to take a swim.

One of the boys said Sumlin swam out to the middle of the pool and went under the water. The boys who witnessed the accident — three white youths and two Negroes—ran to the Russell home, obtained a boat and with the aid of several adults, recovered the body in approximately 30 minutes.

Pronounced Dead

Sumlin was given artificial respiration but was pronounced dead when Dr. Breshear Earle, Frankli Parish coroner, arrived. Earle said death was due to accidental drowning.

Sumlin was a member of a tenant farming family on the Russell place.

Assisting in the investigation were deputies Ellis Tarver and I. J. Wiggins.

Russell was plowing in a field near the irrigation pool at the time of the accident, but said he was unaware anything had happened until he noticed the boys running toward the house.

Welcome Signs Of Springtime Pickup Cited

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP) — Amidst the welter of gloomy statistics on production and employment last week came welcome signs of a spring pickup in a few key lines.

Some examples:

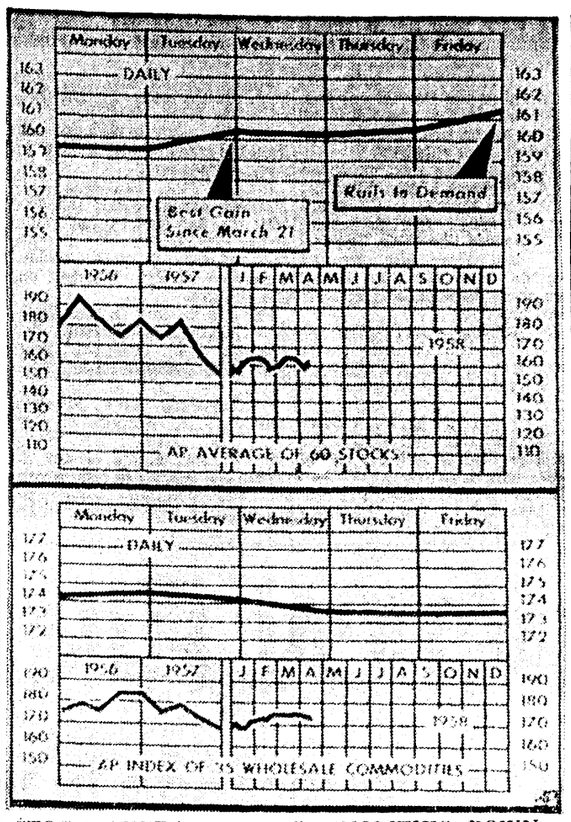

A ripple of activity in home building was presaged by a Washington report showing a sharp increase in the number of applications for FHA mortgage loans.

Edwin H. Mosler Jr., president of Mosler Safe Co., announced a five per cent rise in sales of safes and bank vaults. Said Mosler: "A great many signs exist that the recession may be slowing down, and indeed it may be just about over."

Purchasing Magazine said 66 per cent of the purchasing agents responding to a recent poll reported inventories of their companies in line with production schedules. This indicates, the magazine said, that "the inventory recession is at an end."

Dodge division of Chrysler Corp. said it is selling three times as many cars equipped with air conditioning as it did this time last year. International Swimming Pool Corp. reported sales of backyard pools up 150 per cent from 1957. Rambler division of American Motors Corp. announced plans for a 10 per cent increase in production next week.

STOCK AVERAGE UP, COMMODITIES DOWN—For the first time in three weeks The Associated Press average of 60 stocks moved higher, closing at 161.3 from 159.5 a week ago. Led by food, the Commodity Index declined for the fourth week in a row, closing at 173.6 from 174.2 a week ago. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

REBOUND FROM LOW

Stock Market Average Higher

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market stemmed a series of declines this week and moved ahead on average.

The rebound came from a level just above the 1958 low. It was made in the face of generally unfavorable first quarter earnings reports.

The business and economic back ground remained unfavorable. Analysts regarded the recovery as mainly technical.

A string of nine days of general decline stretched into the first trading day of the week. The string broke Tuesday when stocks advanced on a broad front. The rise was moderate. It continued for about half of Tuesday. Then profit-taking took over and the closing pattern that day was mixed.

The rail group came to the rescue Thursday to give a dull and mixed market a higher tone. The carriers paused for breath early Friday, then steamed ahead again. Other stocks joined in but it was far from unanimous.

The Associated Press average advanced $1.80 to $161.30.

The five most active issues this week were American Motors up 5/8 at 9 1/8, Lorillard off 2 1/2 at 52 1/4 Artloom up 2 3/8 at 7 1/8, Boeing up 2 1/8 at 39 7/8 and U. S. Steel off 3/4 at 56 1/8.

U.S. government bonds edged upward for the fifth straight week and signs of ease in the money market.

Corporate bonds moved a little higher.

Production Of Domestic Crude Oil Drops Low

HOUSTON (AP) — Domestic crude oil production has dropped to its lowest point in 41 months.

Production is 20 per cent below the record level attained in March 1957 during the Suez Canal crisis that disrupted the flow of Middle East oil to Western Europe.

Since that all-time high, domestic production has been slashed 1,568,256 barrels a day. Producer income has been slashed by over four million dollars a day.

United States output last week averaged 6,250,135 barrels a day, compared to a record 7,818,400 the week ending March 22, 1957, and 6,981,150 the week bombs fell on the canal in late 1956.

The 6,250,135 barrels a day level is the lowest since the week ending Nov. 5, 1954, when the average was 6,191,350.

Production slashes in Texas have been sharper than the national average. In March of last year Texas was producing 3,333,000 barrels of crude a day or 42 per cent of the nation's output. Last week's Texas average was 2,254,500 barrels or 36 per cent of domestic production.

Against the national average of 20 per cent, Texas has cut its crude flow by 32 per cent or 1,078,500 barrels a day within 13 months. The loss to Texas producers amounts to nearly three million dollars a day.

Another drop in Texas output can be expected in the American Petroleum Institute's report on production this week. Last week's average included only the first four days of April, during which the state is operating under an eight-day allowable, the lowest in the history of oil and gas conservation statutes in Texas.

The sharp drop in crude production does not reflect all the cutbacks the oil industry has effected during the prolonged period of readjustment since Suez. The nation's petroleum refiners last week were operating at an estimated 77 per cent of capacity, compared to 91 per cent a year earlier.

Corn Futures Prices Higher

CHICAGO (AP) — Nearly all the news affecting corn futures had a distinctly bullish flavor this week and prices on the Board of Trade pushed ahead for the second successive week.

At the end of the week, wheat was 1 5/8-2 1/2 cents a bushel higher than the close of the previous week, corn 1/2-4 3/4 cents higher, oats 1/2 lower to 5/8 higher, rye 1/4-1 5/8 higher, soybeans 3 1/2-5 1/4 higher, and lard unchanged to 13 cents a hundred pounds higher.

LOSSES SMALLL

Cotton Futures Prices Go Down

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures prices continued their downward drift this week. Losses were small.

Crop, weather and acreage considerations had a steady effect on the market. Traders noted that planting has been delayed by wet weather in some sections of the belt, and that any replanting would probably result in a smaller yield. Supplies of high-germinating seed are reportedly limited.

Of considerable interest was the latest official report on withdrawals of 1957 crop loan cotton. During the week ended April 4, withdrawals exceeded entries for the first time.

According to the Commodity Credit Corp. withdrawals amounted to 25,460 bales and entries to 24,410. This compared with withdrawals of 11,076 bales and entries of 31,000 bales in the week before.

Allowing for 63,938 bales rejected, net entries for the season through April 4 totaled 3,527,160 bales of which 390,916 have been repossessed, leaving a net stock under the loan of 3,136,244.

Exports for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 104,000 bales, against 110,000 the previous week and 108,000 in the like week of 1957.

For the season through April 8 exports are estimated at 4,123,000 bales against 5,510,000 at approximately the same time last year.

Two Key Factors Decline

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government reported Friday that personal income and retail sales—two key economic barometers—continued to decline in March, but at a slower rate than earlier in the year.

Government economists promptly cited the statistics along with the unemployment and employment figures released earlier this week as providing fresh evidence that the general business slump, although continuing, had started to level off.

The Commerce Department said personal income last month ran at an annual rate of $341,500,000,000, about 300 million dollars below the February rate.

The decline was due to a drop of $1,100,000,000 in salaries and wages to an annual rate of $233,500,000,000. In February, the salary-wage total slumped $2,600,000,000

The March drop in salary and wage payments was offset partly by rises in other types of income.

The department estimated retail sales last month at $15,400,000,000, a drop of 1 per cent below February and of 2 per cent below March, 1957. The department called the March decline moderate.

Other economic developments:

—The White House announced that President Eisenhower would not act until next week on the multi-billion dollar anti-recession highway and public works bills. It said the President had not received complete reports from the government departments involved.

—Former President Truman took issue with the President on the means of combatting the recession. Asked upon his arrival here for congressional hearings next week if he believed consumers could "buy their way out of the recession," as Eisenhower suggested, Truman replied "no, they've got to work to get out of it."

—In Chapel Hill, N.C., Federal Budget Director Maurice H. Stans said the country could be wrecked "by financial irresponsibility just as much as by military carelessness." He called for government economy and a go-slow approach to tax cuts.

—A spokesman for the Democratic Advisory Council's committee on economic policy said at least some of its 22 members were certain to come out in favor of a tax cut.

—The national Grange called for an immediate anti-recession tax cut. The farm organization also expressed opposition to the administration's "wait and see" policy on shoring up the economy.

The Commerce Department attributed the decline in salaries and wages last month primarily to cutbacks in manufacturing, particularly in durable goods industries.

This decline was offset partly by an increase in farm income and higher government payments of such items as unemployment compensation benefits. Since January, the annual wage-salary rate has declined $3,400,000,000.

The department blamed the decline in retail sales primarily on a further drop in sales of automobiles.

Darbar Planned

A Darbar is planned by members of Swami Santha No. 102, Nomads of Avrudaka, for Friday at 8 p.m. at Castle. Rani Bessie Haile asks officers and Nomads to attend and wear their Fez Refreshments will be served.

Movie theaters in Great Britain decreased by 226 to a total of 4,171 during 1957.

Grambling Grads Conduct Meeting

GRAMBLING (Special) — Problems of modern education and living call for quality in teaching and in human relations, Dr. T. W. Cole, dean of instruction at Wiley College, Marshall, Tex., told a group of Grambling College Alumni in a meeting at Grambling yesterday.

Twelve parishes were represented at the opening session, which was also addressed by Dr. R. W. E. Jones, president of Grambling.

Afternoon sessions of the annual alumni confab were devoted to a business meeting and election of officers.

Dr. William McIntosh, chairman of the social science department at Grambling, explained the forthcoming eastern education tour to the group. The tour, sponsored by the social science department, will include visits to 50 major United States cities, plus a 2-day visit in Canada.

'WILDCAT' STRIKE

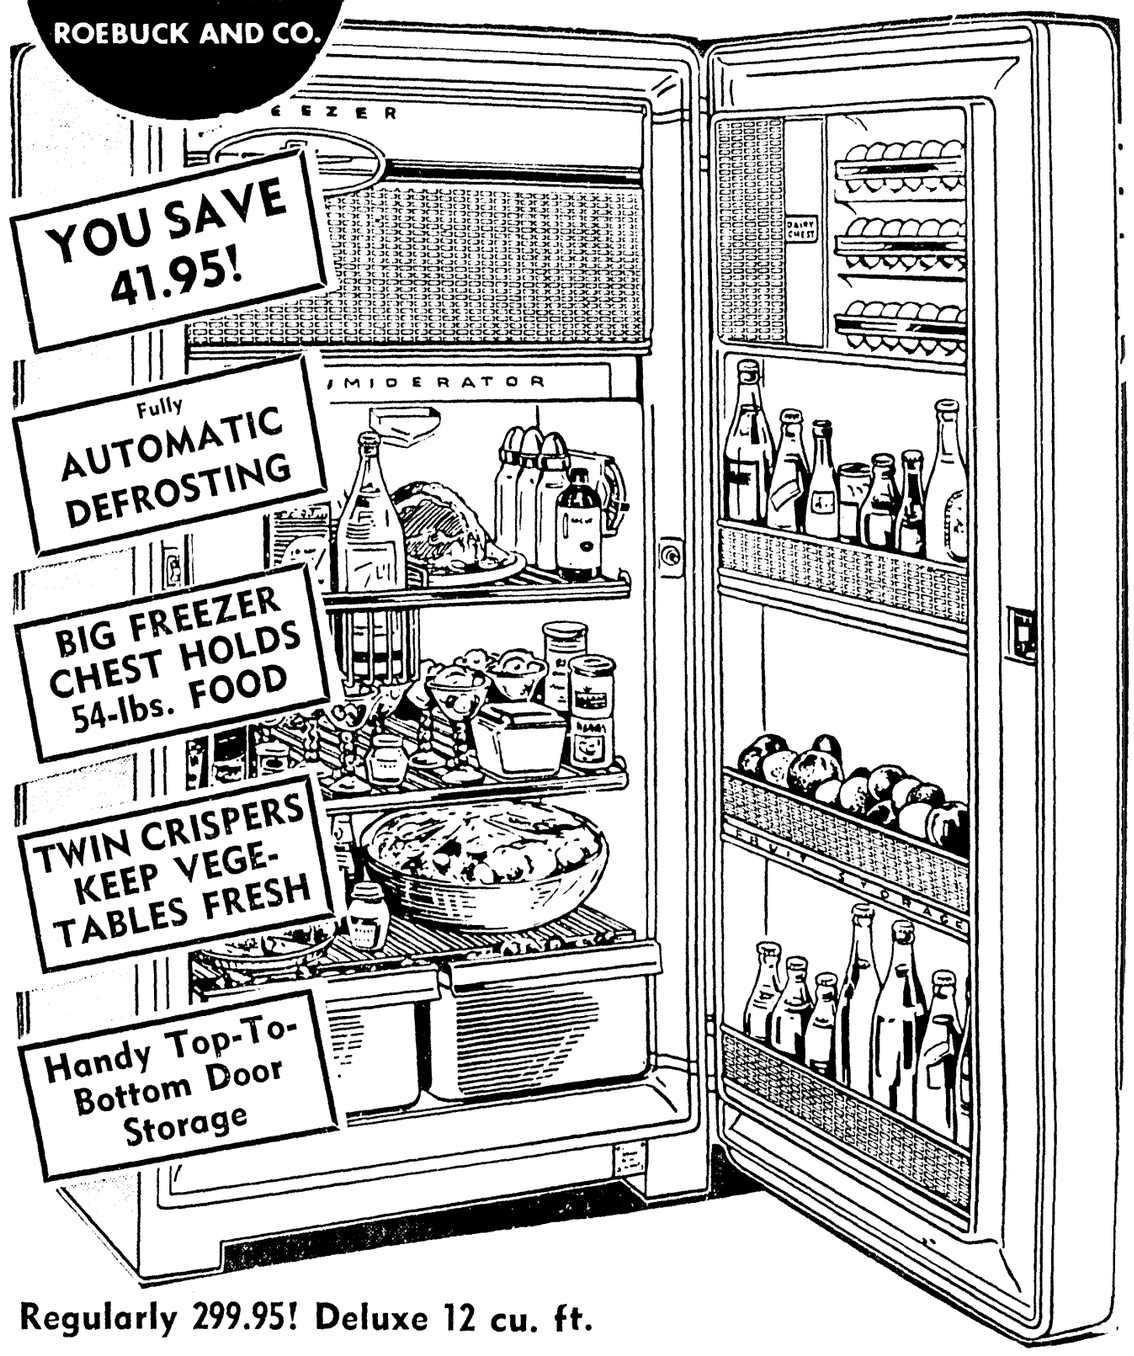

EAST CHICAGO, Ind. (UP) — One thousand employes of the General American Transportation Co. walked out in a "wildcat" strike Friday and ignored union orders to go back.

The walkout stemmed from the suspension of a worker on charges that he was behind a work slowdown. Officials of the United Steelworkers Union told the men to end the strike, but without success. The company manufactures railroad freight car bodies and molded plastics.

Welcome Signs Of Springtime Pickup Cited

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP) — Amidst the welter of gloomy statistics on production and employment last week came welcome signs of a spring pickup in a few key lines.

Some examples:

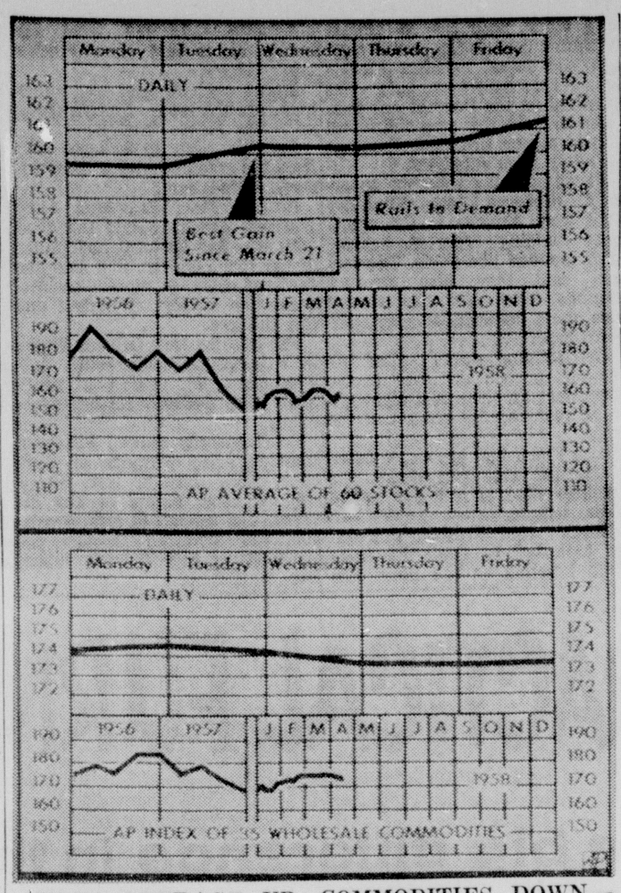

A ripple of activity in home building was presaged by a Washington report showing a sharp increase in the number of applications for FHA mortgage loans.

Edwin H. Mosler Jr., president of Mosler Safe Co., announced a five per cent rise in sales of safes and bank vaults. Said Mosler: "A great many signs exist that the recession may be slowing down, and indeed it may be just about over."

Purchasing Magazine said 66 per cent of the purchasing agents responding to a recent poll reported inventories of their companies in line with production schedules. This indicates, the magazine said, that "the inventory recession is at an end."

Dodge division of Chrysler Corp. said it is selling three times as many cars equipped with air conditioning as it did this time last year. International Swimming Pool Corp. reported sales of backyard pools up 150 per cent from 1957. Rambler division of American Motors Corp. announced plans for a 10 per cent increase in production next week.

STOCK AVERAGE UP, COMMODITIES DOWN—For the first time in three weeks The Associated Press average of 60 stocks moved higher, closing at 161.3 from 159.5 a week ago. Led by food, the Commodity Index declined for the fourth week in a row, closing at 173.6 from 174.2 a week ago. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

REBOUND FROM LOW

Stock Market Average Higher

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market stemmed a series of declines this week and moved ahead on average.

The rebound came from a level just above the 1958 low. It was made in the face of generally unfavorable first quarter earnings reports.

The business and economic back ground remained unfavorable. Analysts regarded the recovery as mainly technical.

A string of nine days of general decline stretched into the first trading day of the week. The string broke Tuesday when stocks advanced on a broad front. The rise was moderate. It continued for about half of Tuesday. Then profit-taking took over and the closing pattern that day was mixed.

The rail group came to the rescue Thursday to give a dull and mixed market a higher tone. The carriers paused for breath early Friday, then steamed ahead again. Other stocks joined in but it was far from unanimous.

The Associated Press average advanced $1.80 to $161.30.

The five most active issues this week were American Motors up 5/8 at 9 1/8, Lorillard off 2 1/2 at 52 1/4 Artloom up 2 3/8 at 7 1/8, Boeing up 2 1/8 at 39 7/8 and U. S. Steel off 3/4 at 56 1/8.

U.S. government bonds edged upward for the fifth straight week and signs of ease in the money market.

Corporate bonds moved a little higher.

LOSSES SMALL

Cotton Futures Prices Go Down

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures prices continued their downward drift this week. Losses were small.

Crop, weather and acreage considerations had a steady effect on the market. Traders noted that planting has been delayed by wet weather in some sections of the belt, and that any replanting would probably result in a smaller yield. Supplies of high-germinating seed are reportedly limited.

Of considerable interest was the latest official report on withdrawals of 1957 crop loan cotton. During the week ended April 4, withdrawals exceeded entries for the first time.

According to the Commodity Credit Corp. withdrawals amounted to 25,460 bales and entries to 24,410. This compared with withdrawals of 11,076 bales and entries of 31,000 bales in the week before.

Allowing for 63,938 bales rejected, net entries for the season through April 4 totaled 3,527,160 bales of which 390,916 have been repossessed, leaving a net stock under the loan of 3,136,244.

Exports for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 104,000 bales, against 110,000 the previous week and 108,000 in the like week of 1957.

For the season through April 8 exports are estimated at 4,128,000 bales against 5,510,000 at approximately the same time last year.

Production Of Domestic Crude Oil Drops Low

HOUSTON (AP) — Domestic crude oil production has dropped to its lowest point in 41 months.

Production is 20 per cent below the record level attained in March 1957 during the Suez Canal crisis that disrupted the flow of Middle East oil to Western Europe.

Since that all-time high, domestic production has been slashed 1,568,256 barrels a day. Producer income has been slashed by over four million dollars a day.

United States output last week averaged 6,250,135 barrels a day, compared to a record 7,818,400 the week ending March 22, 1957, and 6,981,150 the week bombs fell on the canal in late 1956.

The 6,250,135 barrels a day level is the lowest since the week ending Nov. 5, 1954, when the average was 6,191,350.

Production slashes in Texas have been sharper than the national average. In March of last year Texas was producing 3,333,000 barrels of crude a day or 42 per cent of the nation's output. Last week's Texas average was 2,254,500 barrels or 36 per cent of domestic production.

Against the national average of 20 per cent, Texas has cut its crude flow by 32 per cent or 1,078,500 barrels a day within 13 months. The loss to Texas producers amounts to nearly three million dollars a day.

Another drop in Texas output can be expected in the American Petroleum Institute's report on production this week. Last week's average included only the first four days of April, during which the state is operating under an eight-day allowable, the lowest in the history of oil and gas conservation statutes in Texas.

The sharp drop in crude production does not reflect all the cutbacks the oil industry has effected during the prolonged period of readjustment since Suez. The nation's petroleum refiners last week were operating at an estimated 77 per cent of capacity, compared to 91 per cent a year earlier.

Corn Futures Prices Higher

CHICAGO (AP) — Nearly all the news affecting corn futures had a distinctly bullish flavor this week and prices on the Board of Trade pushed ahead for the second successive week.

At the end of the week, wheat was 1⅝-2½ cents a bushel higher than the close of the previous week, corn ½-4¾ cents higher, oats ½ lower to ⅝ higher, rye ¼-1⅝ higher, soybeans 3½-5¼ higher, and lard unchanged to 13 cents a hundred pounds higher.

TREATY BIRTHDAY

RHEINDAHLEN, Germany (PU)—Troops from five NATO nations—Belgium, Canada, Germany, Holland and Britain—paraded here Friday to mark the ninth anniversary of signing the Atlantic Treaty.

Two Key Factors Decline

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government reported Friday that personal income and retail sales—two key economic barometers—continued to decline in March, but at a slower rate than earlier in the year.

Government economists promptly cited the statistics along with the unemployment and employment figures released earlier this week as providing fresh evidence that the general business slump, although continuing, had started to level off.

The Commerce Department said personal income last month ran at an annual rate of $341,500,000,000, about 300 million dollars below the February rate.

The decline was due to a drop of $1,100,000,000 in salaries and wages to an annual rate of $233,500,000,000. In February, the salary-wage total slumped $2,600,000,000

The March drop in salary and wage payments was offset partly by rises in other types of income.

The department estimated retail sales last month at $15,400,000,000, a drop of 1 per cent below February and of 2 per cent below March, 1957. The department called the March decline moderate.

Other economic developments:

—The White House announced that President Eisenhower would not act until next week on the multi-billion dollar anti-recession highway and public works bills. It said the President had not received complete reports from the government departments involved.

—Former President Truman took issue with the President on the means of combatting the recession. Asked upon his arrival here for congressional hearings next week if he believed consumers could "buy their way out of the recession," as Eisenhower suggested, Truman replied "no, they've got to work to get out of it."

—In Chapel Hill, N.C., Federal Budget Director Maurice H. Stans said the country could be wrecked "by financial irresponsibility just as much as by military carelessness." He called for government economy and a go-slow approach to tax cuts.

—A spokesman for the Democratic Advisory Council's committee on economic policy said at least some of its 22 members were certain to come out in favor of a tax cut.

—The national Grange called for an immediate anti-recession tax cut. The farm organization also expressed opposition to the administration's "wait and see" policy on shoring up the economy.

The Commerce Department attributed the decline in salaries and wages last month primarily to cutbacks in manufacturing, particularly in durable goods industries.

This decline was offset partly by an increase in farm income and higher government payments of such items as unemployment compensation benefits. Since January, the annual wage-salary rate has declined $3,400,000,000.

The department blamed the decline in retail sales primarily on a further drop in sales of automobiles.

Darbar Planned

A Darbar is planned by members of Swami Santha No. 102, Nomads of Avrudaka, for Friday at 8 p.m. at Castle. Rani Bessie Haile asks officers and Nomads to attend and wear their Fez. Refreshments will be served.

Movie theaters in Great Britain decreased by 226 to a total of 4,171 during 1957.

Grambling Grads Conduct Meeting

GRAMBLING (Special) — Problems of modern education and living call for quality in teaching and in human relations, Dr. T. W. Cole, dean of instruction at Wiley College, Marshall, Tex., told a group of Grambling College Alumni in a meeting at Grambling yesterday.

Twelve parishes were represented at the opening session, which was also addressed by Dr. R. W. E. Jones, president of Grambling.

Afternoon sessions of the annual alumni confab were devoted to a business meeting and election of officers.

Dr. William McIntosh, chairman of the social science department at Grambling, explained the forthcoming eastern education tour to the group. The tour, sponsored by the social science department, will include visits to 50 major United States cities, plus a 2-day visit in Canada.

'WILDCAT' STRIKE

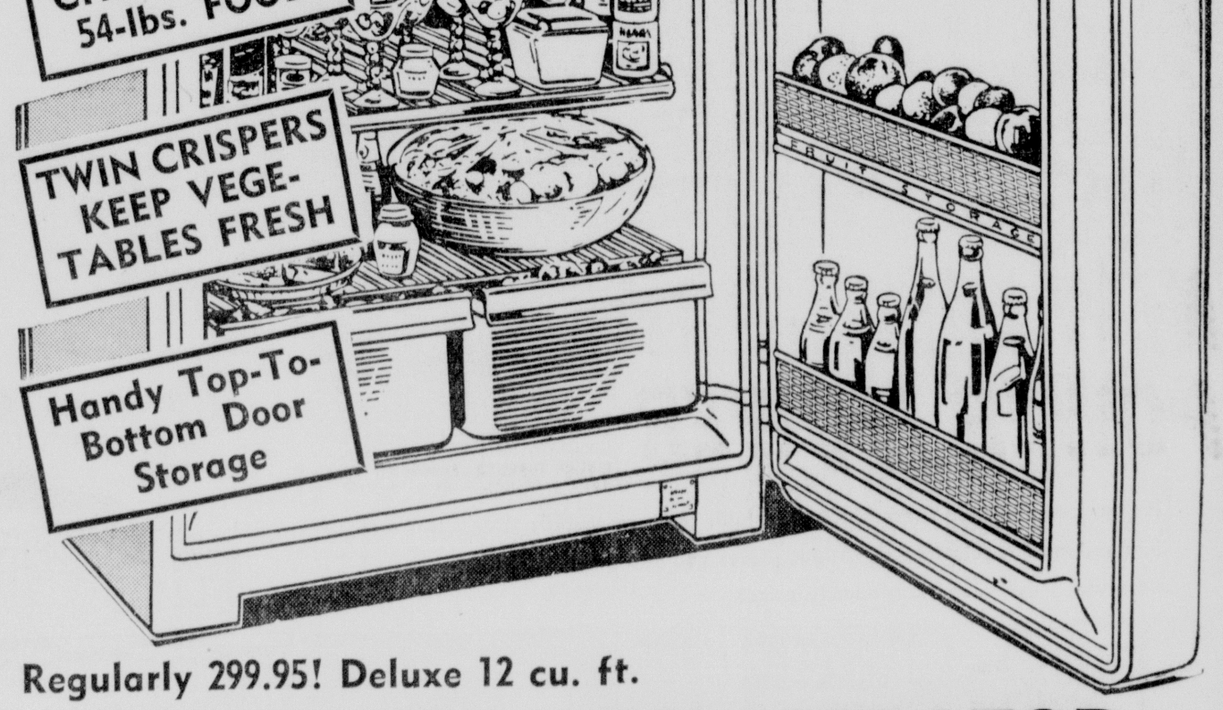

EAST CHICAGO, Ind. (UP) — One thousand employes of the General American Transportation Co. walked out in a "wildcat" strike Friday and ignored union orders to go back.

The walkout stemmed from the suspension of a worker on charges that he was behind a work slowdown. Officials of the United Steelworkers Union told the men to end the strike, but without success. The company manufactures railroad freight car bodies and molded plastics.

Controversial Bond Election Set Tuesday

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — A controversial $650,000 school bond election comes before the voters of East Carroll parish Tuesday.

Sponsored by the East Carroll School Board, two proposals will be up for a decision. One is for an additional tax of 2½ mills to retire the proposed bonds, and the second asks for a 3 mill maintenance tax to help support the parish schools.

In the Thursday edition of the Lake Providence newspaper, an advertisement appeared under the name of "East Carroll School Board," urging the people to vote against the bond election.

M. M. Walsworth, superintendent of East Carroll Parish schools yesterday said that the school board is still in favor of the election.

"A committee opposing the election placed that ad in the paper, and left the word 'parish' out of the words 'East Carroll School Board.' They didn't have any right to call themselves the school board, and we (the East Carroll Parish School Board) have consulted the District Attorney about it," revealed Walsworth.

Checking Matter

"District Attorney Thompson Clark of St. Joseph is checking on it now, to see what can be done about this. No one else has ever identified themselves falsely as the school board," Walsworth pointed out.

"The School Board is actually running an ad in today's paper (the Morning World) stating that we are still in favor of the bond issue. I hope that this ad will help to clear up some of the confusion which the opposition committee's ad caused," the school superintendent stated.

The East Carroll Parish School Board called for the election on February 26, after extensive study of the parish's school situation.

Overcrowded

Currently, many elementary grades are overcrowded, with more than 40 youngsters per teacher in a classroom. High schools are also crowded, including the home economics, and science departments.

If the bond issue is passed, a new elementary school will be constructed in Lake Providence, and the science and home economics departments and libraries in other schools will be enlarged, in addition to needed repairs on existing schools.

Discussing the proposed 3 mill maintenance tax, Walsworth said that East Carroll is the only parish in the state which does not have such a tax for upkeep of parish schools. He termed it necessary for proper school maintenance.

MURDER-SUICIDE

Two Found Dead At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A 36-year-old former plant manager who left his wife and four children in Lancaster, Pa., and became a maintenance man at Tulane University was found shot to death Friday night. Slumped in a chair nearby was the body of a 23-year-old woman with whom he had shared an apartment.

Police said the deaths of Thomas Freshour and Shirley Finch apparently were murder and suicide. Miss Finch, police said, had come to New Orleans about a year ago from Lancaster, where she once worked as a secretary in the container division of the Jones-Laughlin Steel Corp., managed by Freshour.

Sam Moran, special investigator for the Orleans Parish coroner's office, said the .45 caliber automatic used in the double slayings was found in Miss Finch's lap. Freshour's body was sprawled on the floor at her feet.

Moran said the possibility that a third person fired the shots has definitely been ruled out.

Moran said the shooting apparently occurred late Thursday night when tenants in the apartment building reported hearing what sounded like shots. The tenants said they also heard screams. They said they weren't sure about the shots so they waited to report it.

The building owner called police and opened the door to the apartment for them last night after he received the reports of the shots.

Miss Finch had been shot twice in the left side and chest, and Freshour died of a bullet wound in the temple.

Morgan said Freshour's trousers indicated he fired the shots while kneeling on the floor. The automatic then fell from the man's hands into Miss Finch's lap.

Moran said the gun was either held against Miss Finch's body or a few inches from it.

Paraffin tests to indicate who fired the automatic were inconclusive, Moran said.

In Lancaster, Pa., Mrs. Alice Warneck Freshour said the dead man was her husband and father of her four children. She said she received $150 a month maintenance for support of herself and the children.

She told the New Orleans States in a telephone conversation that Freshour "left me two years ago." She declined further comment.

Court records showed Freshour married Alice Warneck at Bayonne, N.J., July 5, 1947. There was no court record of any divorce. The support of Mrs. Freshour was arranged through cooperation of New Orleans courts Feb. 1, 1957.

La.'s Pioneer Flyers Plan To Get Together

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Louisiana's pioneer flyers plan to get together here May 31 to honor the state's oldest aviator, Gen. T. B. Herndon said Saturday.

Herndon, head of the aeronautical division of the State Department of Public Works, announced a search for Louisiana's oldest flyer who will be guest of honor at the organization meeting of the OX5 Club.

The OX5 Club, he said, is a national organization made up of men and women who earned their wings in the "stick and wire" days of flying.

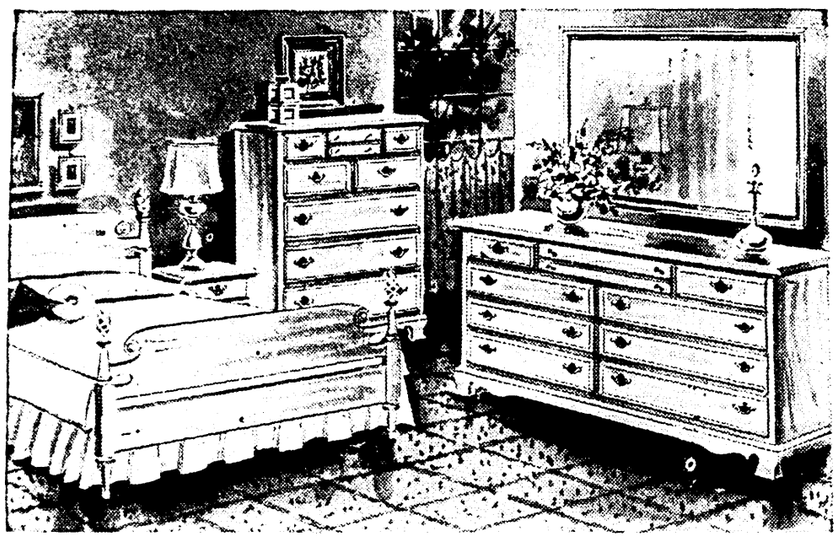

The OX5 was a 90-horsepower engine used in Jenny trainers during World War I.

Morgan said Freshour's trousers indicated he fired the shots while kneeling on the floor. The automatic then fell from the man's hands into Miss Finch's lap.

Moran said the gun was either held against Miss Finch's body or a few inches from it.

Paraffin tests to indicate who fired the automatic were inconclusive, Moran said.

In Lancaster, Pa., Mrs. Alice Warneck Freshour said the dead man was her husband and father of her four children. She said she received $150 a month maintenance for support of herself and the children.

She told the New Orleans States in a telephone conversation that Freshour "left me two years ago." She declined further comment.

Court records showed Freshour married Alice Warneck at Bayonne, N.J., July 5, 1947. There was no court record of any divorce. The support of Mrs. Freshour was arranged through cooperation of New Orleans courts Feb. 1, 1957.

La.'s Pioneer Flyers Plan To Get Together

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Louisiana's pioneer flyers plan to get together here May 31 to honor the state's oldest aviator, Gen. T. B. Herndon said Saturday.

Herndon, head of the aeronautical division of the State Department of Public Works, announced a search for Louisiana's oldest flyer who will be guest of honor at the organization meeting of the OX5 Club.

The OX5 Club, he said, is a national organization made up of men and women who earned their wings in the "stick and wire" days of flying.

The OX5 was a 90-horsepower engine used in Jenny trainers during World War I.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

The Rebels of West Monroe High School are looking forward to a rough football schedule that matches them against six teams of triple-A quality in two states and five double-A powers. It's a situation in which the Rebs could easily be playing for its own triple-A crown and possibly state champions of Arkansas and twin-A in Louisiana.

At least Coach Cecil Pirkey's Rebs, Twin Cities champs last year and in the state's top ten triple-A clubs, won't be long in letting the fans know how strong they are. The Rebels open against Neville of Monroe on September 5, then travel to Little Rock, Ark. to face Central High, always a top power in Arkansas, on September 12.

The Rebs meet all conference opponents, including Bastrop and Bossier City, recently moved upstairs in grid classification. In addition to Neville, such double-A strongholds as Jonesboro-Hodge, Menard of Alexandria, Ruston and Springhill will test the Rebels.

After Neville and Little Rock, it's Jonesboro-Hodge, there, Sept. 19; Byrd at Shreveport, Sept. 26; Menard at Alexandria, Oct. 3; Open date, Oct. 10; Bastrop, there, Oct. 17; Ouachita, here, Oct. 25; Bossier, here, Oct. 31; Fair Park, here, Nov. 7; Ruston, there, Nov. 14; and Springhill, here, Nov. 21.

The Bastrop Rams, moving into triple-A competition, managed to get all five conference opponents—Ouachita, Fair Park, West Monroe, Byrd and Bossier—on their schedule this year along with five double-A teams, and a single Class A rival.

The schedule for Bastrop reads: Rayville, there, Sept 12; Neville at Bastrop, Sept. 19; Haynesville at Bastrop, Sept. 26; Ouachita at Bastrop, Oct. 3; Fair Park at Shreveport, Oct. 10; West Monroe at Bastrop, Oct. 3; Fair Park at Shreveport, Oct. 10; West Monroe at Bastrop, Oct. 17; Ruston, there, Oct. 24; Springhill, there, Oct. 31; Byrd at Shreveport, Nov. 7; Jonesboro-Hodge, there, Nov. 14; and Bossier at Bastrop, Nov. 21.

The Twin City Speedway got in its first day of racing for the year last Sunday, attracting about 1,800 fans to tax its grandstand seating capacity to the limit. Such shows of interest can only mean that Oliver Cloyd will be planning more seats for the customers.

The stock cars are due to run again today at the West Monroe speedway off the old Natchitoches road and continued support such as that last week can only mean more improvements to suit the customers and more and better racing machines as the drivers like to show off their driving ability before the full houses.

The Bendel Memorial Fund has been growing steadily, but trustees would like to see its returns coming faster as planning for construction of a Little League baseball park as a memorial to Dr. William L. Bendel Sr. is getting to the point where they want to start work so the kids will have adequate facilities to conduct their league games this year.

The fund has already grown past the $8,000-mark in actual cash collections. Some materials have been donated that do not show in the cash figure, but there's still need for faster returns to quicker benefit the boys—the kind of kids Dr. Bendel spent more than 30 years helping in the Monroe area.

Speed up the returns. Send your donations for any amount to "Monroe Little League, P.O. Box 1293, Monroe, La."

PETTIT SCORES 50

Hawks Win NBA Crown, 110 To 109

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Bob Pettit climaxed a record 50-point performance by scoring the winning basket with 16 seconds left Saturday night as the St. Louis Hawks won the National Basketball Assn. championship with a 110-109 decision over the Boston Celtics.

The Hawks, beaten in double overtime by the Celts in last year's final, clinched their first championship in the sixth game of the best-of-seven title series.

The Celtics, with big Bill Russell gamely playing about 20 minutes despite a heavily taped injured ankle, overcame a 10-point Hawk lead and went ahead early in the last quarter.

But Pettit's 19-point final period was too much.

The Hawks went in front to stay 95-93 on Pettit's goal with 6:16 left. Three times the Celtics battled back to within one point, but each time the 6-9 Pettit fired home a goal to keep the Hawks in front. His last goal put the Hawks in front 110-107.

A crowd of 10,218 gave the Hawks a standing ovation as the game ended and the St. Louis players rushed out to lift Pettit to their shoulders.

Pettit's 50 cracked the record for a single, regulation-time NBA playoff game set by George Mikan of Minneapolis with 47 against Syracuse in the 1953 playoffs, but he had four overtime periods in which to build the total.

Cousy, a seven-time All-Star choice, was held to only 15 points Saturday night by Martin, the little Texan who turned in a marvelous floor game.

Jess Mercer Pitches Tech Over Northeast Nine, 10-1

RUSTON, La. (Special) —Louisiana Tech got off to three runs in the first inning and kept hitting the ball to down Northeast State, 10-1, in a Gulf States Conference here yesterday.

Bulldog pitcher Jess Mercer turned in a fine five-hit performance as he limited the visiting Indians to four scattered singles and a double. Northeast did not get a man as far as second until the ninth inning when they scored their lone run.

Tech collected 12 hits off two NoNrtheast hurlers. Leading the Tech hitting were five Tech players who got two hits each, Wade Scott got a triple and single, getting a double and a single were Charles Garris and Glen Schuler, and collecting two singles were Mercer and catcher Lonnie Carlisle.

Leading the Northeast hitting was shortstop Red Rushing, the only Indian to get two hits. He banged out a pair singles.

The game left Tech and Northeast with 2-3 records in the conference. Tech is now 6-4 for the season and Northeast has won 7, lost 5 and tied 2.

WESTERN AMATEUR

Triple Deadlock For Event Medal

By WHITNEY MARTIN

DELRAY BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A triple tie for medal honors, and a two-man playoff for 16th place in the match play field, featured the final two rounds of the 72-hole qualifying stage of the Western Amateur Golf Tournament Saturday.

The field had been cut to 50 for Saturday's play.

James "Billy" Key of Columbus, Ga.; Mason Rudolph of Ft. Chaffee, Ark., and Eddie Hopkins, Jr. of Abilene Tex., each bogeyed the 72nd hole and deadlocked for the medal. Key had led or shared the lead after each of the four rounds.

Rudolph and Hopkins started Saturday's play tied at 144, two strokes behind Key. Each shot a one-under-par 71 for each of his rounds while the Columbus banker was getting a pair of 72s.

A score of 293 was safely in the qualifying limit for the match play. Hillman Robbins Jr. of Memphis, National Amateur champion, and Paul Kelly of Ossining, N. Y., scored 299, necessitating the sudden death playoff.

On the fourth extra hole, finished in twilight, Robbins put his tee shot a foot from the pin and sank the putt for a deuce to win.

Gene Andrews of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Don Bisplinghoff of Miami Beach were tied behind the co-medalists at 288. Andrews turned in a 69 on his final round for the best score of the day which also was marked by a hole-in-one by Henry Cripps of Tinley Park, Ill., on the 185-yard fourth.

The matches starting Sunday will be 36-hole affairs, concluding with the crowning of the champions Wednesday.

Bob Hazle, Hit By Pitch, Isn't Seriously Hurt

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A pitched ball struck the Braves' Bob Hazle a glancing blow on the top of his protective helmet Saturday in the third inning of the Detroit-Milwaukee exhibition game. He was taken to Milwaukee Hospital for X-rays.

Greatest Discus Throwers Slated For Drake Event

DES MOINES (AP)—The world's first 200-foot discus throwers, Rink Babka of Southern California and Al Oerter of Kansas, will compete in the Drake Relays April 25.

Oerter sailed the discus 202 feet, 6-inches at the Arkansas relays last week. A week earlier Babka got off a toss of 201-2.

Neither throw has been officially accepted as bettering the world record of 194-6 by Fortune Gordien.

Red Sox, Nats To Launch Majors' Season Monday

United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP) — America's new era of 'round-the-clock, coast-to-coast major league baseball opens this week with all the fanfare befitting a sport national in fact as well as name.

President Eisenhower lends his prestige to the hoopla on Monday when he throws out the first ball of the season before the Boston Red Sox play the Washington Senators at Washington D.C.

On Tuesday, the transplanted Dodgers and Giants staged their grand California opener in San Francisco while the world champion Milwaukee Braves and American League champion New York Yankees start the defense of their crowns.

And on Friday comes the superduper Hollywood climax when the Giants meet the Dodgers in the Los Angeles opener. A new major league record crowd of some 90,000 is expected to jam the famous Coliseum in the first step toward changing Walter O'Malley from the most-hated man in Brooklyn to the richest man in Los Angeles.

A three-ring circus indeed! Three rings—the great eastern, central and Pacific time belts—producing 'round-the-clock results which Commissioner Ford Frick predicts will create a new national interest in baseball. Frick foresees an increase in season attendance to about 18-million and possible further expansion through out the structure of the game.

Monday's "presidential opener" will send Frank Sullivan of the Red Sox against Pedro Ramos of the Senators before a crowd of about 20,000. On Tuesday, the Yankees open against the Red Sox in Boston while Washington is at Baltimore, Detroit at Chicago and Kansas City at Cleveland.

In addition to the Los Angeles-San Francisco extravaganza, Tuesday's National League openers find Pittsburgh at Milwaukee, Philadelphia at Cincinnati, and Chicago playing a night game at St. Louis.

The weather, of course, is a possible complicating factor and long-range forecasts indicate there may be rain and cold in several cities. Nevertheless, about 250 000 fans are expected for the nine openers.

One new manager will make his debut, Bobby Bragan having replaced Kerby Farrell in Cleveland.

Baseball's official family is predicting close pennant races, of course, but neutral observers believe that the Yankees should romp to their ninth pennant under Casey Stengel by 10 to 15 games. The Braves are also a solid choice in the National League, although few experts think they will turn the race into a rout.

Twenty-nine experts viewed the Yankees as ultimate world champions, 19 picked the Braves and two chose the Dodgers.

13 RECORDS BROKEN

Oklahoma Wins Team Title In Southwestern Relays

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP)—Oklahoma, making its debut in the Southwestern Relays, Saturday set five of 13 records broken in the 30th annual event and won the unofficial team title.

Oklahoma collected 83 points and contributed the outstanding field man, Larry Neeley, who set a 14-foot mark for the pole vault.

Houston had 52 points and the outstanding track man, Jerry Smart, who turned in a 9:17.1 performance to set the record for the two-mile run. Louisiana State, the defending champion, failed to win any event.

Oklahoma also turned in new marks for the discus, the two mile relay, the distance medley and the shot put record which had stood since 1934. Houston also established new times for the mile relay in the freshman and junior college division.

Other new marks were set in the javelin, two sprint medley divisions, two mile relay divisions and the high school 440 invitational relay.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two Pittsburgh bonus boys, Gair Allie and Art Swanson, led the Columbus Jets of the International League to a 6-0 victory over the parent Pittsburgh Pirates in an exhibition baseball game Saturday.

Allie started a two-run fourth inning with a double and then smashed a three-run homer in the fifth inning.

Allie and Swanson had signed Pittsburgh contracts for combined bonuses of $40,000.

The Jets' Don Rowe preserved the shutout, allowing only one hit and a walk in the final three innings.

Balding Nabs Greensboro Lead With His Second 68

By KEN ALYTA

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Al Balding, long and lanky Canadian professional from Markham, Ontario, shot his second three-under-par 68 Saturday for a 136 total and a two-stroke lead in the $15,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament after 36 holes.

There was a major reshuffling of the standings as first round leader Don Whitt took a 77, ten strokes over his initial effort, to drop almost out of sight. Thirty-five men passed him in the rush for top position going into Sunday's final 36 holes.

Tony Lema, 24-year-old Napa, Calif., pro who has been campaigning all year without distinguishing himself, came up with his second 69 for second place at 138.

Six men shared third position at 139, only three shots off the lead. Among them was Sam Snead from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., who is seeking his seventh Greensboro victory. Tied with him was Ed Furgol, the former U.S. Open champion from St. Andrews, Ill. Furgol, who has a withered left arm and an injured right elbow, shot a 36-30—66, bagging six birdies on the last nine. It was only the third time in 11 tournaments he had survived the 36-hole cut.

Billy Maxwell, former U. S. Amateur champion from Odessa, Tex., moved into the 139 bracket after a 67. Sharing the spot were Art Wall, Pocono Manor, Pa.; Gene Bone, Detroit, and Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla.

A 36-hole total of 149, seven over par for two rounds over the 6,631-yard Starmount Forest Country Club, was the cut off point for the 62 low pros. Twelve amateurs qualified at 153 or better.

Five pros were tied at 140 only four shots from the top.

Among them were two other foreign threats in this tournament won last year by still another Canadian, Stan Leonard. Jerry Magee of Toronto and Gary Player of Johannesburg, South Africa were tied with Billy Casper of Apply Valley, Calif., Howie Johnson of Genwoodie, Ill., and Bob Golaby of Darien, Conn.

Eight others were only one more shot behind.

The low scorers:

Al Balding	68-68—13
Tony Lema	69-69—13
Sam Snead	70-69—13
Billy Maxwell	72-67—13

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

The Rebels of West Monroe High School are looking forward to a rough football schedule that matches them against six teams of triple-A quality in two states and five double-A powers. It's a situation in which the Rebs could easily be playing for its own triple-A crown and possibly state champions of Arkansas and twin-A in Louisiana.

At least Coach Cecil Pirkey's Rebs, Twin Cities champs last year and in the state's top ten triple-A clubs, won't be long in letting the fans know how strong they are. The Rebels open against Neville of Monroe on September 5, then travel to Little Rock, Ark. to face Central High, always a top power in Arkansas, on September 12.

The Rebs meet all conference opponents, including Bastrop and Bossier City, recently moved upstairs in grid classification. In addition to Neville, such double-A strongholds as Jonesboro-Hodge, Menard of Alexandria, Ruston and Springhill will test the Rebels.

After Neville and Little Rock, it's Jonesboro-Hodge, there, Sept. 19; Byrd at Shreveport, Sept. 26; Menard at Alexandria, Oct. 3; Open date, Oct. 10; Bastrop, there, Oct. 17; Ouachita, here, Oct. 25; Bossier, here, Oct. 31; Fair Park, here, Nov. 7; Ruston, there, Nov. 14; and Springhill, here, Nov. 21.

The Bastrop Rams, moving into triple-A competition, managed to get all five conference opponents—Ouachita, Fair Park, West Monroe, Byrd and Bossier—on their schedule this year along with five double-A teams, and a single Class A rival.

The schedule for Bastrop reads: Rayville, there, Sept 12; Neville at Bastrop, Sept. 19; Haynesville at Bastrop, Sept. 26; Ouachita at Bastrop, Oct. 3; Fair Park at Shreveport, Oct. 10; West Monroe at Bastrop, Oct. 3; Fair Park at Shreveport, Oct. 10; West Monroe at Bastrop, Oct. 17; Ruston, there, Oct. 24; Springhill, there, Oct. 31; Byrd at Shreveport, Nov. 7; Jonesboro-Hodge, there, Nov. 14; and Bossier at Bastrop, Nov. 21.

The Twin City Speedway got in its first day of racing for the year last Sunday, attracting about 1,800 fans to tax its grandstand seating capacity to the limit. Such shows of interest can only mean that Oliver Cloyd will be planning more seats for the customers.

The stock cars are due to run again today at the West Monroe speedway off the old Natchitoches road and continued support such as that last week can only mean more improvements to suit the customers and more and better racing machines as the drivers like to show off their driving ability before the full houses.

The Bendel Memorial Fund has been growing steadily, but trustees would like to see its returns coming faster as planning for construction of a Little League baseball park as a memorial to Dr. William L. Bendel Sr. is getting to the point where they want to start work so the kids will have adequate facilities to conduct their league games this year.

The fund has already grown past the $8,000-mark in actual cash collections. Some materials have been donated that do not show in the cash figure, but there's still need for faster returns to quicker benefit the boys—the kind of kids Dr. Bendel spent more than 30 years helping in the Monroe area.

Speed up the returns. Send your donations for any amount to "Monroe Little League, P.O. Box 1293, Monroe, La."

Jess Mercer Pitches Tech Over Northeast Nine, 10-1

RUSTON, La. (Special) —Louisiana Tech got off to three runs in the first inning and kept hitting the ball to down Northeast State, 10-1, in a Gulf States Conference here yesterday.

Bulldog pitcher Jess Mercer turned in a fine five-hit performance as he limited the visiting Indians to four scattered singles and a double. Northeast did not get a man as far as second until the ninth inning when they scored their lone run.

Tech collected 12 hits off two NoNrtheast hurlers. Leading the Tech hitting were five Tech players who got two hits each, Wade Scott got a triple and single, getting a double and a single were Charles Garris and Glen Schuler, and collecting two singles were Mercer and catcher Lonnie Carlisle.

The game left Tech and Northeast with 2-3 records in the conference. Tech is now 6-4 for the season and Northeast has won 7, lost 5 and tied 2.

WESTERN AMATEUR

Triple Deadlock For Event Medal

By WHITNEY MARTIN

DELRAY BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A triple tie for medal honors, and a two-man playoff for 16th place in the match play field, featured the final two rounds of the 72-hole qualifying stage of the Western Amateur Golf Tournament Saturday.

The field had been cut to 50 for Saturday's play.

James "Billy" Key of Columbus, Ga.; Mason Rudolph of Ft. Chaffee, Ark., and Eddie Hopkins, Jr. of Abilene Tex., each bogeyed the 72nd hole and deadlocked for the medal. Key had led or shared the lead after each of the four rounds.

Rudolph and Hopkins started Saturday's play tied at 144, two strokes behind Key. Each shot a one-under-par 71 for each of his rounds while the Columbus banker was getting a pair of 72s.

A score of 298 was safely in the qualifying limit for the match play. Hillman Robbins Jr. of Memphis, National Amateur champion, and Paul Kelly of Ossining, N. Y., scored 299, necessitating the sudden death playoff.

On the fourth extra hole, finished in twilight, Robbins put his tee shot a foot from the pin and sank the putt for a deuce to win.

Gene Andrews of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Don Bisplinghoff of Miami Beach were tied behind the co-medalists at 288. Andrews turned in a 69 on his final round for the best score of the day which also was marked by a hole-in-one by Henry Cripps of Tinley Park, Ill., on the 185-yard fourth.

The matches starting Sunday will be 36-hole affairs, concluding with the crowning of the champions Wednesday.

Bob Hazle, Hit By Pitch, Isn't Seriously Hurt

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A pitched ball struck the Braves' Bob Hazle a glancing blow on the top of his protective helmet Saturday in the third inning of the Detroit-Milwaukee exhibition game. He was taken to Milwaukee Hospital for X-rays.

Greatest Discus Throwers Slated For Drake Event

DES MOINES (AP)—The world's first 200-foot discus throwers, Rink Babka of Southern California and Al Oerter of Kansas, will compete in the Drake Relays April 25.

Neither throw has been officially accepted as bettering the world record of 194-6 by Fortune Gordien.

PETTIT SCORES 50

Hawks Win NBA Crown, 110 To 109

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Bob Pettit climaxed a record 50-point performance by scoring the winning basket with 16 seconds left Saturday night as the St. Louis Hawks won the National Basketball Assn. championship with a 110-109 decision over the Boston Celtics.

The Hawks, beaten in double overtime by the Celts in last year's final, clinched their first championship in the sixth game of the best-of-seven title series.

The Celtics, with big Bill Russell gamely playing about 20 minutes despite a heavily taped injured ankle, overcame a 10-point Hawk lead and went ahead early in the last quarter.

But Pettit's 19-point final period was too much.

The Hawks went in front to stay 95-93 on Pettit's goal with 6:16 left. Three times the Celtics battled back to within one point, but each time the 6-9 Pettit fired home a goal to keep the Hawks in front. His last goal put the Hawks in front 110-107.

A crowd of 10,218 gave the Hawks a standing ovation as the game ended and the St. Louis players rushed out to lift Pettit to their shoulders.

Pettit's 50 cracked the record for a single, regulation-time NBA playoff game set by George Mikan of Minneapolis with 47 against Syracuse in the 1953 playoffs, but he had four overtime periods in which to build the total.

Cousy, a seven-time All-Star choice, was held to only 15 points Saturday night by Martin, the little Texan who turned in a marvelous floor game.

Red Sox, Nats To Launch Majors' Season Monday

United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP) — America's new era of 'round-the-clock, coast-to-coast major league baseball opens this week with all the fanfare befitting a sport national in fact as well as name.

President Eisenhower lends his prestige to the hoopla on Monday when he throws out the first ball of the season before the Boston Red Sox play the Washington Senators at Washington D.C.

On Tuesday, the transplanted Dodgers and Giants staged their grand California opener in San Francisco while the world champion Milwaukee Braves and American League champion New York Yankees start the defense of their crowns.

And on Friday comes the superduper Hollywood climax when the Giants meet the Dodgers in the Los Angeles opener. A new major league record crowd of some 90,000 is expected to jam the famous Coliseum in the first step toward changing Walter O'Malley from the most-hated man in Brooklyn to the richest man in Los Angeles.

A three-ring circus indeed! Three rings—the great eastern, central and Pacific time belts—producing 'round-the-clock results which Commissioner Ford Frick predicts will create a new national interest in baseball. Frick foresees an increase in season attendance to about 18-million and possible further expansion through out the structure of the game.

Monday's "presidential opener" will send Frank Sullivan of the Red Sox against Pedro Ramos of the Senators before a crowd of about 20,000. On Tuesday, the Yankees open against the Red Sox in Boston while Washington is at Baltimore, Detroit at Chicago and Kansas City at Cleveland.

In addition to the Los Angeles-San Francisco extravaganza, Tuesday's National League openers find Pittsburgh at Milwaukee, Philadelphia at Cincinnati, and Chicago playing a night game at St. Louis.

The weather, of course, is a possible complicating factor and long-range forecasts indicate there may be rain and cold in several cities. Nevertheless, about 250 000 fans are expected for the nine openers.

One new manager will make his debut, Bobby Bragan having replaced Kerby Farrell in Cleveland.

Baseball's official family is predicting close pennant races, of course, but neutral observers believe that the Yankees should romp to their ninth pennant under Casey Stengel by 10 to 15 games. The Braves are also a solid choice in the National League, although few experts think they will turn the race into a rout.

Twenty-nine experts viewed the Yankees as ultimate world champions, 19 picked the Braves and two chose the Dodgers.

Oklahoma Wins Team Title In Southwestern Relays

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP)—Oklahoma, making its debut in the Southwestern Relays, Saturday set five of 13 records broken in the 30th annual event and won the unofficial team title.

Oklahoma collected 83 points and contributed the outstanding field man, Larry Neeley, who set a 14-foot mark for the pole vault.

Houston had 52 points and the outstanding track man, Jerry Smart, who turned in a 9:17.1 performance to set the record for the two-mile run. Louisiana State, the defending champion, failed to win any event.

Oklahoma also turned in new marks for the discus, the two mile relay, the distance medley and the shot put record which had stood since 1934. Houston also established new times for the mile relay in the freshman and junior college division.

Other new marks were set in the javelin, two sprint medley divisions, two mile relay divisions and the high school 440 invitational relay.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two Pittsburgh bonus boys, Gair Allie and Art Swanson, led the Columbus Jets of the International League to a 6-0 victory over the parent Pittsburgh Pirates in an exhibition baseball game Saturday.

Allie started a two-run fourth inning with a double and then smashed a three-run homer in the fifth inning.

Allie and Swanson had signed Pittsburgh contracts for combined bonuses of $40,000.

The Jets' Don Rowe preserved the shutout, allowing only one hit and a walk in the final three innings.

Southwestern Cage Sets New Javelin Mark

Neville's one - man track team, sophomore Joe Cage, set a new record in the javelin in the high school division of the Southwestern Relays at Lafayette Friday. And was selected the meet's outstanding high school field man.

Cage took first place in the event with a toss of 179 feet and 10½ inches, some eight feet better than the old mark.

Neville Coach George Davis, who accompanied Cage to Lafayette, said Cage will participate in the Northwestern Relays at Natchitoches next weekend.

Balding Nabs Greensboro Lead With His Second 68

By KEN ALYTA

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Al Balding, long and lanky Canadian professional from Markham, Ontario, shot his second three-under-par 68 Saturday for a 136 total and a two-stroke lead in the $15,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament after 36 holes.

There was a major reshuffling of the standings as first round leader Don Whitt took a 77, ten strokes over his initial effort, to drop almost out of sight. Thirty-five men passed him in the rush for top position going into Sunday's final 36 holes.

Tony Lema, 24-year-old Napa, Calif., pro who has been campaigning all year without distinguishing himself, came up with his second 69 for second place at 138.

Six men shared third position at 139, only three shots off the lead. Among them was Sam Snead from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., who is seeking his seventh Greensboro victory. Tied with him was Ed Furgol, the former U.S. Open champion from St. Andrews, Ill. Furgol, who has a withered left arm and an injured right elbow, shot a 36-30—66, bagging six birdies on the last nine. It was only the third time in 11 tournaments he had survived the 36-hole cut.

Billy Maxwell, former U. S. Amateur champion from Odessa, Tex., moved into the 139 bracket after a 67. Sharing the spot were Art Wall, Pocono Manor, Pa.; Gene Bone, Detroit, and Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla.

A 36-hole total of 149, seven over par for two rounds over the 6,631-yard Starmount Forest Country Club, was the cut off point for the 62 low pros. Twelve amateurs qualified at 153 or better.

Five pros were tied at 140 only four shots from the top.

Among them were two other foreign threats in this tournament won last year by still another Canadian, Stan Leonard. Jerry Magee of Toronto and Gary Player of Johannesburg, South Africa, were tied with Billy Casper of Apply Valley, Calif., Howie Johnson of Genwoodie, Ill., and Bob Golaby of Darien, Conn.

Eight others were only one more shot behind.

The low scorers:

Al Balding	68-68—136
Tony Lema	69-69—138
Sam Snead	70-69—139
Billy Maxwell	72-67—139
Gene Bone	68-71—139
Art Wall	70-69—139
Ed Furgol	73-66—139
Dow Finsterwald	70-69—139
Billy Casper	70-70—140
Jerry Magee	68-72—140
Howie Johnston	72-68—140
Bob Goalby	71-69—140
Gary Player	70-70—140
Doug Ford	70-71—141
Bob Toski	71-70—141
Dave Ragan	70-71—141
Johnny Pott	68-73—141
John McMullin	69-72—141
Frank Phillips	72-69—141
Marty Furgol	70-71—141
Jim Ferree	73-78—141

On The Fairways With Bob Ewing

1958 LOUISIANA STATE AMATEUR

The Louisiana State Golf Association has selected the Bayou DeSiard Country Club here as the site of its 1958 State Amateur Tournament and the boys at the Bayou Links are proud as this is the first time the State Amateur has ever been held in Northeast Louisiana.

The tourney gets underway real soon as the 18-hole qualifying is slated for Thursday, April 24, with the ensuing battles for the championship to begin on the following day and to continue through Sunday, April 27.

The Championship Flight will consist of the low 32 qualifiers and will be match play as will the rest of the flights. All other flights will consist of 16 players each and the first round losers in the Championship Flight will make up for the First Flight. All matches will be 18 holes with the exception of the finals of the Championship which will run 36 holes.

Entrants are restricted to members of clubs that are members of the Louisiana State Golf Association and they must have been a resident of Louisiana for at least one year prior to the qualifying date. The entrance fee is $12.50.

Winter ground rules will govern the play and the lie may be improved one club's length with the club head only in a line with the line of play but not nearer the hole. Foreign fairways will play as rough and the lie can't be improved there. Most of the fairways and rough will be marked off in lime lines and any questions that may arise during the course of play will be ruled on by the rules committee.

Winnie Cole, the host professional, tells us that the course should be in top-notch shape if the good weather holds up. The fairways are already in fine condition and the greens are gradually reaching their peak. In fact, they should be as smooth, fast, and trickey as anyone could possibly want for some fine championship finesse with the putter.

A new State Champion will be crowned as Jimmy McGonagill, the defending Champ, will be unable to defend his title because he has moved to the state of California for business reasons- - - They say that's the Gold Coast out there and we understand that he's getting a little of it on the golf courses and off. We are pulling for him to win that big piece of gold representing the California State Amateur one of these days and what's more, he probably will.

We will have a wide open field here contending for the honors with such players as Jim Mangum, Jackie Rivers, Sam Love, Jr., Lamar Loe, Jr., Clyde and Roy Nash, and a whole host of real fine players to make it a real fine tournament.

SOUTHWEST PRODUCES LEADER

Johnson, Aulds, Roach On List Of Leading Scorers

By TRUMAN STACEY
Lake Charles American Press
(Written for the Louisiana Sports Writers Assn)

He is Harold Strother 6-foot-wide junior sensation from Plainview high school of Glenmora. Strother scored 918 points in 27 games during the 1957-58 season, for an average of 34 points per contest.

Strother's average is the highest recorded by a prep cager since the Louisiana Sports Writers association began collection statewide figures in 1955-56.

In second place on the State list in St Bernard's Harold Belaire who notched 1206 points in 38 games for a 31.7 average per contest.

Belaire wound up his career as one of the leading scorers in Louisiana history. As a sophomore in 1955-56, he scored 799 points. Last year, he added 1,201 points, making a three-year total of 3,206 points.

The all-time state career scoring mark is held by Jackie Moreland, who scored more than 5,000 points during a four-year prep career at Harris and Minden high schools.

Most points scored during the season, according to information furnished by prep coaches, was 1,305 points notched by LaFargue's Jimmy Ryland.

Strother's scoring was the feature of Plainview's season, during which the team lost only five of 27 games. He was never outscored in any game.

His top per - game production were 47-points totals against Rosepine and Castor. Lowest score of his season was 24 points against Colfax.

Last year Strother scored 903 points in 44 games, for an average of 20.5 per contest.

Figures were compiled from date furnished by the state's prep coaches. Some schools did not submit reports.

Here are all players who scored 500 or more points during the 1957-58 season, according to figures submitted by the schools:

HODGEMYER SKIPS

Curtis Vs. Laye For State Title

The failure of Bernard Hodgemyer to keep a wrestling appointment here a couple of weeks ago and his subsequent sudden departure from the southern mat circuit has resulted in his suspension in Louisiana and forfeiture of his Louisiana heavyweight wrestling championship.

JERRY CHRISTY

Taus, the regular Monday night wrestling show here will be a championship scramble without Hodgemyer. Jack Curts and Charlie Laye, a pair of ex - world's light heavyweight kings, have been assigned the main event match tomorrow with the winner to be acclaimed state heavyweight champ, Kallio said.

Promoter Gus Kallio, who has been taking a rest at St. Francis Hospital this week, said yesterday "Hodgemyer skipped the country right when we were letting the fans decide his next title opponent. His unexplained run-out left nothing for Commissioner Silverstein (David C. Silverstein, district wrestling and boxing commissioner) to do except declare his state title vacant since he can't defend it anywhere except in Louisiana.

"The same applies to Al Boudreaux who hasn't accepted a welterweight boxing title defense," Kallio said. Johnny McKoin has challenged him, but Boudreaux hasn't had but one fight since he left Monroe, losing that at a knockout at New Orleans, and hasn't given any satisfaction about defending the title. So if Boudreaux and McKoin fight again it won't be for the title."

Supporting the Curtis - Laye feature tomorrow will be two other matches.

Jerry Christy, a newcomer from Woodland Hills, Calif., (a suburb of Los Angeles) will appear in the semi - final against Phil Brummet, former Louisiana champion from Alexandria, and the curtain-raiser will send Bill Barney, West Monroe, also an ex - state titlist, against The Menace, a masked villain.

Curtis and Laye will meet in a 90 - minute time limit bout, two falls to win. The semi-final will have a 45- minute limit, also two falls to win, but the opening bout will go one fall with a 30-minute limit.

Texas League Unveils 63rd Season Friday

DALLAS (AP)—The Texas League, whose future was quite clouded last winter but which emerged with two new cities and a new operator at Dallas as one of the soldiest of the minors, opens its 63rd race next Friday.

President Dick Butler viewed the 154-game campaign with optimism. He said if the weather was favorable and there's a good, close race, the season should again produce one million plus in attendance.

Last season rain and cold caused more postponements and hampered attendance greater than any race in history for the first month. The league is opening its campaign the latest yet. Last year the season started nine days earlier.

Shreveport and Oklahoma City are no more. The former sold its franchise to Victoria after 17 straight seasons in the league. Oklahoma City transferred its franchise to Corpus Christi and will be without Texas League baseball for the first time in 22 years.

The crux of the trouble came when the Burnett interests turned in the Dallas franchise and said they would operate no further here unless they could get into a league of higher classification. It appeared for a time that Dallas might not have a club in the league. But finally J. W. Bateson, wealthy Dallas contractor, stepped in to take over the franchise and lease the baseball plant owned by the Burnett interests.

Houston and Ft. Worth which will get its material from the Chicago Cubs, will probably be cofavorites when the race starts.

Tulsa will be at Fort Worth, Dallas at Austin, Victoria at Houston and San Antonio at Corpus Christi to open the season Friday night.

Budge Patty, Drobny Reach Tennis Finals

AIX-EN-PROVENCE, France (AP) —Budge Patty whipped Nick Carter, 6-1, 6-3, Saturday in an all-American semifinal match in an international tennis tournament. Patty, from Los Angeles, and Carter, from San Francisco, both now live in Paris.

Veteran Jaroslav Drobny of Egypt, one-time Wimbledon champion, turned back Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, Fla., 6-1, 6-3, in the other semifinal and will meet the 34-year-old Patty in the men's singles final Sunday.

Yola Ramirez and Rosa Maria Reyes of Mexico won the women's doubles championship the first title decided, by defeating Mimi Arnold of Redwood City, and Marta Peterdy of Hungary, 8-6, 6-3.

Americans dominated the doubles semifinals.

Mulloy and Patty defeated Carter and Xavier Perreau-Saussine of France, 6-4, 6-3, in men's doubles. They will oppose Drobny and Kurt Nielsen of Denmark, 9-7, 6-4 winners over Pierre Darmon and Jean-Claude Molinari of France.

In mixed doubles, Miss Arnold and Mulloy beat Florence de la Courties and Molinari of France, 6-1, 6-3, and Gloria Butler, a New Yorker living in France, and Adam Stolpa of Hungary won by default from Miss Reyes and Darmon.

Joie Ray, 64, In Birthday Mile Today

The old time distance star, who turns 64 Sunday, regrets his effort around the University of Illinois Armory track only will be "a little faster than a jog."

Joie dislocated a small bone in the foot last year when he ran his fourth straight birthday mile in 6:26. "The injury didn't show up for several weeks," Ray explained Saturday. "But I've had to have it treated since."

"I've done plenty of walking, though," continued Joie, who works a regular shift in a Gary, Ind., steel mill. "You might say I walk eight hours a day on my job as a feeder-helper handling steel coils."

Ray's own doctor will accompany him to Champaign where a famed University of Illinois researcher, Dr. T. K. Cureton, again will conduct tests on the endurance and stamina of the remarkable old runner.

The 5 feet, 5 inch Ray, who raises gladioli as a hobby, set a then sensational mile record of 4:12 in Madison Square Garden in 1925.

Joie showed his heels to the best in his day at all the longer distances. He competed in three Olympics and won 949 medals, ribbons or trophies.

Loyola Names Henry Kuzma Cage Mentor

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Loyola University of the South Saturday announced the signing of Henry Kuzma, one of the nation's top young small college basketball coaches, as its new head basketball coach.

The 30 - year - old Kuzma will leave Steubenville, Ohio College, where he has compiled a four-year record of 5 victories and 19 defeats, for the Loyola job.

The Rev. James Molloy, S. J., Loyola athletic director, said Kuzma had accepted a three-year contract.

Father Molloy said the Duquesne graduate, whose Steubenville team won 24 and lost one last season, was selected over more than 50 applicants to replace Jim Harding, who resigned at the end of last season after leading Loyola to a 16-9 record and a spot in the NCAA tournament.

In Steubenville, Kuzma said, "Naturally, it's a great honor for me to make this step forward in the coaching ranks. I'm extremely grateful for the confidence Loyola has shown in me."

Bastrop High Golfers Down West Monroe

The Bastrop High School golf team won their second straight match when they trounced the West Monroe Rebels, 14½ to 3½, at the Highland Country Club in West Monroe.

Results of the matches were as follows, with Bastrop players listed first: Ken Roberts defeated Gene Adams, 3-0; Jimmy Warren beat Louie Irving, 2½ to ½; Van Lee defeated Ronnie Hearn, 3-0; George Loftin lost to Bob Shelby, 3-0; Roberts and Warren over Adams and Irving, 3-0; and Lee and Loftin over Hearn and Shelby, 3-0.

Other Bastrop golfers included John Tiner, Ned Head, Gary Ware, Arthur McMeans, and Jim Caldwell.

Because West Monroe could not field a complete second quartet no official score was kept for this group.

Bastrop High golfers are scheduled to have their first home match next Tuesday when they host Crossett, Ark., and West Monroe at the Morehouse Country Club.

Bears Ink Main, Johnny Morris

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears Saturday announced the signing of rookie halfbacks Johnny Morris and Wilbur Main.

Morris, 21, is a 180-pound speedster from Santa Barbara State and Main is a 195-pound defensive back from Maryland.

WAR ON PGA

May Casts Lot With Sponsors

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—The controversy between the PGA and the International Golf Sponsors Assn. over who is to get the tournament entry fees grew hotter Saturday. George S. May, who canceled $210,000 in tournaments at Chicago, joined forces with the Sponsors.

May, in canceling his Tam O'Shanter tournaments, said he was doing so rather than give in to the demands of the PGA for the entry fees. He pointed out that there were a number of tournaments that weren't required to hand them over.

The ISGA, with 20 members, has its headquarters in Fort Worth where Paul O. Ridings serves as executive secretary. Ridings made the announcement that May had sent a check for the membership fee and 1958 dues and also had indicated he would take an active part in the organization's affairs.

May said he would cut short a trip to Europe, on which he departed Saturday, in order to be back for the next meeting of the Sponsors at Clearwater, Fla., May 12 and a joint session with the PGA the following day.

The two organizations have been at odds since last August when the PGA announced its policy of taking entry fees in place of service fees, since the former was much more. When the PGA remained adamant, the IGSA employed Ridings to handle its affairs.

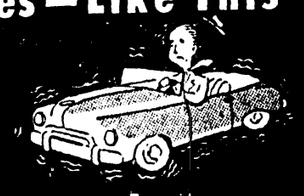

The IGSA now has these members, according to Ridings:

Hot Springs, Ark.; Baton Rouge, La.; Montreal, Canada; Cleveland, Ohio; Fort Wayne, Ind.; Greensboro, N. C.; Houston, Tex., Hartford, Conn.; Kansas City, Louisville, Los Angeles, New Orleans, Phoenix, Akron, St. Paul, Tam O'Shanter, Chicago; Texas Open, San Antonio; Tijuana Tucson and Wilmington N. C. Roger S. Hagel of Phoenix is president.

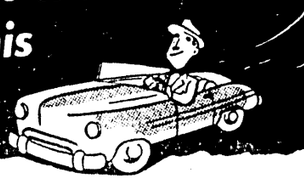

Ridings said May in his letter, expressed concern over the fact that the PGA tournament budget expense had increased from $85-000 last year to $156,000 this year which May called "tremendously out of line for the handling of the $815,000 in tournaments on the 1958 schedule. It is approximately 20 per cent."

HODGEMYER SKIPS

Curtis Vs. Laye For State Title

The failure of Bernard Hodgemyer to keep a wrestling appointment here a couple of weeks ago and his subsequent sudden departure from the southern mat circuit has resulted in his suspension in Louisiana and forfeiture of his Louisiana heavyweight wrestling championship.

JERRY CHRISTY

Thus, the regular Monday night wrestling show here will be a championship scramble without Hodgemyer. Jack Curts and Charlie Laye, a pair of ex - world's light heavyweight kings, have been assigned the main event match tomorrow with the winner to be acclaimed state heavyweight champ, Kallio said.

Promoter Gus Kallio, who has been taking a rest at St. Francis Hospital this week, said yesterday "Hodgemyer skipped the country right when we were letting the fans decide his next title opponent. His unexplained run-out left nothing for Commissioner Silverstein (David C. Silverstein, district wrestling and boxing commissioner) to do except declare his state title vacant since he can't defend it anywhere except in Louisiana.

"The same applies to Al Boudreaux who hasn't accepted a welterweight boxing title defense," Kallio said. Johnny McKoin has challenged him, but Boudreaux hasn't had but one fight since he left Monroe, losing that at a knockout at New Orleans, and hasn't given any satisfaction about defending the title. Sof if Boudreaux and McKoin fight again it won't be for the title."

Supporting the Curtis - Laye feature tomorrow will be two other matches.

Jerry Christy, a newcomer from Woodland Hills, Calif., (a suburb of Los Angeles) will appear in the semi - final against Phil Brummet, former Louisiana champion from Alexandria, and the curtain-raiser will send Bill Barney, West Monroe, also an ex - state titlist, against The Menace, a masked villain.

Curtis and Laye will meet in a 90 - minute time limit bout, two falls to win. The semi-final will have a 45- minute limit, also two falls to win, but the opening bout will go one fall with a 30-minute limit.

Budge Patty, Drobny Reach Tennis Finals

AIX-EN-PROVENCE, France (AP) —Budge Patty whipped Nick Carter, 6-1, 6-3, Saturday in an all-American semifinal match in an international tennis tournament. Patty, from Los Angeles, and Carter, from San Francisco, both now live in Paris.

Veteran Jaroslav Drobny of Egypt, one-time Wimbledon champion, turned back Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, Fla., 6-1, 6-3, in the other semifinal and will meet the 34-year-old Patty in the men's singles final Sunday.

Yola Ramirez and Rosa Maria Reyes of Mexico won the women's doubles championship, the first title decided, by defeating Mimi Arnold of Redwood City, and Marta Peterdy of Hungary, 8-6, 6-3.

Americans dominated the doubles semifinals.

Mulloy and Patty defeated Carter and Xavier Perreau-Saussine of France, 6-4, 6-3, in men's doubles. They will oppose Drobny and Kurt Nielsen of Denmark, 9-7, 6-4 winners over Pierre Darmon and Jean-Claude Molinari of France.

In mixed doubles, Miss Arnold and Mulloy beat Florence de la Courties and Molinari of France, 6-1, 6-3, and Gloria Butler, a New Yorker living in France, and Adam Stolpa of Hungary won by default from Miss Reyes and Darmon.

Texas League Unveils 63rd Season Friday

DALLAS (AP)—The Texas League, whose future was quite clouded last winter but which emerged with two new cities and a new operator at Dallas as one of the solidest of the minors, opens its 63rd race next Friday.

President Dick Butler viewed the 154-game campaign with optimism. He said if the weather was favorable and there's a good, close race, the season should again produce one million plus in attendance.

Last season rain and cold caused more postponements and hampered attendance greater than any race in history for the first month. The league is opening its campaign the latest yet. Last year the season started nine days earlier.

Shreveport and Oklahoma City are no more. The former sold its franchise to Victoria after 17 straight seasons in the league. Oklahoma City transferred its franchise to Corpus Christi and will be without Texas League baseball for the first time in 22 years.

The crux of the trouble came when the Burnett interests turned in the Dallas franchise and said they would operate no further here unless they could get into a league of higher classification. It appeared for a time that Dallas might not have a club in the league. But finally J. W. Bateson, wealthy Dallas contractor, stepped in to take over the franchise and lease the baseball plant owned by the Burnett interests.

Houston and Ft. Worth which will get its material from the Chicago Cubs, will probably be cofavorites when the race starts.

Tulsa will be at Fort Worth, Dallas at Austin, Victoria at Houston and San Antonio at Corpus Christi to open the season Friday night.

Michigan State's assistant trainer, Gayle Robinson, was a varsity hurdler for the Spartans in the 1930's and held two varsity records for some time.

Joie Ray, 64, In Birthday Mile Today

The old time distance star, who turns 64 Sunday, regrets his effort around the University of Illinois Armory track only will be "a little faster than a jog."

Joie dislocated a small bone in the foot last year when he ran his fourth straight birthday mile in 6:26. "The injury didn't show up for several weeks," Ray explained Saturday. "But I've had to have it treated since."

"I've done plenty of walking, though," continued Joie, who works a regular shift in a Gary, Ind., steel mill. "You might say I walk eight hours a day on my job as a feeder-helper handling steel coils."

Ray's own doctor will accompany him to Champaign where a famed University of Illinois researcher, Dr. T. K. Cureton, again will conduct tests on the endurance and stamina of the remarkable old runner.

The 5 feet, 5 inch Ray, who raises gladioli as a hobby, set a then sensational mile record of 4:12 in Madison Square Garden in 1925.

Joie showed his heels to the best in his day at all the longer distances. He competed in three Olympics and won 949 medals, ribbons or trophies.

Loyola Names Henry Kuzma Cage Mentor

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Loyola University of the South Satudray announced the signing of Henry Kuzma, one of the nation's top young small college basketball coaches, as its new head basketball coach.

The 30 - year - old Kuzma will leave Steubenville, Ohio College, where he has compiled a four-year record of 5 victories and 19 defeats, for the Loyola job.

The Rev. James Molloy, S. J., Loyola athletic director, said Kuzma had accepted a three-year contract.

Father Molloy said the Duquesne graduate, whose Steubenville team won 24 and lost one last season, was selected over more than 50 applicants to replace Jim Harding, who resigned at the end of last season after leading Loyola to a 16-9 record and a spot in the NCAA tournament.

In Steubenville, Kuzma said, "Naturally, it's a great honor for me to make this step forward in the coaching ranks. I'm extremely grateful for the confidence Loyola has shown in me."

Bastrop High Golfers Down West Monroe

The Bastrop High School golf team won their second straight match when they trounced the West Monroe Rebels, 14½ to 3½, at the Highland Country Club in West Monroe.

Results of the matches were as follows, with Bastrop players listed first: Ken Roberts defeated Gene Adams, 3-0; Jimmy Warren beat Louie Irving, 2½ to ½; Van Lee defeated Ronnie Hearn, 3-0; George Loftin lost to Bob Shelby, 3-0; Roberts and Warren over Adams and Irving, 3-0; and Lee and Loftin over Hearn and Shelby, 3-0.

Other Bastrop golfers included John Tiner, Ned Head, Gary Ware, Arthur McMeans, and Jim Caldwell.

Because West Monroe could not field a complete second quartet no official score was kept for this group.

Bastrop High golfers are scheduled to have their first home match next Tuesday when they host Crossett, Ark., and West Monroe at the Morehouse Country Club.

Bears Ink Main, Johnny Morris

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears Saturday announced the signing of rookie halfbacks Johnny Morris and Wilbur Main.

WAR ON PGA

May Casts Lot With Sponsors

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—The controversy between the PGA and the International Golf Sponsors Assn. over who is to get the tournament entry fees grew hotter Saturday. George S. May, who canceled $210,000 in tournaments at Chicago, joined forces with the Sponsors.

May, in canceling his Tam O'Shanter tournaments, said he was doing so rather than give in to the demands of the PGA for the entry fees. He pointed out that there were a number of tournaments that weren't required to hand them over.

The ISGA, with 20 members, has its headquarters in Fort Worth where Paul O. Ridings serves as executive secretary. Ridings made the announcement that May had sent a check for the membership fee and 1958 dues and also had indicated he would take an active part in the organization's affairs.

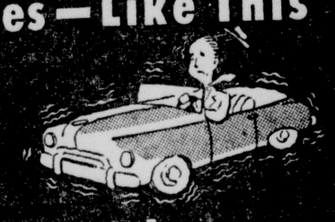

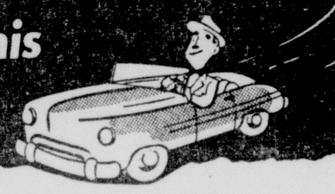

May said he would cut short a trip to Europe, on which he departed Saturday, in order to be back for the next meeting of the Sponsors at Clearwater, Fla., May 12 and a joint session with the PGA the following day.

The two organizations have been at odds since last August when the PGA announced its policy of taking entry fees in place of service fees, since the former was much more. When the PGA remained adamant, the IGSA employed Ridings to handle its affairs.

The IGSA now has these members, according to Ridings:

Hot Springs, Ark.; Baton Rouge, La.; Montreal, Canada; Cleveland, Ohio; Fort Wayne, Ind.; Greensboro, N. C.; Houston, Tex., Hartford, Conn.; Kansas City, Louisville, Los Angeles, New Orleans, Phoenix, Akron, St. Paul, Tam O'Shanter, Chicago; Texas Open, San Antonio; Tijuana Tucson and Wilmington N. C. Roger S. Hagel of Phoenix is president.

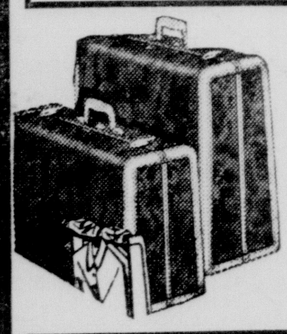

Ridings said May in his letter, expressed concern over the fact that the PGA tournament budget expense had increased from $85-000 last year to $156,000 this year which May called "tremendously out of line for the handling of the $815,000 in tournaments on the 1958 schedule. It is approximately 20 per cent."

NAIA ANSWER

NCAA Asks No Squabble With Small College Set

By SKIPPER PATRICK

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Assn. (NCAA) says it isn't engaged in a battle with anyone at the moment and apparently has no intention of getting into a squabble with the National Intercollegiate Athletic Assn. (NAIA) over dual memberships.

Walter Byers, executive director of NCAA, said he couldn't agree with recent charges made by NAIA that the smaller schools don't have adequate participation in affairs of college athletics on the national level.

"Almost 200 smaller institutions have become members of the NCAA during the past seven years which seems to be positive proof that the NCAA provides services and benefits which they can't find anywhere else," Byers commented after considerable prodding. "We do not conduct membership drives or solicit members and we are really proud and grateful that our membership has increased by 88 per cent during this period."

There has been open resentment by numerous NAIA members against the NCAA since NCAA started its college division basketball tournament two years ago. The annual National Intercollegiate Tournament in Kansas City has been the NAIA's bread and butter ever since the organization was founded.

The NAIA contends the NCAA never did anything on a national scale for its small college members until the NAIA established and built up its national basketball tournament here over a period of 15 years.

Byers insists the NCAA's college division basketball tournament was inaugurated at the request of NCAA small colleges and added: "I don't see why there should be objection to the NCAA conducting a tournament—whether it's in basketball or wrestling—for its own member colleges."

The NAIA recently lined up with the junior college and high school groups on the matter of football playing rules, which conflict primarily with the new NCAA code in scoring points after touchdowns and free substitution.

Just what effect the rules business will have on dual membership remains to be seen. Byers said he did not anticipate any appreciable effect on NCAA membership.

Al Duer, executive secretary of NAIA, says members of his organization will have the right to decide which rules they will use for a particular game, that there will be no restrictions against NAIA members using the NCAA code.

Except for its 15 championship events, the NCAA has never told its members what rules they must play by.

The fact remains, however, that it isn't likely a team will play by one set of regulations one week and by another code the next week. There's bound to be some switches in affiliations.

Just how many dual members are there? NAIA sets the number at 140.

"I can't tell you how many dual members we have," Byers said, adding he has never seen a list of the NAIA members.

The NCAA rolls show 510 members including 472 active member colleges and universities, 25 allied conferences and 13 affiliated coaches associations.

Of its active members, 300 fall into the small school or college division compared to 172 in the big school or university class. NCAA membership has almost doubled in seven years — 281 in 1950 to its present enrollment. The average increase for this period has been 27.5 members a year of 2.4 members per month. Virtually all of the schools added since 1950 have been smaller institutions.

The NCAA held its first convention in 1906 primarily for the purpose of creating safe and common playing rules for football.

"Our rules committee now draw the official playing rules for 15 college sports," Byers said. "We think our rules committees have done an excellent job throughout the years and have rendered invaluable service. We are confident all NCAA members share this feeling."

"A lot of people have worked long hours to make the NCAA a useful and worthwhile organization," Byers continued. Our thought is that if you attend to your own business, do the best job you can and turn out a worthwhile end product—most things will take care of themselves."

DELHI MEETING, TOO

Wildlife Leaders Meet Here Tuesday

Monroe members of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation have scheduled two important meetings this week pertaining to the May legislature and the organization of a new club.

In addition, the Ouachita Wildlife Unit will send a delegation to Delhi Thursday night to organize a club in Richland parish. The meeting will be held in the Community Center at 7:30 p.m.

According to A. S. Tidwell, federation secretary, the Tuesday night meeting in Monroe will bring out issues expected to be heard in the legislature in May.

Sportsmen will present their interest to the legislators present, Tidwell explained. Club officers of the area have been invited.

The Delhi meeting Thursday night will highlight the election of officers an board of directors members for the new Richland parish club.

Sportsmen from all over the parish are urged to attend. An attempt to organize a club in Rayville several weeks ago failed.

But sportsmen of the Rayville area are invited to attend the Delhi meeting. Ramrodding the meeting are Louie Ballard, Bob Region and T. J. Coenen.

The T. L. James Company will again sponsor the team and Clyde Berry, Jonesboro-Hodge, High coach, succeeds Ted Gullatt as the team's coach. Coach Eddie McLane will be the business manager.

Players back are Charles Fuller of Dubach, outstanding pitcher, power hitter John Bailey of Jonesboro, Lamont Massey, a fine player last year, Ronnie Marrus, who has two more years of Legion competition, Max Lewis basketball and baseball star of Simsboro and Dewey Smith, star receiver from Bernice.

The Ruston Legion team was given a trip to St. Louis last year by the James Company to see the crucial Cardinal - Brave series. The boys met Stan Musial and enjoyed a steak dinner at his restaurant.

WESTERN DEBUT TUESDAY

Dodgers, Giants Pointing For Pacific Coast Opener

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Major league baseball on the West Coast, a goal for decades, becomes reality on Tuesday when the San Francisco Giants and Los Angeles Dodgers open their 1958 National League season here.

A throng of 23,400 farsighted and quick acting fans will watch Mayor George Christopher throw out the ball that ushers in a new baseball era for California, a home for the minors since the turn of the century.

President Horace Stoneham, who moved his Giants from New York's Polo Grounds to San Francisco in the face of dropping attendance, says only the physical restrictions of Seals Stadium kept the opening day crowd below 90,000. More than $200,000 had to be returned to fans who ordered after the sellout of last Dec. 1.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick and National League President Warren Giles will skip the opening of the world champion Milwaukee Braves to see the California inaugural. Mrs. John McGraw, widow of the most famed of the Giants' managers, will be an honored guest.

Missing the opening day will be pay TV, acknowledged as a motivating influence in the shift of the Giants franchise here and that of Brooklyn to Los Angeles. It may be ready for 1959, the season the Giants expect to move into a new park with a 45,000 capacity. Until then they play in the old home of the San Francisco Seals, a former bulwark of the Pacific Coast League.

Taking advantage of the traditional San Francisco-Los Angeles rivalry, the two clubs play here Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 p.m., Wednesday night and Thursday afternoon. Then they go to Los Angeles for games Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The Dodgers for this season and next play their games in the Los Angeles Coliseum, a vast edifice with 101,000 seats. Transforming this track and football stadium into one for baseball brought some howls because it's only 250 feet to the left field fence. To compensate a 42-foot high barrier was erected.

Civic celebrations are planned both in San Francisco and Los Angeles with parades and banquets.

San Francisco Manager Bill Rigney introduces his players at a Monday noon luncheon with Frick, Giles and Dodger Manager Walter Alston also in attendance along with Stoneham and other Giant brass.

President Walter O'Malley and his Dodgers will be guests Thursday night in Los Angeles at a banquet with the new Los Angeles chapter of the Baseball Writers Assn. as host. Art Linkletter, singer Dinah Shore and Bob Crosby's band will be featured headliners.

San Francisco's welcoming parade comes Monday. Los Angeles holds its on Friday after O'Malley presents Mayor Norris Poulson with a plaque in the shape of a home plate.

California justifiably can be happy, not only with landing major league baseball but also with the multi-million dollar boost it can be expected to bring as a tourist attraction.

The Downtown Business Assn. of San Francisco estimates, for instance, that major league baseball will have an eight to 10 million dollar boost on business here during the next five years.

All isn't California sunshine for the major leaguers, however. A referendum comes up in Los Angeles this summer to determine if O'Malley gets the Chavez Ravine property he wants for a new stadium.

The situation isn't as close in San Francisco but bickering has broken out over the proposed Candlestick Point Park planned for the Giants. In 1954 San Francisco voted bond issues of five million dollars for use in building of a park whenever a major league franchise was obtained.

Cost of the stadium now is estimated at 10½ million dollars with another four million required for streets and sewer improvements in the area.

While they play in their temporary quarters, both the Giants and Dodgers face parking and traffic problems. Only limited parking is available at Seals Stadium, near downtown San Francisco. The plans for the new stadium call for parking space to accommodate 10,000 cars.

The Sixth District Agricultural Assn., which owns parking lots around the Los Angeles Coliseum, said it has room for only about 3,400 cars and 100 buses.

Hopes frequently were expressed that the major leagues would move or expand into California. Then on May 28, 1957, came the electrifying news that the National League had given permission to the Giants and Dodgers to move to the Coast if they desired.

This continued a pattern begun in 1953 when the Boston Braves moved to Milwaukee and was followed in 1954 by the move of the St. Louis Browns to Baltimore and in 1955 of The Philadelphia Athletics to Kansas City. Now only Chicago has more than one major league team.

After long discussions, first the Giants on last Aug. 19 and then the Dodgers on Oct. 8 announced they were moving to California.

Historically, the Giants were an original member of the National League when it was formed in 1876. They represented New York City ever since except for a six-year period from 1877-1882. The Dodgers joined the league in 1890. While Brooklyn wasn't always blessed with top flight teams, it boasted the most colorful history in baseball.

Known familiarly in Brooklyn as Dem Bums, that title was editorially dropped in Los Angeles when the switch was made.

Money proved a big move in switching the franchise and to date the advance ticket sales bear out the financial wisdom of the move. Despite heavy rains of the past six weeks which cut sales below expectations, the Giants have an advance sale of about 1¼ million dollars or 35 per cent more than the best they ever had in New York City.

MONROE WANTS IN

Big 8 To Vote On Expansion Plans

RUSTON, La. (Special) --The Big 8 League will decide Monday night whether to live up to its name and expand to eight teams or continue as a six-team circuit.

Bossier City and Monroe have requested entrance into the semi-pro loop and their acceptance will be the main topic of discussion at the 8 o'clock meeting in City Hall here. The league managers voted unanimously in an earlier meeting to shift the Springhill franchise to El Dorado, Ark.

The six clubs presently in the league are Bastrop, Bernice, Homer, Minden, Ruston and El Dorado. Ed Head, former Dodger pitcher of no-hit fame, will manage Bastrop, Johnny Emmons, Northwestern football and baseball star, will pilot Bernice, and LSU's fine fullback and catcher of a few years back, Jerry Marchand, will lead Homer.

Billy Henderson, formerly of Tech and eight years as a player and manager in the Big 8, will be the Ruston manager, another ex-Tech athlete, Milford Andrews, now coaching at Fair Park, will handle the reigns at Minden and ex-pro player Pete Mayheu will manage the El Dorado entry.

The season opens this year May 31 with a Shaughnessey play off at the season's end. The schedule calls for thirty games to be played on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights.

At their last meeting, the league managers voted to abide by the NCAA rules relative to college players participating in summer baseball.

42 SECTIONS

Growth Of Publinks Golf Hits New Peak

NEW YORK (AP)—The growing national public links golf championship will require 42 qualifying sections—five more than last year, the U. S. Golf Assn. said Saturday.

The 36-hole sectional qualifying rounds will be played on various dates from June 14 through June 21. These will qualify 148 players for the championship proper at the North Course of the Silver Lake Golf Club, Orland Park, Ill., July 7-12. Last year's champion and runner-up are exempt.

Sectional qualifying sites were added at Washington, D. C.; Fargo, N. D.; Albuquerque, N. M.; Austin and Big Spring, Tex., and Kansas City, Mo. The one at Baltimore was dropped.

The tournament attracted 1,923 entries last year, when it was played at Hershey, Pa. An even greater number is expected this year with the tournament at a central location.

The two exempt players, if still eligible, and the sectional qualifiers will play a 36-hole qualifying competition at the tournament site July 7-8. This will determine the team championship for the Warren G. Harding Cup and the 64 qualifiers for match play, starting July 9. Entries close May 29.

Don Essig III of Indianapolis, last year's winner, is a student at Louisiana State University. Runner-up Gene Townry of Dallas is a part-time electronics student at Southern Methodist. Both are eligible this year unless they have joined private clubs.

Entries are open only to male amateur golfers who have been bona fide public course players since Jan. 1 and who have not held privileges of any private club maintaining its own course or of any course to which the general public is not admitted.

Public links players are permitted to hold incidental private course privileges if they are provided by an educational institution, a federal armed service or an industry. They also are permitted to accept expense payments for the tournament if administered by a USGA representative in their districts.

June 14—Spokane, Wash.

June 15—Honolulu, San Francisco, Peoria, Ill.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Wichita, Kan.; Louisville, Ky.; New Orleans; Cleveland, Dayton, Ohio; Oklahoma City, Seattle, Milwaukee.

Error In 7th Clinches Win For Grambling

GRAMBLING, La. (Special) — Grambling beats Arkansas AM& N 6 to 2, here yesterday to sweep a three - game series, as Clyde Pacquet helped win his own game when his grounder was misplayed and Preston Powell scored with the lead run in the seventh inning.

Leroy Robinson, Grambling, and Robert Chapman, AM& N, had engaged in a tight mound duel for six innings and the score was tied 2-2 when Robinson was removed.

Arkansas drew first blood by scoring in the first inning on two singles and a past ball. Grambling tied up in the second on a walk, two errors, and Jamie Caleb; single.

Arkansas went ahead in the sixth, but Grambling tied up on Louis Wiggins triple and a sacrifice fly. Grambling put the game on ice by scoring three runs in the eighth on a single, a walk, a hit batsman, and a triple by Preston Powell. Grambling got seven hits and made one error. Arkansas had four hits and four errors Charles Henry Grambling College Grambling, La.

NAIA ANSWER

NCAA Asks No Squabble With Small College Set

By SKIPPER PATRICK

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Assn. (NCAA) says it isn't engaged in a battle with anyone at the moment and apparently has no intention of getting into a squabble with the National Intercollegiate Athletic Assn. (NAIA) over dual memberships.

Walter Byers, executive director of NCAA, said he couldn't agree with recent charges made by NAIA that the smaller schools don't have adequate participation in affairs of college athletics on the national level.

"Almost 200 smaller institutions have become members of the NCAA during the past seven years which seems to be positive proof that the NCAA provides services and benefits which they can't find anywhere else," Byers commented after considerable prodding. "We do not conduct membership drives or solicit members and we are really proud and grateful that our membership has increased by 88 per cent during this period."

There has been open resentment by numerous NAIA members against the NCAA since NCAA started its college division basketball tournament two years ago. The annual National Intercollegiate Tournament in Kansas City has been the NAIA's bread and butter ever since the organization was founded.

The NAIA contends the NCAA never did anything on a national scale for its small college members until the NAIA established and built up its national basketball tournament here over a period of 15 years.

Byers insists the NCAA's college division basketball tournament was inaugurated at the request of NCAA small colleges and added: "I don't see why there should be objection to the NCAA conducting a tournament—whether it's in basketball or wrestling—for its own member colleges."

The NAIA recently lined up with the junior college and high school groups on the matter of football playing rules, which conflict primarily with the new NCAA code in scoring points after touchdowns and free substitution.

Just what effect the rules business will have on dual membership remains to be seen. Byers said he did not anticipate any appreciable effect on NCAA membership.

Al Duer, executive secretary of NAIA, says members of his organization will have the right to decide which rules they will use for a particular game, that there will be no restrictions against NAIA members using the NCAA code.

Except for its 15 championship events, the NCAA has never told its members what rules they must play by.

The fact remains, however, that it isn't likely a team will play by one set of regulations one week and by another code the next week. There's bound to be some switches in affiliations.

Just how many dual members are there? NAIA sets the number at 140.

"I can't tell you how many dual members we have," Byers said, adding he has never seen a list of the NAIA members.

The NCAA rolls show 510 members including 472 active member colleges and universities, 25 allied conferences and 13 affiliated coaches associations.

Of its active members, 300 fall into the small school or college division compared to 172 in the big school or university class. NCAA membership has almost doubled in seven years — 281 in 1950 to its present enrollment. The average increase for this period has been 27.5 members a year of 2.4 members per month. Virtually all of the schools added since 1950 have been smaller institutions.

The NCAA held its first convention in 1906 primarily for the purpose of creating safe and common playing rules for football.

"Our rules committee now draw the official playing rules for 15 college sports," Byers said. "We think our rules committees have done an excellent job throughout the years and have rendered invaluable service. We are confident all NCAA members share this feeling."

"A lot of people have worked long hours to make the NCAA a useful and worthwhile organization," Byers continued. Our thought is that if you attend to your own business, do the best job you can and turn out a worthwhile end product—most things will take care of themselves."

DELHI MEETING, TOO

Wildlife Leaders Meet Here Tuesday

Monroe members of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation have scheduled two important meetings this week pertaining to the May legislature and the organization of a new club.

In addition, the Ouachita Wildlife Unit will send a delegation to Delhi Thursday night to organize a club in Richland parish. The meeting will be held in the Community Center at 7:30 p.m.

According to A. S. Tidwell, federation secretary, the Tuesday night meeting in Monroe will bring out issues expected to be heard in the legislature in May.

Sportsmen will present their interest to the legislators present, Tidwell explained. Club officers of the area have been invited.

The Delhi meeting Thursday night will highlight the election of officers an board of directors members for the new Richland parish club.

Sportsmen from all over the parish are urged to attend. An attempt to organize a club in Rayville several weeks ago failed.

But sportsmen of the Rayville area are invited to attend the Delhi meeting. Ramrodding the meeting are Louie Ballard, Bob Region and T. J. Coenen.

RUSTON, La. (Special) —Six of last year's players will be back on the Ruston American Legion Junior baseball team, runner up to state champion Monroe in the district last year.

The T. L. James Company will again sponsor the team and Clyde Berry, Jonesboro-Hodge, High coach, succeeds Ted Gullatt as the team's coach. Coach Eddie McLane will be the business manager.

Players back are Charles Fuller of Dubach, outstanding pitcher, power hitter John Bailey of Jonesboro, Lamont Massey, a fine player last year, Ronnie Marrus, who has two more years of Legion competition, Max Lewis basketball and baseball star of Simsboro and Dewey Smith, star receiver from Bernice.

The Ruston Legion team was given a trip to St. Louis last year by the James Company to see the crucial Cardinal - Brave series. The boys met Stan Musial and enjoyed a steak dinner at his restaurant.

WESTERN DEBUT TUESDAY

Dodgers, Giants Pointing For Pacific Coast Opener

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Major league baseball on the West Coast, a goal for decades, becomes reality on Tuesday when the San Francisco Giants and Los Angeles Dodgers open their 1958 National League season here.

A throng of 23,400 farsighted and quick acting fans will watch Mayor George Christopher throw out the ball that ushers in a new baseball era for California, a home for the minors since the turn of the century.

President Horace Stoneham, who moved his Giants from New York's Polo Grounds to San Francisco in the face of dropping attendance, says only the physical restrictions of Seals Stadium kept the opening day crowd below 90,000. More than $200,000 had to be returned to fans who ordered after the sellout of last Dec. 1.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick and National League President Warren Giles will skip the opening of the world champion Milwaukee Braves to see the California inaugural. Mrs. John McGraw, widow of the most famed of the Giants' managers, will be an honored guest.

Missing the opening day will be pay TV, acknowledged as a motivating influence in the shift of the Giants franchise here and that of Brooklyn to Los Angeles. It may be ready for 1959, the season the Giants expect to move into a new park with a 45,000 capacity. Until then they play in the old home of the San Francisco Seals, a former bulwark of the Pacific Coast League.

Taking advantage of the traditional San Francisco-Los Angeles rivalry, the two clubs play here Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 p.m., Wednesday night and Thursday afternoon. Then they go to Los Angeles for games Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The Dodgers for this season and next play their games in the Los Angeles Coliseum, a vast edifice with 101,000 seats. Transforming this track and football stadium into one for baseball brought some howls because it's only 250 feet to the left field fence. To compensate a 42-foot high barrier was erected.

Civic celebrations are planned both in San Francisco and Los Angeles with parades and banquets.

San Francisco Manager Bill Rigney introduces his players at a Monday noon luncheon with Frick, Giles and Dodger Manager Walter Alston also in attendance along with Stoneham and other Giant brass.

President Walter O'Malley and his Dodgers will be guests Thursday night in Los Angeles at a banquet with the new Los Angeles chapter of the Baseball Writers Assn. as host. Art Linkletter, singer Dinah Shore and Bob Crosby's band will be featured headliners.

San Francisco's welcoming parade comes Monday. Los Angeles holds its on Friday after O'Malley presents Mayor Norris Poulson with a plaque in the shape of a home plate.

California justifiably can be happy, not only with landing major league baseball but also with the multi-million dollar boost it can be expected to bring as a tourist attraction.

The Downtown Business Assn. of San Francisco estimates, for instance, that major league baseball will have an eight to 10 million dollar boost on business here during the next five years.

All isn't California sunshine for the major leaguers, however. A referendum comes up in Los Angeles this summer to determine if O'Malley gets the Chavez Ravine property he wants for a new stadium.

The situation isn't as close in San Francisco but bickering has broken out over the proposed Candlestick Point Park planned for the Giants. In 1954 San Francisco voted bond issues of five million dollars for use in building of a park whenever a major league franchise was obtained.

Cost of the stadium now is estimated at 10½ million dollars with another four million required for streets and sewer improvements in the area.

While they play in their temporary quarters, both the Giants and Dodgers face parking and traffic problems. Only limited parking is available at Seals Stadium, near downtown San Francisco. The plans for the new stadium call for parking space to accommodate 10,000 cars.

The Sixth District Agricultural Assn., which owns parking lots around the Los Angeles Coliseum, said it has room for only about 3,400 cars and 100 buses.

Hopes frequently were expressed that the major leagues would move or expand into California. Then on May 28, 1957, came the electrifying news that the National League had given permission to the Giants and Dodgers to move to the Coast if they desired.

This continued a pattern begun in 1953 when the Boston Braves moved to Milwaukee and was followed in 1954 by the move of the St. Louis Browns to Baltimore and in 1955 of The Philadelphia Athletics to Kansas City. Now only Chicago has more than one major league team.

After long discussions, first the Giants on last Aug. 19 and then the Dodgers on Oct. 8 announced they were moving to California.

Historically, the Giants were an original member of the National League when it was formed in 1876. They represented New York City ever since except for a six-year period from 1877-1882. The Dodgers joined the league in 1890. While Brooklyn wasn't always blessed with top flight teams, it boasted the most colorful history in baseball.

Known familiarly in Brooklyn as Dem Bums, that title was editorially dropped in Los Angeles when the switch was made.

Money proved a big move in switching the franchise and to date the advance ticket sales bear out the financial wisdom of the move. Despite heavy rains of the past six weeks which cut sales below expectations, the Giants have an advance sale of about 1⅛ million dollars or 35 per cent more than the best they ever had in New York City.

MONROE WANTS IN

Big 8 To Vote On Expansion Plans

RUSTON, La. (Special) —The Big 8 League will decide Monday night whether to live up to its name and expand to eight teams or continue as a six-team circuit.

Bossier City and Monroe have requested entrance into the semi-pro loop and their acceptance will be the main topic of discussion at the 8 o'clock meeting in City Hall here. The league managers voted unanimously in an earlier meeting to shift the Springhill franchise to El Dorado, Ark.

The six clubs presently in the league are Bastrop, Bernice, Homer, Minden, Ruston and El Dorado. Ed Head, former Dodger pitcher of no-hit fame, will manage Bastrop, Johnny Emmons, Northwestern football and baseball star, will pilot Bernice, and LSU's fine fullback and catcher of a few years back, Jerry Marchand, will lead Homer.

Billy Henderson, formerly of Tech and eight years as a player and manager in the Big 8, will be the Ruston manager, another ex-Tech athlete, Milford Andrews, now coaching at Fair Park, will handle the reigns at Minden and ex-pro player Pete Mayheu will manage the El Dorado entry.

The season opens this year May 31 with a Shaughnessey play off at the season's end. The schedule calls for thirty games to be played on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights.

At their last meeting, the league managers voted to abide by the NCAA rules relative to college players participating in summer baseball.

Growth Of Publinks Golf Hits New Peak

NEW YORK (AP)—The growing national public links golf championship will require 42 qualifying sections—five more than last year, the U. S. Golf Assn. said Saturday.

The 36-hole sectional qualifying rounds will be played on various dates from June 14 through June 21. These will qualify 148 players for the championship proper at the North Course of the Silver Lake Golf Club, Orland Park, Ill., July 7-12. Last year's champion and runner-up are exempt.

Sectional qualifying sites were added at Washington, D. C.; Fargo, N. D.; Albuquerque, N. M.; Austin and Big Spring, Tex., and Kansas City, Mo. The one at Baltimore was dropped.

The tournament attracted 1,923 entries last year, when it was played at Hershey, Pa. An even greater number is expected this year with the tournament at a central location.

The two exempt players, if still eligible, and the sectional qualifiers will play a 36-hole qualifying competition at the tournament site July 7-8. This will determine the team championship for the Warren G. Harding Cup and the 64 qualifiers for match play, starting July 9. Entries close May 29.

Don Essig III of Indianapolis, last year's winner, is a student at Louisiana State University. Runner-up Gene Townry of Dallas is a part-time electronics student at Southern Methodist. Both are eligible this year unless they have joined private clubs.

Entries are open only to male amateur golfers who have been bona fide public course players since Jan. 1 and who have not held privileges of any private club maintaining its own course or of any course to which the general public is not admitted.

Public links players are permitted to hold incidental private course privileges if they are provided by an educational institution, a federal armed service or an industry. They also are permitted to accept expense payments for the tournament if administered by a USGA representative in their districts.

June 14—Spokane, Wash.

June 15—Honolulu, San Francisco, Peoria, Ill.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Wichita, Kan.; Louisville, Ky.; New Orleans; Cleveland, Dayton, Ohio; Oklahoma City, Seattle, Milwaukee.

June 16—Detroit, St. Paul, Minn.; Buffalo, N.Y.; Portland, Ore.; Philadelphia, Memphis, Tenn.; Big Spring, Tex.

June 17—Washington, D.C.; Atlanta, Chicago, Fargo, N.C.

June 18—Charleston, S.C.; Salt Lake City.

June 19—Birmingham, Ala.; Kansas City, St. Louis, Albuquerque, N.M.; Pittsburgh.

June 20—Denver, Jacksonville, Fla.; Miami Springs, Fla.; High Point, N. C.; Dallas.

IN SEMI-FINALS

Nichols Leading Haas Golf Event

Curtis Nichols, the automobile dealer, led the way into the semi-finals of the ninth annual Cramer Haas Memorial Handicap Golf Tournament at Bayou DeSiard Country Club when he defeated Frank DDavis, 2 and 1, in the only quarter finals match played up until yesterday.

Three other quarter - finalists are still awaiting opponents, to be decided today, before they can accept chances to join Nichols in the semi - finals.

Nichols made it a fast week of two matches that included a 2-1 win over Amos Smelser in a third round match.

Other third round matches advanced John Eby, A. Gallagher, and H. L. Woods Jr. to the quarter - finals. Eby beat W. L. Dean, 3 and 2; Gallagher stopped Bob Ewing, 6 and 4; and Woods eliminated Jim Harper, 2 and 1.

Third round matches to be played not later than today are Ed Harper vs. L. D. Ritter, Fred Fudickar Jr. vs. H. C. Menuet, and Richard Guerriero vs. Raymond John.

ONE-BALL FOURSOME

Bayou DeSiard Country Club hosts a One - Ball Mixed Foursome Tournament this afternoon, pro Winnie Cole reported, and all teams planning to participate are required at Bayou DeSiard's Golf Shop by 11 o'clock this morning.

The tournament is scheduled to begin at 1 o'clock this afternoon and will be completed as a full evening event.

Date Ping Pong Tournament For Youngsters Here

A ping pong tournament for boys 14 years old and under has been scheduled by the Monroe Recreation department for Monday evening, April 21, Director Jack Hesketh said yesterday.

The tournament, to be conducted at the Monroe community Center, was scheduled after so many youngsters asked such a meet following the recent senior and junior tournaments for older players.

Tulane Golf Team Whips Tech, 13 To 5

RUSTON, La. (Special) —Tulane's golf team, with the number 3 and 4 men doing most of the damage, defeated Louisiana Tech, 13-5, Saturday afternoon on the Ruston Country Club course.

Three players shot 74 each to tie for medal honors. They were Joe Finklestein and Ed Weitz of Tulane and Don Goodspeed of Tech.

Tech is now 2-3 for the season. Their next contest is against Northeast State here Wednesday.

Summary:

No 1—Ed Weitz, Tulane, defeated Roy Nash, Tech, 2-1.

Nash and Goodspeed, Tech, defeated Weitz and Finkelstein, 2-1.

No. 3—Tommy Wittenburg, Tulane, defeated Pat Wright, Tech, 3-0.

Lincoln Road, Belleau Chief Earn Tickets

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Belleau Chief and Lincoln Road earned tickets to Churchill Downs and starting berths in the Kentucky Derby by finishing 1-2 Saturday in the $15,000 Biscayne Bay Handicap at Gulfstream Park.

Steve Brooks whipped Belleau Chief, owned by Mrs. Lora Birr, to a neck decision over Sunny Blue Farm's Lincoln Road in 1:42 for the mile and a sixteenth. The running time was two-fifths of a second off the track record set by mighty Round Table last month.

Belleau Chief paid $11.40, $3.50 and $2.90. Lincoln Road returned $2.70 and $2.50. Day Court $3.40.

The crowd was 17,043.

In his first two seasons as coach of the Hardin Simmons eleven, Sammy Baugh's teams have won nine and lost 11.

BOWLING

With Tommy Higgins

With only three weeks remaining on the 1957-58 Major League schedule Neon Sign doesn't figure on copping the championship. Neon, currently 38 games off the pace, stand however to win for the third straight year something greater than most of the teams now battling for the title sportsmanship, fellowship, friendship and undying team spirit.

The Neon team made up of Tom Agnew, Cecil Bamford, T. J. Canizaro, Bill Bryan, Joe Marsala and J. C. Holloway aren't pushovers by any means. Any man on the team is capable of coming up with the big game or series. When the whole team is "on" they murder the top teams.

Tom Agnew, who sponsors the team, could perhaps build a stronger squad, but like Tom says, "I have the best team in more ways than one right now." Like the famous coach said, "It's not how you won but the spirit in which you played the game."

Hats off from this corner to the Neon Sign team - - - - an asset to any community and bowling league.

I received a post card from the Business Women's League All - star first team. They want to challenge the Kegler League All - Star 2nd team to a match April 26, 1958 at 7 P. M. How about it men? Think you can beat the Ladies? They don't believe it.

Three leagues have a real close race going and with only about three weeks to go this season everyone seems to be following the tight ones real close. The Major League has two pewerhouses neck and neck with the two teams meeting each other this coming Monday night. The two teams are Royal Feed & Seed, captained by Casey Jones, and the Longview Equipment team with Cecil Moore at the helm. Royal leads by two points.

The Kegler League has been a two team race most of the year. Monroe "66" Oilers hold a bare one point lead over Jax Beer. Clover Leaf and A. & C. Music have an outside chance at the championship but it looks like time will catch up with these two teams as they finish in two weeks.

Spatafora's Grocery tied up the Pioneer League last night as they swept three points from the former league leaders Fink's Men's Wear. Chavis is only one point back and it looks like the whiz kids are going to flight team to be in the running but each week they go all out to win. The big teams didn't figure this top-continue to knock off their opponents. Three weeks remain in this league so right now it looks like a toss up as to who wins.

The St. Louis Budweisers rolled their alltime league record 3858 on March 12 against pins weighing between 3 pounds 3 ounces, according to high score claim applications filed with American Bowling Congress.

The score displaced on the season's high score list by the Buds' blast was a 3696 rolled on Oct. 9 by Rochez Bros. of Pittsburgh. Rochez's 3696, which fell from 7th to 8th spot on the alltime list, was rolled against 3 pound 7 and 3 pound 8 ounce pins that had been used for only nine previous games.

The Buds' pins, which averaged slightly more than 3 pounds 1 ounce, had been used for 210 previous games.

A perennial argument between golfers and bowlers is "which is more difficult, a 300 game or a hole in one. Of course, the two aren't comparable because one is a one - shot phenomena and the other requires 12 successive shots.

The golf Digest recorded 3,187 holes in one for 1957 while the ABC high score committee approved 302 perfect games bowled in ABC sanctioned league and tournament competition.

Big George Milan, "Mr. Basketball", proved he is quite a bowler as well as a basketball star. Bowling with Olin Mathinson in the Friday night league he posted games of 162 and 160.

Speedway Has 2nd Session Of Racing Season Today

The Twin City Speedway presents its second racing program of the season this afternoon with Royce Whitlock's number 13 still in its familiar role of favorite despite a flock of challengers and rumors of challengers.

Whitlock, the track's leading racer last year, won the modified division feature race and the trophy dash at last week's program on the half mile oval on the old Natchitoches road in West Monroe.

Today's program starts at 1 o'clock with time trials and continues with heat races, a trophy dash, a feature event for modified, cars, souped up stock autos, and a couple of jalopy races. Jalopies are cars with less than $150 spent on them.

All of last week's contenders to be in better shape with an extra week to get all the bugs out. There is talk of an out of town car in the making that could beat number 13. It's said no money or effort is being spared to make this the fastest car on the track. It's expected to race within three weeks.

Martins Rullah Jamaica Victor

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Martins Rullah owned by George Lewis of Los Angeles, finally won a stakes race Saturday when he came from next to last place under a cool ride by Conn McCreary and accounted for the $27,250 Experimental Free Handicap at Jamaica.

Not only did Martins Rullah qualify for next Saturday's Wood Memorial at Jamaica, but he injected himself into the Kentucky Derby picture as 3-year-olds took over the spotlight before a crowd of 40,004.

In the preceding race, George D. Widener's undefeated Pundit ran his string to three straight when he outgamed Templeton Stable's Clandestine in another ding-dong mile and one sixteenth battle.

Pundit, a chestnut son of Nasrullah-Time to Dine, rallied after giving up the lead briefly at the head of the stretch and barged home a neck winner over Clandestine. The latter, however, was far from disgraced as he had never tried the distance. Pundit had won at a mile and a sixteenth a week ago.

Six 3-year-olds started in the race, styled the Meadowview but only Pundit and Clandestine are eligible for the Wood. Both also are nominees for the 125,000 added Derby at Louisville May 3.

Martins Rullah, who had finished fifth in both the Santa Anita Derby, won by Silky Sullivan, and the Florida Derby, taken by Tim Tam, had a sparkling clocking on the "good" track still wet from Friday's rain.

His 1:43 1-5 under 110 pounds was the fastest ever for the Experimental. It bettered the 1:44 stakes record turned in by Blue Man in 1952.

The time for Pundit, who didn't race as a 2-year-old, and is not as far advanced in his Derby preparations, was a creditable 1:44 3-5. Pundit packed 117 pounds to 113 for Clandestine.

Noureddin, owned by Dr. Peter Graffagnino of New Orleans, finished second in the Experimental with 108 pounds, a length and three quarters back of Martins Rullah. Third, another four lengths in the rear, was the Merrick Stables Wing Jet. Elkcam Stable's Hubcap was fourth.

Martins Rullah, coupled with Nisht Amool, paid $7.80, $4.00 and $2.70. Noureddin returned $10.20 and $5.30, and Wing Jet $4.70. Nisht Amool was eighth.

Jockey Paul Bailey took Pundit to the front immediately after the start in the Meadowview, but Eddie Arcaro went right after him with Clandestine. The leaders made it a two-horse race down the backstretch with Pundit never more than length and a half in front.

Clandestine began pulling alongside Pundit on the final turn and, as they straightened for home, stuck his nose in front. Bailey whacked Pundit once with the whip and the Widener colt regained the lead near the eighth pole.

Pundit paid $7.90, $2.70 and $2.40 Clandestine returned $2.30 and $2.20 and Peter Fuller's Incipatus, another 4½ lengths back, was $2.70 to show.

IN SEMI-FINALS

Nichols Leading Haas Golf Event

Curtis Nichols, the automobile dealer, led the way into the semi-finals of the ninth annual Cramer Haas Memorial Handicap Golf Tournament at Bayou DeSiard Country Club when he defeated Frank DDavis, 2 and 1, in the only quarter finals match played up until yesterday.

Three other quarter - finalists are still awaiting opponents, to be decided today, before they can accept chances to join Nichols in the semi - finals.

Nichols made it a fast week of two matches that included a 2-1 win over Amos Smelser in a third round match.

Other third round matches advanced John Eby, Al Gallagher, and H. L. Woods Jr. to the quarter - finals. Eby beat W. L. Dean, 3 and 2; Gallagher stopped Bob Ewing, 6 and 4; and Woods eliminated Jim Harper, 2 and 1.

Third round matches to be played not later than today are Ed Harper vs. L. D. Ritter, Fred Fudickar Jr. vs. H. C. Menuet, and Richard Guerriero vs. Raymond John.

ONE-BALL FOURSOME

Bayou DeSiard Country Club hosts a One - Ball Mixed Foursome Tournament this afternoon, pro Winnie Cole reported, and all teams planning to participate are required at Bayou Desiard's Golf Shop by 11 o'clock this morning.

The tournament is scheduled to begin at 1 o'clock this afternoon and will be completed as a full evening event.

Date Ping Pong Tournament For Youngsters Here

A ping pong tournament for boys 14 years old and under has been scheduled by the Monroe Recreation department for Monday evening, April 21, Director Jack Hesketh said yesterday.

The tournament, to be conducted at the Monroe community Center, was scheduled after so many youngsters asked such a meet following the recent senior and junior tournaments for older players.

No. 4—Wayne Barzelo, Tulane, defeated Jimmy Head, Tech, 3-0.

Lincoln Road, Belleau Chief Earn Tickets

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Belleau Chief and Lincoln Road earned tickets to Churchill Downs and starting berths in the Kentucky Derby by finishing 1-2 Saturday in the $15,000 Biscayne Bay Handicap at Gulfstream Park.

Steve Brooks whipped Belleau Chief, owned by Mrs. Lora Birr, to a neck decision over Sunny Blue Farm's Lincoln Road in 1:42 for the mile and a sixteenth. The running time was two-fifths of a second off the track record set by mighty Round Table last month.

Belleau Chief paid $11.40, $3.50 and $2.90. Lincoln Road returned $2.70 and $2.50. Day Court $3.40.

The crowd was 17,043.

In his first two seasons as coach of the Hardin Simmons eleven, Sammy Baugh's teams have won nine and lost 11.

BOWLING

With Tommy Higgins

With only three weeks remaining on the 1957-58 Major League schedule Neon Sign does'nt figure on copping the championship. Neon, currently 38 games off the pace, stand however to win for the third straight year something greater than most of the teams now battling for the title sportsmanship, fellowship, friendship and undying team spirit.

The Neon team made up of Tom Agnew, Cecil Bamford, T. J. Canizaro, Bill Bryan, Joe Marsala and J. C. Holloway aren't pushovers by any means. Any man on the team is capable of coming up with the big game or series. When the whole team is "on" they murder the top teams.

Tom Agnew, who sponsors the team, could perhaps build a stronger squad, but like Tom says, "I have the best team in more ways than one right now." Like the famous coach said, "It's not how you won but the spirit in which you played the game."

Hats off from this corner to the Neon Sign team - - - - an asset to any community and bowling league.

I received a post card from the Business Women's League All - star first team. They want to challenge the Kegler League All - Star 2nd team to a match April 26, 1958 at 7 P. M. How about it men? Think you can beat the Ladies? They don't believe it.

Three leagues have a real close race going and with only about three weeks to go this season everyone seems to be following the tight ones real close. The Major League has two pewerhouses neck and neck with the two teams meeting each other this coming Monday night. The two teams are Royal Feed & Seed, captained by Casey Jones, and the Longview Equipment team with Cecil Moore at the helm. Royal leads by two points.

The Kegler League has been a two team race most of the year. Monroe "66" Oilers hold a bare one point lead over Jax Beer. Clover Leaf and A. & C. Music have an outside chance at the championship but it looks like time will catch up with these two teams as they finish in two weeks.

Spatafora's Grocery tied up the Pioneer League last night as they swept three points from the former league leaders Fink's Men's Wear. Chavis is only one point back and it looks like the whiz kids are going to flight team to be in the running but each week they go all out to win. The big teams didn't figure this top-continue to knock off their opponents. Three weeks remain in this league so right now it looks like a toss up as to who wins.

The St. Louis Budweisers rolled their alltime league record 3858 on March 12 against pins weighing between 3 pounds 3 ounces, according to high score claim applications filed with American Bowling Congress.

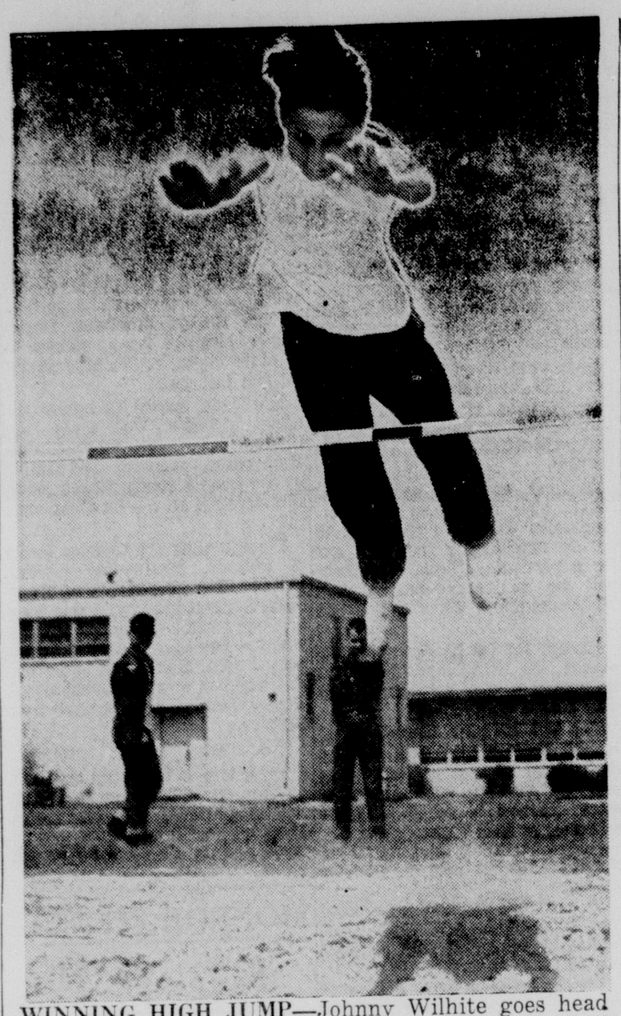

The score displaced on the season's high score list by the Buds' blast was a 3696 rolled on Oct. 9 by Rochez Bros. of Pittsburgh. Rochez's 3696, which fell from 7th to 8th spot on the alltime list, was rolled against 3 pound 7 and 3 pound 8 ounce pins that had been used for only nine previous games.

The Buds' pins, which averaged slightly more than 3 pounds 1 ounce, had been used for 210 previous games.

A perennial argument between golfers and bowlers is "which is more difficult, a 300 game or a hole in one. Of course, the two aren't comparable because one is a one - shot phenomena and the other requires 12 successive shots.

The golf Digest recorded 3,187 holes in one for 1957 while the ABC high score committee approved 302 perfect games bowled in ABC sanctioned league and tournament competition.

Big George Milan, "Mr. Basketball", proved he is quite a bowler as well as a basketball star. Bowling with Olin Mathinson in the Friday night league he posted games of 162 and 160.

AFTER RECESS

Congress Returns To Work Monday

WASHINGTON (UP) —Congress returns Monday from a 10 - day Easter recess which convinced many members that the home folks are opposed to a quick anti-recession tax cut.

Senators and House members responding to a nationwide United Press survey reported that grass roots sentiment is running surprisingly strong against an income tax reduction at this time. The 50 congressmen questioned stood about 8 to 5 against hasty tax-cutting.

They found during visits to their home states that the recession was the top issue in the minds of most voters. But the majority appeared to favor a cautious approach to pump-priming legislation.

In general, the survey lent more support to President Eisenhower's wait-and-see attitude than to the demands from some Democrats for immediate tax cuts to put more money in the hands of consumers.

Will Consider Public Works

When the Senate reconvenes Monday, it will resume consideration of a bill to make a billion dollars available for loans to communities for public works projects. The Democratic leadership wanted to pass this measure before the recess, but Republicans forced a postponement.

The next anti-recession item on the House program probably will deal with unemployment compensation. This is a topic which figured prominently in reports by lawmakers in the United Press survey.

Congressmen found in their homefront political soundings that strictly local issues took precedence in some areas over such nationwide problems as unemployment, sagging farm income, inflation, space exploration and foreign policy.

Relatively few listed taxes as a major issue with their constituents although most reported considerable discussion of various proposed tax cuts.

Concerned Over Foreign Policy

Foreign policy — relations with Russia and the cold war—ranked second as a major issue. Concern overprices and inflation ranked third, in many cases tied in with apprehension over the business recession and unemployment.

Close behind and virtually tied for fourth place in the issues listed by the lawmakers were farm price and foreign aid—both pro and con.

Next in line not far behind were extension of reciprocal trade—with opinion badly divided—and concern over economy in government and the public debt. Taxes, national defense and expansion of unemployment compensation rounded out the top 10 major issues.

More than half the lawmakers listed the recession as a major issue. It outranked foreign policy, the runner-up by more than two to one.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.), after a tour of hard-hit Illinois cities, said he would renew his efforts for a tax cut even bigger than the five-billion-dollar slash he unsuccessfully backed last month. Douglas said things were worse than he thought.

Negro Boy Hurt In Accident Here

A seven - year- old Negro boy was injured when he darted from behind two parked cars into the path of a third vehicle here yesterday about 1:10 p.m.

City Police reports showed that Larry James Washington, 1508½ Adams St., ran in front of a car driven by J. L. Dennis, 57, of Box 1641, Monroe. Dennis braked his vehicle was unable to stop, officers said.

The youth was in Conway Hospital last night where it was reported he suffered a broken right leg, and bruises over his body.

Police said Dennis was headed north on North 14th st. when the youth ran from between two parked cars from west to east on the street in front of him. The point of impact was described as 38 feet north of the Washington Street intersection. Reports showed that the impact threw the boy about eight feet.

No charges were filed.

3 Arrested On Gambling Charges

Two of three Negroes jailed here yesterday on charges of gambling with dice were released on $255 property bonds, police said.

Held in City Jail in lieu of bond was C. N. Williams, 29, of 112 Vicksburg St. Loyce Coleman, 34, of 706 Goldman St., and Dolphis Mack, 36, of 205 Ninth St., were released on bond after they were charged with gambling, police said.

Large Fire In Warehouse; Total Loss

The 40 by 400 - foot wood and tin structure burned from fire of undetermined origin, Ferriday Fire Chief N. A. Moulle said. The building was owned by Joe Pasternack, hardware dealer and loan agency operator.

Three fire trucks - Ferriday's complete fire department—arrived on the scene to find the blaze out of control and centered successful efforts at saving several Negro residences about 40 feet away. There was no wind.

No Estimate

Pasternack did not estimate the loss, pending an inventory of the building's contents. There were known to be four old model autos, an abundance of lumber and fancy wood paneling, and a carload of sheetrock in the destroyed building. Several home applances also burned.

A group of telephone wires over the building were burned causing limited interruption of local service.

A newspaper deliveryman noted the smoke boiling from the building about 6 p.m. and reported the blaze.

A Pasternack employee said that the building had no electrical connections. It was located between the Missouri Pacific Railroad and Concordia Street.

Driver Is Booked On Four Counts

A 20-year-old Marion man was booked on four traffic violations including driving while under the influence of intoxicants and speeding, City Police disclosed here yesterday.

Officers said that Willie Leroy Ellis, was in jail under a $495 bond following his arrest on charges of driving while intoxicated, going 60 miles per hour in a 25-mile zone, reckless driving, and operating a vehicle which had an improper muffler.

The arrest occurred about 2 a. m. yesterday at South Fourth Street and Layton Avenue, officers reported.

Two Are Jailed On Auto Theft Charges

Police Chief James C. Kelly Jr., identified Douglas C. Noland, 18, of Hillhouse, and Thomas R. Massey, 17, of Lyons as the charged pair.

Kelly said the two were apprehended in Ruston yesterday on the theft charge and returned to Monroe where they were remanded in the Ouachita parish jail.

Meeting Held On D'Arbonne Lake Project

RUSTON (Special) — About 150 interested persons from Lincoln and Union parishes attended the Friday night meeting held at Louisiana Tech, concerning the proposed Lake D'Arbonne project.

The state govrenent has appropriated one million dollars for the project, and it is expected that 1½ million more will be appropriatel by the state legislature in the near future.

Under plans for the project, a dam would be built and some 15,000 acres would be flooded, at a cost of 2½ million. Most of the land would be in Union Parish, with some in Lincoln Parish.

Good effects on the economy would be realized from such a project, officials believe, since the water would be for fishing and general recreational purpose and would be expected to build up the tourist trade.

Water Conservation

Water conservation would be another good facet of the project, officials added, since the flooded land would increase the natural water supply.

At Friday night's meet, a panel consisting of Loris Wimberly, head of Louisiana public works' Calvin Watts, Wimberly's assistant, and Armand Raburn, Farmerville attorney, outlined the project.

Films provided by the United States government, showing good effects obtained from similar projects, were also shown to the group.

The board of commissioners of the project ask public support in this endeavor, and are continuing work at this time. Commissioners are in charge of buying up land to put to use for this purpose.

AFTER RECESS

Congress Returns To Work Monday

WASHINGTON (UP) —Congress returns Monday from a 10 - day Easter recess which convinced many members that the home folks are opposed to a quick anti-recession tax cut.

Senators and House members responding to a nationwide United Press survey reported that grass roots sentiment is running surprisingly strong against an income tax reduction at this time. The 50 congressmen questioned stood about 8 to 5 against hasty tax-cutting.

They found during visits to their home states that the recession was the top issue in the minds of most voters. But the majority appeared to favor a cautious approach to pump-priming legislation.

In general, the survey lent more support to President Eisenhower's wait-and-see attitude than to the demands from some Democrats for immediate tax cuts to put more money in the hands of consumers.

Will Consider Public Works

When the Senate reconvenes Monday, it will resume consideration of a bill to make a billion dollars available for loans to communities for public works projects. The Democratic leadership wanted to pass this measure before the recess, but Republicans forced a postponement.

The next anti-recession item on the House program probably will deal with unemployment compensation. This is a topic which figured prominently in reports by lawmakers in the United Press survey.

Congressmen found in their homefront political soundings that strictly local issues took precedence in some areas over such nationwide problems as unemployment, sagging farm income, inflation, space exploration and foreign policy.

Relatively few listed taxes as a major issue with their constituents although most reported considerable discussion of various proposed tax cuts.

Concerned Over Foreign Policy

Foreign policy — relations with Russia and the cold war—ranked second as a major issue. Concern overprices and inflation ranked third, in many cases tied in with apprehension over the business recession and unemployment.

Close behind and virtually tied for fourth place in the issues listed by the lawmakers were farm price and foreign aid—both pro and con.

Next in line not far behind were extension of reciprocal trade—with opinion badly divided—and concern over economy in government and the public debt. Taxes, national defense and expansion of unemployment compensation rounded out the top 10 major issues.

More than half the lawmakers listed the recession as a major issue. It outranked foreign policy, the runner-up by more than two to one.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.), after a tour of hard-hit Illinois cities, said he would renew his efforts for a tax cut even bigger than the five-billion-dollar slash he unsuccessfully backed last month. Douglas said things were worse than he thought.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Add Many New Books

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

This week a large number of new books were added to the book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. They represent a variety of subjects and interests and there is certain to be something to appeal to every type of reader. In the field of fine arts there are several very interesting books. "Modern Prints and Drawings" by Paul J. Sachs is a very fine book. It is beautifully illustrated and is most informative. It covers the exciting history of prints and drawings from the time of Goya to the present. This is a worthy addition to any library and is one that all artists will enjoy. For the musicians in our community we have some new titles. "Harmony for the Listener" by Robert L. Jacobs is described by the author as an unconventional textbook. "Music Cross is the author of the Encyclopedia of the Great Composers and Their Music." This should be extremely useful. Then for the amateur musician there is a delightful book called "Home Fun with Music" written by Doron K. Antrim. The publishers say that this book will help you to play easy tunes on the piano after 20 minutes. Tell you how to get more pleasure out of singing and many other things. Gardners will be interested in a book called "Everyone" by J. P. Dix. This is an [illegible] which was [illegible] of the Dutch ship and we. If you are interested in baby, don't miss this book.

Far away places have an irresistable appeal to many people. If you are planning to travel, you should read before you travel. If you cannot go, be an armchair traveller. Whichever method you choose, you can use the books in the library collection. Many new titles were added to this group during the past week. "Put Off thy Shoes" by Elizabeth Hamilton is a very fine account of a journey through Palestine. "A Complete Guide to the Carribean and the Bahamas" by Andrew Hepburn is a must for anyone planning a trip in that region. It tells you where to go, what to see, what to do, how to get there, where to stay, where to eat and how much to pay. It has maps and photographs [illegible] is a certain invitation to travel. "Blue Moon in Portugal" is a very excellent book written by William and Elizabeth Younger. It is illustrated with a profusion of photographs and presents the fascination and charm of this old world country. Everyone who saw Peter Freuchen on a national T. V. program will want to read his last book which was finished after his death. It is called "The Arctic Year" and gives a month-by-month account of life in the Arctic Zone. A most valuable book for anyone planning to visit or live in South America is the South American Handbook which comes in a [illegible] We have received the 1957-58 edition, which contains a wealth of up to the minute information, condensed in a very small space. One of the outstanding books of 1957 was "Fact to Face" by Ved Mehta. It is an account of a blind Hindu boy who came to America for his education and liberation. Now at home is the world of "San Francisco Bay." written by Hazel Gilliam. This is the history, life and lore of [illegible] water.

Documented Story About Red Escape

ESCAPE FROM FEAR. By Marian A. Busten. Syracuse University Press. $3.95.

Busten has written a well-documented story of the events of the Hungarian revolt and the flight of refugees from communism — and their subsequent resettlement in the free world.

Busten was on the Austrian-Hungarian border to watch this flight. He himself participated in the efforts at resettlement. He knows the story — and he tells it well.

His book is a tribute not only to the Hungarian refugees themselves, but to the governmental, intergovernmental and private organizations which participated in the programs for relief and resettlement to escape in the aftermath of the Soviet - crushed Hungarian rebellion.

Though Busten is moderate indeed in his criticism of U.S. immigration procedures and practice, as shown during the Hungarian refugee crisis, his story is enough to make almost any American ashamed of the difficultues which U.S. immigration laws caused the U.S. government and the American people in the effort to meet that crisis.

The story leads to the conclusion that there must be provided some quick and efficient legal means under which any similar crisis in the future can be met with expedition.

New Book By Lillian Roth Is Excellent

BEYOND MY WORTH, By Lillian Roth. Frederick Fell. $3.95.

This book tells of Miss Roth's return to night club stardom, at $12,000 a week, of her search for religious understanding, of her fight to curb her temper, cure her melancholia, and other old weaknesses.

Her first book, "I'll Cry Tomorrow," was written in the hope it would help others. But she was not prepared for the thousands who wrote and came to her for help. A great part of this book is devoted to these letters and experiences, not only with alcoholics but with unwed mothers, a crippled girl, a murderer, a priest from Brazil, a group of schizophrenics in a hospital.

A chapter is devoted to her letter to a stage - struck 16-year-old, describing the joys and pitfalls of her chosen profession.

Still, one cannot help but feel that Miss Roth said all that needed saying in "I'll Cry Tomorrow." In the preface to this book, she says: "When I finished my autobiography, I laid down my pen for good, I thought. I was not a professional writer, after all, and henceforth would concentrate on rebuilding my career."

It would not have been a bad idea.

Plans Set For Giant Solar Furnace

ALAMOGORDO, N. M. (AP) —Construction is about to start on a massive mountain - top tool to see what intense heat does to materials which may go into space ship.

Final design is about complete for this immense outdoor laboratory instrument which —using a principle familiar to every Boy Scout—will concentrate temperatures up to 6,000 degrees Fahrenheit in a tiny circle five inches in diameter.

This temperature is 70 per cent as hot as the sun. It will be obtained by concentrating the sun's rays with a simple but giant - size system of optical mirrors. The price tag for the entire installation may run over 10 million dollars. The principle utilized is the same one employed by a boy who starts a campfire by using a magnifying glass to focus the sun's rays on a dry leaf.

Housing for the families of scientists and technicians who will man the mammoth is going up now. A start on the instrument itself is scheduled for late this spring.

"We hope to have it working the summer of 1959," says Dr. Knox Millsaps, chief scientist at the Air Force Missile Development Center.

"Unless the Russians have one," says Millsaps, "This will be three times as big as any solar furnace ever constructed." Another smaller one is being built for the Army Quartermaster Corps in Massachusetts.

"The main purpose of this one," Millsaps says, "is to provide a pure source of heat." Electric arcs and gas flames, conventional ways of obtaining heat, produce the high temperatures but the atmosphere around them is changed by burning oxygen.

Solar heat, which does not change structure of the surrounding atmosphere, is "pure" and thus duplicates more closely the conditions the metal skin and ribs of a space ship will be subjected to.

There will be three main parts in the massive solar furnace. One is a huge mirror measuring 154 by 145 feet—as tall as a 14-story building. The steel frame for this, called the heliostat, will weigh 2½ million pounds. The mirror will be mounted on a track so it can be turned to follow the sun.

A couple of city blocks away a giant frame holding a Venetian - blind type shutter will control the amount of light which reaches the third main part — a big saucer-shaped mirror mounted a short distance behind the shutter and in line with the first two parts.

By adjusting the shutter, Millsaps explains, it will be possible to regulate the amount of light reflected from the heliostat to the parabolic (saucer) mirror so that even the heat of a nuclear explosion can be simulated, from the time it starts building up to the time it dies down.

The shutter also will act as a switch. Close it, and the path of sunlight from the heliostat to the parabolic mirror will be cut off.

The saucer shape of the parabolic mirror will concentrate the sunlight into a super hot patch five inches in diameter —the largest bit of sun-heat scientists will have been able to concentrate so far.

In that spot goes the piece of mater al to be tested.

Millsaps figures that sometime in the summer of 1959 people will be able to see the finished product.

"It'll be a fascinating tool," he says. "I think it'll be one of the tourist attractions of the nation. A lot of the work will be classified, but we will do our best to cooperate with the public."

PURCHASE ANNOUNCED

DALLAS (UP)—Purchase of an interest in the KMA Field of Archer and Wichita counties and the Sacroc Unit in Scurry county for approximately $450,000 was announced Friday by Producing Properties, Inc., of Dallas.

PAGEANT PRESENTED

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UP) — The 24th annual Cotton Pageant was presented Friday night at Texas A&M College by the school's Student Agronomy Society. Murray Cox, farm editor of WFAA, Dallas, was master of ceremonies.

Russian Papers Are Now Sugar-Coating Party Pill

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

Russian newspaper editors show evidence lately of discovering something their American counterparts have known for years: pictures of babies, pets and pretty girls are sure-fire eye-catchers.

New use in Soviet papers of all three types of illustration is just one phase of a general campaign in the Soviet press to jazz itself up a bit and attract more readers. While Marxist-Leninist ideology still is the main dish, some Russian papers are putting more and more sugar on the party pill.

Many of them — Pravda and Izvestia, for instance—still are as dry as dust when compared with Western newspapers. But at least one—Komsomol Pravda — has acquired a fairly complete new look.

Komsomol Pravda recently introduced a new column called "We Advise the Young Housewife." The column tells Russian women who write in where to get instruction on how to knit a suit, how to remove ink spots from clothing, etc. This is a new departure in Russian newspapers which up to now have acted as if housewives and domestic problems of housekeeping didn't exist.

Not long ago the paper ran a column on fashions in answer to questions from readers. It was a pretty poor effort, but it was a start. This youth paper, like other Soviet papers, has always acted in the past as if nary a woman in the Soviet Union cared about clothes.

Soviet papers still don't use cheesecake. But Komsomol is getting closer to it than ever before. It printed a picture of a Georgian ballerina with a slight touch of what American photographers know as "cleavage." The Komsomol editors frequently run photographs of attractive Russian girls who, it always develops, have distinguished themselves at their lathes or in their studies or in the Komsomol work.

In addition to this, Komsomol Pravda has taken up the habit of running interesting non-political news items on occasion. Thus one can learn how some heroes successfully managed to disarm a bomb left over from World War II in the foundations of a factory in Ivov, how Soviet soldiers worked to save the lives and property of victims of a flood in the north Caucasus, how in the north Urals there are some "disappearing" lakes which cause great consternation to local inhabitants and intrigue scientists.

Like many other Soviet papers, Komsomol has recently been increasing the number of non-political cartoons which it publishes. Some are funny.

Along with this, sport coverage has been increased and a great number of human-interest photographs are being published.

But along with the new material there still remain big doses of boring propaganda articles and official documents. Despite recent changes, readers of American newspapers would still certainly find most Soviet newspapers dull stuff.

Two Books In One Make For Good Reading

WHITE EAGLES OVER SERBIA. By Lawrence Durrell. Criterion. $3. BITTER LEMONS. BY Lawrence Durrell. Dutton. $3.50.

Though neither of these is a match for "Justine," Durrell's uncommonly sensuous novel published some months ago and reviewed then, they share some of its qualities — the savory and evocative prose, for instance, and the knack for painting the unfamiliar foreign setting.

"White Eagles" is a suspense story against the rugged background of Yugoslav mountains. British secret service agent Methuen goes through some highly improbable adventures, with death dogging his steps, and yet your fancy is caught by wild vistas along beautiful wooded trout streams.

The more mature book is "Bitter Lemons," based on the author's 1953-56 residence on the island of Cyprus, beginning when the English and the Cypriots were friends and ending when the assassinations and retributions had stirred up bitter blood. There is a nice precarious balance between persisting personal loyalties and savage political enmities.

Durrell never lets Durrell down, which is to say, he's childishly pleased with his own behavior in a couple of tight spots; but even the deeds that are a credit to him are recounted in prose that's a credit to him, too.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Add Many New Books

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

This week a large number of new books were added to the book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. They represent a variety of subjects and interests and there is certain to be something to appeal to every type of reader. In the field of fine arts there are several very interesting books. "Modern Prints and Drawings" by Paul J. Sachs is a very fine book. It is beautifully illustrated and is most authoritative. It covers the creative history of prints and drawings from the time of Goya to the present. This is a worthy addition to any library and is one that all artists will enjoy. For the musicians in our community we have three new titles. "Harmony for the Listener" by Robert L. Jacobs is described by the author as an unconventional textbook; Milton Cross is the author of the "Encyclopedia of the Great Composers and Their Music." This book should be extremely useful. Then for the amateur musician there is a delightful book called "Having Fun with Music" written by Doron K. Antrim. The publishers say that this book will help you to play easy tunes on the piano after 20 minutes, tell you how to get more pleasure out of singing and many other pleasant activities. Gardners will be interested in a book called "Bulb Grow[illegible] for Everyone" by J. F. Dix. This is an English translation of a book which was first published in Holland. It gives many of the secrets of the Dutch tulip growers. If you are interested in bulbs, don't miss this book.

Far away places have an irresistable appeal to many people. If you are planning to travel, you should read before you travel. If you cannot go, be an armchair traveller. Whichever method you choose, you can use the books in the library collection. Many new titles were added to this group during the past week. "Put Off thy Shoes" by Elizabeth Hamilton is a very fine account of a journey through Palestine. "A Complete Guide to the Carribean and the Bahamas" by Andrew Hepburn is a must for anyone planning a trip in that region. It tells you where to go, what to see, what to do, how to get there, where to stay, where to eat and how much to pay. It has maps and photographs and is a certain invitation to travel. "Blue Moon in Portugal" is a very excellent book written by William and Elizabeth Younger. It is illustrated with a profusion of photographs and presents the fascination and charm of this old world country. Everyone who saw Peter Freuchen on a national T. V. program will want to read his last book, which was finished after his death. It is called "The Arctic Year" and gives a month-by-month account of life in the Arctic Zone. A most valuable book for anyone planning to visit or live in South America is the South American Handbook which comes out biennially. We have just received the 1957-58 edition, which contains a wealth of up to the minute information, condensed in a very small space. One of the outstanding books of 1957 was "Fact to Face "by Ved Meh. It is an account of a blind Hindu boy who found in America his education and liberation. Nearer home is the locale of "San Francisco Bay," written by Harold Gilliam. This gives the history, life and lore of this romantic body of water.

Documented Story About Red Escape

ESCAPE FROM FEAR. By Martin A. Bursten Syracuse University, $3.50.

Bursten has written a well-documented story of the flight from Hungary in November and December, 1956, of 200,000 refugees from communism — and their subsequent resettlement in the free world.

Bursten was on the Austrian-Hungarian border to watch this flight. He himself participated in the efforts at resettlement. He knows the story — and he tells it well.

His book is a tribute not only to the Hungarian refugees themselves, but to the governmental, intergovernmental and private organizations which participated in the programs for relief and resettlement to escape in the aftermath of the Soviet - crushed Hungarian rebellion.

Though Busten is moderate indeed in his criticism of U.S. immigration procedures and practice, as shown during the Hungarian refugee crisis, his story is enough to make almost any American ashamed of the difficultues which U.S. immigration laws caused the U.S. government and the American people in the effort to meet that crisis.

The story leads to the conclusion that there must be provided some quick and efficient legal means under which any similar crisis in the future can be met with expedition.

New Book By Lillian Roth Is Excellent

BEYOND MY WORTH, By Lillian Roth. Frederick Fell. $3.95.

This book tells of Miss Roth's return to night club stardom, at $12,000 a week, of her search for religious understanding, of her fight to curb her [illegible]mper, cure her melancholia, and other old weaknesses.

Her first book, "I'll Cry Tomorrow," was written in the hope it would help others. But she was not prepared for the thousands who wrote and came to her for help. A great part of this book is devoted to these letters and experiences, not only with alcoholics but with unwed mothers, a crippled girl, a murderer, a priest from Brazil, a group of schizophrenics in a hospital.

A chapter is devoted to her letter to a stage - struck 16-year-old, describing the joys and pitfalls of her chosen profession.

Still, one cannot help but feel that Miss Roth said all that needed saying in "I'll Cry Tomorrow." In the preface to this book, she says: "When I finished my autobiography, I laid down my pen for good, I thought. I was not a professional writer, after all, and henceforth would concentrate on rebuilding my career."

It would not have been a bad idea.

Plans Set For Giant Solar Furnace

ALAMOGORDO, N. M. (AP) —Construction is about to start on a massive mountain - top tool to see what intense heat does to materials which may go into space ship.

Final design is about complete for this immense outdoor laboratory instrument which —using a principle familiar to every Boy Scout—will concentrate temperatures up to 5,000 degrees Fahrenheit in a tiny circle five inches in diameter.

This temperature is 70 per cent as hot as the sun. It will be obtained by concentrating the sun's rays with a simple but giant - size system of optical mirrors. The price tag for the entire installation may run over 10 million dollars. The principle utilized is the same one employed by a boy who starts a campfire by using a magnifying glass to focus the sun's rays on a dry leaf.

Housing for the families of scientists and technicians who will man the mammoth is going up now. A start on the instrument itself is scheduled for late this spring.

"We hope to have it working the summer of 1959," says Dr. Knox Millsaps, chief scientist at the Air Force Missile Development Center.

"Unless the Russians have one," says Millsaps, "This will be three times as big as any solar furnace ever constructed." Another smaller one is being built for the Army Quartermaster Corps in Massachusetts.

"The main purpose of this one," Millsaps says, "is to provide a pure source of heat." Electric arcs and gas flames, conventional ways of obtaining heat, produce the high temperatures but the atmosphere around them is changed by burning oxygen.

Solar heat, which does not change structure of the surrounding atmosphere, is "pure" and thus duplicates more closely the conditions the metal skin and ribs of a space ship will be subjected to.

There will be three main parts in the massive solar furnace. One is a huge mirror measuring 154 by 145 feet—as tall as a 14-story building. The steel frame for this, called the heliostat, will weigh 2½ million pounds. The mirror will be mounted on a track so it can be turned to follow the sun.

A couple of city blocks away a giant frame holding a Venetian - blind type shutter will control the amount of light which reaches the third main part — a big saucer-shaped mirror mounted a short distance behind the shutter and in line with the first two parts.

By adjusting the shutter, Millsaps explains, it will be possible to regulate the amount of light reflected from the heliostat to the parabolic (saucer) mirror so that even the heat of a nuclear explosion can be simulated, from the time it starts building up to the time it dies down.

The shutter also will act as a switch. Close it, and the path of sunlight from the heliostat to the parabolic mirror will be cut off.

The saucer shape of the parabolic mirror will concentrate the sunlight into a super hot patch five inches in diameter —the largest bit of sun-heat scientists will have been able to concentrate so far.

In that spot goes the piece of material to be tested.

Millsaps figures that sometime in the summer of 1959 people will be able to see the finished product.

"It'll be a fascinating tool," he says. "I think it'll be one of the tourist attractions of the nation. A lot of the work will be classified, but we will do our best to cooperate with the public."

Russian Papers Are Now Sugar-Coating Party Pill

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

Russian newspaper editors show evidence lately of discovering something their American counterparts have known for years: pictures of babies, pets and pretty girls are sure-fire eye-catchers.

New use in Soviet papers of all three types of illustration is just one phase of a general campaign in the Soviet press to jazz itself up a bit and attract more readers. While Marxist-Leninist ideology still is the main dish, some Russian papers are putting more and more sugar on the party pill.

Many of them — Pravda and Izvestia, for instance—still are as dry as dust when compared with Western newspapers. But at least one—Komsomol Pravda — has acquired a fairly complete new look.

Komsomol Pravda recently introduced a new column called "We Advise the Young Housewife." The column tells Russian women who write in where to get instruction on how to knit a suit, how to remove ink spots from clothing, etc. This is a new departure in Russian newspapers which up to now have acted as if housewives and domestic problems of housekeeping didn't exist.

Not long ago the paper ran a column on fashions in answer to questions from readers. It was a pretty poor effort, but it was a start. This youth paper, like other Soviet papers, has always acted in the past as if nary a woman in the Soviet Union cared about clothes.

Soviet papers still don't use cheesecake. But Komsomol is getting closer to it than ever before. It printed a picture of a Georgian ballerina with a slight touch of what American photographers know as "cleavage." The Komsomol editors frequently run photographs of attractive Russian girls who, it always develops, have distinguished themselves at their lathes or in their studies or in the Komsomol work.

In addition to this, Komsomol Pravda has taken up the habit of running interesting non-political news items on occasion. Thus one can learn how some heroes successfully managed to disarm a bomb left over from World War II in the foundations of a factory in Ivov, how Soviet soldiers worked to save the lives and property of victims of a flood in the north Caucasus, how in the north Urals there are some "disappearing" lakes which cause great consternation to local inhabitants and intrigue scientists.

Like many other Soviet papers, Komsomol has recently been increasing the number of non-political cartoons which it publishes. Some are funny.

Along with this, sport coverage has been increased and a great number of human-interest photographs are being published.

But along with the new material there still remain big doses of boring propaganda articles and official documents. Despite recent changes, readers of American newspapers would still certainly find most Soviet newspapers dull stuff.

Two Books In One Make For Good Reading

Though neither of these is a match for "Justine," Durrell's uncommonly sensuous novel published some months ago and reviewed then, they share some of its qualities — the savory and evocative prose, for instance, and the knack for painting the unfamiliar foreign setting.

"White Eagles" is a suspense story against the rugged background of Yugoslav mountains. British secret service agent Methuen goes through some highly improbable adventures, with death dogging his steps, and yet your fancy is caught by wild vistas along beautiful wooded trout streams.

The more mature book is "Bitter Lemons," based on the author's 1953-56 residence on the island of Cyprus, beginning when the English and the Cypriots were friends and ending when the assassinations and retributions had stirred up bitter blood. There is a nice precarious balance between persisting personal loyalties and savage political enmities.

Durrell never lets Durrell down, which is to say, he's childishly pleased with his own behavior in a couple of tight spots; but even the deeds that are a credit to him are recounted in prose that's a credit to him, too.

Little Theater Curtain Call

By DELL MOORE

Reservations can be made at the theater for Witness starting Thursday from 2-7 p.m. daily, excluding Sunday. Call Velma Nichols, FA 3-4263.

We still need some men to work backstage during this show — so let us hear from you.

A coffee party was held Wednesday night at Jean Weil's for the cast and crew. These little get-togethers are always enjoyable—and you can see—it's not all work and no play.

Walter Speed is taking a ten-day vacation to Wisconsin. This will be the first show Walter has missed out of the last eleven. We certainly are going to miss his hair-styling.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Boardman are home from Florida after a four week visit with their daughter.

A board meeting was held on Wednesday night in the home of Mrs. Tom Pitt with thirteen members attending. Five persons have been selected as nominees as new directors for the coming year. An annual meeting will be held Monday, May 5th, to vote and elect new officers. This meeting will be held in the playhouse and all members are invited to attend and participate. If you are a member of the Little Theatre, why don't you mark this date on your date-book — this is your theatre, and you should be there, not only as support, but perhaps you would like to make suggestions.

Mrs. Pitt entertained with a lovely social hour after the board meeting. Refreshments were served in a beautifully decorated pink theme of candles and wild honeysuckle.

Readings were held yesterday for "Light Up the Sky" cast will be announced shortly.

Don't forget to make your reservation for "Witness."

Many Homestead Exemptions Still To Be Prepared

Approximately 600 homestead exemption forms still remain to be signed, Bert Coverdale, Ouachita parish tax assessor, said yesterday.

Coverdale pointed out that his office is remaining open during the noon hour in order to facilitate the signing by persons working in offices.

The deadline for signing the homestead exemption application forms is Tuesday. By state statutes, all persons who have not signed by that time will not be given the reduction in state and parish taxes.

Chemistry And Stamps Topic Of Discussion

In this atom and sputnik age, stamp collecting has received new accolades for its "contribution to human society."

On the agenda of the American Chemical Society, now meeting in San Francisco, a symposium was devoted to philately. A special paper prepared by Rudolph Vecerin and Dr. V. F. Payne dedicated to "Chemistry and Chemists on Stamps" was delivered.

It was cited that every major country in the world has issued stamps honoring the achievements of chemists.

In 1951 the United States issued a stamp commemorating the 75th anniversary of the American Chemical Society.

Austria has issued a new 4-schilling red stamp honoring the reactivation of the Austrian Airlines, reports Edwin Mueller.

Service on Austrian Airlines had been suspended since the Nazi occupation in 1938. The stamp also marks the 49th anniversary of the First Austrian air mail service established in 1918 from Vienna via Cracow, Lwow, Proskuro to Kiev and Odessa.

Depicted on the stamp is a four-motored plane in flight superimposed on a map of Austria. The initials AUA (Austrian Airlines) are in the lower left corner.

The Philatelic Institute, a non-profit organization which promotes stamp collecting, has come up with a handy device designed to help new collectors identify stamps.

The "Stamp Finder" is a little booklet which identifies all stamps. It also includes a new, complete U. S. Stamp Identifier to help distinguish between commonly found rare U. S. stamps that look alike.

A free copy of this 32-page booklet can be obtained by writing to the Philatelic Institute, Cambridge 39, Mass.

Stamp Notes: Laos has issued a set of seven stamps showing elephants. . . . Norway has announced that its present stamps picturing King Haakon will be replaced by stamps bearing the picture of King Olav. The first two in the series will be the 40 ore red and the 64 one blue . . . Finland has issued a new 4 markka stamp with the lion design similar to that of the lower values in Finland.

Curb-O-Cop System Here Is Readied

The Monroe police department tomorrow inaugurates the Curb-O-Cop money disposals throughout the downtown district on a permanent basis.

Announcement of the transfer from a trial to permanent basis was made yesterday by Chief of Police James C. Kelly, Jr., and Mayor W. L. Howard.

At the present only four curb-o-meters are installed downtown. Beginning tomorrow, 37 will be ready making it convenient for any motorist getting a parking violation ticket to dispose of the fine without going to the city police station.

To Be Extended

Chief Kelly said four of the curb - o - cops will be installed in each of the blocks on DeSiard Street. Later, these facilities will be extended to other parts of the city where parking meters are installed.

"We feel that the curb-o-cop has more than proved itself and, for that reason, we are putting them out on a larger scale. When the people become thoroughly familiar with these facilities, we will put them other places," Chief Kelly said.

The chief pointed out that the fines for parking violations remains $1, whether they are paid through use of the curb-o-cop or brought to the city hall.

Monroe Group To Leave For National Meet

Four members of the Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society of Children of the American Revolution, Monroe, accompanied by Mrs. Sherod W. McLean, senior president, will leave Wednesday for the sixty-third annual national convention, slated for the Mayflower Hotel, Washington, D. C., Friday through Sunday. The group will be part of 1,000 delegates to represent the various states at the meeting.

Representing the local chapter will be Jane O. Williams, state president, Peggy Pierce, president of the Lt. Joseph Bowmar chapter, Dorothy Amman and Linda Steele, delegates.

Miss Pierce, a senior student at Neville High School, has received a signal honor in having been invited to be one of four girls in the United States to serve on the hospitality committee. This honor came from a personal invitation by Mrs. E. Stewart James, senior national president.

Also Slated

Also slated for participating in one of the highlights of the convention will be the installation of Mrs. McLean as senior state president of the group in Louisiana The installation will be held at Mt. Vernon next Sunday.

Presiding at the convention will be Dorothy J. Buckton, New York City, national president. The program will include the reports of national chairmen of work accomplished and awards made.

Highlights of the convention will be a tour of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, tours of national shrines and election of officers for the coming year. A Louisiana member, David Harley Kemker Jr., of New Orleans, is candidate for national president. Twenty four other national officers will also be selected from the different states.

Eligibility Rules

The Children of the American Revolution organization is open to children who trace their ancestry back to one who supported the American cause in the Revolutionary War. Volunteer adult leaders at all levels come from the ranks of the sponsoring parent organizations, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Sons of the American Revolution and the Sons of the Revolution

Included in the highlights of entertainment are a concert by the U. S. Navy band, under the direction of Chief Musician Isadore Glazer; formal dinner and dance annual pilgrimage to the National Cathedral for memorial service Sunday, visit to the Arlington National Cemetery; services and tour of Mt. Vernon and ceremony at the tomb of the unknown Revolutionary War soldier at the Old Presbyterian Meeting House, Alexandria, Va.

DEFERS CASE

LAUREL, Miss. (AP) — Circuit Judge Lunsford Casey deferred until Monday the scheduled arraignment Friday of a 23-year-old Negro charged with rape and murder of an 18-month-old Negro girl.

Allen Dean Jr. was charged in connection with the April 6 kidnap, rape and strangulation of Shirley Ann Hayes.

ROMANTIC TEAM—Tab Hunter and lovely Etchika Choreau find each other in "Lafayette Escadrille," starting today at the Paramount Theatre. The film deals with an American youth in the French Air Force during World War I.

MORE ROAD FUNDS

TYLER, Tex. (UP)— Highway Commission Chairman Marshall Formby told the East Texas Chamber of Commerce Friday that the highway bill Congress passed last week will provide an extra 36 million dollars in federal funds for Texas in 1959. Formby said 12 million dollars will be spent on interstate routes and 24 million dollars on primary, secondary and urban construction.

Little Theater Curtain Call

By DELL MOORE

Reservations can be made at the theater for Witness starting Thursday from 2-7 p.m. daily, excluding Sunday. Call Velma Nichols, FA 3-4263.

We still need some men to work backstage during this show — so let us hear from you.

A coffee party was held Wednesday night at Jean Weil's for the cast and crew. These little get-togethers are always enjoyable—and you can see—it's not all work and no play.

Walter Speed is taking a ten-day vacation to Wisconsin. This will be the first show Walter has missed out of the last eleven. We certainly are going to miss his hair-styling.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Boardman are home from Florida after a four week visit with their daughter.

A board meeting was held on Wednesday night in the home of Mrs. Tom Pitt with thirteen members attending. Five persons have been selected as nominees as new directors for the coming year. An annual meeting will be held Monday, May 5th, to vote and elect new officers. This meeting will be held in the playhouse and all members are invited to attend and participate. If you are a member of the Little Theatre, why don't you mark this date on your date-book — this is your theatre, and you should be there, not only as support, but perhaps you would like to make suggestions.

Mrs. Pitt entertained with a lovely social hour after the board meeting. Refreshments were served in a beautifully decorated pink theme of candles and wild honeysuckle.

Readings were held yesterday for "Light Up the Sky" cast will be announced shortly.

Many Homestead Exemptions Still To Be Prepared

Approximately 600 homestead exemption forms still remain to be signed, Bert Coverdale, Ouachita parish tax assessor, said yesterday.

Coverdale pointed out that his office is remaining open during the noon hour in order to facilitate the signing by persons working in offices.

The deadline for signing the homestead exemption application forms is Tuesday. By state statutes, all persons who have not signed by that time will not be given the reduction in state and parish taxes.

Monroe Group To Leave For National Meet

Four members of the Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society of Children of the American Revolution, Monroe, accompanied by Mrs. Sherod W. McLean, senior president, will leave Wednesday for the sixty-third annual national convention, slated for the Mayflower Hotel, Washington, D. C., Friday through Sunday. The group will be part of 1,000 delegates to represent the various states at the meeting.

Representing the local chapter will be Jane O. Williams, state president, Peggy Pierce, president of the Lt. Joseph Bowmar chapter, Dorothy Amman and Linda Steele, delegates.

Miss Pierce, a senior student at Neville High School, has received a signal honor in having been invited to be one of four girls in the United States to serve on the hospitality committee. This honor came from a personal invitation by Mrs. E. Stewart James, senior national president.

Also Slated

Also slated for participating in one of the highlights of the convention will be the installation of Mrs. McLean as senior state president of the group in Louisiana The installation will be held at Mt. Vernon next Sunday.

Presiding at the convention will be Dorothy J. Buckton, New York City, national president. The program will include the reports of national chairmen of work accomplished and awards made.

Highlights of the convention will be a tour of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, tours of national shrines and election of officers for the coming year. A Louisiana member, David Harley Kemker Jr., of New Orleans, is candidate for national president. Twenty four other national officers will also be selected from the different states.

Eligibility Rules

The Children of the American Revolution organization is open to children who trace their ancestry back to one who supported the American cause in the Revolutionary War. Volunteer adult leaders at all levels come from the ranks of the sponsoring parent organizations, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Sons of the American Revolution and the Sons of the Revolution

Included in the highlights of entertainment are a concert by the U. S. Navy band, under the direction of Chief Musician Isadore Glazer; formal dinner and dance annual pilgrimage to the National Cathedral for memorial service Sunday, visit to the Arlington National Cemetery; services and tour of Mt. Vernon and ceremony at the tomb of the unknown Revolutionary War soldier at the Old Presbyterian Meeting House, Alexandria, Va.

Chemistry And Stamps Topic Of Discussion

In this atom and sputnik age, stamp collecting has received new accolades for its "contribution to human society."

On the agenda of the American Chemical Society, now meeting in San Francisco, a symposium was devoted to philately. A special paper prepared by Rudolph Vecerin and Dr. V. F. Payne dedicated to "Chemistry and Chemists on Stamps" was delivered.

It was cited that every major country in the world has issued stamps honoring the achievements of chemists.

In 1951 the United States issued a stamp commemorating the 75th anniversary of the American Chemical Society.

Austria has issued a new 4-schilling red stamp honoring the reactivation of the Austrian Airlines, reports Edwin Mueller.

Service on Austrian Airlines had been suspended since the Nazi occupation in 1938. The stamp also marks the 49th anniversary of the First Austrian air mail service established in 1918 from Vienna via Cracow, Lwow, Proskuro to Kiev and Odessa.

Depicted on the stamp is a four-motored plane in flight superimposed on a map of Austria. The initials AUA (Austrian Airlines) are in the lower left corner.

The Philatelic Institute, a non-profit organization which promotes stamp collecting, has come up with a handy device designed to help new collectors identify stamps.

The "Stamp Finder" is a little booklet which identifies all stamps. It also includes a new, complete U. S. Stamp Identifier to help distinguish between common and rare U. S. stamps that look alike.

A free copy of this 32-page booklet can be obtained by writing to the Philatelic Institute, Cambridge 39, Mass.

Stamp Notes: Laos has issued a set of seven stamps showing elephants. . . . Norway has announced that its present stamps picturing King Haakon will be replaced by stamps bearing the picture of King Olav. The first two in the series will be the 40 ore red and the 64 one blue . . . Finland has issued a new 4 markka stamp with the lion design similar to that of the lower values in Finland.

Curb-O-Cop System Here Is Readied

The Monroe police department tomorrow inaugurates the Curb-O-Cop money disposals throughout the downtown district on a permanent basis.

Announcement of the transfer from a trial to permanent basis was made yesterday by Chief of Police James C. Kelly, Jr., and Mayor W. L. Howard.

At the present only four curb-o-meters are installed downtown. Beginning tomorrow, 37 will be ready making it convenient for any motorist getting a parking violation ticket to dispose of the fine without going to the city police station.

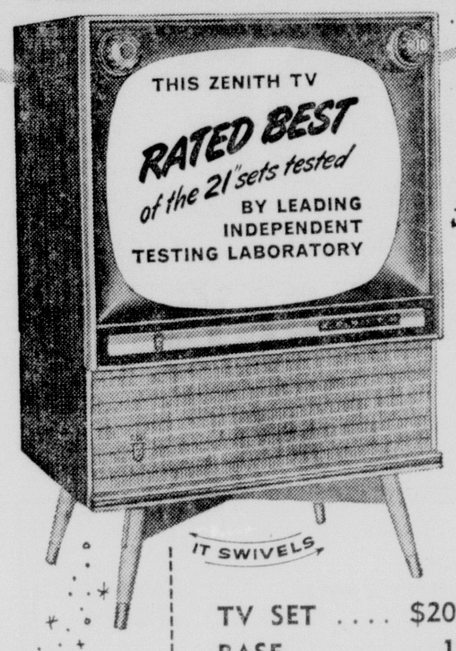

To Be Extended

Chief Kelly said four of the curb - o - cops will be installed in each of the blocks on DeSiard Street. Later, these facilities will be extended to other parts of the city where parking meters are installed.

"We feel that the curb-o-cop has more than proved itself and, for that reason, we are putting them out on a larger scale. When the people become thoroughly familiar with these facilities, we will put them other places," Chief Kelly said.

The chief pointed out that the fines for parking violations remains $1, whether they are paid through use of the curb-o-cop or brought to the city hall.

La. Income Tax Payments High

WASHINGTON — Louisiana taxpayers during the 1957 calendar year paid $71,455,000 more in income and other federal taxes than in 1956.

This amounted to an increase of more than 11 per cent.

The Internal Revenue Service reported that total tax collections in the state in 1957 were $698,857,000, compared to $627,402,000 in 1956 and $575,300,000 in 1955.

It should be noted that the IRS does its bookkeeping on the fiscal year basis. The 1957 calendar year, therefore, contains six months of the 1957 fiscal year and six months of the 1958 fiscal year which began July 1, 1957.

Corporation income and profits tax collections in Louisiana durduring 1957 were higher by $21,263,000 than the previous year. They totaled $159,230,000 in 1957 and $137,967,000 in 1956.

Individual income taxes during the 1957 calendar year in Louisiane were $50,153,000 above the $402,856,000 recorded the previous year.

Retailers' excise tax collections in Louisiana increased some $302,000 between the calendar year periods, according to the IRS report. Taxes on luggage, furs, jewelry, and toilet preparations were $3,763,000 in 1956 while last year they were $4,065,000.

Alcohol tax collections in Louisiana for 1957 totaled $30,373,000, or $1,453,000 below 1956.

Tobacco tax collections came to $1,076,000 last year, compared with $1,056,000 in 1956. The IRS explained that the latter figure does not necessarily represent the true tax burden to the state as tobacco taxes are often collected in states where the product is manufactured. The tax is passed on to the consumer as a so-called "hidden tax."

AMBASSADOR

HELSINKI, Finland (UP) — President Urho Kekkonen Friday appointed Richard R. Seppaelai as Finland's new ambassador to the United States. He replaced Ambassador Johan Nykopp, who has been appointed managing director of Finland's Employers' Central Organization.

EDUCATOR SAYS

We Should Cater More To Students

KANSAS CITY (AP) — This country would be in much better shape if the schools gave their brightest students the same loving attention they give their top athletes, a leading educator said Friday.

Look what we do for a good football player, said Dr. Nicholas Hobbs of George Peabody College of Teachers, Nashville, Tenn.:

Dr. Hobbs told the Council for Exceptional Children that the schools should at least be complimented for being responsive to public values.

And, he added, "In criticizing our schools we should at least ask ourselves what we wanted of them before we got scared of the Russians."

Makes Point

At another point Hobbs declared, "We will become a learning nation when we become a nation that honors learners."

In a public recognition poll, he asked, "Who would come out ahead: the managers of the Dodgers, Giants or Yankees, or the presidents of Harvard, Minnesota and California Tech?"

Hobbs told the 2,000 delegates from across the nation that money is sometimes corrupting, but we might be better off in America if our scholars were a bit more exposed to this kind of corruption.

He said the average school teacher in this country makes less than the average plumber, and the average college professor makes about the same as the average assistant engineer on a diesel train.

"One way of estimating what Americans value," he said, "is to find out what we are willing to pay for."

On the question of insuring that the nation's brightest kids extend their elucation to the maximum, Dr. Hobbs said the main concern has been on three types of programs: spotting them early, adjusting the school program to fit their needs, and providing scholarships so they can go on to college.

But this doesn't go quite far enough, he said. It overlooks the important factor of motivation—whether that interest and drive comes from the student himself, the teacher, the school, or the home.

Specialists Hear Doctor In Biloxi

BILOXI, Miss. (AP)—Dr. A. J. McComiskeew Orleans Friday told a meeting of eye and ear specialists hundreds of people have impaired hearing and slurred speech because of blocked ears.

McComiskey spoke to a closed 2-day conference of the Louisiana-Mississippi Opthalmological and Otolaryngological Society, which he heads.

Dr. Fred G. Hollowell of Jackson, Miss., tomorrow is scheduled to take over as president of the group from McComiskey.

The blocked-ear condition, McComiskey said, usually is caused by collection of mucus in the middle ear. It usually follows or accompanies colds, allergy, or virus conditions, he said.

Unless the fluid is removed, he said, it remains in the middle ear and may cause loss of hearing if allowed to dry.

He demonstrated proper methods of teaching children to blow their noses as a precaution against such condition.

Dr. Frederick E. Gilbert, associate professor of Otolaryngology at the Baylor University School of Medicine, Houston, Tex., told the group a large majority of sinus infection results from basic nasal allergy.

Gilbert said house dust is an important cause of allergic diseases, and pollens as well. There are also important relations between allergy and various foods, he said.

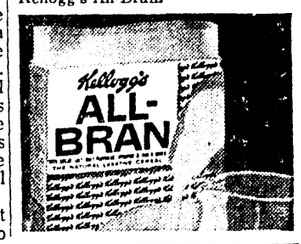

Allergic conditions largely are hereditary, he said. In families where one parent is allergic, he said, 40 per cent of the offspring show allergic symptoms sometime during their lives.

New facts on

Constipation

New scientific findings show that—after 40—tension and worry frequently lead to improper eating which may result in constipation due to lack of bulk.

La. Income Tax Payments High

This amounted to an increase of more than 11 per cent.

The Internal Revenue Service reported that total tax collections in the state in 1957 were $698,857,000, compared to $627,402,000 in 1956 and $575,300,000 in 1955.

It should be noted that the IRS does its bookkeeping on the fiscal year basis. The 1957 calendar year, therefore, contains six months of the 1957 fiscal year and six months of the 1958 fiscal year which began July 1, 1957.

Corporation income and profits tax collections in Louisiana durduring 1957 were higher by $21,263,000 than the previous year. They totaled $159,230,000 in 1957 and $137,967,000 in 1956.

Individual income taxes during the 1957 calendar year in Louisiane were $50,153,000 above the $402,856,000 recorded the previous year.

Retailers' excise tax collections in Louisiana increased some $302-000 between the calendar year periods, according to the IRS report. Taxes on luggage, furs, jewelry, and toilet preparations were $3,763,000 in 1956 while last year they were $4,065,000.

Alcohol tax collections in Louisiana for 1957 totaled $30,373,000, or $1,453,000 below 1956.

Tobacco tax collections came to $1,076,000 last year, compared with $1,056,000 in 1956. The IRS explained that the latter figure does not necessarily represent the true tax burden to the state as tobacco taxes are often collected in states where the product is manufactured. The tax is passed on to the consumer as a so-called "hidden tax."

EDUCATOR SAYS

We Should Cater More To Students

KANSAS CITY (AP) — This country would be in much better shape if the schools gave their brightest students the same loving attention they give their top athletes, a leading educator said Friday.

Look what we do for a good football player, said Dr. Nicholas Hobbs of George Peabody College of Teachers, Nashville, Tenn.:

Dr. Hobbs told the Council for Exceptional Children that the schools should at least be complimented for being responsive to public values.

And, he added, "In criticizing our schools we should at least ask ourselves what we wanted of them before we got scared of the Russians."

Makes Point

At another point Hobbs declared, "We will become a learning nation when we become a nation that honors learners."

In a public recognition poll, he asked, "Who would come out ahead: the managers of the Dodgers, Giants or Yankees, or the presidents of Harvard, Minnesota and California Tech?"

Hobbs told the 2,000 delegates from across the nation that money is sometimes corrupting, but we might be better off in America if our scholars were a bit more exposed to this kind of corruption.

He said the average school teacher in this country makes less than the average plumber, and the average college professor makes about the same as the average assistant engineer on a diesel train.

Resolutions Head For Jury Meeting

Nine resolutions which could prove to be highly controversial will be presented at the Convention of Louisiana Police Jury Association next Thursday and Friday in New Orleans.

W. A. Breedlove, executive secretary of the Association, revealed the resolutions in his office at the Ouachita parish court house.

Highlights of the convention will include an address by Lt. Gov. Lether E. Frazier at the Friday luncheon. Dr. Kenneth E. McFarland of Topeka, Kan. will be featured speaker at the Friday night banquet.

Among proposals which will go before the Resolutions Committee when the convention gets underway at 3 p.m. will be the "Right to Work Bill."

It would allow people to be employed in agriculture and manufacturing industries without belonging to any union.

Resolution

The resolution, originated in Terrebonne Parish, is similar to a bill passed during the Kennon administration and repealed under Governor Long in 1956.

Evangeline parish is sponsoring a resolution to eliminate the requirement that police juries operate on a "unified plan" by July 1, 1958.

During 1955, an amendment to the constitution was passed, stating that every parish would be allowed additional money for roads, if they revised their operations to meet requirements of this law.

The operations were to be changed to comply with the amendment by July 1, 1958. The resolution now being proposed would change the law, so that parishes would not need to meet the requirements. However, this would require a new constitutional amendment.

Other resolutions include one proposing that all state highways over which more than 1,000 cars travel each day be included in state - wide stock laws — to keep cattle off the roads.

Another proposal asks that the state and federal governments bear the entire cost of eradicating the fire ant.

Reibursement

Reimbursement to 32 parishes for the money which they spent in distributing surplus commodities to needy families during the past three years is also proposed.

Return to each parish and city of the the "final say" on who is given a liquor or beer permit is also one of the resolutions. Presently, the Alcohol Control Board in Baton Rouge may override local objections and may give permits to those opposed by parishes.

Iberia parish will propose that all additional financial burdens on any parish be made effective on the first day of January following each legislative session.

This would make it possible to include the expenses in the parish's budget. Currently, the cost is added 30 days after the close of a legislative session.

Laws to ban the sale or use of fire works in Louisiana except for fairs and festivals is also proposed by Iberia parish.

The Resolutions Committee will also hear the report of a special committee studying the problem of aid to illegitimate children in Louisiana, and decide whether to continue the special committee.

Two Local Men Are Named To Scout Positions

J. W. Webster, Sr. and Father Joe Montalbano, both of Monroe, have been appointed lay chairman and chaplain respectively of the Ouachita Valley Council, Scout Executive Jack Pankey announced.

Webster and Father Montalbano will serve with J. Numa Damiens, a prominent Marksville businessman who was recently named as Diocesan Lay Chairman of Boy Scouting in this area.

Pankey explained that the Diocesan Scout Committee is a church appointed group whose primary interest is to promote the Scout program.

BECOMING CLEAR

New Soviet Tries In Cold War Seen

ASSOCIATED PRESS

New facets of the Soviet attempt to undermine Western Europe without war are now becoming more clearly visible.

Soon after World War II the Communists adopted a long-range policy designed to cut Europe off from the raw materials of the former colonial areas in the Orient and in Africa.

The idea was that the European industrial system would collapse if this could be accomplished, leading to communization and organization of a final economic assault on capitalism in the United States.

Encouraged by rapid success in China, a policy of war when expedient was added to the picture, and then retracted when the Korean adventure backfired under prompt reaction by the United States and the United Nations.

Since the death of Stalin and the collapse of the Korean effort, the Soviets have made many maneuvers designed to acquire influence in new areas. But none of them has been more consistent than their effort to develop trade in both neutral and anti-Communist countries.

Talk

In connection with talk of a summit conference to discuss the many issues between East and West, the headlines have gone to much idle talk about disarmament, the threat of atomic fallout, and the like. Behind the headlines, the one point on which Moscow has made real progress is the possibility of trade agreements.

The Soviets have had the advantage of general agreement that the Western European economy will never reach full stability until East-West trade is resumed.

The United States, being less directly interested, has maintained a greater resistance than the European allies.

But now there is increased acceptance of the idea, fundamentally sound, that trade on a proper basis offers the possibilities of establishing ties which neither side will wish to break.

800 KILLED

ALGIERS (UP) — Only 200 of the 2,000 rebels who tried to breach an electric fence guarding the Tunisian Algerian border in the last six weeks got through, French officials reported Friday.

They said French troops killed 800 and another 1,000 were turned back into Tunisia. The fence is 400 miles long.

CAUGHT DOUBLING BACK

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Foot patrolman Joe Haines saw a motorist speed through a red light a block away arrested Carroll T. Armstrong of Conneaut on a drunk driving charge a few minutes later when Armstrong came back toward him going the wrong way on a one - way street.

Army Lt. Has Hats For Jobs

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) —Take your hat off to Lt. John F. Freeman Jr. He's one of the busiest and most titled officers around this 2nd Army headquarters post.

All told, Freeman has 19 titles. And if you want to get technical, each one rates a different kind of headgear.

But — hold your breath — here's the alphabetical avalanche of other titles the Army has piled on the shoulders of this handsome, 25-year-old lieutenant:

Athletic and recreation officer, bond and insurance officer, building warden, civilian personnel officer, Class A agent, conservation officer, enlisted detachment commander, fire marshal, management officer, public information officer;

Records officer, safety officer, security control officer, utilities officer, recorder of the unit fund council, property officer or the detachment unit fund, unit training officer, and voting officer.

But don't feel sorry for Lt. Freeman, who probably envies the talents of an octopus.

"Actually," he says, "I rather enjoy my work. It's just the Army way. One thing sure, it never gets boring."

Freeman says that some of his titles are just that and he's rarely called on to perform those duties.

"For instance," he explains, "I'm conservation officer but I don't go around checking on too many lights burning. Or, I don't walk around to see if somebody's wasting water.

"And I don't have to check buildings all day as fire warden, but if one burned down I'd be called on the carpet."

If he has been busy up to now, Lt. Freeman's life is due to become even more so. He is married and he and his wife are expecting a baby.

As any father knows, that means nocturnal "guard duty" walking the baby back to sleep.

CUCKOO

ESHER, England (UP) — Retired Navy Cmdr. Frederick Hornsby apologized Friday for his claim that he heard the first cuckoo call in Britain this year.

The call which he carefully tape-recorded, turned out to be his neighbor's cuckoo clock Hornsby said.

New Soviet Tries In Cold War Seen

ASSOCIATED PRESS

New facets of the Soviet attempt to undermine Western Europe without war are now becoming more clearly visible.

Soon after World War II the Communists adopted a long-range policy designed to cut Europe off from the raw materials of the former colonial areas in the Orient and in Africa.

The idea was that the European industrial system would collapse if this could be accomplished, leading to communization and organization of a final economic assault on capitalism in the United States.

Encouraged by rapid success in China, a policy of war when expedient was added to the picture, and then retracted when the Korean adventure backfired under prompt reaction by the United States and the United Nations.

Since the death of Stalin and the collapse of the Korean effort, the Soviets have made many maneuvers designed to acquire influence in new areas. But none of them has been more consistent than their effort to develop trade in both neutral and anti-Communist countries.

Talk

In connection with talk of a summit conference to discuss the many issues between East and West, the headlines have gone to much idle talk about disarmament, the threat of atomic fallout, and the like. Behind the headlines, the one point on which Moscow has made real progress is the possibility of trade agreements.

The Soviets have had the advantage of general agreement that the Western European economy will never reach full stability until East-West trade is resumed.

The United States, being less directly interested, has maintained a greater resistance than the European allies.

But now there is increased acceptance of the idea, fundamentally sound, that trade on a proper basis offers the possibilities of establishing ties which neither side will wish to break.

800 KILLED

ALGIERS (UP) — Only 200 of the 2,000 rebels who tried to breach an electric fence guarding the Tunisian Algerian border in the last six weeks got through, French officials reported Friday.

They said French troops killed 800 and another 1,000 were turned back into Tunisia. The fence is 400 miles long.

CAUGHT DOUBLING BACK

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Foot patrolman Joe Haines saw a motorist speed through a red light a block away arrested Carroll T. Armstrong of Conneaut on a drunk driving charge a few minutes later when Armstrong came back toward him going the wrong way on a one - way street.

High Noon Ceremony Unites Betty Horn And Robert T. Dugan

A high noon ceremony, lovely in its simplicity, in the First Baptist Church of Tallulah, united in marriage Miss Betty Horn, daughter of Mrs. Turner Horn, and Robert Truckenmiller Dugan, son of Mr and Mrs. Glen Edward Dugan of Abilene, Texas on Friday, April 4.

The Rev. Lucian G. Conway performed the double ring ceremony before an altar adorned with greenery, Easter lilies and white stock. Large satin ribbons marked the family pews.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Miss Nancy Goss, who also accompanied Jerry Rankin, violinist, who played Wieniawski's "Romance" and Mrs. John E. Martin, who sang "An, Sweet Mystery of Life" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, James Turner Horn, was lovely in a gown of white cotton organdy. The tightly moulded bodice was fashioned with a wide decollete neckline, edged by a narrow bias organdy fold and alencon lace motifs. The dome - shaped skirt appliqued with alencon lace flowers was waltz - length. Her veil was fashioned of a shoulder length circle of silk illusion edged in lace. She carried an old - fashion nosegay of white camellias and stephanotis. In keeping with tradition she wore something old, blue, borrowed and a sixpence in her shoe. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls and tiny pearl earrings worn by her groom's grandmother and also his mother in their weddings.

The maid of honor, Miss Ruth Ann Devery of Alva, Oklahoma, was attired in a princess styled waltz - length gown of white organdy over nile green taffeta, fashioned with a scoop neckline and brief sleeves, accented by bands of Swiss applique. Her bow bandeau and slippers were nile green and she carried a bouquet of yellow tulips.

Little Miss Debbie Dugan of Midland, Texas, niece of the groom, was flower girl and wore a dress of white organdy and a headpiece of nile green organza. Her basket was green and white filled with yellow petals.

Don Powers of Abilene served the groom as best man with Stayner Dugan, brother of the groom from Midland, Texas, and Dr. Bill Juhl, cousin of the groom from El Dorado, Arkansas, were ushers.

Mrs. Horn chose for her daughter's wedding a dressmaker suit of dustiblu Italian spun linen. Her accessories were of the matching hue and her corsage was of white camellias.

Mrs. Dugan wore a dress with matching jacket of petal pink Italian silk. Her accessories were light blue and white. She carried a corsage of blue Dutch iris pinned to her bag.

Reception Is Held

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the social room of the church. The guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. W. J. Logan Jr., sister of the bride. The bride's table was overlaid with a beautiful white hand drawnwork and hairpin lace cloth. The three - tiered wedding confection, which was cut and served by Mrs. John Miller and Miss Mary Ann Donaldson, was placed at the opposite end with Miss Francis Baxter and Miss Carole Muncey presiding. Mrs. Dick Sevier registered guests in the bride's book. Others assisting with the house courtesies were Miss Sue Ellen Hollaway, Mrs. Ralph Hollaway, Mrs. Cliff Weems, Mr. George Pickle, Mrs. Johnny Land, Mrs. Ralph Lee and Mrs. James Furr.

The bride chose for travel a sheer worsted suit in shades of Dior blue and grey. The semi-fitted double breasted short jacket was accented by a wide portrait collar and three - quarter length sleeves. Her accessories were black and she wore a white camellia corsage taken from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will be at home in Abilene, Texas, where the groom is in business, upon return from their trip to Montreal and Quebec City, Canada.

Marriage Vows Exchanged In Jackson, Miss.

Mr. and Mrs. George Haston of Delhi announce the marriage of their daughter, Ila Mae, to Oren Reeves of Vicksburg, Miss., on March 30, at three o'clock in the afternoon. The informal ceremony was performed by the Rev. Herb Sweeny, minister of the Church of Christ, in Jackson, Miss., with family and close friends in attendance.

The bride wore a three piece suit of palest blue with a pink carnation corsage. The couple will reside in Vicksburg, where the groom is employed.

Don't wash eggs before storing them. Water destroys the protective film which keeps out air and odors.

Miss Turner's Engagement Is Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stephen Turner announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Kaye Lynne, to Perry Byron Broussard at a tea in their home on Ingleside Drive, Saturday afternoon between the hours of two to four o'clock. Mr. Broussard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Broussard.

The wedding will be an event of May 31, at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, in the First Christian Church, with the Rev. Carnie Burcham officiating.

Miss Billie Ann Ruple will attend the bride - elect as maid of honor. Miss Betsy Benton and Mrs. N. Wilson will be the maids.

Bill Broussard will serve the groom as best man, with Tom Broussard and Robert Broussard as ushers.

Miss Turner is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Pander of San Augustine, Texas, and Mr. and Mrs. W. C Turner of Winnfield. She is a graduate of Neville High School and attended Louisiana Tech and Northeast State College.

Mr. Broussard is a graduate of Beaumont High School in Beaumont, Texas. He attended Baylor University and is now attending Northeast.

Attendants Are Announced For Simmons-Puckett

Attendants are being announced for the wedding of Miss Patricia Ann Simmons and Charles Gilbert Puckett. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Simmons and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Richard Puckett of Sterlington. The ceremony will be an event of May 10, at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon, in the First Baptist Church with Dr. James T. Horton officiating.

Miss Sue Simmons of Monticello, Miss., will attend her cousin as maid of honor. Miss Jane Puckett, sister of the groom, and Miss Laura Louise Bowles will be the maids.

Mr. Puckett will serve his son as best man, with Sam McGough, Joe Funderburk, Gayle English and Lytle Matkins as ushers.

Miss Simmons is a graduate of Neville High School and attended Northeast Louisiana State College. The groom - elect was graduated from Ouachita Parish High School and attended Northeast Louisiana State College.

A Double Ring Ceremony Unites Miss Lilah Rabun And Alton A. Young, Jr.

Miss Lilah Jean Rabun, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Rabun of West Monroe, and Alton Allen Young Jr., of Monroe, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alton A. Young of Vinton, were united in marriage on March 22, at six o'clock in the evening.

Dr. Ben R. Oliphint performed the double ring ceremony at St. Paul's Methodist Church before large baskets of white gladioli flanked by candelabra entwined with smilax. A single candle and white ribbon marked the family pews.

The soloist, Eugene Smith, sang "Through the Years" and "Because," accompanied by Miss Jo Ann Richardson at the organ.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, was gowned in white marquisette over white satin. The fitted bodice of hand clipped Chantilly lace featured a scalloped round neckline. The long sleeves ended in points at the wrists and fastened with satin covered buttons. Lace extended from bodice to form deep petal shaped peplum over the skirt. The white tulle shoulder - length veil fell from a tiara headdress. She wore a single strand of pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with a bouquet of feathered mums centered with a white orchid.

Miss Lynn Garrett served the bride as maid of honor. She was gowned in pale pink embroidered cotton satin with a scoop neckline and a cummerbund of pink chiffon extending into hem - length panels in back. She wore a pink half - hat with a tiny tulle veil. She carried a bouquet of white majestic daisies tied with silver and pink ribbon.

Miss Betty Rabun and Miss Midge Rabun, sisters of the bride, served as the bridesmaids and were dressed identical to the maid of honor. Barbara McDonough was the flower girl and wore pink crepe de chine trimmed with dainty white lace and a sash of deeper pink velvet ribbon. Her bouquet was a miniature replica of the bridesmails bouquets.

Serving the groom as best man was Elton Lyons and the groomsmen were Bob Anderson and Lloyd Weber Jr., cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Rabun chose for her daughter's wedding, a French blue satin trimmed with pearls and rhinestones featured around the neckline and on the collar of the matching jacket. She wore a hat of pastel flowers and a corsage of white feathered mums.

Mrs. Daisy Young, the groom's stepmother, chose to wear for the wedding, a navy tailored suit and a white jeweled hat. At her shoulder was a corsage of white feathered mums tied with a pink ribbon.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church social room.

The bride's table was covered with pink, overlaid with a cutwork cloth and centered with an arrangement of white chrysanthemums, candytuft and greenery flanked by tall white tapers. To one end was a three tiered wedding cake. A white satin ribbon ran the length of the table, ending in a cluster of wedding bells.

Mrs. H. B. McDowell served cake and presiding at the punch bowl was Mrs. O. B. Lee Jr., Miss Ann Hebert registered the guests and the tea girls were Miss Cheri Pittman, Miss Mary Ann Corpin and Miss Jeanette Aswell.

The out - of - town guests included: Mrs. A. W. Bahnsen of Vinton; Mrs. L. A. Weber, Galveston, Tex.; Lloyd Weber Jr., Houston, Tex.; Mrs. Daisy Young, Clarksdale, Miss.; Miss Thelma Jane McKinney, Shreveport; Jerry Boughton, Crew Lake; Mrs. Oliver J. Barrios, Vinton; Miss Ann Hebert, Baton Rouge; Mrs. O. B. Lee Jr., and Gregory Lee and Jeffrey Lee of Water Valley, Miss.

On March 21, in the Cajun Room of the Rendezvous, following the wedding rehearsal, a rehearsal supper was held.

A large arrangement of white chrysanthemums and stock with greenery centered the main table. Single candles surrounded by greenery and mums graced the smaller tables. Place cards were white with silver entwined wedding bands.

Seated with the bride and groom elect were:

Miss Strange, N. S. Bolding Exchange Vows

Miss Marjorie Ann Strange, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Strange of Plymouth, Wisconsin, and T-sgt. Nathan S. Bolding, son of Mrs. B. H. Bolding of Oak Grove, were united in marriage in Myrtle Beach, South Carolina.

Attending the couple were Miss Louise McDowell of Myrtle Beach, and Sgt. Robert L. Boyles of Charlotte, North Carolina.

Slipcovers will dry smooth and tight if they are put on furniture while still damp. Be sure the furniture is upholstered in colorfast material.

Serving the groom as best man was Elton Lyons and the groomsmen were Bob Anderson and Lloyd Weber Jr., cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Rabun chose for her daughter's wedding, a French blue satin trimmed with pearls and rhinestones featured around the neckline and on the collar of the matching jacket. She wore a hat of pastel flowers and a corsage of white feathered mums.

Mrs. Daisy Young, the groom's stepmother, chose to wear for the wedding, a navy tailored suit and a white jeweled hat. At her shoulder was a corsage of white feathered mums tied with a pink ribbon.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church social room.

The bride's table was covered with pink, overlaid with a cutwork cloth and centered with an arrangement of white chrysanthemums, candytuft and greenery flanked by tall white tapers. To one end was a three tiered wedding cake. A white satin ribbon ran the length of the table, ending in a cluster of wedding bells.

Mrs. H. B. McDowell served cake and presiding at the punch bowl was Mrs. O. B. Lee Jr., Miss Ann Hebert registered the guests and the tea girls were Miss Cheri Pittman, Miss Mary Ann Corpin and Miss Jeanette Aswell.

The out - of - town guests included: Mrs. A. W. Bahnsen of Vinton; Mrs. L. A. Weber, Galveston, Tex.; Lloyd Weber Jr., Houston, Tex.; Mrs. Daisy Young, Clarksdale, Miss.; Miss Thelma Jane McKinney, Shreveport; Jerry Boughton, Crew Lake; Mrs. Oliver J. Barrios, Vinton; Miss Ann Hebert, Baton Rouge; Mrs. O. B. Lee Jr., and Gregory Lee and Jeffrey Lee of Water Valley, Miss.

On March 21, in the Cajun Room of the Rendezvous, following the wedding rehearsal, a rehearsal supper was held.

A large arrangement of white chrysanthemums and stock with greenery centered the main table. Single candles surrounded by greenery and mums graced the smaller tables. Place cards were white with silver entwined wedding bands.

Seated with the bride and groom elect were:

The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Rabun; groom's stepmother, Mrs. Daisy Young; members of the wedding party, Miss Lynn Garrett Miss Betty Rabun, Miss Midge Rabun, Miss Barbara McDonough, Elton Lyons, Rusty Rabun and Tommy Bahnsen; Dr. and Mrs. Ben Oliphint, Mr. and Mrs. Jim St. Julien, Mrs. Margie Lee McDonough, Miss Hilma Bahnsen, Mrs. A. W. Bahnsen, Miss Cheri Pittman, Miss Jo Ann Richardson.

MRS. WILLIAM CAIN LYON

Lyon-Ross Vows Are Exchanged

The marriage of Miss Peggy Jane Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey M. Ross, and William Cain Lyon, son of Mrs. O. C. Lyon and the late Mr. Lyon, of El Dorado, was solemnized in the chapel of the First Baptist Church in Crossett April 9th at 5:00 p. m.

The Rev. Roy Bunch officiated at the double ring ceremony. Candelabra entwined with smilax and floor baskets of white stock formed the background on the chancel for the wedding party. Miss Norma White was organist, and accompanied soloist, Miss Nancy Kelley, who sang "Because," "Oh, Promise Me," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional wedding gown of white satin. The fitted bodice was fashioned with white lace over satin, with lace sleeves ending in tapered points over her hands. The bouffant skirt of tulle over satin fell to the floor. Her finger - tip veil of illusion fell from a shell of white lace over satin. Her bouquet was of stephanotis centered with a single white orchid.

Mrs. Robert Yeatman, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a pale green embroidered cotton satin sheath dress with a matching chiffon cummerbund which fell to the hemline in back. She carried a white Easter lily. Bridesmaids, Miss Judith Ross, sister of the bride; Mrs. Ben F. Caston, of Greenville, Mississippi; Miss Le-Ann Ritter, Springdale, and Miss Mary Roberts, of Fayetteville, wore dresses identical to that of the honor attendant and each carried a lily. Ring bearers were Miss Linda Ross, niece of the bride, and Vicki Lyon, niece of the groom. They wore white organdy dresses and flowers in their hair. The rings were carried on white satin pillows.

O. C. Lyon, Jr., of Springhill, Louisiana, brother of the groom, served as best man. Ushers were Don Mehlburger, Little Rock, Jerry Stewart, Fayetteville, Benjamin Stringfellow, El Dorado, Buddy McWilliams, El Dorado, and Hines Cronin, El Dorado.

Immediately following the marriage service the parents of the bride entertained with a reception in the church parlor.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Wayne Moffat and Miss Sandra Parkhill serving, and Mrs. Linwood Ross, sister - in - law of the bride, at the bride's book.

The couple will make their home in Fayetteville, where both will graduate this spring from the University of Arkansas. The bride is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority, and the groom of Sigma Nu fraternity.

Miss Roger's Betrothal Is Announced

Announcement is being made by Mr. and Mrs. T. Leo Rogers Jr., West Monroe, of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Nellwyn Fay, to William David Hindmon, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Hindmon of Bastrop.

The wedding will be an event of June 7, at half past seven in the evening, in the First Baptist Church of West Monroe. Dr. Jaroy Weber will officiate the ceremony.

Mrs. Nick Lassiter will attend her sister as matron of honor. Mrs. Doyle Hindmon, Mrs. M. L. Smith, Mrs. Bobby Lamb, Mrs. Peyton Spear, all of Bastrop and Mrs. Lytle Matkins of Monroe will be the maids. Candlelighters will be Mrs. Harold Bolton and Miss Faye Parker with Sherry Poindexter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Poindexter, as flower girl.

Doyle Hindmon will serve his brother as best man with Dan Todd of New Iberia; James Bilberry of McGhee, Ark.; Jack Bryant of Fort Worth, Texas; M. L. Smith, Bobby Lamb, Peyton Spear, and Dr. Jack Rawls, all of Bastrop, as ushers.

Maternal grandparents of the bride - elect are Mr. and Mrs. Ed C. Reagan of Baskin. Paternal grandparents are Mrs. T. L. Rogers, Sr. and the late Mr. Rogers. The bride - elect was graduated from Neville High School and Northeast Louisiana State College and is now teaching at North Monroe Junior High School. She is a member of Phi Mu National Fraternity.

The groom elect's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. William Albert Smith and paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. David Elbert Hindmon. He is a graduate of Bastrop High School and will receive his B. S. degree in May from Northeast La. State College. He is a member of Delta Demeter National Agricultural Fraternity.

Calhoun Bride Honored With Tea Shower

A white bridal motif of spring flowers formed the decor throughout the home of Mrs. A. K. Kilpatrick, hostess for an affair honoring Mrs. Donald Heacock, bride of recent date.

Guests, seated in the spacious living room and den enjoyed the participation in several games before the honoree opened her many gifts.

Guests were served in the dining room on a lace overlaid table, with Mrs. Frank Golson and Mrs. Jack Brown presiding at the punch bowl, with Mrs. James Adair and hostess, Mrs. A. K Kilpatrick serving individual cakes and confections.

More than 75 guests were present for the occasion.

There's no getting away from the chemise, even at the beach. The silhouette shows in swimsuits for summer. Styles range from tank-type sacks to strapless chemises with bloused backs. Another type combines a two-piece suit and sack jacket which completely covers the suit.

Leftover fish can be used as an appetizer. Cut the fish in small pieces, dip in batter seasoned with crumbled basil leaves and fry in deep fat until brown. Serve on toothpicks.

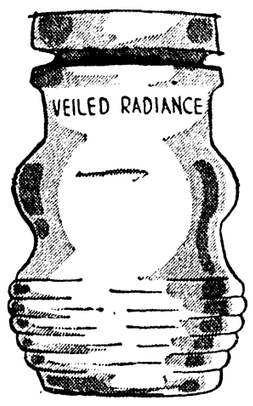

THE ENGAGEMENT of Miss Ina Mae Thames to Glenn Daniel, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Daniel of Bastrop, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Thames, of Chandler, Arizona. The marriage will be an event of May 30.

Engagement Of Miss Pugh And J. Rainer Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Smart Pugh of Logansport, Louisiana, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Fannie Carolyn to Billy Raymond Rainer, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Rainer of Rayville. Their wedding will take place June 28 at 7:30 o'clock in the evening at the First Baptist Church of Logansport, with the Rev. Orville D. Behm officiating.

Miss Pugh has invited Miss Mary Hetta Walker of Shreveport to be maid of honor. Bridesmaids are to be Miss Janice Hataway of Shreveport and Miss Juanita Beasley of Ferriday, Louisiana. The flower girl is to be little Miss Leslie Ward of Topeka, Kansas, cousin of the bride - elect. Master Thomas Case Pugh of Norfolk, Virginia, nephew of the bride-elect, are to be candle lighters.

Mr. Rainer has invited Mr. Ray Tompkins of Ruston, Louisiana, to be best man. Ushers to be Mr. Bill Smith of Barksdale AFB and Mr. Jack Pugh of Norfolk, Virginia, brother of the bride-elect.

The bride - elect is the granddaughter of the Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Anderson and the late Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Pugh of Logansport. She is a graduate of the Logansport High School and attended Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge, and the Meadows Draughan Business College in Shreveport.

Mr. Rainer is descended on the maternal side from Mr. Hiram Dove and the late Mrs. Hiram Dove of Winnsboro, Louisiana, and on the paternal side from the late Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Rainer of Rayville. He is a graduate of the Rayville High School and attended Northeastern Louisiana College.

Following the wedding they plan to make their home in Shreveport.

Miss King And William Adcock Pledge Vows

TALLULAH (Special) — Miss Peggy Ann King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cloise S. King and William Earl Adcock of Ruston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Adcock of Tyler, Texas were married at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Irvin Cheney, Jr., in Baton Rouge on March 22 at ten o'clock in the morning. Rev. Cheney officiated at the quiet and impressive ceremony in a setting of baskets of pink azaleas and purple iris. Only members of the immediate families were in attendance.

The bride was attired in a gray wool spring suit with navy accessories. Her corsage was a white purple-throated orchid.

Immediately after the ceremony a small reception was held with Mrs. Cheney serving punch from the pretty refreshment table with a white cut work cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink camellias and ivy. Miss Claudette Adcock, sister of the groom, served the wedding cake.

After a short honeymoon trip, the couple is residing in Hodge, La. The bride is a graduate of Tallulah High School and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute and is a teacher in the Quitman High School, Quitman, La. Mr. Adcock is a graduate of Gaston High School, Joinerville, Texas and is attending Louisiana Polptechnic Institute. On graduation he will be commissioned in the Air Force.

MRS. RICHARD CHARLES LEONARD

The engagement of Miss Beth Ann Dickson to Woodrow William Harper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Harper, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Onnin Dickson. Both families are from Sterlington.

An Evening Ceremony Unites Miss Camp And Richard Charles Leonard

Of local interest is the marriage of Miss Bobbie Jean Camp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Camp of West Monroe, to Richard Charles Leonard, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Leonard of Baton Rouge.

The wedding was an event of March 29, at six o'clock in the evening at the Claiborne Methodist Church. The Rev. Dan F. Anders performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with white bladioli, stock and fern flanked by tall burning white tapers.

Mrs. E. Scott sang "Because," accompanied by Miss Caroline White at the piano.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of peau de sail, fashioned with a fitted chantilly bodice, short sleeves and a scalloped neckline. Her finger-tip veil fell from a crown of sequins and seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped by a white orchid.

The candlelighters were Beverly Camp and Sandra Bowling.

Roan Hawthorn of Alexandria, served the groom as best man. The ushers were Billy Camp and Mike Wallace.

Mrs. Camp chose for her daughter's wedding, a powder blue lace dress with matching accessories. Mrs. Leonard wore a navy and white model with white accessories.

The couple will be at home in Baton Rouge.

Out-of-town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Roan Hawthorn, from Alexandria, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. Hazen Ross, Ribert Dawson and Omiss Willie Blue, and Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Oland, all of Baton Rouge.

On Dit'

by Denise

Everyone is talking about our beautiful spring. The old-fashioned wisteria has been lovely this week . . . . . And ah! me, the azaleas . . . . . 'Tis hard to choose between a yard showing various shades of blossoms, such as the pinks and lavenders against Grey Gables, the South Grand street home of MRS. SIG MASUR. . . . or one done in all one color, such as the orangey-red type against the FRED PARRISH'S green house on Forsythe avenue. . . . St. John Drive is spectacular, with the azaleas massed on the boulevard, and the gardens on the street repeating variations on the theme.

Say, now, wasn't it a glorious Easter? The weather was what it is supposed to be and so seldom is. . . . Contributing to the beauty of the scene were dozens of young lovelies who were home from college for the spring recess. A very wise man once said that he had never seen an ugly flower or an ugly young girl.

Over 100 of the college crowd and young marrieds were guests at the Saturday morning coffee honoring SALLIE de BEN, bride-elect of BOBBY SHAFTO, which was given by LOUISE THEUS, SUE STUBBS, and DOT BREARD. The dining table was centered with white tulips and azaleas in the central container of a silver epergne, with a few delicately colored eggs in the smaller holders. Colored eggs, beaded and sequined, were arranged with artificial butterflies on the buffet. A variety of dainty tidbits, including a delicious shrimp spread and hot cheese pastries were served with a choice of coffee or punch.

Among the guests were noted KAY M'CUE in an orange and green paisley print sack dress, worn with the new green shoes and stockings. . . NANCY BREARD in a brown linen chemise. . . ANN NOEL in a beige linen with long coral rope beads. . . . MARY EMMA WILSON in a green chemise. . . . CLARA MONTGOMERY in a mesh hat ringed with cherries. . . . In a navy blue sack dress with white accessories was SYLVIA GENTRY, who was accompanied by her house guests, JOAN COATES in a pink silk shantung, and JUDY HATCHER in black and white polished cotton. . . . KAY WORLEY chose a red silk shantung with a red and white polka dot scarf. . . . SALLY HINKLE wore a chemise of brown checked linen . . . . MIKE HUSTED was in tailored red linen with a natural straw hat, the veil caught with red, white, and green bow-knots.

ANNOUNCEMENT is being made by Mr. and Mrs. Grady Roberts of the marriage of their daughter, Jackie, to John Berton Talley Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Talley of Fairbanks. The wedding was solemnized by the Rev. A. E. Patterson in Vicksburg, Mississippi.

Friday afternoon several boatloads of young people went up the river, enlivening the warm afternoon with a bit of fishing and water sports. About twenty couples enjoyed the affair, which ended with supper cooked on a sand bar. Hot dogs were the fare for such as hadn't caught any fish. Young gentlemen who brought out their boats included JIM WALLACE, PALMER HUEY, DICKIE GUERRIERO, and TOMMY FRYANT.

Houseguest of MARY JO DAVENPORT was SALLY WILSON of Joseph, Oregon. The girls were among the earliest arrivals, flying in from Stephens college. Their weekend got off to a big start with a slumber party for a group of friends in the home of BETTY MANTROZOS.

Sally was also named honor guest, along with NANCY ALBRIGHT and NANCY SCHMED at the conversational hour hosted by EMILY KAY ENSMINGER Saturday afternoon. Nancy Albright was here from Northwestern, and Emily Kay from Belhaven. Twenty young ladies enjoyed the interlude of "girl talk," catching up on each other's doings away at school. The table, beautifully centered with pink azaleas, lavender iris, and white peach blossoms, held an assortment of sandwiches, cookies, and soft drinks.

The GEORGE SNELLINGS, JR., home was the center of activity for several different groups. Houseguests were AINSLIE DINWIDDIE and BREARD SNELLINGS, JR., of New Orleans, and TONY BRIGGLE of Dallas, in addition to GEORGE III, home from Tulane. . . . In the home of MRS. SNELLINGS, SR., were her son and his wife, BREARD and EMILY SNELLINGS of New Orleans, and their children, JIMMY, ELOIT, and MARY. . . . NANCY SNELLINGS hosted a dancing party honoring these visiting cousins Saturday night.

Young FRANK SNELLINGS entertained with an Easter egg hunt, where about fifty children searched for twenty-five dozen dyed eggs. NELSON WARNER was awarded a bowl of goldfish for finding the most eggs, while ROBERT M'CUE found the prize egg. Winning chocolate chickens for consolation were EWING BROWN and NANCY ARMSTRONG.

Visiting in the home of HELEN THEUS was a University of Alabama classmate, NANCY SCHMED of Birmingham. PRENT SEYMOUR'S visitor was CAROLYN SUTTER of New Orleans. These two guests were honored with an open house in the Seymour home before the dance at the Bayou DeSiard country club. Twenty - five friends gathered on the spacious porch. Light snacks were served from the buffet table, gaily decorated with spring flowers and Easter eggs.

Another informal open house was held in the home of CAROLYN CUMMINGS, where twenty guests enjoyed an evening of dancing . . . Also on Saturday night was the patio party hosted by Dawson ANN FORMAN in honor of her houseguest, EARLINE MORRIS of Baton Rouge. Barbecued hamburgers with the usual trimmings were served to fifteen couples . . . These affairs were referred to as "drop - in" parties, with the guests progressing from one to another.

ANN M'DONALD engineered that hardest of feats — a surprise party that really surprised. The occasion was TRAVIS OLIVER III's eighteenth birthday Saturday. Decorations carried out an Easter theme, but holding the spotlight was the birthday cake, which was iced with a representation of Travis's car, the Black Dart . . . Noted among the thirty guests were JACKIE MASUR in a silk sheath, figured in tangerine tones . . . CAROLYN CUMMINGS in a stunning pink and red plaid . . . SALLY RYAN in a full-skirted blue and green warp-printed silk . . . Hostess Ann chose a navy blue silk with white polka dots and solid navy cummerbund . . . A light supper of sandwiches, drinks, and, of course, birthday cake, was served.

Sunday's parties included two buffet suppers. The KENT BREARDS were hosts in honor of AINSLIE DINWIDDIE. Seventeen guests enjoyed the Easter supper of roast beef and assorted salads . . . The CLAUDE EARNESTS entertained in honor of their guests, HELEN HESTER BURNSIDE and DIANE THAMES of Newellton. Twenty members of the college set dined in the Earnest home, which was banked with dogwood branches for the occasion.

And so they left — as one mother said, "to go back to school and rest up." Things quieted down in town for a day or maybe two, and then came several parties for a younger group. RICKY MECHAM celebrated his sixth birthday with a party for his kindergarten friends. Games were played, with BETTY BARTLETT winning the musical chairs, and BECKY MEACHAM the pin-the-tail-on-the-donkey. Individual iced cakes and ice cream were served.

Little Miss BETSY HOLMES invited fourteen neighborhood friends in for a picnic on her fourth birthday Thursday. The group cooked wienies on the carport — with a little adult help. Birthday cake and popsicles were eaten for dessert.

A pink party at Bayou DeSiard country club celebrated PEGGY STONE'S sixth birthday Wednesday. Pink azaleas were used the length of the table, with a beautifully iced doll cake serving as centerpiece. Peggy looked like a doll herself in a pink dress with embroidered sash . . . Winning the boys' division of the pin-the-tail-on game was MIKE SAGER, while MARY ELLEN MINTZ won for the girls.' In musical chairs, MARGARET ANN DENOUX and JOHN ALLIN were the winners. Movies were shown to the group following the games . . . Refreshments were individual cakes and ice cream. Space men were used to decorate the boys' cakes, while the girls' had umbrellas on each.

The ladies men admire, I've heard
Would shudder at a wicked word.
Their candle gives a single light;
They'd rather stay at home at night.
They do not keep awake till three,
Nor read erotic poetry.
They never sanction the impure,
Nor recognize an overture.
They shrink from powders and from paints . . .
So far, I've had no complaints.

Girl Scout News

Saturday is the annual spring play day at Pine Wood for Girl Scout troops. This means that all troops are invited to come out and spend the day, carrying out their own program with their leaders We've heard of plans for cookouts, trail laying for Tenderfoot requirements for fly - up troops, fire building practice, hikes for the purpose of identifying trees and plants. The day will start with a flag ceremony at 10:00, but drivers are urged to allow plenty of time to arrive before that time — better leave town by 9:00. Groups will get together for singing, games, and other activities, if they desire.

Troops may do some camp "good turns" if they wish, but the purpose of the event is primarily to have fun in the out of doors. The camp committee will furnish a cold drink for each person. Each girl should bring her own drinking cup. Let's hope for a pretty day.

There are always some people who haven't been to Pine Wood, so here are directions. Drive to Sterlington and cross the bridge. Turn right at the Girl Scout sign a scant half mile from the bridge and follow the gravel road about 3½ miles to camp. Look for the signs at the turns.

Troop 11's visit to the fire station last week was a good experience in citizenship, from all we hear. Accompanied by Mrs. George Porter, Mrs B. S. DuPree, and Mrs. W. A. Parker, the Brownie Scouts, in uniform and on their best behavior, of course, visited central station, where obliging firemen showed all the equipment and answered the girls' questions Best of all, the girls were allowed to slide down the pole. According to their leaders, the girls were impressed with the cost of the equipment and the waste involved when a truck has to answer a false alarm. The question most of them wanted answered was "Why is a fire truck painted red?"

Taking advantage of a pretty week end, Troop 32 had a long-postponed cook - out at Bernstein Park. Cooking over two fires, the girls made and enjoyed eating the ever - popular campfire stew, sometimes called Brownie stew. Enjoying the sunshine to the fullest, the girls visited the zoo and played in the park. Mrs. J. E. Wood, leader, and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Spight were the adults in charge of what sounds like a fun-filled outing.

Thickening pot roast gravy? Some cooks like to stir two tablespoons of flour until smooth with one-half cup of water and use this to thicken one cup of the meat liquid.

by Denise

Everyone is talking about our beautiful spring. The old-fashioned wisteria has been lovely this week . . . . . And ah! me, the azaleas . . . . . 'Tis hard to choose between a yard showing various shades of blossoms, such as the pinks and lavenders against Grey Gables, the South Grand street home of MRS. SIG MASUR. . . . or one done in all one color, such as the orangey-red type against the FRED PARRISH'S green house on Forsythe avenue. . . . St. John Drive is spectacular, with the azaleas massed on the boulevard, and the gardens on the street repeating variations on the theme.

Say, now, wasn't it a glorious Easter? The weather was what it is supposed to be and so seldom is. . . . Contributing to the beauty of the scene were dozens of young lovelies who were home from college for the spring recess. A very wise man once said that he had never seen an ugly flower or an ugly young girl.

Over 100 of the college crowd and young marrieds were guests at the Saturday morning coffee honoring SALLIE de BEN, bride-elect of BOBBY SHAFTO, which was given by LOUISE THEUS, SUE STUBBS, and DOT BREARD. The dining table was centered with white tulips and azaleas in the central container of a silver epergne, with a few delicately colored eggs in the smaller holders. Colored eggs, beaded and sequined, were arranged with artificial butterflies on the buffet. A variety of dainty tidbits, including a delicious shrimp spread and hot cheese pastries were served with a choice of coffee or punch.

Among the guests were noted KAY M'CUE in an orange and green paisley print sack dress, worn with the new green shoes and stockings. . . NANCY BREARD in a brown linen chemise. . . ANN NOEL in a beige linen with long coral rope beads. . . . MARY EMMA WILSON in a green chemise. . . . CLARA MONTGOMERY in a mesh hat ringed with cherries. . . . In a navy blue sack dress with white accessories was SYLVIA GENTRY, who was accompanied by her house guests, JOAN COATES in a pink silk shantung, and JUDY HATCHER in black and white polished cotton. . . . KAY WORLEY chose a red silk shantung with a red and white polka dot scarf. . . . SALLY HINKLE wore a chemise of brown checked linen . . . . MIKE HUSTED was in tailored red linen with a natural straw hat, the veil caught with red, white, and green bow-knots.

Friday afternoon several boatloads of young people went up the river, enlivening the warm afternoon with a bit of fishing and water sports. About twenty couples enjoyed the affair, which ended with supper cooked on a sand bar. Hot dogs were the fare for such as hadn't caught any fish. Young gentlemen who brought out their boats included JIM WALLACE, PALMER HUEY, DICKIE GUERRIERO, and TOMMY FRYANT.

Houseguest of MARY JO DAVENPORT was SALLY WILSON of Joseph, Oregon. The girls were among the earliest arrivals, flying in from Stephens college. Their weekend got off to a big start with a slumber party for a group of friends in the home of BETTY MANTROZOS.

Sally was also named honor guest, along with NANCY ALBRIGHT and NANCY SCHMED at the conversational hour hosted by EMILY KAY ENSMINGER Saturday afternoon. Nancy Albright was here from Northwestern, and Emily Kay from Belhaven. Twenty young ladies enjoyed the interlude of "girl talk," catching up on each other's doings away at school. The table, beautifully centered with pink azaleas, lavender iris, and white peach blossoms, held an assortment of sandwiches, cookies, and soft drinks.

The GEORGE SNELLINGS, JR., home was the center of activity for several different groups. Houseguests were AINSLIE DINWIDDIE and BREARD SNELLINGS, JR., of New Orleans, and TONY BRIGGLE of Dallas, in addition to GEORGE III, home from Tulane. . . . In the home of MRS. SNELLINGS, SR., were her son and his wife, BREARD and EMILY SNELLINGS of New Orleans, and their children, JIMMY, ELOIT, and MARY. . . . NANCY SNELLINGS hosted a dancing party honoring these visiting cousins Saturday night.

Young FRANK SNELLINGS entertained with an Easter egg hunt, where about fifty children searched for twenty-five dozen dyed eggs. NELSON WARNER was awarded a bowl of goldfish for finding the most eggs, while ROBERT M'CUE found the prize egg. Winning chocolate chickens for consolation were EWING BROWN and NANCY ARMSTRONG.

Visiting in the home of HELEN THEUS was a University of Alabama classmate, NANCY SCHMED of Birmingham. PRENT SEYMOUR'S visitor was CAROLYN SUTTER of New Orleans. These two guests were honored with an open house in the Seymour home before the dance at the Bayou DeSiard country club. Twenty - five friends gathered on the spacious porch. Light snacks were served from the buffet table, gaily decorated with spring flowers and Easter eggs.

Another informal open house was held in the home of CAROLYN CUMMINGS, where twenty guests enjoyed an evening of dancing . . . Also on Saturday night was the patio party hosted by Dawson ANN FORMAN in honor of her houseguest, EARLINE MORRIS of Baton Rouge. Barbecued hamburgers with the usual trimmings were served to fifteen couples . . . These affairs were referred to as "drop - in" parties, with the guests progressing from one to another.

ANN M'DONALD engineered that hardest of feats — a surprise party that really surprised. The occasion was TRAVIS OLIVER III's eighteenth birthday Saturday. Decorations carried out an Easter theme, but holding the spotlight was the birthday cake, which was iced with a representation of Travis's car, the Black Dart . . . Noted among the thirty guests were JACKIE MASUR in a silk sheath, figured in tangerine tones . . . CAROLYN CUMMINGS in a stunning pink and red plaid . . . SALLY RYAN in a full-skirted blue and green warp-printed silk . . . Hostess Ann chose a navy blue silk with white polka dots and solid navy cummerbund . . . A light supper of sandwiches, drinks, and, of course, birthday cake, was served.

Sunday's parties included two buffet suppers. The KENT BREARDS were hosts in honor of AINSLIE DINWIDDIE. Seventeen guests enjoyed the Easter supper of roast beef and assorted salads . . . The CLAUDE EARNESTS entertained in honor of their guests, HELEN HESTER BURNSIDE and DIANE THAMES of Newellton. Twenty members of the college set dined in the Earnest home, which was banked with dogwood branches for the occasion.

And so they left — as one mother said, "to go back to school and rest up." Things quieted down in town for a day or maybe two, and then came several parties for a younger group. RICKY MECHAM celebrated his sixth birthday with a party for his kindergarten friends. Games were played, with BETTY BARTLETT winning the musical chairs, and BECKY MEACHAM the pin-the-tail-on-the-donkey. Individual iced cakes and ice cream were served.

Little Miss BETSY HOLMES invited fourteen neighborhood friends in for a picnic on her fourth birthday Thursday. The group cooked wienies on the carport — with a little adult help. Birthday cake and popsicles were eaten for dessert.

A pink party at Bayou DeSiard country club celebrated PEGGY STONE'S sixth birthday Wednesday. Pink azaleas were used the length of the table, with a beautifully iced doll cake serving as centerpiece. Peggy looked like a doll herself in a pink dress with embroidered sash . . . Winning the boys' division of the pin-the-tail-on game was MIKE SAGER, while MARY ELLEN MINTZ won for the girls.' In musical chairs, MARGARET ANN DENOUX and JOHN ALLIN were the winners. Movies were shown to the group following the games . . . Refreshments were individual cakes and ice cream. Space men were used to decorate the boys' cakes, while the girls' had umbrellas on each.

The ladies men admire, I've heard
Would shudder at a wicked word.
Their candle gives a single light;
They'd rather stay at home at night.
They do not keep awake till three,
Nor read erotic poetry.
They never sanction the impure,
Nor recognize an overture.
They shrink from powders and from paints . . .
So far, I've had no complaints.

ANNOUNCEMENT is being made by Mr. and Mrs. Grady Roberts of the marriage of their daughter, Jackie, to John Berton Talley Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Talley of Fairbanks. The wedding was solemnized by the Rev. A. E. Patterson in Vicksburg, Mississippi.

Girl Scout News

Saturday is the annual spring play day at Pine Wood for Girl Scout troops. This means that all troops are invited to come out and spend the day, carrying out their own program with their leaders We've heard of plans for cookouts, trail laying for Tenderfoot requirements for fly - up troops, fire building practice, hikes for the purpose of identifying trees and plants. The day will start with a flag ceremony at 10:00, but drivers are urged to allow plenty of time to arrive before that time — better leave town by 9:00. Groups will get together for singing, games, and other activities, if they desire.

Troops may do some camp "good turns" if they wish, but the purpose of the event is primarily to have fun in the out of doors. The camp committee will furnish a cold drink for each person. Each girl should bring her own drinking cup. Let's hope for a pretty day.

There are always some people who haven't been to Pine Wood, so here are directions. Drive to Sterlington and cross the bridge. Turn right at the Girl Scout sign a scant half mile from the bridge and follow the gravel road about 3½ miles to camp. Look for the signs at the turns.

Troop 11's visit to the fire station last week was a good experience in citizenship, from all we hear. Accompanied by Mrs. George Porter, Mrs B. S. DuPree, and Mrs. W. A. Parker, the Brownie Scouts, in uniform and on their best behavior, of course, visited central station, where obliging firemen showed all the equipment and answered the girls' questions Best of all, the girls were allowed to slide down the pole. According to their leaders, the girls were impressed with the cost of the equipment and the waste involved when a truck has to answer a false alarm. The question most of them wanted answered was "Why is a fire truck painted red?"

Taking advantage of a pretty week end, Troop 32 had a long-postponed cook - out at Bernstein Park. Cooking over two fires, the girls made and enjoyed eating the ever - popular campfire stew, sometimes called Brownie stew. Enjoying the sunshine to the fullest, the girls visited the zoo and played in the park. Mrs. J. E. Wood, leader, and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Spight were the adults in charge of what sounds like a fun-filled outing.

Thickening pot roast gravy? Some cooks like to stir two tablespoons of flour until smooth with one-half cup of water and use this to thicken one cup of the meat liquid.

O'Brien-Oswell Vows Pledged By Candlelight

On Thursday evening, April third, at six o'clock, the First Baptist Church of Delhi was the scene of an impressive candlelight wedding when Miss Joyce Elaine Oswell, daughter of Mrs. Etta Marie Oswell become the bride of John Lawrence O'Brien, son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. O'Brien. Dr. John Gibson performed the double-ring ceremony. Tall, stately palm plants formed the background at the altar along with white tapers in branched candelabra interspersed with baskets of Easter Lilies, white gladiol[illegible] and bridal wreath. The family pews were marked with white satin ribbon, fern and spirea.

Mrs. John Gibson played a concert of nuptial music as the guests were seated. She accompanied Mrs. W. R. Kidder who sang "I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Just before the bridal party entered, the candles were lighted by Miss Linda Lane, cousin of the bride and Miss Margie McElwee. Miss Lane's dress was of white chiffon and Miss McElwee's of pink crystalline. Their wrist corsages were fashioned of pink Frenched carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Don Baxter of Sicily Island, wore a floor-length gown of chantilly lace appliqued to an overskirt of net, beneath which was a skirt of net ruffles. The square neckline was formed of lace and the long sleeves came to petal points over the hands. A lace crown encrusted with tiny seed pearls held her fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a white Bible topped by a white orchid from which fell Frenched white carnations, lily of the valley, tulle and white satin ribbon

Miss Pat O'Brien, sister of the groom, served as maid of honor. Her ballerina length gown of turquoise silk organza over taffeta was fashioned with a low neckline, tucked bodice and bouffant skirt. She wore a picture hat of turquoise braid and net. Her bouquet was a reverse crescent of pink Frenched carnations with matching satin.

Bridesmaids were Miss Maurissa Halley and Mrs. Donnie Baxter of Sicily Island and cousin to the bride. Miss Halley was in pale yellow and Mrs. Baxter in pale pink. Their gowns and hats were styled identical to the maid of honor's. They carried crescent bouquets of Frenched carnations in matching colors.

Miss Judy O'Brien, little sister of the groom, was flower - girl. Her floor length dress was identical in color and style to the maid of honor. She carried p taffeta covered basket from which she scattered rose petals. Her bandeau was turquoise with tiny, pink carnations.

Kersh McIntyre was best man. Ushers were Henry Baker and Chapman Davis Jr. Serving as ringbearer was a cousin of the bride, Michael Lane.

Mrs. Oswell chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of grey lace over rose taffeta with accessories of black and rose. The bridegroom's mother wore a pink lace suit with pink and black accessories. Both wore an orchid corsage

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Pat Lane, uncle and aunt of the bride. Tall baskets of Easter Lilies and white gladioli stood at vantage points in the reception room where the bridal party stood to receive their guests. The bride's bouquet decorated a small table where Miss Linda Lane presided at the bride's register. In the dining room the bride's table was covered with a linen cloth. Forming the centerpiece was the three tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom. The cake was on a large round mirror encircled with tulle and Frenched white carnations—at either end were three white tapers. A small side table held the crystal punch bowl where Mrs. Nell Burton presided.

Mrs. Maryanne Clark served the cake. Others assisting in the courtesies beside the hostess were: Mrs. Don Baxter, Mrs. Newell McElwee and Miss Margie McElwee.

For a wedding trip to Biloxi, Mrs. O'Brien chose a beige suit with white accessories and the orchid from her wedding bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Delhi High School and attended Louisiana Business School. The groom is a graduate of Crowville High School and attended Louisiana State University and Northeast Louisiana State College where he will receive his degree in agriculture in May.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were:

Mr and Mrs. Don Baxter, Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Baxter, Sicily Island; Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Stroud, Natchitoches; Mr. and Mrs. Ashley McWiggins, Transylvania; Mrs. T. P. Montgomery, Memphis, Tenn., great-aunt of the groom; Mrs. Reid S. Bahm, Bogalusa, La. maternal grandmother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Pennebaker, Mr. Carey Pennebaker, Edwards, Miss.; Mr and Mrs. W. F. Prickett, Mr. and Mrs. Chas Cordill and Joe, Mrs. Julian S. Shipp, Winnsboro; Mrs. W. D. Scoggin and Diane, Mrs. Tommy Moore, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Taylor, and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Benoit, Crowville.

MR. and MRS. JOHN LAWRENCE O'BRIEN

Miss Borland, Edgar Shows Are Married

DODSON — Friday at eight o'clock in the evening in the Siloam Baptist Church, was the scene of a lovely wedding, uniting Miss Melba Ann Borland, daughter of Mr. Claude Borland, and the late Mrs. Bertha Lee Borland of Jonesboro, and Edgar Herman Shows, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Lee Shows of Dodson. The Rev. Louis Moffett read the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore the traditional wedding gown and her finger - tip veil of illusion was capped with a half - hat of flowers.

Mis. Jerry Lee Shows, sister of the groom, served as maid of honor. She was gowned in a mint green linen sheath and wore white accessories.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The table was covered with white linen, with yellow chrysanthemums completing the decoration. At one end of the table stood a beautiful three tiered bridal cake iced in blue and white, embossed with birds and bells and topped with a miniature bride and groom. Miss Dorothy Walker, cousin of the groom, served the cake and Miss Virginia Alford poured the punch.

The groom's mother was attired in a light gray suit with accessories to match.

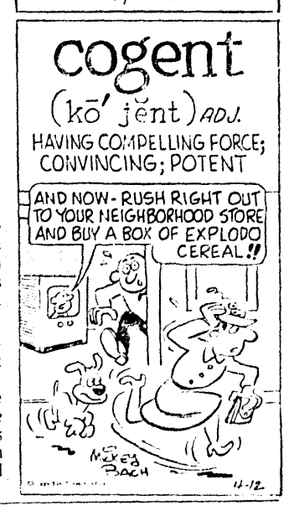

For her going - away the bride chose a light peach colored dress and white accessories. After a short wedding trip to Arkansas they will be at home in Jonesboro.

Seven small eggs give approximately the same weight as six medium - sized eggs; six medium-sied eggs give about the same sized eggs give about the same weight as five large eggs. This is a good rule to remember when you are making sponge or angel food cakes.

Honey adds flavor and aroma to yeast breads; it may be used in small amounts without changing the breadmaking process.

The bidding:

South, Pass; West, Pass; North, 1 club; East, Pass.

South, 1 diamond; West, Pass; North, 2 clubs; East, Pass.

South, 2 no trump; West, Pass; North, 3 no trump; East, Pass.

South, Pass; West, Pass.

Opening lead: Three of hearts.

In today's hand South almost succeeded in stealing second base but was retired on a perfect throw by West. Against the final contract of three no trump, West led the three of hearts, East played the jack, and South false - carded with the ace. Declarer promptly returned the deuce of diamonds and reflex action by West would have resulted in South's stealing the hand.

West properly took time out to make a mental picture of South's holding. The ace, king, ten of hearts were marked with declarer. The reasoning is simple. If East held the jack and ten, his proper third hand play would have been the ten, not the jack.

As for the king, if East held the king and jack, his proper play with no honor in dummy would have been the king, not the jack. From the circumstances that declarer failed to take steps to develop the club suit, but rather chose to remove dummy's only possible entry, the king of diamonds, one could safely infer that he held the queen of clubs.

It was reasonable, too, to place him with the queen of diamonds, which made it a moral certainty that he did not hold one of the top spade honors, since then he would have had a mandatory opening bid. Or if he had chosen to pass such a hand, surely he would have taken more drastic action on the second round than a mere one - over - one response.

On this line of reasoning it became clear to West that the king of diamonds was trick number nine and must not be permitted to score.

He rose with the ace and shifted to the queen of spades. East would have relished a higher card than the five with which to designate his approval, but West naturally proceeded with the suit to cash the setting tricks.

Declarer, to be sure, had chosen the best line of attack. To run six club tricks at once would be futile, for the situation would be exposed to the defense, which would realize the necessity for cashing four spade tricks.

A survey, made by the Southwest African Persian Lamb Industry Advisory Board showed that the Persian lamb is worn more than other fur in the United States. Mink comes second, then muskrat, sealskin, beaver, squirrel and mouton. But the women said they would choose mink first if they could afford it.

From Paris comes a long and fascinating glove. It's made of black taffeta, topped with a large flat bow, ending with a long stream of taffeta that floats around the shoulders like a stole. Wear a plain long glove on the other hand.

O'Brien-Oswell Vows Pledged By Candlelight

On Thursday evening, April third, at six o'clock, the First Baptist Church of Delhi was the scene of an impressive candlelight wedding when Miss Joyce Elaine Oswell, daughter of Mrs. Etta Marie Oswell become the bride of John Lawrence O'Brien, son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. O'Brien. Dr. John Gibson performed the double-ring ceremony.

Tall, stately palm plants formed the background at the altar along with white tapers in branched candelabra interspersed with baskets of Easter Lilies, white gladiol[illegible] and bridal wreath. The family pews were marked with white satin ribbon, fern and spirea.

Mrs. John Gibson played a concert of nuptial music as the guests were seated. She accompanied Mrs. W. R. Kidder who sang "I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Just before the bridal party entered, the candles were lighted by Miss Linda Lane, cousin of the bride and Miss Margie McElwee. Miss Lane's dress was of white chiffon and Miss McElwee's of pink crystalline. Their wrist corsages were fashioned of pink Frenched carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Don Baxter of Sicily Island, wore a floor-length gown of chantilly lace appliqued to an overskirt of net, beneath which was a skirt of net ruffles. The square neckline was formed of lace and the long sleeves came to petal points over the hands. A lace crown encrusted with tiny seed pearls held her fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a white Bible topped by a white orchid from which fell Frenched white carnations, lily of the valley, tulle and white satin ribbon

Miss Pat O'Brien, sister of the groom, served as maid of honor. Her ballerina length gown of turquoise silk organza over taffeta was fashioned with a low neckline, tucked bodice and bouffant skirt. She wore a picture hat of turquoise braid and net. Her bouquet was a reverse crescent of pink Frenched carnations with matching satin.

Bridesmaids were Miss Maurissa Halley and Mrs. Donnie Baxter of Sicily Island and cousin to the bride. Miss Halley was in pale yellow and Mrs. Baxter in pale pink. Their gowns and hats were styled identical to the maid of honor's. They carried crescent bouquets of Frenched carnations in matching colors.

Miss Judy O'Brien, little sister of the groom, was flower - girl. Her floor length dress was identical in color and style to the maid of honor. She carried a taffeta covered basket from which she scattered rose petals. Her bandeau was turquoise with tiny, pink carnations.

Kersh McIntyre was best man. Ushers were Henry Baker and Chapman Davis Jr. Serving as ringbearer was a cousin of the bride, Michael Lane.

Mrs. Oswell chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of grey lace over rose taffeta with accessories of black and rose. The bridegroom's mother wore a pink lace suit with pink and black accessories. Both wore an orchid corsage

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Pat Lane, uncle and aunt of the bride. Tall baskets of Easter Lilies and white gladioli stood at vantage points in the reception room where the bridal party stood to receive their guests. The bride's bouquet decorated a small table where Miss Linda Lane presided at the bride's register. In the dining room the bride's table was covered with a linen cloth. Forming the centerpiece was the three tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom. The cake was on a large round mirror encircled with tulle and Frenched white carnations—at either end were three white tapers. A small side table held the crystal punch bowl where Mrs. Nell Burton presided.

Mrs. Maryanne Clark served the cake. Others assisting in the courtesies beside the hostess were: Mrs. Don Baxter, Mrs. Newell McElwee and Miss Margie McElwee.

For a wedding trip to Biloxi, Mrs. O'Brien chose a beige suit with white accessories and the orchid from her wedding bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Delhi High School and attended Louisiana Business School. The groom is a graduate of Crowville High School and attended Louisiana State University and Northeast Louisiana State College where he will receive his degree in agriculture in May.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were:

Mr and Mrs. Don Baxter, Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Baxter, Sicily Island; Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Stroud, Natchitoches; Mr. and Mrs. Ashley McWiggins, Transylvania; Mrs. T. P. Montgomery, Memphis, Tenn., great-aunt of the groom; Mrs. Reid S. Bahm, Bogalusa, La. maternal grandmother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Pennebaker, Mr. Carey Pennebaker, Edwards, Miss.; Mr and Mrs. W. F. Prickett, Mr. and Mrs. Chas Cordill and Joe, Mrs. Julian S. Shipp, Winnsboro; Mrs. W. D. Scoggin and Diane, Mrs. Tommy Moore, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Taylor, and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Benoit, Crowville.

Miss Borland, Edgar Shows Are Married

DODSON — Friday at eight o'clock in the evening in the Siloam Baptist Church, was the scene of a lovely wedding, uniting Miss Melba Ann Borland, daughter of Mr. Claude Borland, and the late Mrs. Bertha Lee Borland of Jonesboro, and Edgar Herman Shows, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Lee Shows of Dodson. The Rev. Louis Moffett read the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore the traditional wedding gown and her finger - tip veil of illusion was capped with a half - hat of flowers.

Mis. Jerry Lee Shows, sister of the groom, served as maid of honor. She was gowned in a mint green linen sheath and wore white accessories.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The table was covered with white linen, with yellow chrysanthemums completing the decoration. At one end of the table stood a beautiful three tiered bridal cake iced in blue and white, embossed with birds and bells and topped with a miniature bride and groom. Miss Dorothy Walker, cousin of the groom, served the cake and Miss Virginia Alford poured the punch.

The groom's mother was attired in a light gray suit with accessories to match.

For her going - away the bride chose a light peach colored dress and white accessories. After a short wedding trip to Arkansas they will be at home in Jonesboro.

Seven small eggs give approximately the same weight as six medium - sized eggs; six medium-sied eggs give about the same sized eggs give about the same weight as five large eggs. This is a good rule to remember when you are making sponge or angel food cakes.

Honey adds flavor and aroma to yeast breads; it may be used in small amounts without changing the breadmaking process.

South, 1 diamond; West, Pass; North, 2 clubs; East, Pass.

South, 2 no trump; West, Pass; North, 3 no trump; East, Pass.

South, Pass; West, Pass.

Opening lead: Three of hearts.

In today's hand South almost succeeded in stealing second base but was retired on a perfect throw by West. Against the final contract of three no trump, West led the three of hearts, East played the jack, and South false - carded with the ace. Declarer promptly returned the deuce of diamonds and reflex action by West would have resulted in South's stealing the hand.

West properly took time out to make a mental picture of South's holding. The ace, king, ten of hearts were marked with declarer. The reasoning is simple. If East held the jack and ten, his proper third hand play would have been the ten, not the jack.

As for the king, if East held the king and jack, his proper play with no honor in dummy would have been the king, not the jack. From the circumstances that declarer failed to take steps to develop the club suit, but rather chose to remove dummy's only possible entry, the king of diamonds, one could safely infer that he held the queen of clubs.

It was reasonable, too, to place him with the queen of diamonds, which made it a moral certainty that he did not hold one of the top spade honors, since then he would have had a mandatory opening bid. Or if he had chosen to pass such a hand, surely he would have taken more drastic action on the second round than a mere one - over - one response.

On this line of reasoning it became clear to West that the king of diamonds was trick number nine and must not be permitted to score.

He rose with the ace and shifted to the queen of spades. East would have relished a higher card than the five with which to designate his approval, but West naturally proceeded with the suit to cash the setting tricks.

Declarer, to be sure, had chosen the best line of attack. To run six club tricks at once would be futile, for the situation would be exposed to the defense, which would realize the necessity for cashing four spade tricks.

A survey, made by the Southwest African Persian Lamb Industry Advisory Board showed that the Persian lamb is worn more than other fur in the United States. Mink comes second, then muskrat, sealskin, beaver, squirrel and mouton. But the women said they would choose mink first if they could afford it.

From Paris comes a long and fascinating glove. It's made of black taffeta, topped with a large flat bow, ending with a long stream of taffeta that floats around the shoulders like a stole. Wear a plain long glove on the other hand.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites In Marriage Miss Richmond, J. Sartor

Miss Bernita Richmond and Mr. James C. Sartor exchanged wedding vows March 29 at 2 o'clock in the Istrouma Methodist Church, Baton Rouge, La. Officiant for the double ring ceremony was the Rev. A. Jerome Cain.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Richmond of Baton Rouge, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Nancy F. Sartor and the late Dr. James C. Sartor of Rayville.

Nuptial music was played by Mrs. Charles Gaushell organist who also accompanied Mrs. Leonard Allen and Mr. Buddy Kennedy. Mrs. Allen sang "O Promise Me" and "Because" and Mr. Kennedy sang "The Lord's Prayer."

As the bride was given in marriage by her father, she was wearing an original dress of silk bombazine and chantilly lace over satin. The fitted bodice of lace used the sebrina neckline, and had long tapering sleeves that closed in back with tiny covered buttons and came to points over her wrists. The bouffant skirt with side panels of the chantilly lace was formal length and had a brush train. To her crown of pearls was attached her finger tip veil of French illusion. She carried a white orchid surrounded by white feathered carnations and white stephanotis.

The maid of honor, Miss Sallye Starks, wore a blush pink taffeta dress fashioned along princess lines with a sweetheart neckline. The blush pink faded into a deeper shade to form a bustle effect in the back. She wore pink satin shoes and a pink velvet crown with a nose veil. She carried a cascade of pink carnations. In identical attire were the bridesmaids, Miss Charlotte Stevens and Miss Peggy Sue Ott.

Men in the wedding party were Mr. William Calhoun, best man; Mr. George B. Franklin and Mr. Rush McCarty, groomsmen; Mr. Tracy Lee Harrell and Mr. Leonard Allen, ushers.

The mother of the bride chose a dress of rose lace over taffeta with a white orchid corsage and white accessories. The groom's mother was attired in a dress of light blue lace over taffeta with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Reception

Following the wedding, guests were received in the reception room of the Istrouma Methodist Church. On the bride's table was a four tiered square wedding cake iced in white and decorated with garlands of blush pink roses, clusters of wedding bells and tiny doves molded from crystal sugar. The top tier was ornamented with a bride and groom figurine standing under a floral arch. A full flounce of blush pink net was worked in at the base of the cake to complete the decoration. A cake knife that belonged to a close friend, Mrs. Wesley Young, was used to cut the cake. The background for the bride's table was an arrangement of palms and white gladiolas.

In the center of the serving table was an arrangement of pink carnations and candy tuft. On each end was a punch bowl and compotes of delicate pink hand molded mints.

Mrs. Wilbur Williams, sister of the bride, cut the cake, while Miss Shirley Ivy and Mrs. L. L. Edmonston, Jr., poured. Serving as tea girls were Mrs. Roy A. Rutland Jr., Miss Joyce Richmond and Miss Carolyn Rimes. At the guest register was Mrs. Alvin Vickers.

For traveling the bride changed into a powder blue suit with navy accessories and a white orchid corsage. Upon their return from their trip to an undisclosed destination, the couple plan to reside in Shreveport.

The bride is a graduate of Istrouma High School and Southeastern Louisiana College, while the groom is a graduate of Virginia Military Institute and attended Louisiana State University.

Mix a half cup of instant chocolate flavored beverage mix with a quart of milk, cover and refrigerate. Nice to have on hand for small - fry after - school snacks.

When you are making a cake, add the flavoring to the fat and sugar that is to be creamed for best flavor absorption.

MISS PATSY ANN TAYLOR

Miss Taylor And Charles Stewart Are Betrothed

The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Patsy Ann Taylor to Mr. Charles William Stewart has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Allen Taylor of Ruston. Parents of the groom - elect are Mr. and Mrs. William Hardy Stewart also of Ruston.

The wedding will be an event of June 7, at seven o'clock in the evening at Temple Baptist Church. Dr. J. C. Murphy of Meridian, Miss., will officiate.

Miss Taylor has chosen Miss Janet McLane as her honor attendant. Bridesmaids will be Miss Geraldine Gaudin, Miss Bobbie Sue Hogan, Miss Dorothy Dell Barksdale, all of Ruston, Miss Elizabeth Pattison of Mansfield, Miss Sylvia Gates of Shreveport, and Miss Billie Ann Ruple of Monroe.

Mr. Bill Smith of Ruston will serve Mr. Stewart as best man. Groomsmen will be Tommy Allen, Lacey Stinson, Pat Garrett, Jerry Adams and Donald Hoogland of Ruston, and Jim Smith of Columbus, Georgia.

The bride - elect is a junior student at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute and a member of Kappa Delta sorority. Mr. Stewart is also a junior at Louisiana Tech where he is a member of the "T Club."

Vary the shape in which you present food at one meal. If you serve a ringmold of rice or spinach, don't serve a ring - shaped meringue or cake for dessert

Color Schemes Suggested By Betty Lenahan

Q. — The walls of my dining room are sandalwood, the ceiling is gold and the furniture is in very light finish with the chair seats upholstered in a medium shade of green. What colors would you suggest for the rug and draperies?

A.—Orange would be a good color for the rug in your dining room and for the draperies, a pattern in green, rust and brown on a gold background.

Q.—I have a small living room and dining room that are separated by a room divider. The walls are gray, the draperies have a modern pattern in red, black, turquoise and green on a white background, the sofa and chair are black upholstered in red, the tables are blond with black wrought-iron legs and the dining-room furniture is also blond. I am planning to get new rugs and another chair. What colors would be suitable?

A.—Since your combination living room - dining room is small wall-to-wall carpeting would be a good idea as it would make the room appear larger, turquoise would be a good color and you might get the other chair upholstered in charcoal.

Q.—On either side of the fireplace in our living room are glass doors leading to the sun porch. I am tired of the plain white curtains I have been using on them and do not want Venetian blinds. Can you recommend another treatment?

A.—Why not remove the doors entirely and replace them with louvered doors painted white or to match the walls? They would add a distinctive decorative note o your living room.

Q.—The Cabinets in the kitchen of our new home are birch, the counter tops are citron yellow and the floor covering has a spatter pattern in light blue, yellow, pink and brown on a buff background. What colors would you advise for the walls and cafe curtains? Also, I would like to get stools for the snack bar. What would you suggest?

A.—For the walls of your kitchen, light blue and for the cafe curtains, rust, yellow and brown plaid. The bar stools in birch or maple with cushions covered in the same plaid as the curtains would be nice.

Miss Sue Tucker And Johnny Mack Nolan Exchange Wedding Vows

The First Baptist Church of Hamburg, Ark. was the setting Sunday, March 16th, at four o'clock for the wedding of Miss Sue Tucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Edward Tucker of Hamburg, and Johnny Mack Nolan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Nolan, also of Hamburg.

The Reverend E. E. Glover officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Vows were exchanged before a background of white tapers in white candelabra, a white wrought iron arch entwined with fern, baskets of white stock and gladioli flanked by woodwardia ferns. Family pews were marked with white satin wedding rings decorated with lily of the valley and satin streamers.

Miss Sondra Nolan, sister of the groom, was gowned in ice blue crystaline with fitted bodice and full skirt, and Edward Tucker, brother of the bride, lighted the tapers.

Miss Jo Ann Chapman, organist, played the traditional wedding marches and accompanied Mrs. L. T. Barnes of Crossett, as she sang "An Sweet Mystery of Life" and "The Lord's Prayer" as the benediction.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a floor length dress of chantilly lace and taffe. The fitted bodice of lace was fashioned with a sabrina neckline, edged in scallops of the lace. The long fitted sleeves were finished in lily points over the hands and the skirt, worn over hoops, was of alternate ruffled tiers of the lace and taffe from the waist to the hem line. Her fingertip veil was attached to a seed pearl halo, and she observed the tradition of wearing something old, borrowed and blue. The bride's only ornament was a string of pearls, gift of the groom, and she carried an orchid showered with stephanotis on a white Bible.

Mrs. Ray Wilson, Jr., of Monticello, cousin of the bride was matron of honor. She was gowned in ice blue crystaline, with a fitted bodice and scalloped neckline and shirred cap sleeves. The gathered skirt was worn over hoops and she wore matching slippers and carried a white satin wedding ring decorated in rainbow asters. Her headdress was of matching tulle and seed pearls.

The bridesmaids, Miss Betty Smith and Mrs. Gordon Hennington, Jr., wore gowns of pastel yellow, fashioned identical as the matron of honor. Their slippers were of matching satin and their headdresses were yellow tulle and seed pearls. They carried white satin wedding rings trimmed in asters.

Willard Nolan served his son as best man and ushers were Gordon Hennington, Jr., and Jimmy Rogers of Farmerville, La.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Tucker chose a navy blue sheath in pure silk and navy accessories. Her hat was of navy and white straw and she wore a white carnation corsage. The groom's mother was dressed in a wedding blue embroidered cotton satin and navy accessories. Her flowers were white carnations.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church parlor. Two white wedding rings decorated with lily of the valley and the bridal bouquet adorned the bride's floor length white organdy cloth, edged in a wide ruffle. The table corners were marked with white satin wedding rings and lily of the valley. The tiered wedding cake, decorated with large white wedding bells and a miniature bride and groom, and the crystal punch bowl completed the table arrangements. Miss Gursta Hill, poured the punch and Mrs. Carroll Noble of Pine Bluff, served the cake. Others assisting in serving were Mesdames Robert Chapman, Preston Mattmiller, H. M. Davis, Herman Smith, Vernon Scott and Frank Franklin.

The bride's book was placed on a net ruffled cloth embroidered in seed pearls. Mrs. Bobby Gene Jones registered the guests. The net rice bags tied with yellow ribbons were passed out by Miss Sondra Nolan.

For travel the bride wore a spring suit of air force blue wool, a white hat and navy accessories. She pinned her bridal orchid at her shoulder.

After a wedding trip to Natchez, New Orleans and points of interest along the Gulf Coast the couple will be at home in Hamburg.

Out of town guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jordan and Greg, Mrs. Jane Simpson, Mrs. Lila Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Nolan, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nolan, Nelwyn and Don, all of Monroe, La.; Mrs. Tommy Laster, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Rogers, Mrs. Ruth Nolan, Miss Bess Nolan, L. Z. Nolan, Mr. and Mrs. Clif Dumas, all of Farmerville, La., relatives of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. White, Pioneer, La., Mrs. C. L. Rawls, Sr., and C. L. Rawls, Jr., Wilmar; Carrol Noble and Mark, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Folds and Carolyn, Mrs. J. E. Roberts, Pine Bluff; Mrs. Dewayne Hele and Janice and Paul Kirkland, Portland Ray Wilson, Jr., Monticello, and Sonny Haygood of Crossett.

MRS. JOHNNY MACK NOLAN

Shorter skirts are the rule for evening as well as daytime, say fashion analysts of Women's Wear Daily, a trade publication. After-six outfits come with hems 13 or 14 inches from the floor. For daytime, skirts are 16 inches or higher.

DEAR ABBY

Neighbor's Worries Are Out Of Order

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My neighbor across the hall has a baby who is eight months old. She hires a sitter who is only 13 to come in and look after the baby for maybe three or four hours at once. The sitter is a nice girl but I can tell the way she handles that baby that she doesn't know much about babies so I run in about every half hour to see if the baby is wet. If he is, I change him because I am always so afraid that child will pin the diaper on him. The little sitter resents this but I can't help it. I can't be across the hall and not worry about that baby. Would you call this meddling?

GOOD NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: Your heart is in the right place, but you are out of order. Most 13-year-old sitters know how to keep their powder dry.

DEAR ABBY: My husband works nights and I have the worst time getting him up for work. I have pulled the covers off him, thrown cold water on him, yelled at him, turned the light on in his face, tickled his feet and even kissed him, but he doesn't budge. About an hour later he wakes up and asks me how come I didn't call him. Now, what do you do with a man like that?

THE WIFE

DEAR WIFE: First I'd test his hearing — and then his reflexes.

DEAR ABBY: I am ten years old going on eleven. I asked a boy in my room to write in my autograph book and he wrote: "Dear Sharon, I hate you." I felt so bad I cried and then I showed it to my mother when she asked me why I was crying. When she saw it she said it means he loves you. Please tell me, Abby, if my mother was just trying to make me feel good or does it mean he loves me? I love him.

SHARON

DEAR SHARON: Thi. ten-year-old boy is normal and your mother is probably 100 per cent correct.

DEAR ABBY: I don't trust my husband. He gets himself tripped up in lies about his working hours and where he is half the time. Last night he came home very late and when he took his shirt off, he had his T shirt on backwards and that wasn't the way he put it on in the morning. I am not the type to fight and holler but I feel very bad about all this. You see next week we will be celebrating our first wedding anniversary and I so want to make a go of our marriage as I am expecting. What should I do?

VIOLA

DEAR VIOLA: Why not call on your clergyman and renew your marriage vows on your first anniversary? Your husband needs a refresher course.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MINNIE'S MOM: True . . . the apple doesn't fall far from the tree . . . but this one must have rolled a long way.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

COTTON-PRETTY™ BRA

Dunk it in your washing machine!
Even after many, many months of washing, its perfect shape and fit will be like new!

How many times have you bought a bra that looked wonderful when you tried it on in the store . . . and then, after a few washings (even by hand) became limp and shapeless, did nothing for you?
No more of this with Cotton-Pretty!
Here is one bra that does wonders for you, not just when new, but even after many, many months of machine washing. Why? Because only Cotton-Pretty is so expertly constructed at points of strain that it holds its perfect shape long after other bras have lost theirs.

COTTON-PRETTY BRA holds perfect shape after 65 machine-washings.

Day after day, month after month, you'll be delighted with its lovely crisp look and feel. It's cotton for comfort and oh! so pretty! Sizes 32-40, A to C cups. $2.50. Playtex Party-Pretty, with nylon insets, $2.95.

Shorter skirts are the rule for evening as well as daytime, say fashion analysts of Women's Wear Daily, a trade publication. After-six outfits come with hems 13 or 14 inches from the floor. For daytime, skirts are 16 inches or higher.

DEAR ABBY

Neighbor's Worries Are Out Of Order

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My neighbor across the hall has a baby who is eight months old. She hires a sitter who is only 13 to come in and look after the baby for maybe three or four hours at once. The sitter is a nice girl but I can tell the way she handles that baby th she doesn't know much about babies so I run in about every half hour to see if the baby is wet. If he is, I change him because I am always so afraid that child will pin the diaper on him. The little sitter resents this but I can't help it. I can't be across the hall and not worry about that baby. Would you call this meddling?

GOOD NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: Your heart is in the right place, but you are out of order. Most 13-year-old sitters know how to keep their powder dry.

DEAR ABBY: My husband works nights and I have the worst time getting him up for work. I have pulled the covers off him, thrown cold water on him, yelled at him, turned the light on in his face, tickled his feet and even kissed him, but he doesn't budge. About an hour later he wakes up and asks me how come I didn't call him Now, what do you do with a man like that?

THE WIFE

DEAR WIFE: First I'd test his hearing — and then his reflexes.

DEAR ABBY: I am ten years old going on eleven. I asked a boy in my room to write in my autograph book and he wrote: "Dear Sharon. I hate you." I felt so bad I cried and then I showed it to my mother when she asked me why I was crying. When she saw it she said it means he loves you. Please tell me, Abby, if my mother was just trying to make me feel good or does it mean he loves me? I love him.

SHARON

DEAR SHARON: Thi. ten-year-old boy is normal and your mother is probably 100 per cent correct.

DEAR ABBY: I don't trust my husband. He gets himself tripped up in lies about his working hours and where he is half the time. Last night he came home very late and when he took his shirt off, he had his T shirt on backwards and that wasn't the way he put it on in the morning. I am not the type to fight and holler but I feel very bad abou. all this. You see next week we will be celebrating our first wedding anniversary and I so want to make a go of our marriage as I am expecting. What should I do?

VIOLA

DEAR VIOLA: Why not call on your clergyman and renew your marriage vows on your first anniversary? Your husband needs a refresher course.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MINNIE'S MOM: True . . . the apple doesn't fall far from the tree . . .but this one must have rolled a long way.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

COTTON-PRETTY™ BRA

Dunk it in your washing machine!
Even after many, many months of washing, its perfect shape and fit will be like new!

How many times have you bought a bra that looked wonderful when you tried it on in the store . . . and then, after a few washings (even by hand) became limp and shapeless, did nothing for you?
No more of this with Cotton-Pretty!
Here is one bra that does wonders for you, not just when new, but even after many, many months of machine washing. Why? Because only Cotton-Pretty is so expertly constructed at points of strain that it holds its perfect shape long after other bras have lost theirs.

COTTON-PRETTY BRA holds perfect shape after 65 machine-washings.

Day after day, month after month, you'll be delighted with its lovely crisp look and feel. It's cotton for comfort and oh! so pretty! Sizes 32-40, A to C cups. $2.50. Playtex Party-Pretty, with nylon insets, $2.95.

For the best in BRAS and GIRDLES look to playtex.

You can broil a hard - frozen steak that is cut thin in about the same time that a fresh steak of equal thickness will take.

Want to use an egg to thicken a sauce? Then count on it having the same amount of thickening ability as a tablespoon of flour.

Cake batter, baked in cupcake pans, will usually need 15 to 20 minutes in a 400 degree oven.

A pound of cauliflower usually gives two cups of flowerets when it is broken.

THE SERVANT SITUATION

Domestics Are Becoming Extremely Undomesticated

By CHARLES MAHER

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — In this lush land of silk and money — where even the dogs wear starched collars — any insinuation of widespread poverty would provoke civic outrage.

But there still are plenty of people around who need help —and can't get it.

The help they're looking for is not the kind you get from a bank. What they want comes in several classifications: maids, butlers, cooks and chauffeurs.

Servants are so scarce here — and in other silver spoon areas around Los Angeles — that a top - drawer husband-and-wife team can earn the equivalent of $850 a month in domestic service. Which, if it could be construed to be a slave wage, might lead to the conclusion that freedom should be abolished.

But, appealing as the money sounds a lot of domestics are getting undomesticated. And the outlook for a greater supply is — as a number of experts have expressed it — lousy.

The people who run the domestic employment agencies here can tell you why. One of them reports:

"Before the war, many of our best domestics were Europeans—people really trained for the job. But the war took people into different lines of work in Europe just as it did here. Now there just aren't as many young people getting into the business, either here or abroad."

Another agency operator reported:

"A lot of our people are turning to eight - hour - a-day commercial work, where they feel they have greater opportunities. The supply of domestics has gone down 25 per cent since the end of the war, and it was diminishing even before then."

All the agencies agreed that more young people today are finishing high school, going to college, and emerging with qualifications that lead them to more rewarding pursuits than piano dusting and onion peeling.

The recession has had no affect on the local situation. Employers want trained domestics and none of these are among unemployed from other industries.

There was also unanimous agreement that potential servants are becoming increasingly aware of the social and psychological disadvantages of domestic work. Americans have never really done a ripping job in the domestic field, one agency official said, and they're becoming less and less inclined to be ordered around other people's houses.

Future Gloomy

In downtown Los Angeles, at the state employment service office, there was an even gloomier forecast of the future of domestic employment. John V. Nicholson, an employment security officer who specializes in domestic placements, had this to say:

"The trend certainly indicates the eventual disappearance of this type of worker."

There are varying estimates of how much domestic wages have climbed since the end of the war. One agency operator said couples who were making $350 a month before the war are drawing up to $550 now. And this doesn't include their free board and room.

Salaries of general maids are reported running all the way from $150 to $275 a month in the Los Angeles area and cooks are making as much as $300 and $350.

Work schedules have been improved too. Some domestics are on a five - day week and are getting all Saturdays and Sundays off.

If the agencies are right, many employers are not exactly ecstatic about the caliber of service they're getting now. Some of them think the quality has degenerated to a level not too far above incompetency since the end of the war.

And the relationship between worker and employer is getting less cozy all the time. There aren't many domestics around now who are coming to be considered members of the family.

As a matter of fact, there are fewer and fewer who even want to be.

HARVEY STARLING

W. M. Evangelist To Hold Revival In Sterlington

West Monroe evangelist, Harvey Starling, will deliver a series of Bible sermons at the Sterlington Church of Christ beginning today.

Starling, who regularly preaches for the Slack Street church in West Monroe, will begin the meeting at 7:30 p.m. as he speaks on the subject of "Why Preach the Gospel?"

He is originally from north Arkansas and attended Harding College in Searcy and has been preaching in West Monroe for the past two years.

Marlin Howard, evangelist for the Sterlington church, states, "Churches of Christ plead for all men to return to the Bible and be simply Christians."

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: What can be done for a person who insists that 'his life is his own and he does what he wants with it?"

ANSWER: No one can say "his life is his own." We are, for the most part, what our environment, our heredity, has made us. Every thought, word and deed of ours affects someone else. The Bible says: "No man liveth unto himself." Your life is so intertwined with other lives, that you couldn't be independent of others if you tried.

One of the mistakes we make is trying to live entirely independent of those around us. Invariably the man who drinks to excess says: "It's my own business." He refuses to recognize that it is his wife's business, his children's business, and his neighbor's business. Most of all, what we do with our lives is God's business. The Bible says: "Ye are not your own, for ye are bought with a price: therefore glorify God in your body, and in your spirit, which are God's."

It so happens that God has a stake in your life and mine. However, he will not press His claims upon us without our full consent. You have only to take a glance at the lives of people who have "presented themselves to God," and those who have refused to, to see which way is best: God's way or your own.

Original Sin Discussed In New Book

BATON ROUGE (Special) — "American Literature and Christian Doctrine," a book which shows how Christian beliefs, and departures from them, have influenced American literature, was recently published by the Louisiana State University Press.

Written by Randall Stewart, a noted Hawthorne scholar, the book focuses on the doctrine of original sin and various degrees of acceptance or rejection of the doctrine, showing the opposition between the concept of man as radically imperfect and in need of redemption through discipline, moral awareness and struggle, and of man as radically good and perfectible

Stewart, a leading contributor to literary periodicals, is co-author of the widely used textbook, "The Literature of the United States."

Antagonism between the two views of man is first shown in the Calvinist - Puritan position of men like Jonathan Edwards as opposed to the philosophy of Paine, Jefferson and Franklin. The author presents the Transcendentalism of Emerson and Whitman as non-Christian, because it denies original sin and in effect defies man.

Stewart marks the re-introduction of the doctrine in the theme of guilt and innocence as presented by Hawthorne, Melville and James, then treats the amoral, deterministic philosophy of the naturalists, from Morris to Dreiser. A new recognition of man's plight is traced in contemporary writers like Eliot, Faulkner and Warren.

Two From State Tour Costa Rica

Two Louisiana Methodist ministers, Rev. John F. Kilpatrick of Pineville and Rev. Roy E. Mouser of Shreveport, will be among 12 Methodist ministers from throughout the United States who will tour Costa Rica this week on an evangelistic mission.

After a reception upon their arrival in Costa Rica's capital city, the ministers will be briefed and appointed to their respective preaching places.

The mission will end April 20, when the group will re-assemble in San Jose for reports.

The Methodist mission is being sponsored jointly by the denomination's Division of World Missions and the General Board of Evangelism.

Bible Words for Today

* * *

The story is told of Sir Walter Scott that when he lay dying he said to his son-in-law, "Lockhart, give me the Book." Lockhart looked around the room and said, "What book, Sir Walter, do you want?" Then the immortal author said, "Lockhart, there is only one book, the Bible." There is but one book in which God has so fully given His revelation to man, one book that has endured down through the years as the Word of God, one book that is God's message to man today and proved to be an adequate lamp to his feet and light to his path. That book is the Bible. Jesus said in prayer to the Father, "Thy word is truth." That word, that truth, is found primarily in this blessed Book. If you will read through the 119th Psalm, you will see how many different expressions the Psalmist uses in referring to the truth of God.

EMMA LOU BENIGHTS

Grace Church Slates Adult Study Course

Episcopal Church members from all parishes and missions in Northeast Louisiana will gather at Grace Episcopal Church, Fourth and Glenmar Streets, on Friday and Saturday this week, for a special conference devoted to Christian Education for adults. Visitors will come from Ruston, Bastrop, Mer Rouge, Lake Providence, Tallulah, Rayville, St. Joseph, Waterproof, and Alexandria and adjacent areas.

The conference here is to be led by Miss Emma Lou Benignus, the associate secretary of the adult division of the Episcopal Church's department of Christian Education.

After graduate study in philosophy at the University of Wisconsin and in the philosophy of religion and Christian theology at Columbia University and Union Theological Seminary, Miss Benignus spent six years at Randolph-Macon Women's College, Lynchburg, Va., as professor of religion and religious counselor. For three summers and one year of that period she taught religious concepts of the Old and New Testaments at Columbia University. The two years prior to her arrival at the Department of Christian Education were spent in administration and personnel work at Wilson College, a woman's liberal arts college in Chambersburg, Pa.

Miss Benignus was graduated from Illinois College with a degree in biology and began her career in a cancer research laboratory in St. Louis. As an adult convert to the church she was encouraged by friends in the clergy to attend a summer conference at Windham House, New York City, the Episcopal Church's eastern training center for professional women church workers.

The conference at Grace Church opens with evening prayer at 5:30 Friday. Supper will follow immediately and the evening will be devoted to the first full session of the conference. The sessions will continue until mid-afternoon on Saturday, April 19, the Rev. John M. Allin, Rector of Grace Church, has announced.

Parish, Trenton Groups To Meet

Women of the Missionary Unions in Ouachita Parish and the Trenton Associations will hold quarterly meetings this week in Parkview Baptist Church and First Baptist, West Monroe, respectively.

The Trenton groups will convene Wednesday beginning at 8:50 a.m. The Parish organizations will begin their activities at Parkview Church at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Guest speakers at the Parkview meeting will be Mrs. R. H. Whittington of Pineville, who serves as state scholarship chairman, a Miss Laquetta Jackson of Louisiana College.

Special music will be performed by Mrs. William Wilkerson and Mrs. E. W. Cruse of the host church.

A highlight of the meeting of the Trenton Association will be the Acadia Baptist Trio and the missionary message of Rev. Stafford Rogers, supt. of the Acadia Baptist Academy of Eunice.

Theme of both sessions will be "The Heavenly Kingdom Comes."

HARVEY STARLING

W. M. Evangelist To Hold Revival In Sterlington

West Monroe evangelist, Harvey Starling, will deliver a series of Bible sermons at the Sterlington Church of Christ beginning today.

Starling, who regularly preaches for the Slack Street church in West Monroe, will begin the meeting at 7:30 p.m. as he speaks on the subject of "Why Preach the Gospel?"

He is originally from north Arkansas and attended Harding College in Searcy and has been preaching in West Monroe for the past two years.

Marlin Howard, evangelist for the Sterlington church, states, "Churches of Christ plead for all men to return to the Bible and be simply Christians."

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: What can be done for a person who insists that 'his life is his own and he does what he wants with it?"

ANSWER: No one can say "his life is his own." We are, for the most part, what our environment, our heredity, has made us. Every thought, word and deed of ours affects someone else. The Bible says: "No man liveth unto himself." Your life is so intertwined with other lives, that you couldn't be independent of others if you tried.

One of the mistakes we make is trying to live entirely independent of those around us. Invariably the man who drinks to excess says: "It's my own business." He refuses to recognize that it is his wife's business, his children's business, and his neighbor's business. Most of all, what we do with our lives is God's business. The Bible says: "Ye are not your own, for ye are bought with a price: therefore glorify God in your body, and in your spirit, which are God's."

It so happens that God has a stake in your life and mine. However, he will not press His claims upon us without our full consent. You have only to take a glance at the lives of people who have "presented themselves to God," and those who have refused to, to see which way is best: God's way or your own.

Original Sin Discussed In New Book

BATON ROUGE (Special) — "American Literature and Christian Doctrine," a book which shows how Christian beliefs, and departures from them, have influenced American literature, was recently published by the Louisiana State University Press.

Written by Randall Stewart, a noted Hawthorne scholar, the book focuses on the doctrine of original sin and various degrees of acceptance or rejection of the doctrine, showing the opposition between the concept of man as radically imperfect and in need of redemption through discipline, moral awareness and struggle, and of man as radically good and perfectible

Stewart, a leading contributor to literary periodicals, is co-author of the widely used textbook, "The Literature of the United States."

Antagonism between the two views of man is first shown in the Calvinist - Puritan position of men like Jonathan Edwards as opposed to the philosophy of Paine, Jefferson and Franklin. The author presents the Transcendentalism of Emerson and Whitman as non-Christian, because it denies original sin and in effect defies man.

Stewart marks the re-introduction of the doctrine in the theme of guilt and innocence as presented by Hawthorne, Melville and James, then treats the amoral, deterministic philosophy of the naturalists, from Morris to Dreiser. A new recognition of man's plight is traced in contemporary writers like Eliot, Faulkner and Warren.

Two From State Tour Costa Rica

Two Louisiana Methodist ministers, Rev. John F. Kilpatrick of Pineville and Rev. Roy E. Mouser of Shreveport, will be among 12 Methodist ministers from throughout the United States who will tour Costa Rica this week on an evangelistic mission.

After a reception upon their arrival in Costa Rica's capital city, the ministers will be briefed and appointed to their respective preaching places.

The mission will end April 20, when the group will re-assemble in San Jose for reports.

The Methodist mission is being sponsored jointly by the denomination's Division of World Missions and the General Board of Evangelism.

Parish Baptist Association Sets Parkview Meet

The nineteen churches of the Brotherhood of the Ouachita Parish Baptist Association will meet at Parkview Baptist Tuesday at 7:30 p.m , according to an announcement of H. K. Littleton, president of the association.

Speaker for the occasion will be Dr. Fred B. Moseley, promotional secretary of the Louisiana Baptist Convention Special music will be presented by the men's chorus of the First Baptist Church of Monroe.

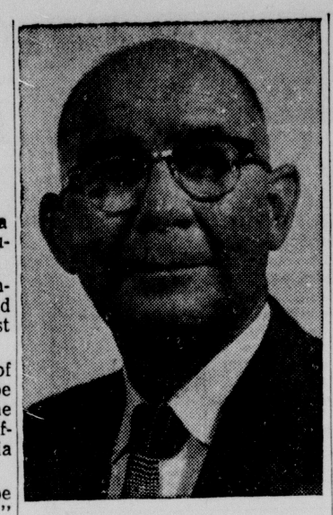

Bible Words for Today

* * *

The story is told of Sir Walter Scott that when he lay dying he said to his son-in-law, "Lockhart, give me the Book." Lockhart looked around the room and said, "What book, Sir Walter, do you want?" Then the immortal author said, "Lockhart, there is only one book, the Bible." There is but one book in which God has so fully given His revelation to man, one book that has endured down through the years as the Word of God, one book that is God's message to man today and proved to be an adequate lamp to his feet and light to his path. That book is the Bible. Jesus said in prayer to the Father, "Thy word is truth." That word, that truth, is found primarily in this blessed Book. If you will read through the 119th Psalm, you will see how many different expressions the Psalmist uses in referring to the truth of God.

EMMA LOU BENIGHTS

Grace Church Slates Adult Study Course

Episcopal Church members from all parishes and missions in Northeast Louisiana will gather at Grace Episcopal Church, Fourth and Glenmar Streets, on Friday and Saturday this week, for a special conference devoted to Christian Education for adults. Visitors will come from Ruston, Bastrop, Mer Rouge, Lake Providence, Tallulah, Rayville, St. Joseph, Waterproof, and Alexandria and adjacent areas.

The conference here is to be led by Miss Emma Lou Benignus, the associate secretary of the adult division of the Episcopal Church's department of Christian Education.

After graduate study in philosophy at the University of Wisconsin and in the philosophy of religion and Christian theology at Columbia University and Union Theological Seminary, Miss Benignus spent six years at Randolph-Macon Women's College, Lynchburg, Va., as professor of religion and religious counselor. For three summers and one year of that period she taught religious concepts of the Old and New Testaments at Columbia University. The two years prior to her arrival at the Department of Christian Education were spent in administration and personnel work at Wilson College, a woman's liberal arts college in Chambersburg, Pa.

Miss Benignus was graduated from Illinois College with a degree in biology and began her career in a cancer research laboratory in St. Louis. As an adult convert to the church she was encouraged by friends in the clergy to attend a summer conference at Windham House, New York City, the Episcopal Church's eastern training center for professional women church workers.

The conference at Grace Church opens with evening prayer at 5:30 Friday. Supper will follow immediately and the evening will be devoted to the first full session of the conference. The sessions will continue until mid-afternoon on Saturday, April 19, the Rev. John M. Allin, Rector of Grace Church, has announced.

Housewives Use More Hot Water

Today's homemakers are using more and hotter water than you might think possible. Do you know that you turn on your hot water tap 140 times a day?

For baths, showers, shaving, shampooing, dishwashing, laundry, cleaning and for many other uses in the home.

Remember when the whole house had to be decorated when walls and woodwork got dirty? Today walls, ceilings and woodwork in many homes are painted with washable paint or covered with that new washable wallpaper—certainly much cheaper to keep clean with hot water and soap than spending money on an entire re - decorating job.

Literally millions of homes since the war have been equipped with automatic appliances which use more hot water.

Dishwashers A Factor

Automatic dishwashers, for instance, sterilize dishes sparkling clean but use more and hotter water in the process.

The automatic washing machine is one of the best examples of the increased use of hot water in the home. Millions of new owner-housewives are finding they use hotter water and more of it than with the old type non - automatic washer.

Laundry practices have changed too. The gas industry recently found in a research survey that more than 19 per cent of today's homemakers are washing two, three, and sometimes four times a week. Evidently, many homemakers are finding that it's easier to do the laundry several times a week with the new easily - operated automatic washers than to save it all up for one all - day task. It's a good idea, too, it seems to us. Fewer Monday washday blues and more time for fun and freedom with the family.

Research sponsored by the American Gas Association has turned up many ideas about hot water temperatures, too, which call for hotter water for laundry, for household cleaning and the myriad other hot water chores around the house.

For example, an automatic water heater is usually set at 140 degrees Fahrenheit for general household tasks. But some types of home laundering require 160 degrees hot water to get the clothes as clean and fresh as they should be. That's heally hot water. Other laundry done at home should be washed in 140 degrees to get a cleaner whiter wash.

Big Supply Needed

All these new labor-saving appliances and the newly discovered fact that water should be much hotter for certain household tasks than hitherto thought necessary, necessitates a greater supply of hot water.

Because many water heaters are inadequate for the demands of the average home today, many a housewife has to carefully allot her housekeeping time to the amount of hot water available.

The family's hot bath or shower must be portioned out impartially to forstall any argument as to who takes the firs' bath.

Perhaps even the four gallons needed for baby's bath must be specially heated on the kitchen stove because there isn't enough hot water.

To avoid these problems, be sure your water heater is big enough. Here are some tank capacities to help guide you, the the American Gas Association's recommendations for proper size gas water heate rs based on the number of bedrooms and bathrooms in the home.

Proper Sizes

For one bathroom and one or two bedrooms — you need a 30-gallon tank.

For one bathroom and three or four bedrooms — a 40-gallon tank.

For two bathrooms and four or five bedrooms—a 50-gallon tank is necessary.

For three bathrooms and three bedrooms you will need the same capacity—50 gallons.

For three or four bathrooms and four or five bedrooms a 75-gallon tank is necessary.

Over and above the size of the tank is the B.T.U. input. B.T.U. means British Thermal Unit and is a method of measuring heat. B.T.U. input for a water heater is the amount of heat necessary to heat water quickly. Your utility company or appliance dealer can explain to you the importance of having enough controlled heat for your automatic gas water heater.

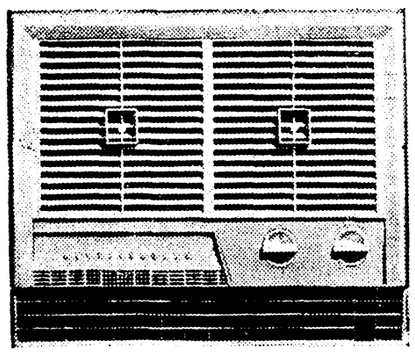

WAX AND CRACKS

Before painting a surface which has been waxed, remove all traces with turpentine or one of the products prepared especially for that purpose. Clean rags should be used for the final clean-up. If your painting job involves hiding cracks, rough or patched plaster or dry wall seams, try using a texture paint which is thicker than regular paint. First brush it on. Then stipple with a brush or sponge.

Wood Side Available Variedly

Home owners planning exterior modernization of their homes, a project often carried out at the same time an addition is made to an old house, have a choice of numerous types of wood siding at their local lumber yards.

They can obtain effects of pattern, texture, color and line that give new distinction to an ordinary type of house.

Many new houses designed by top architects and builders depend on imaginative use of wood siding for dramatic architectural effects, according to the National Lumber Manufacturers Association.

Big Appearance

Narrow widths of bevel siding or narrow widths of vertical siding given an appearance of greater size to smaller homes.

Random width bevel siding, applied in regular rotation, varying from 4-inch to 10-inch boards gives an individuality comparable on the outside to the effect of random width flooring on the inside.

Vertical siding may be used in combination with horizontal siding to give pleasing proportion to long, low houses.

The three principal kinds of wood siding are bevel, drop and vertical. Bevel, also called lap siding, is a direct descendant of clapboards. The first clapboards were rough square-edged boards lapped over each other to shed the rain. Later, they were tapered to make one edge thinner than the other and, thus, provide a tighter fit against the house frame.

Today's bevel siding is made by sawing square-edged boards diagonally to produce two wedge-shaped pieces. Bevel siding eight inches or wider is often called bungalow or colonial siding.

Rabbet Joint

Bevel siding is sometimes manufactured with the inside part of the thick or bottom edge cut away. The thin or top edge of the next piece fits into the cutaway portion to make what is called a rabbet joint.

When rabbeted bevel siding is used, the backs of the boards lie flat against studding or sheathing and the shadowline on the exposed surface is somewhat less than provided by the plain bevel.

The exposed surfaces of all bevel siding have an outward slant.

Drop siding comes in many patterns and is machined on the edges so that each board joins the next in a shiplap joint or tongue-and-groove arrangement. A shiplap joint is much like a rabbet joint. A channel is cut along the bottom inside edge of each board, the top edge of the next board is machined to fit under it.

Drop siding, sometimes used without sheathing, does not slant outward as bevel does but fits flush on both sides.

Modern methods of manufacture, selection and grading assure that wood siding gives even better technical performance than ever before. Wood siding contributes to the rigidity and stability of a home, adds a high degree of insulation to walls, and gives lifetime service when properly applied.

In addition to the operas he wrote with W. S. Gilbert, Sir Arthur Sullivan also composed, on his own, songs and oratories.

New Siding Offers Many Possibilities

A number of the modern materials can be applied by the homeowner himself, with a substantial savings in labor cost.

Most homeowners, of course, will find it considerably more effective to secure the services of a qualified contractor (those who are members of the Home Improvement Council have pledged themselves to reliable service.) house had to be decorated when material you choose will arrange for a reputable contractor for you if you wish.

If the exterior of your house is cluttered up with gingerbread, a sagging porch, old - fashioned windows or other relics of the 19th century, you will want to consider altering or eliminating these eyesores in your facelifting program.

The photographs below show some of the types of siding that can be used in modernizing the exterior apearance of a house. Many others are available from your building materials dealer, offering an endless variety of possibilities.

DESIGNED TO STAY BRIGHT

Gleaming porcelain enamel and metal surfaces of new gas appliances are designed to stay smooth and bright for many years and just won't hold dust or grime. In hidden spots, too, such as range ovens and broilers, smooth shining surfaces mean minutes saved in clean up time. Just seven minutes a day, the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association points out, add up to more than 40 hours a year.

Good Lighting Makes Kitchen Work Easier

Preparing meals with modern kitchen equipment has become an easier task for the homemaker. But it could become even easier if she had enough light to see what she was doing.

This lack of light in the kitchen paves the way for accidents, making it one of the most dangerous rooms in the home, according to the American Home Lighting Institute.

"Stumbling along in the gloom of a single ceiling fixture, most homemakers find their work frustrating, irritating, and tiring," says a spokesman for the institute.

"As the lighting level is increased, more energy is free for useful work, and nervous tension is lessened."

Light Each Surface

A specific light fixture for each work surface and area is needed. This means light over the sink, range, and counters, as well as light for balance in the center of the room, and light over the kitchen dining area.

Cooking over an inadequately lighted range, fumbling in shadowy cutlery drawers, and using electric kitchen appliances in gloomy surroundings are all dangers which can be eliminated with appropriate fixtures.

Improved kitchen lighting can be easy on the budget. In many cases, especially with counter lighting, fluorescent fixtures can be installed as a "do - it - yourself" project. Good lighting is just as suitable for old as new homes.

Two important things to watch when you plan for kitchen lighting are the color of light you choose, and glare protection. Generally, deluxe cool white fluorescent is preferred for the kitchen. This light is easy to see by, and provides excellent color rendition of materials you work with, including foods.

Shield from Eyes

All kitchen lighting should be shielded, so that none shines directly into the eyes. In most cases, this means a faceboard installed in front of the fixture.

Generally, units installed under cabinets for counter lighting require no faceboards, since the cabinet itself conceals the lighting fixture. However, if the fixture is installed beneath the front of the cabinet, a faceboard is required.

Lighting over the sink can be concealed behind a faceboard so that the entire effect resembles a custom - built soffit, usually associated with remodeling jobs.

Your range needs adequate fixture lighting, even if it already has its own built - in lighting. This built - in unit is generally intended to illuminate the controls of the range only, and is seldom enough to light up the cooking area.

Double Duty

A fluorescent wall bracket installed to illuminate the range can also double as a condiment shelf if the top is covered with protective diffusing glass or plastic.

A similar wall bracket can be used to light up the kitchen dining table set against the wall.

Complete information and advice on the correct light for your kitchen is available usually at no charge, from your local electrical, utility, or department store.

Healthy Lawn Is Best Method Of Combatting Weeds

A thick healthy lawn is the best weed-killer, according to experts of the Stadler Fertilizer Company, who have come up with simple, helpful hints to take the chore out of weeding.

Beyond a doubt, they say, rule number one is to maintain a healthy lawn. The reason? Weeds, like other plants, need plenty of sunlight to grow, and thick grass keeps weed seeds in the shade.

Regular fertilizing of a lawn keeps the grass green and thick and helps choke out weeds. Another point—weeds tend to grow fast during the hot summer months, so at this time of the year it is best to let the grass grow 1½ to 2 inches. Raise your mower blades, a simple adjustment. If you have a lot of weeds, catch your grass clippings with a catcher to keep from sowing new weed seed.

Three-Step Plan

1. In early spring, fertilize your lawn. This is the time of the year when the grasses are just beginning to grow. Give them the nourishment they need to make that turf really thick before the weeds start to grow.

2. During the summer months, give your lawn a Ban-A-Weed treatment. Kill off any weeds that did get started and give the grass that extra shot it needs to keep it green under the hot sun.

3. In early Fall give it another good fertilizing.

Carpeting Can Fill Improvement Needs

When the time comes for renovating or redecorating, a family conference is usually the first step. Mom talks about beauty and convenience. Dad thinks about construction and cost. The rest of the family may throw in an assortment of requests and ideas.

If home improvement includes refurbishing the old floors, carpet should lead the list of essentials, for all these demands can be met at once. Carpets and rugs provide the basis for any decoration and color scheme, but they add more than beauty — they also provide comfort, warmth, quiet and safety. And the family financier will quickly see many ways of cutting costs with carpets.

Shopping Easy

Picking out the right carpet for your own home improvement project is getting easier and easier. Once you've decided what type of carpet or rug you want, it's a simple matter to visit stores with see-at-a-glance sample racks, or take advantage of the in-home buying services which many stores offer.

Some of the new carpets now come with built-in underpadding—sponge rubber or polyurethene cushion laminated to the backing. Families using these new floor coverings will save the cost of buying additional padding, which normally is laid separately when carpets are installed

Change Appearance

Choosing from among all these new carpet ideas will, of course, depend on your home construction as well as on decorative values. Carpets can create an illusion of space in a room. For example, if you can't knock out all the walls you'd like to, you can still make a small room look larger by using an unbroken area of carpeting in a solid color or continuous pattern. You can even overcome some architectural irregularities by "pulling together" chopped-up areas with carpeting.

These are some of the favored redecorating and remodeling spots in which carpet can play a major role:

1. The family room. Remember that it will see lots of activity—and, inevitably, accompanying noise — so sound - absorbing carpet is a necessity here. It's practical and easy to care for, too. Many types of carpet, expecially those made of the newer fibers, are resistant to spills and stains.

2. The attic room. If you're making use of extra space for a growing family, note that carpets provide insulation for an attic which might present a heating problem. Again they muffle sounds to insure extra privacy upstairs.

3. The nursery. For young homemakers on their first remodeling spree, this extra room frequently heads the list. A carpet in the nursery means that the family newcomers will have warmth and quiet — and later, a soft, safe area for playing and learning to walk.

4. The teen-ager's room. Here's a chance to let the teen-agers share in decorating plans and get an idea of a long - range investment for the home. They'll appreciate the decorative and practical features of carpets and rugs and will have a hey-day in picking out their favorite colors and designs.

5. The hallway and stairs. Probably the quickest way to give a new look to the entire house is to redecorate an entrance which greets visitors as they open the door. Stairs should be carpeted for safety reasons as well as decorative values.

Economical, Too

Best news for Dad is that all of these redecorating and remodeling features can be had with economy in mind. The wide availability of accredited installment plans make it easy to have quality carpet now as a basis for your home improvement program. Quality carpets for two average - sized rooms can be purchased for as little as $15 a month on a 24-month plan.

Housewives Use More Hot Water

Today's homemakers are using more and hotter water than you might think possible. Do you know that you turn on your hot water tap 140 times a day?

For baths, showers, shaving, shampooing, dishwashing, laundry, cleaning and for many other uses in the home.

Remember when the whole house had to be decorated when walls and woodwork got dirty? Today walls, ceilings and woodwork in many homes are painted with washable paint or covered with that new washable wallpaper—certainly much cheaper to keep clean with hot water and soap than spending money on an entire re - decorating job.

Literally millions of homes since the war have been equipped with automatic appliances which use more hot water.

Dishwashers A Factor

Automatic dishwashers, for instance, sterilize dishes sparkling clean but use more and hotter water in the process.

The automatic washing machine is one of the best examples of the increased use of hot water in the home. Millions of new owner-housewives are finding they use hotter water and more of it than with the old type non - automatic washer.

Laundry practices have changed too. The gas industry recently found in a research survey that more than 19 per cent of today's homemakers are washing two, three, and sometimes four times a week. Evidently, many homemakers are finding that it's easier to do the laundry several times a week with the new easily - operated automatic washers than to save it all up for one all - day task. It's a good idea, too, it seems to us. Fewer Monday washday blues and more time for fun and freedom with the family.

Research sponsored by the American Gas Association has turned up many ideas about hot water temperatures, too, which call for hotter water for laundry, for household cleaning and the myriad other hot water chores around the house.

For example, an automatic water heater is usually set at 140 degrees Fahrenheit for general household tasks. But some types of home laundering require 160 degrees hot water to get the clothes as clean and fresh as they should be. That's heally hot water. Other laundry done at home should be washed in 140 degrees to get a cleaner whiter wash.

Big Supply Needed

All these new labor-saving appliances and the newly discovered fact that water should be much hotter for certain household tasks than hitherto thought necessary, necessitates a greater supply of hot water.

Because many water heaters are inadequate for the demands of the average home today, many a housewife has to carefully allot her housekeeping time to the amount of hot water available.

The family's hot bath or shower must be portioned out impartially to forstall any argument as to who takes the first bath.

Perhaps even the four gallons needed for baby's bath must be spcially heated on the kitchen stove because there isn't enough hot water.

To avoid these problems, be sure your water heater is big enough. Here are some tank capacities to help guide you, the the American Gas Association's recommendations for proper size gas water heaters based on the number of bedrooms and bathrooms in the home.

Proper Sizes

For one bathroom and one or two bedrooms — you need a 30-gallon tank.

For one bathroom and three or four bedrooms — a 40-gallon tank.

For two bathrooms and four or five bedrooms—a 50-gallon tank is necessary.

For three bathrooms and three bedrooms you will need the same capacity—50 gallons.

For three or four bathrooms and four or five bedrooms a 75-gallon tank is necessary.

Over and above the size of the tank is the B.T.U. input. B.T.U. means British Thermal Unit and is a method of measuring heat. B.T.U. input for a water heater is the amount of heat necessary to heat water quickly. Your utility company or appliance dealer can explain to you the importance of having enough controlled heat for your automatic gas water heater.

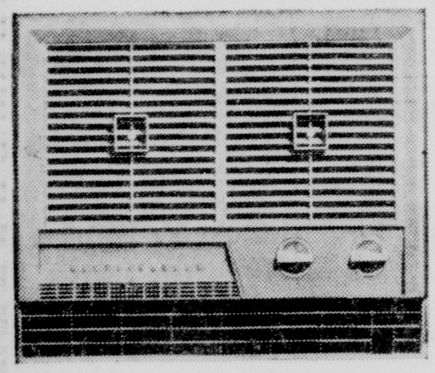

WAX AND CRACKS

Before painting a surface which has been waxed, remove all traces with turpentine or one of the products prepared especially for that purpose. Clean rags should be used for the final clean-up. If your painting job involves hiding cracks, rough or patched plaster or dry wall seams, try using a texture paint which is thicker than regular paint. First brush it on. Then stipple with a brush or sponge.

Wood Side Available Variedly

Home owners planning exterior modernization of their homes, a project often carried out at the same time an addition is made to an old house, have a choice of numerous types of wood siding at their local lumber yards.

They can obtain effects of pattern, texture, color and line that give new distinction to an ordinary type of house.

Many new houses designed by top architects and builders depend on imaginative use of wood siding for dramatic architectural effects, according to the National Lumber Manufacturers Association.

Big Appearance

Narrow widths of bevel siding or narrow widths of vertical siding given an appearance of greater size to smaller homes.

Random width bevel siding, applied in regular rotation, varying from 4-inch to 10-inch boards, gives an individuality comparable on the outside to the effect of random width flooring on the inside.

Vertical siding may be used in combination with horizontal siding to give pleasing proportion to long, low houses.

The three principal kinds of wood siding are bevel, drop and vertical. Bevel, also called lap siding, is a direct descendant of clapboards. The first clapboards were rough square-edged boards lapped over each other to shed the rain. Later, they were tapered to make one edge thinner than the other and, thus, provide a tighter fit against the house frame.

Today's bevel siding is made by sawing square-edged boards diagonally to produce two wedge-shaped pieces. Bevel siding eight inches or wider is often called bungalow or colonial siding.

Rabbet Joint

Bevel siding is sometimes manufactured with the inside part of the thick or bottom edge cut away. The thin or top edge of the next piece fits into the cutaway portion to make what is called a rabbet joint.

When rabbeted bevel siding is used, the backs of the boards lie flat against studding or sheathing and the shadowline on the exposed surface is somewhat less than provided by the plain bevel.

The exposed surfaces of all bevel siding have an outward slant.

Drop siding comes in many patterns and is machined on the edges so that each board joins the next in a shiplap joint or tongue-and-groove arrangement. A shiplap joint is much like a rabbet joint. A channel is cut along the bottom inside edge of each board, the top edge of the next board is machined to fit under it.

Drop siding, sometimes used without sheathing, does not slant outward as bevel does but fits flush on both sides.

Modern methods of manufacture, selection and grading assure that wood siding gives even better technical performance than ever before. Wood siding contributes to the rigidity and stability of a home, adds a high degree of insulation to walls, and gives lifetime service when properly applied.

New Siding Offers Many Possibilities

A number of the modern materials can be applied by the homeowner himself, with a substantial savings in labor cost.

Most homeowners, of course, will find it considerably more effective to secure the services of a qualified contractor (those who are members of the Home Improvement Council have pledged themselves to reliable service.) house had to be decorated when material you choose will arrange for a reputable contractor for you if you wish.

If the exterior of your house is cluttered up with gingerbread, a sagging porch, old - fashioned windows or other relics of the 19th century, you will want to consider altering or eliminating these eyesores in your facelifting program.

The photographs below show some of the types of siding that can be used in modernizing the exterior apearance of a house. Many others are available from your building materials dealer, offering an endless variety of possibilities.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Gay Designs Mark Show

By MARY M. JARDINE

Club presidents are reminded to please mail the return card to the Garden Center accepting a date for the Fifth District Flower Show in May. The schedules have been received and we are anxious to mail them out. Please let us hear from you right away.

The National Gardener and the La. Garden Club Federation Newsletter for April, 1958 have listed the new amendments to the Flower Show Handbook. All club presidents and flower show committees are requested to read and inform all club members of these changes.

Twin City arrangers staged the beautiful flower show at the Center this week. Mrs. J. W. Golson, Welcome Garden Club, designed a springtime arrangement in green and white. For her mass design, Mrs. Golson selected a white Etruscan cup. Background placements were of dainty white flowering almond. The mass - line was enhanced with pure white Thalia daffodils and large white Mt. Hood daffodils. Loquat leaves low in the design provided a change of texture and rosettes of pittosporum, (showing the light green new growth and dark green mature leaves) were placed over the rim of the container. A lovely arrangement for the living room or hall and it, too, would be suitable for a church arrangement.

Mrs. John McCarter, Bayou DeSiard Garden Club, designed an appealing arrangement featuring pansies and calendulas. A round, chartreuse bowl set on a brown base was the perfect choice for the plant material. A triangular line pattern was formed with bronzy new leaves of the wavy - leaf photinia. A line of bright yellow calendulas followed the established line. Pansies shading from yellow into deep purple emphasized the line. Very gay and sunny.

Mrs. C. C. Lucky, Monroe Garden club, created a graceful line mass arrangement. A pressed glass compote was selected by Mrs. Lucky for her arrangement. The tall, graceful, line placements were of white flowering almond and pearl bush. The line continued with small white azaleas and sparkling white Thalia daffodils as a center of interest. Strawberry begonia foliage, light green with silver veins, was placed low in the bowl, unifying the plant material and container. A distinctive and beautiful arrangement. This we staged against a soft pink background.

Bird Tree

Nita Golson provided our "extra" this week and we think it extra special as Nita designed it for the children. A manzanita "tree" affixed in a cup type holder was placed in a wooden fruit bowl. Native yellow jasmine vine trailed through the branches. Birds of various sizes and colors were attached to the branches. These ranged from large gray mockingbirds, tiny blue birds, goldfinches, robins and many others. Blue dutch iris were placed among the branches and pitto sporum rosettes were placed low in the bowl. A fat, sassy robin was perched on the rim of the container. This whimsical design was much admired by all visitors to the Center.

Conditioning Flowers

With so many flower shows scheduled in the near future we would like to give a few reminders on the selection and conditioning of flowers for exhibition and arrangements.

First of all, selection of specimens is important. For flower shows we want to exhibit only the best that we grow in the horticulture section. Select flowers when they are just reaching the peak of their perfection. The correct stage for exhibiting a rose is when it is from one-half to two-thirds open. Therefore it should be cut in the bud stage, just when the petals are beginning to unfurl from the bud. Condition in deep water overnight.

Cutting

Late afternoon, after the sun has gone down has been proven to be the best time for cutting flowers. Plants build up a food-supply through sunny hours. So, at the end of the day, food-content in bloom and stem is at its peak. Conditioning in the dark decreases moisture evaporation in the breathing cells of the plants.

Take a bucket of water with you to the garden. Use a sharp knife or sharp pruning shears and cut stems on a slant. Let water stand 5 to 10 minutes before use so air bubbles can escape before you place stems in it.

Condition: Roses and cut flowers in deep cool water over-night. Violets: submerge blooms and stems about two hours, or until crisp. Then remove and place stems in water up to flower heads.

All woody stems, ie, crab-apple, flowing quince, forsythia, lilac etc. Split stem - ends for three to four inches. Remove leaves from portion which will extend below the water - line in conditioning container. Scraping the back from the split stem - end is also beneficial. Cut woody flowering material while partially in bud.

Stems with milky, yellow or colorless fluid. Examples Oleander, Poinsettias, poppies. Two methods: Steep 1 to 2 inches of the stem - ends in boiling water for 2 minutes. Protecting upper leaves and flower heads from steam by wrapping stems cornucopia fashion in newspaper, leaving base of stems accessible to the boiling water. Method 2. Easier I think. Split stems for an inch or more and sear in flame Place a candle in a tumbler. Hold end of each stem directly in the flame for about 15 seconds. Then condition in water overnight.

Dogwood — Split stem ends as above and condition in warm water. Hydrangeas—Cut when half the panicle is open. Split stems about one inch. Sear stems and submerge both flower-heads and foliage overnight. If they are almost completely open when cut, they are difficult to keep.

Select iris when one or more flowers are open and more buds coming on. Good carriers are milk bottles. Wrap a wet paper napkin around stem and wedge into opening of milk bottle to hold the stem firm. Your grocer or dairy man will cooperate by loaning you a milk carrying case at show time. Cold drink bottles in the little cardboard cartons are excellent carriers for small stemmed flowers.

How to get your arrangement to the show in good condition: First of all be sure of good mechanics. If your flower and foliage stems are firmly in place on the needle point holder, half of the battle is won. Next find a card-board carton, preferably low unless your container is a tall or footed one. Siphon the water out with a plant syringe. Place arrangement in the box and gently crush paper around the outside of container so it won't slide around in the box. Transport tenderly to the flower show building via motor car. No drafts please. Immediately upon arrival refill container with water. This is one phase I have really practiced getting our flower shows to the television station. Now, have fun!

Why not put drama into your stairwell? A handsome mural may be used to dramatize this area and to hide scars or an old paint job.

One do - it - yourself project transformed an otherwise conventional stairwell into a landscape with hand - printed mural depict will ducks alighting on a wooded marsh. The mural of plastic coated wall fabric is easily cleaned.

The same general steps that apply to hanging a wall covering are followed for decorating a stairwell. A working platform should be provided. The easiest way to do this is to place a step ladder on the landing to support one end of a stout plank. The other end rests on the upstairs bannister.

Before starting the mural job, decide where the alternate strips of solid ground material will go. A good idea for balance is to alternate the strips — a strip of solid material, a full mural, another strip of solid color and a second full mural.

Council Speaker Demonstrates Arrangement In Crystal

Demonstration Talk Given At Judges 'Council 'Meeting

Mrs. Robert R. Kearfott, of New York, nation - wide lecturer and flower arranger, gave a lecture demonstration on "Flower Arrangements in Glass Containers" at the recent annual meeting of the Louisiana Judges Council in Baton Rouge.

"Working in glass is not any different from any other type of container," Mrs. Kearfott pointed out, "because you still use the four basic principles of design: balance, scale, harmony and proportion."

One of the main objects in using a glass container, Mrs. Kearfott continued, is to be sure that the needle point holder is of the same temperature as the container so the crystal will not break.

During the lecture demonstration, the speaker made four dramatic arrangements illustrating the use of glass containers.

In the last, shown in the picture, she used white stock, Easter lilies, yellow roses, loquat foliage and ti leaves. The needle point holder was concealed with glass slag. The whole arrangement was formed in a modern glass compote set on a glass brick.

Keep Mower At Good Level

By MILDRED SWIFT

My! The crabapples are lovely. This gorgeous small tree is an excellent plant to introduce color in large gardens. A row of the Florabunda or Hoppa is a startling sight. If you're not familiar with these, drive by Margaret Downings on Island Drive. Just over the fence on the side, you'll see both varieties.

I'm disappointed in the white crabapple (Buccata). It leafs out before it blooms and you can hardly see the blossoms. It is not nearly so showy as the other varieties.

In the Garden

The purple sage and cleome that bloom so beautifully in summer and early fall can be transplanted now. Those gardeners who have these plants, pass a few around to your neighbors. Three or four plants of each will give you all the cut flowers you'll need for the house.

Those who are on flower committees for your church, be sure to get a few plants of cleome and sage. They bloom when there's little in the garden to use. Also plant some belles of Ireland seed.

If you want a long blooming season for your Marguerite daisies, keep the blossoms cut.

The cherry tree in my garden is in full bloom. This is the variety that has been very successful, giving no trouble at all, and the only variety you'll find in the nurseries. This is supposed to be the pale pink but is so pale that it looks white until you examine it very closely.

Lawns

As the grass grows heavier, raise the mower. You probably lowered it last fall. Two inches is not too high if you have a heavy carpet of St. Augustine. Keep sprigging that grass while we're having the spring rains. If you're planting by sod, be careful not to get the squares higher than the level of your lawn. The mower will scrape the grass and kill it.

One gardener was complaining that the St. Augustine sod in her yard was so thick it was impossible to walk across it. I can give you some help on this if you'll harden your heart. Lower the mower as low as you can and push it through the grass. You might lower it a little and mow once, then lower more and mow again. Then fertilize with 8-8-8, soaking this so it will not burn. For about two weeks you'll have a brown ugly lawn, but when the under grass puts out, everything will be fine.

A Jambalaya of Ideas

Yellow leaves on gardenias indicate a need of certain minerals. One or two tablespoons of epsom salts dissolved in a gallon of water and poured around the plant will give temporary relief. If that doesn't help, dust sulphur on the ground or soak some rusty nails in water and pour around the gardenia.

Remember, though, in the spring most gardenias drop their leaves. This is characteristic of the plant.

When you use sawdust for mulch, add a sprinkling of nitrogen before spreading it. As the sawdust decays it uses nitrogen. If there is not enough present it robs the soil and the plant suffers.

Watch the native iris as they bloom. There are some beautiful colors and varieties. Most gardeners will divide with you as they multiply very rapidly.

It's too late to plant many seed for spring bloom but you can buy some of these plants such as petunia, verbenia, carnation, stock, snapdragon, phlox, sweet william. Mrs. Tom Monk, Edgewater Gardens has the loveliest bed of pink verbenia.

Some seed that can be planted now are: Marigold, celosia, periwinkle, coleus, sweet alyssum, bells of Ireland.

If leaves of your azaleas are still yellow, spray with iron sulphate, two tablespoons to a gallon of water. There are other causes of yellow leaves — starvation because you haven't fertilized each year; poor drainage, or the shrub may be planted too deep. We add mulch every year and this mulch decays. After six or eight years the plants are too deep. In that case, transplant next year or pull some of the soil back, being careful not to injure roots. Azaleas must have their roots close to the top of the ground.

The natural dropping of camellia leaves is expected. This is indicated by the leaves turning a beautiful shade of rose. Falling of camellia leaves caused by a lack of potash in the soil is indicated by yellow leaves with dark green spots. The correction for that is applications of muriate of potash.

Reading about die back in camellias and other plants, I find it can be caused by injury or growing conditions. When the soil is too light or the plant too deep, the roots just can't get very much food. Therefore, the plant prunes itself by feeding only part of the plant and letting other parts die.

The treatment for die back is—always prune past the dead parts into green wood. Cover cut area with a seal. Correct the growing condition by loosening the soil and raising the plant.

A Reminder

If the headstones on your family plot have become dull and dirty, it's a mark of respect to clean them on your next visit to the cemetery.

Whip up a thick lather with soap or detergent and water. Add half a pound of pumice and half a cup of ammonia. Mix well. After brushing loose dirt from the stone or monument, apply this mixture with a stiff brush and let it remain half an hour or so. Then rinse with clear water — preferably warm water which may be carried along in a picnic jug.

Household Hints

To dry and stiffen crinoline petticoats after starching, spread over an opened umbrella.

To make bathroom chrome shine, polish it with crumbled facial tissue. Try it and see.

Did you know — rubber bands slipped over spools of thread will keep ends of thread from unwinding? You'll have a neater sewing basket too.

You can avoid white streaks and spots on the rich brown crust of a devil's food cake by dusting the greased cake pan with cocoa instead of flour.

If you put oranges in hot water for about five minutes they'll peel nicer.

Announcements

Your Open House programs for next week are: Monday, "Buying a Hat for the Man of the House" —Swift; Tuesday, Swift and guest "Gardening"; Wednesday, flower arrangements with John Wright from Louisiana Tech; Thursday and Friday Marketing with Swift.

Mrs. J. T. Powell, 200 Isabel Street, has iris plants all colors she will give to you if you'll come on Sunday afternoon or week days after 3:00 p. m.

Children, like wives, need to be loved most when they least deserve it.

See you next Sunday.

Be Proud Of Pretty Lawn

By AUDREY DAWSON

A pretty, dark green lawn is a sight you'll be so proud of that you'll almost "bust your buttons" when the compliments start coming in. Right now you can start building a pretty lawn. Give your lawn an application of complete fertilizer so it can get a good start and use the plentiful moisture in the soil, say agronomists with the Agricultural Extension Service at Louisiana State University. Lawn grasses use lots of nitrogen, and it's one of the plant foods that will help keep your lawn growing healthy and green. Of course, use care when applying both mixed fertilizer and nitrogen because it is possible to "burn" the grass unless you hose the plant food down. Apply nitrogen again later in the spring, and late in the summer — say, in July — an application of nitrogen will help set growth and vigor into your lawn grass before it goes into the winter. Early in the spring you may be tempted to mow your lawn. In early season, mow only enough to control the weeds. If you clip the grass short during the early spring, you hamper its progress. A key to lawn beauty is proper fertilization, sufficient water, and mowing that's not too close to the roots of the grass plants. Start now with adequate fertilization and controlled mowing.

Window Curtains

With spring breezes blowing and warm air stirring your "furniture-moving" mood, you might also get a yen for new curtains. Fiberglass curtains are popular because they offer some features most wanted. "You should balance those features against the requirement of hand care for the fiberglass curtains," advises Mrs. Celia Hissong, associate home management specialist. They punch, puncture, and crease; so you wash them carefully in warm water with detergent. The twisting and bending action of a washing machine may also cause damage to fiberglass curtains. When you have washed them by hand, rinse them in clear water, simply by dipping them up and down. Dry off excess moisture by rolling the curtains in a bath towel or hanging them at the point of use to drip-dry — they dry quickly. Remember, when you think of new curtains, think of the kind and care you'll have to give them.

Out-Of-Town

The extension agents and secretaries of Ouachita Parish Office will be in Baton Rouge, April 14-15, getting trained to serve you better.

Hints For Homemakers

1. For a satisfying between-meal snack try a miniature package of raisins instead of rich sweets. Raisins contain far fewer calories, and they are a good source of minerals and vitamins.

2. Store eggs with the large end up. They remain in good condition longer.

3. Whipping egg whites at room temperature will give larger volume than when cold egg whites are whipped.

4. Eggs get tough and leathery when cooked at high temperature.

5. Dry baking soda sprinkled over scorched food stuck to the pan will soften it and make it easy to remove.

6. Thick liquid like molasses and syrup will come out of your measuring cup easier if you first rinse the cup with cold water or grease it.

7. Piercing meat with a fork during cooking causes a loss of the juices.

The Future?

The homemaker has not been left out when it comes to dream gadgets. She now can buy—

An attractive "desk light" that is really an infra-red gadget to keep food warm for late-comers.

Light fuses that glow automatically when they burn out — no fumbling in the dark to see which one.

A pushbutton telephone system when the phone rings, the housewife can push a button, listen over a loudspeaker, talk into a microphone, and keep right on ironing.

Colored lighting to make your walls any hue you want, pink tonight — yellow tomorrow.

The bedroom has not been neglected. Beds are getting bigger and the super size is in demand. After all, the average person turns over 45 times a night, according to research; and since 1920, the number of men who are 6 feet tall or over has increased by 70 per cent.

Facts About Meat

When meat is cooked at a low temperature, it is more uniformly cooked. You have juicier and more tender meat, have fewer and better drippings, have less watching to do during cooking, have more meat to serve, and meat is easily carved.

The quality of beef and the tenderness of the cuts are the two factors which determine cooking methods which should be used. Tender cuts should be cooked by roasting, broiling, or pan broiling. The less tender cuts should be cooked by braising or in liquid to the well-done stage.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Gay Designs Mark Show

By MARY M. JARDINE

Club presidents are reminded to please mail the return card to the Garden Center accepting a date for the Fifth District Flower Show in May. The schedules have been received and we are anxious to mail them out. Please let us hear from you right away.

The National Gardener and the La. Garden Club Federation Newsletter for April, 1958 have listed the new amendments to the Flower Show Handbook. All club presidents and flower show committees are requested to read and inform all club members of these changes.

Twin City arrangers staged the beautiful flower show at the Center this week. Mrs. J. W. Golson, Welcome Garden Club, designed a springtime arrangement in green and white. For her mass design, Mrs. Golson selected a white Etruscan cup. Background placements were of dainty white flowering almond. The natural dropping of camellia leaves is expected. This is indicated by the leaves turning a beautiful shade of rose. Falling of camellia leaves caused by a lack of potash in the soil is indicated by yellow leaves with dark green spots. The correction for that is applications of muriate of potash.

Reading about die back in camellias and other plants, I find it can be caused by injury or growing conditions. When the soil is too light or the plant too deep, the roots just can't get very much food. Therefore, the plant prunes itself by feeding only part of the plant and letting other parts die.

The treatment for die back is—always prune past the dead parts into green wood. Cover cut area with a seal. Correct the growing condition by loosening the soil and raising the plant.

A Reminder

If the headstones on your family plot have become dull and dirty, it's a mark of respect to clean them on your next visit to the cemetery.

Whip up a thick lather with soap or detergent and water. Add half a pound of pumice and half a cup of ammonia. Mix well. After brushing loose dirt from the stone or monument, apply this mixture with a stiff brush and let it remain half an hour or so. Then rinse with clear water — preferably warm water which may be carried along in a picnic jug.

Household Hints

To dry and stiffen crinoline petticoats after starching, spread over an opened umbrella.

To make bathroom chrome shine, polish it with crumbled facial tissue. Try it and see.

Did you know — rubber bands slipped over spools of thread will keep ends of thread from unwinding? You'll have a neater sewing basket too.

You can avoid white streaks and spots on the rich brown crust of a devil's food cake by dusting the greased cake pan with cocoa instead of flour.

If you put oranges in hot water for about five minutes they'll peel nicer.

Be Proud Of Pretty Lawn

By AUDREY DAWSON

A pretty, dark green lawn is a sight you'll be so proud of that you'll almost "bust your buttons" when the compliments start coming in. Right now you can start building a pretty lawn. Give your lawn an application of complete fertilizer so it can get a good start and use the plentiful moisture in the soil, say agronomists with the Agricultural Extension Service at Louisiana State University. Lawn grasses use lots of nitrogen, and it's one of the plant foods that will help keep your lawn growing healthy and green. Of course, use care when applying both mixed fertilizer and nitrogen because it is possible to "burn" the grass unless you hose the plant food down. Apply nitrogen again later in the spring, and late in the summer — say, in July — an application of nitrogen will help set growth and vigor into your lawn grass before it goes into the winter. Early in the spring you may be tempted to mow your lawn. In early season, mow only enough to control the weeds. If you clip the grass short during the early spring, you hamper its progress. A key to lawn beauty is proper fertilization, sufficient water, and mowing that's not too close to the roots of the grass plants. Start now with adequate fertilization and controlled mowing.

Window Curtains

With spring breezes blowing and warm air stirring your "furniture-moving" mood, you might also get a yen for new curtains. Fiberglass curtains are popular because they offer some features most wanted. "You should balance those features against the requirement of hand care for the fiberglass curtains," advises Mrs. Celia Hissong, associate home management specialist. They punch, puncture, and crease; so you wash them carefully in warm water with detergent. The twisting and bending action of a washing machine may also cause damage to fiberglass curtains. When you have washed them by hand, rinse them in clear water, simply by dipping them up and down. Dry off excess moisture by rolling the curtains in a bath towel or hanging them at the point of use to drip-dry — they dry quickly. Remember, when you think of new curtains, think of the kind and care you'll have to give them.

Out-Of-Town

The extension agents and secretaries of Ouachita Parish Office will be in Baton Rouge, April 14-15, getting trained to serve you better.

Hints For Homemakers

1. For a satisfying between-meal snack try a miniature package of raisins instead of rich sweets. Raisins contain far fewer calories, and they are a good source of minerals and vitamins.

2. Store eggs with the large end up. They remain in good condition longer.

3. Whipping egg whites at room temperature will give larger volume than when cold egg whites are whipped.

4. Eggs get tough and leathery when cooked at high temperature.

5. Dry baking soda sprinkled over scorched food stuck to the pan will soften it and make it easy to remove.

6. Thick liquid like molasses and syrup will come out of your measuring cup easier if you first rinse the cup with cold water or grease it.

7. Piercing meat with a fork during cooking causes a loss of the juices.

The Future?

The homemaker has not been left out when it comes to dream gadgets. She now can buy—

An attractive "desk light" that is really an infra-red gadget to keep food warm for late-comers.

Light fuses that glow automatically when they burn out — no fumbling in the dark to see which one.

A pushbutton telephone system when the phone rings, the housewife can push a button, listen over a loudspeaker, talk into a microphone, and keep right on ironing.

Colored lighting to make your walls any hue you want, pink tonight — yellow tomorrow.

The bedroom has not been neglected. Beds are getting bigger and the super size is in demand. After all, the average person turns over 45 times a night, according to research; and since 1920, the number of men who are 6 feet tall or over has increased by 70 per cent.

Facts About Meat

When meat is cooked at a low temperature, it is more uniformly cooked. You have juicier and more tender meat, have fewer and better drippings, have less watching to do during cooking, have more meat to serve, and meat is easily carved.

The quality of beef and the tenderness of the cuts are the two factors which determine cooking methods which should be used. Tender cuts should be cooked by roasting, broiling, or pan broiling. The less tender cuts should be cooked by braising or in liquid to the well-done stage.

NE Plans Annual Senior Day Here

Over 1,000 high school seniors will learn Friday, when they are guests of Northeast State, what it is like to be in college.

Graduating classes of high schools throughout this area have been invited to participate in the annual festival, which has become one of the institution's traditions.

The campus will be covered with visitors, according to E. J. Foster, general chairman of the affair, who reports information from schools indicating plans to attend Senior Day.

Friday's program will be filled with a variety of entertainment, such as departmental educational displays, band concert, military film, dance exhibition, style show, tea dance, baseball game, and numerous other attractions.

Noon Lunch

The college also will be host at a noonday luncheon in the stadium. Following, a review of the Reserve Officers Training Corps will be staged, with high school class presidents serving as the reviewing committee.

Students are expected to begin arriving at 8 a.m., and will register at a tent pitched in front of Brown Hall. Cadets in uniform will be stationed at all points on the campus to direct visitors to the registration center.

Seniors then will be assigned to members of sororities, fraternities and honor groups for tours of the campus.

All visitors are invited to the general assembly at 10 a.m. in Brown Auditorium, where a special program of music and comic skits will be presented.

Displays and demonstrations are scheduled in various buildings where departmental activities will be represented. These are dsigned to indicate work which goes on in numerous fields of study at Northeast.

Extra curricular activities also will be advertised by an open house, planned by several religious organizations which have centers near the campus, and through displays prepared by college newspaper and yearbook staffs.

Afternoon specialties will include a style show given in Brown Auditorium by home economics majors, a tea dance in the Student Center, and a baseball game between Northeast State and Southwestern, with starting time at 2:30 p.m. on the college campus.

DEATHS

MRS. H. P. WOODS

Funeral services will be held here Monday at 3 p.m. for Mrs. H. P. Woods, 56, of Alamogordo, New Mexico, who died Friday after a lengthy illness. She was a former resident of Monroe.

The body will arrive from New Mexico today.

Services will be conducted from the Kilpatrick's Funeral Home in West Monroe, with the Rev. W. D. Milton, assisted by the Rev. O. P. Bazer and C. C. Martin

Interment will follow in Hasley Cemetery in West Monroe.

Survivors include four sisters, Mrs. Frank Ford, West Monroe; Mrs. M. L. Bawcom, West Monroe; Mrs. Cecil Copeland, Akron, Ohio; and Miss Etta Jones, also of Akron; and a number of nieces and nephews.

AUSTIN (UP — The Narcotics Treatment Study Committee of the Texas Legislative Council announced Friday it will meet at Fort Worth April 18.

Rep. Wesley Roberts of Lamesa, committee chairman, said committee members, during the meeting at Fort Worth, will visit the U. S. Public Health Service hospital and discuss narcotics addiction and treatment with hospital staff members.

The average American home today has the equivalent of 40 servants in the electric utilities the homemaker uses, according to Don Brown, Michigan State University extension specialist.

NE Plans Annual Senior Day Here

Over 1,000 high school seniors will learn Friday, when they are guests of Northeast State, what it is like to be in college.

Graduating classes of high schools throughout this area have been invited to participate in the annual festival, which has become one of the institution's traditions.

The campus will be covered with visitors, according to E. J. Foster, general chairman of the affair, who reports information from schools indicating plans to attend Senior Day.

Friday's program will be filled with a variety of entertainment, such as departmental educational displays, band concert, military film, dance exhibition, style show, tea dance, baseball game, and numerous other attractions.

Noon Lunch

The college also will be host at a noonday luncheon in the stadium. Following, a review of the Reserve Officers Training Corps will be staged, with high school class presidents serving as the reviewing committee.

Students are expected to begin arriving at 8 a.m., and will register at a tent pitched in front of Brown Hall. Cadets in uniform will be stationed at all points on the campus to direct visitors to the registration center.

Seniors then will be assigned to members of sororities, fraternities and honor groups for tours of the campus.

All visitors are invited to the general assembly at 10 a.m. in Brown Auditorium, where a special program of music and comic skits will be presented.

Displays and demonstrations are scheduled in various buildings where departmental activities will be represented. These are dsigned to indicate work which goes on in numerous fields of study at Northeast.

Extra curricular activities also will be advertised by an open house, planned by several religious organizations which have centers near the campus, and through displays prepared by college newspaper and yearbook staffs.

Afternoon specialties will include a style show given in Brown Auditorium by home economics majors, a tea dance in the Student Center, and a baseball game between Northeast State and Southwestern, with starting time at 2:30 p.m. on the college campus.

DEATHS

MRS. H. P. WOODS

Funeral services will be held here Monday at 3 p.m. for Mrs. H. P. Woods, 56, of Alamogordo, New Mexico, who died Friday after a lengthy illness. She was a former resident of Monroe.

The body will arrive from New Mexico today.

Services will be conducted from the Kilpatrick's Funeral Home in West Monroe, with the Rev. W. D. Milton, assisted by the Rev. O. P. Bazer and C. C. Martin.

Interment will follow in Hasley Cemetery in West Monroe.

Survivors include four sisters, Mrs. Frank Ford, West Monroe; Mrs. M. L. Bawcom, West Monroe; Mrs. Cecil Copeland, Akron, Ohio; and Miss Etta Jones, also of Akron; and a number of nieces and nephews.

AUSTIN (UP)— The Narcotics Treatment Study Committee of the Texas Legislative Council announced Friday it will meet at Fort Worth April 18.

Rep. Wesley Roberts of Lamesa, committee chairman, said committee members, during the meeting at Fort Worth, will visit the U. S. Public Health Service hospital and discuss narcotics addiction and treatment with hospital staff members.

The average American home today has the equivalent of 40 servants in the electric utilities the homemaker uses, according to Don Brown, Michigan State University extension specialist.

I'M SO SORRY ARROWHEAD TOSSED YOU TO THE GROUND, AFTER BRINGING YOU TO ME, PATROLMAN TYLER....

I- I'M JUST NOT USED TO RIDING OSTRICHES, MISS WELDON !

I'M WORRYING NOW IF WE'LL EVER FIND SPUD AGAIN WHERE I LEFT HIM!

ARROWHEAD KNOWS THE PLACE - I'LL SEND HIM WITH A NOTE TO YOUR BUDDY - THE BIRD WILL GUIDE HIM BACK HERE!

MINUTES LATER...

GOSH - THAT'S THE SAME BIRD THAT TIM RODE AWAY ON! HM - HE'S BROUGHT ME A MESSAGE!

4-13

Arrowhead has brought your partner to me. He will guide you to my camp.

Vera Weldon

I'M GOING TO RIDE THE OSTRICH LIKE TIM DID AND LEAD OUR HORSES....

HEY, WAIT! STOP! WHOA, I SAY! WHOA!
